COLD STORAGE ACCOMMODATION.

THE C.P.R. authorities have made an important announcement this week, namely, that all vessels of their trans-Atlantic fleet not equipped with cold-storage appliances are to be fitted out at once with a view to giving the best possible service for the delivery of Canadian perishable products to British ports. There are at present fourteen C. P.R. steamers on the trans-Atlantic route, all of which have fan ventilation, but only seven, the requisite cold-storage equipment. With the latter the company have been making an efficient service for the delivery of perishable goods, and it is reported that a fair share of this Canadian export business which formerly went via Boston and Portland has been recovered.

The necessity of Canada's foreign trade being entirely in the hands of the Canadian merchant marine cannot be over-emphasized. Only last week reference was made in this paper to the fact that a very large and increasing percentage of Canadian traffic is going via New York every year. Such a state of affairs can scarcely be viewed with equanimity by anyone interested in the upbuilding of Canada's foreign trade, and it is reassuring in this connection to know that our steamship companies are taking steps not only to recapture what is theirs by right, but to establish an inviolable claim to trans-Atlantic traffic of the nation for all time.

ETIQUETTE IN BUSINESS.

IN Canada, with everybody in more or less of a fever of anxiety to "get rich quick," there is a growing tendency to underestimate the importance of courtesy in business. As a community, we seem to have become oblivious to the fact that the pursuit of trade and commerce, if it is to continue a healthy avocation, requires a slight infusion of the same etiquette that is looked upon as highly important "after the shutters are up."

For instance, certain Canadian manufacturers are reported so careless in attending to business correspondence that a veritable stream of complaints has been pouring in to Ottawa during the past six months from merchants in foreign countries where an attempt is being made by officials of the Dominion Government to build up international trade. In a number of instances foreign firms claim to have inquired in vain for information in regard to Canada and Canadian manufacturers. Such a case was reported to this office only a week ago. A western commission man communicated with an Ontario firm asking to be appointed their western representative in case an appointment had not already been made. He also inquired for quotations on their goods. The firm in question took no notice whatever of the application or inquiry, with the natural result that they not only needlessly incurred the displeasure of the gentleman making the inquiry, but spoiled an excellent chance of establishing themselves in the Great West.

We are reminded of a recent remark made by Mr. Stewart, manager of the Sovereign Bank, on his return from a recent trip to Great Britain, that in the transaction of business Canadians had still much to learn from their kinsmen across the sea. In nothing is comparison more unfavorable to Canada than in the matter of correspondence. The Englishman would look upon it as suicidal to delay a reply to a business letter or telegram, recognizing it as one of the cardinal principles of business that courteous treatment should be extended to one and all alike with whom he is brought into contact. To gain or forfeit the goodwill of one person means much in business, and it is to be hoped that our manufacturers will have a care not to offend unduly in the little things remembering that it is these that go far to creating the atmosphere of success.

PUNCTUALITY IN APPOINTMENTS.

THERE is much complaint among traveling salesmen about the failure of merchants to keep their appointments promptly. This is a charge which should only have to be mentioned to be rectified. A little consideration will show the inconveniences and pecuniary losses which such irregularities cause. A traveler is at great trouble in opening and displaying his samples. In most cases he has a large territory to cover, and it is only by the greatest economy of time that he can hope to cover the ground in the time at his disposal. If, then, when he goes to a town and arranges with a merchant to visit his sample room at a given hour he is compelled to wait for him an hour or two hours or more, his work is made needlessly more difficult. A business man knows the value of time. If he were just to think for a moment that this meant an absolute loss to the traveler and that the same thing may happen two or three times in every town which he visits, the trouble would not often occur.

In all transactions with commercial men, it should be remembered that the relationship of buyer and seller is one of mutual advantage. On this assumption the merchant should extend to the traveler the same treatment which he expects and gets from him.

BUSINESS FAILURES.

FAILURE returns to Bradstreet's for the first quarter of 1905 mirror a general improvement in nearly all lines of trade and industry in the United States as compared with the same period a year ago. There were 2,947 failures of individuals, firms and corporations, an increase of 2.8 per cent. in the number as compared with the corresponding period of 1904. The liabilities on the other hand aggregated only $29,010,914, a decrease of 38 per cent. from a year ago, and were, with the exception of the first quarter of 1903, the smallest liabilities reported since 1888. The detailed returns, both in number and extent of the failures, point unerringly to an emergence of the financial and commercial interests of the United States from the depression of one short year ago in all sections but the south.

In Canada there were 378 failures involving $3,636,584 in liabilities and $1,597,397 in assets during the first quarter of 1905, an increase in number of 22 per cent. and in liabilities of 37 per cent. over last year.

The distribution was as follows:

Provinces.	No. of Failures.		Assets.		Liabilities.
	1905.	1904.	1905.	1904.	1905.	1904.
Ontario	140	100	373,516	260,677	92?,598	738,967
Quebec	137	129	771,850	412,750	1,480,611	1,134,401
New Brunswick	19	13	62,225	43,100	137,507	76,358
Nova Scotia	18	28	139,350	286,044	609,950	380,590
Prince Edward Island	4	....	26,000	....	52,000	....
Manitoba	29	17	111,131	39,883	233,268	88,500
Northwest Territories	14	8	61,100	44,288	91,000	85,922
British Columbia	17	14	52,225	88,000	111,650	132,900
Yukon Territory	....	1	....	300	....	1,500
Total	378	310	1,597,397	1,175,042	3,636,584	2,639,148

At first sight it would seem that Canadian trade was in a bad shapemmm Canadian trade was in a bad way, at least in comparison with the United States. It must be remembered, however, that Canada did not go through the same commercial depression as the United States and consequently there is nothing in her financial returns for the year to date to cause undue alarm.

REMOVAL OF THE 2d. DUTY ON TEA.

THE British tea trade, including consumer, importer and producer, are unanimous in their approval of the action of the Chancellor of the British Exchequer this week in taking off the extra 2d. duty on tea entering Great Britain, which was imposed about a year ago. The former duty of 6d. per lb., levied at the time of the South African war, will go into effect again on July 1.

During the past few months there has been considerable speculation in the English tea market as to the outcome of the year's Budget, and considerable falling off in the revenue returns, owing to the fact that wholesalers have taken as little tea out of bond as possible in expectation of a change in the duty. The immediate effect of the reduction will be to cause as little withdrawal of tea from bond as is absolutely necessary to supply consumptive demands until July 1. Buying, therefore, will be on a conservative basis, and unless the tea companies decide to hold teas off the market, the prospects are for dull trade and slightly easier prices. The naming of July 1 as the date on which the reduction is to take place appears, on the whole, to have been wisely considered, as it would have been a serious loss to holders of duty-paid stock if the reduction had taken place immediately after the declaration of the Budget. As it is, ample time is afforded for marketing tea of the present season before first arrivals of new crop Indian and China tea on the London market.

What the ultimate effect on the tea trade as a whole will be, is difficult to say. The planters have been up in arms over what they consider an excessive duty, namely, 8d. per lb., or over one hundred per cent. of the value of the cheaper grades of tea. They argue like this:

"The poorer classes in Great Britain consume enormous quantities of tea yearly; they cannot afford to pay above a certain price, which means that when the duty goes up beyond a certain point the consumption is curtailed." When it is remembered that the annual consumption of tea in Great Britain approximates 247,000,000 lbs., and that it is curtailed say to 240,000,000 lbs., owing to the extra duty, it is readily seen that this means a difference of fully 1d. per lb. to the producer.

As far as the consumption of tea in Great Britain during the past ten years is concerned, it is hard to generalize, for the simple reason that the amount actually going into consumption cannot be gauged accurately by the importations. There is always a certain amount held over, and the percentage of tea kept in bond will vary according to the state of the market. It would be necessary to calculate on the basis of a great many years before any estimate would be valuable in this connection. It is contended, however, that importations of British-grown tea into Great Britain, which increased steadily during the nine years of the 1d. duty, (the increase averaged close on six million lbs. per annum), have continued to increase since the duty was raised to 6d., and later to 8d., but only to a very small extent, and not at all in proportion to the increase in the population of the country. The consumption per head, which in 1893 was under 5½ lbs., rose steadily to 6.16 lbs., but has been falling slowly and surely since the imposition of the 6d., and later the 8d., duty.

A curtailment in the consumption of tea affects the tea planter in more ways than one. Since the bulk of the consuming public cannot afford to pay above a certain price, duty or no duty, the question resolves itself into the trade supplying an article for price, with the result that what India and Ceylon cannot supply, other countries such as China will contribute.

The British consumer will, in all probability, be able to get slightly cheaper tea from now on; in any event, he ought to be able to get better value at the price he is now paying. The retailer will profit in so far as the reduction of the tax tends to induce a larger consumption of tea; he will also be interested in watching the demand gradually working around to a better class of tea.

MR. J. X. PERRAULT DEAD.

THE City of Montreal sustained a severe loss last week in the death of one of her prominent citizens and business men, Mr. J. X. Perrault, which occurred on April 7.

Mr. Perrault was one of the founders of the Montreal Chambre de Commerce. To his energy and business qualities the French Board of Trade owes much of its success, expansion and influence in trade questions affecting the Dominion, the harbor improvements of the port of Montreal, and the development of the Northwest.

The deceased gentleman was born in the Ancient Capital, Quebec, May 28, 1836, and was a son of the late Lieut.-Col. J. X. Perrault, who commanded the Quebec Militia Artillery for a quarter of a century, and was the author of a "History of Canada" and other works treating on education, etc. Mr. Joseph Perrault received his early education at the Quebec Seminary, and after a brilliant course of study, passed out with honors. His taste for farming led him to England to take a course in agriculture at the University of Durham and at the Royal College of Cirencester, and subsequently at the National Agricultural School of Grignon, France, where he successfully graduated. On his return to Canada, in 1857, he received the appointment of secretary-treasurer of the Council of Provincial Agriculture of Lower Canada. He also edited for the council "Canada Agricola" and the "Revue Agricola."

He was appointed in 1875 by the Mackenzie Government, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Commission representing the Dominion at the Centennial Exhibition, Philadelphia, and held the same position at the Paris Exhibition of 1877-78. At the World Exhibition, Paris, in 1889, he was one of the representatives of Great Britain on the International jury, for awarding the prizes for horses and cattle, which duty he performed most satisfactorily to all concerned, his valuable services on this and other occasions being recognized by the French Government, in appointing him an Officer of Public Instruction, France, and bestowing on him the Legion of Honor. Mr. Perrault was the first Canadian to import pure cattle to Quebec from the north of France.

He represented the Chambre de Commerce of Montreal at the London Congress of the Boards of Trade of the Empire, during the meetings in 1893-96 and 1897, and made several important speeches on each occasion, regarding the increasing trade development and opening out of the vast resources of the Dominion in its forests, mines, waterpower and wheat lands. He also took a leading part in the deliberations of the meetings of the Boards of Trade of the Empire, held in Montreal in 1903. The deceased was an able and prolific writer in both languages, on a variety of subjects, mainly regarding cheap transportation by rail and water to the ocean, agriculture and the settlement of the Crown lands, proper municipal government, and reform in the costs of litigation before the courts. He was, as a rule, very clear and to the point in his views, and wrote in a vigorous manner. He was the author of "Treatise on Practical Agriculture," and was the principal mover in securing grants and prizes for those going through an agricultural course opened some years ago at the Monument National. It was last year that he was appointed secretary by the Federal Government to the Transport Commission and held it to his death.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Tipping, of Coldwater, was in Toronto on Tuesday of this week.

Mr. Armand Chaput, of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie., Montreal, is in Quebec this week in the interest of his firm.

Mr. Robert Greig, Toronto, has returned from a business trip to New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Mr. P. C. Larkin, of the Salada Tea Co., Toronto, has returned from a two months' pleasure trip to Florida and the Bahamas.

Mr. H. M. Mulholland, manager of the Distributors' Co., Toronto, is in New York this week purchasing stock and looking after new business.

Mr. A. H. Brittain, of A. H. Brittain & Co., Montreal, was in Toronto this week in the interests of Black Bros. & Co., Halifax and La Have.

Among the visitors to the Toronto Pure Food Show this week were Messrs. D. Dickie, Pickering; W. D. Stephens and J. Curtis, Port Hope, and M. Fisher, Shelburne.

Messrs. Wm. Potter, president, and J. McCorbie, vice-president of the Grocers' Section of the Chatham branch of the Retail Merchants' Association, are attending the meeting of the Association this week in Toronto, and paid the Toronto office of The Grocer a short visit on Wednesday. Business in Chatham was reported to be flourishing.

Mr. D. Gillmor, of Chase & Sanborn, is making a trip through Manitoba, the Territories and British Columbia. Mr. Gillmor will visit Edmonton and other northern points, and before returning intends touring through California and the Western States. Mrs. Gillmor accompanies him, and the tour, one of three months, is one of pleasure and recuperation.

RETAIL GROCERS CONVENE.

The convention of the Toronto Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association opened Wednesday, April 12, in their board room on Richmond street. Mr. F. Corrigan, president of the Toronto branch, and Mr. George Good, chairman, welcomed the delegates from the 64 organized branches of the association throughout the country.

President Higgins in an address emphasized the need of a more systematic method of regulating the conditions of the retail trade. Each man was at present fighting his own fight, and it was evident that nothing could be accomplished without unity. After a discussion of the Transient Traders' Act, hawkers' and pedlars' licenses, in which no decision was reached, the convention adjourned for the purpose of giving the delegates an opportunity to attend the Pure Food Show. On Thursday, April 13, special committees presented resolutions dealing with trade and legislation, and officers were elected.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, April 10, 1905.

DURING the last week the wholesale grocery trade has been considered brisk. Dealers are busy in all lines, and the next week or two is expected to bring still greater activity. Spring trade is opening up well, and the business has quite overcome the slackness through the result of the railroad tie-up. The last two weeks has opened up most of the shore ports not connected with the city by rail, and coasting vessels are moving freely. These ports necessarily depend largely on putting in their Winter supplies before the close of navigation, and these now need replenishing. Payments due April 1st were not up to the average, but this has already been accounted for in previous reports. Money still remains exceptionally scarce in many parts of the country.

The retail trade is in a healthy condition in the city, but as satisfactory reports do not come from the country and the smaller towns. The retail trade in the city is expected to continue extremely good through the Summer, as all classes of workmen will have abundant work. The city will spend $150,000 on sewer work, besides about $50,000 on other works, and there will be considerable building operations. As a rule the workmen spend according to their wages, which will tend to increase trade.

The market in sugar has a firmer tone. Ten days ago the American refiners put up their prices ten cents, but, as usual, an immediate change was not made in this market. The feeling however, is that the chance of a decline, which was expected from the state of the London market two weeks ago, is now past, and advances will probably take place. Prices quoted here are: Cut loaf, in barrels, $6.35; in half-barrels, $6.45; extra standard granulated, $5.80; Austrian granulated, in bags, $5.70; bright yellow, $5.60; No. 1 yellow, $5.30; unbranded yellow, $5.15. All prices net.

The molasses situation has been a remarkable one during the last month. The Barbadoes crop has been persistently reported short, and the price, which started at 18c., has steadily advanced to 24c. Newfoundland handles a very large quantity of this grade and a number of vessels from that colony have been taking cargoes during the last fortnight. When this demand is over the price may ease off again. The high price of Barbadoes affects other grades, and Porto Rico is expected to sell higher this season than formerly. John Tobin & Co. are already advertising the arrival of new crop Porto Rico, and some of the last crop is still on the market. Choice P. R. is quoted at 38 to 40c., (jobbers' prices, 30 days); for extra choice, 40 to 42c. is asked. Fancy Trinidad is almost the same as P. R., with choice quoted at 35 to 36c.

A GOOD PROFIT AND A GOOD ARTICLE

is that kind of a combination for the dealer.

When a stock of this well known brand of Laundry Starch is put in, the grocer feels that he is not taking any long chances. It is distinctly a case of "backing the favorite." He knows it will "move"—and quickly; no bargain sales from tubs, at the season's end, of miscellaneous nondescripts. What a satisfaction it is to sell a Starch that you know from trial in your own home to be the real "thing."

Attractive packages, heavy advertising, everything in fact that could be done to help the grocer, has been and will be done continuously.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Groceries.

Toronto, April 13, 1905.

THE opening of navigation on April 10 and 11, when the railways began taking freight for shipment by lake and rail, has tended to give an additional impetus to the grocery trade this week. The lake routes are opening up this year considerably earlier than usual. Reports from the country indicate improved trade conditions. The roads are in excellent shape, and farmers are coming in freely to buy supplies. Although it is somewhat early to prophesy as to the future of the Ontario grain crop, reports received during the week would seem to indicate that wheat in practically every section of the province has wintered in excellent shape, and that, barring unfavorable weather from now on, the grain crops will turn out satisfactorily.

One of the features of this week's market is the extraordinary run on maple products. Prices rule firm, and are advancing owing to the shortage of this year's crop. Tomatoes continue firm, and are likely to advance. More sugar is selling locally than last week, and a firm market is reported in New York, which tends to impart sympathetic firmness to this market as well. Coffees are quiet, with the market firm owing to unfavorable crop reports from Rio and Santos. Slight advances are noted in black pepper and Carolina rice. Another interesting feature this week is the reduction of the additional 2d. duty on all tea entering Great Britain, to go into effect on July 1. The reduction of the duty is not expected to have any immediate effect on the Canadian, since most of the tea consumed in this country is imported direct or via London in bond and not liable to any duty.

Tapnet figs are reported scarce. Peanuts are ½c. firmer in primary markets and new Brazil nuts have arrived on the market and are quoted at 14 to 15c. An easier market in beans is reported, as well as an advance in red and mammoth clover. Fresh fish are coming freely to this market, and are in brisk demand for the Lenten and Good Friday trade.

CANNED GOODS.

The most interesting feature in connection with the canned goods market this week is the additional firmness which has developed in tomatoes, although $1.25 to $1.30 is still the ruling price. The trade are looking to $1.30 within the next fortnight as the ruling quotation. A seasonable demand for canned fruits is reported, as well as a few inquiries for canned fish. SUGAR.

The sugar market has been irregular of late, but a rather firmer tone now prevails. There have been considerable transactions in near-by sugars at 3 9-16 c and f, N.Y., for 96 test centrifugals. Later holders have shown no disposition to continue on that basis, and at present are inclined to hold for rather more money. Buyers, however, are indisposed to meet sellers' ideas, and in consequence large arrivals of centrifugals have been ordered into store. Refiners' attitude is based on present large holdings which make them independent of holders for some time to come.

Refined sugar continues in an unsatisfactory condition in regard to withdrawals under contract and new business. The consumptive demand is extremely limited, and while these conditions prevail, little change is expected one way or the other.

Similar conditions prevail in Europe, where beets have fluctuated about 14s. 6d, basis f.o.b. Hamburg, equal to parity of 5.09 duty paid, N.Y., for 96 test centrifugals. The announcement of The Budget is likely to have a stimulating effect on the refined market in Great Britain, which has been comparatively dull owing to the uncertain feeling of the trade as to the future course of the market.

Canadian refined is unchanged. The recent attempt on the part of certain refiners to advance prices has not been established and we quote as below.

The making of the Cuban crop continues, 15 central factories having ceased grinding during the past fortnight. There are now 160 factories in operation, as compared with 169 at the same time a year ago. Combined stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates were 2,815,538 tons or 732,088 tons less than at the same time last year.

COFFEES

The firmness of the coffee market continues, additional firmness having been induced by unfavorable crop reports from Rio and Santos, where unfavorable weather has damaged the crop to the extent of 20 per cent. Locally the mar-

TEAS.

A first-class trade is reported in tea generally during the week. The interesting item in connection with the tea situation this week is the taking off of the 2d. duty on all tea entering Great Britain, effective on July 1, 1905. This duty has been strenuously objected to ever since its imposition, both by tea planters and English importing houses.

In the opinion of the trade the duty has pressed much harder on low-grade than on high-grade tea in Great Britain. Doubtless the extra 2,000,000 lbs. of China tea imported into Great Britain last year was largely induced hy the increased duty. An effort will probably he made by the London packet men and the British retailer to maintain for as long a period as practicable the lowest penny-canister in existence prior to the advance in the duty. In-so-much as the reduction is not to come in force until July 1, the immediate effect in England will be to cause as little withdrawal of tea from bond as is absolutely necessary to supply consumptive demand. Buying will be on a conservative basis, and unless the tea companies decide to hold teas off the market, i. e., a portion of their holdings, the prospects are for a dull market, and possibly slightly easier prices in the interval.

Eventually, however, there is little doubt but that the effect will be to strengthen the market to the extent of a small tea boom when the reduction in duty comes into force. The naming of July 1 as the date on which the reduction is to take place, appears to have been wisely considered by the English Chancellor of the Exchequer, because it would have been a serious loss to holders of duty-paid stock if the reduction had taken place immediately after the declaration. July 1 is also an opportune period, since it is the date of the first arrival of Indian and China tea on the London market. Thus tea of the present season can be marketed conveniently without changing present conditions. Our local quotations are as follows :

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

A slight advance in Carolina rice is reported for the week. This will be welcomed by holders of Rangoon, Patna and Japan rice, since on account of the abnormal state of the American rice market the Carolina and Louisiana people have been getting a lion's share of the trade. FOREIGN NUTS.

An improved demand for foreign nuts, generally, is noted this week. Peanuts are ¼c. firmer in primary markets, although no change has yet been made in local quotations. The burning of the plant of the Merchants' and Farmers' Peanut Co., at Portsmouth, Va., caused considerable excitement among the Canadian trade for a day or two until it was learned that the company had arranged with other firms to fill their orders without delay. New Brazil nuts are seen on the market for the first time this week. The flavor is excellent and the nuts are as juicy as a new cocoanut. We quote the following prices:

DRIED AND CURED FISH.

This trade is decidedly on the wane since the arrival of fresh fish on the market. There is a steady demand, however, for cod products. Salmon trout are quoted this week at $3.25 per keg. We quote the following prices:

Country Produce.

EGGS.

The egg market is slightly easier than a week ago. Supplies are coming more freely and quotations generally are ½c. lower. As to the time when pickling operations will begin there is some difference of opinion. Some of the produce men say prices will be down to a sufficiently low level by Easter; from other quarters comes the report that the egg men are gathering up eggs in the country at the present time for about 13c. This report must be taken with a grain of salt, however.

BEANS.

There has been a slight falling off in the consumption of beans owing to the extremely high prices ruling for the past month. This week the market is easier, hand-picked being quoted at from $1.85 to $1.90 per bushel and primes also exhibit an easier tendency. The easiness of the market is due in part to a decline in the price of potatoes which has induced more liberal buying of the latter. We quote as follows:

Beans, handpicked, per bush	1 85	1 90
" prime, No. 1	1 70	1 80
" prime, No. 2	1 55	1 60

HONEY

The honey market is quiet and without special feature. We quote as follows:

SEEDS.

The continued fine weather has created an active business in seeds. Prices are high owing to scarcity of supplies, particularly of red and mammoth clover. Red clover is quoted with a range wider by $1 than last week and the same is true of mammoth clover. Our quotations are as follows:

Alsike clover, per bush	5 00	9 00

MAPLE PRODUCTS.

A brisk trade is reported in maple products. Unfavorable weather has curtailed the 1905 crop, and as a result prices are advancing. We quote as follows:

Fish and Oysters.

The Lenten trade has kept up wonderfully well so far. During the past week fresh fish have been coming into the market and are in brisk demand. According to the present indications frozen fish will be entirely off the market by Good Friday. Among the new varieties of fresh fish noticed on the market are fresh-caught water trout, which are selling at 9c., fresh haddock, which is bringing 6c., cod steak at 7½c., and large lobsters, boiled, at 20c. Frozen halibut is out of the market as well as smelts, sea herring and Labrador herring. Frozen white fish and finnan haddie are in very short supply. We quote the following prices:

Grain, Flour and Breakfast Foods.

GRAIN.

Quiet business and easier prices are reported in Ontario and Manitoba wheat this week. Northern No. 1 and No. 2 have each dropped 1½c., with No. 3 1c. lower than last week. Red and white wheat are 2c. lower, and oats ½c. below last week's quotations. The price of buckwheat, rye and barley will be nominal from now on on account of the regular demand from brewers and malsters having ceased for the season. After this the demand for these varieties of grain will be almost altogether for feeding purposes. We quote the following:

FLOUR.

The flour business continues quiet, and owing to the dulness of trade, prices have been dropped 10c. all round. Export business is dull and uninteresting. Our quotations are as follows:

BREAKFAST FOODS.

Seasonable business is recorded in breakfast foods, particularly wheat cereals, during the week under review. Oatmeal is also holding its own. There are no changes in quotations to record. We quote as follows:

Hides, Tallow, Skins and Wool.

A quiet trade and an easier market rule in hides and skins for the week. Sheep skins are lower and pulled wools, supers and extras, are both easier in price. This is on account of a drop of 17½ per cent. over sales up to the end of December and of 5 to 10 per cent. over January sales. We quote the following prices:

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Groceries.

Montreal, April 13, 1905.

BUSINESS during the week has been quiet. Jobbers generally are content with what has been doing and look forward to the opening of navigation with pleasurable anticipation as advanee orders for shipment by first boats are good. A good trade is anticipated from the Northwest and travelers are booking good orders for low-rate delivery. The situation of the tea market is interesting, the advance in Ceylon greens having stimulated bids and buying. Some shading is noted in Japans, but is not genetal and seems to be of a elearing-out character before opening of new season's quotations. Sugars are only in fair demand and no heavy buying is done by the jobbing trade. Molasses advanced 3c. per gallon over our last week's quotations and Barbadoes is now quotcd on basis of 40c. per gallon for puncheons. Advices from the Islands are of a stiffening character owing to the uncertain crop reports received. Certainly no reduction can be looked for. Fish are somewhat dull and no improvement is expected in the near future. The mild weather has had a depressing effect on this business. No new lake fish are as yet in, though they should shortly be available, and when received will have a good effect on the market. Canned goods are quiet, and though some demand exists for canned fish and vegetahles, same is not heavy. No new features noticeable in the dried fruit trade other than another advance of 6d for dates, and the firmness in shelled walnuts. Sultana raisins are quoted 1-6d higher than March prices. New maple syrup and sugar is a common and plentiful commodity. From all appearances it is evident that more attention is being paid by the syrup farmers to the production of maple products, and the visit of inspectors of the Inland Revenue Department to the sugar districts, as well as the introduction of modern evaporating appliances, has resulted in this improvement. Provision market is easy and the heavy receipts of live hogs have lowered prices. Butter and eggs are slightly lower, as was expected. Cheese market is dull at the present high prices.

SUGAR.

The reduction by one of the refineries last week of 5c. per 100 lbs. did not affect the local trade, prices for extra granulated being still on basis of $5.65. Business is quiet, and no heavy buying by jobbers recorded. Country orders are not heavy. In some quarters an advance is looked forward to, but as a general thing, the trade is seemingly content to "buy as wanted."

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

A report from Barbadocs says that this year's crop is smaller than that of preceding two years, and that most of it is sold. The market is strong and active and prices hold firm with a tendency to advance. Since last report Barbadoes has advanced 3c. per gallon and on basis of puncheons is 40c. per gallon.

TEA.

The feature of the week has been the strength shown by Ceylon greens which cable advices from Colombo advanced another ½d. Some good business has consequently passed, and the fact that no greens are being turned out now by the planters in Ceylon has created purchasing desire for dealers interested in developing this trade here. Blacks are firm with good demand. London is reported as strong in these. China Young Hysons and gunpowders, particularly Pingsueys, are receiving more attention. Business in Japans has been stimulated somewhat by low offerings in local stocks and a tendency is evident for shading. What warrant, if any, there is for this, is not evident, except, possibly, the nearness of the new opening market. The reduction of the duty of 2d. made by the Imperial Parliament this week will have no local effect, other than producing a quietness in English offerings. The London tea dealers will, until July 1, when the new duty goes into effect, naturally refrain from clearing except in a hand-to-mouth character.

Fish.

Trade is dull, but there is hope for better business next week. There is a new arrival of fresh halibut, pike, dore and salmon, and the demand for them is fair at quotations. Their price, however, is expected to reduce as the supply increases. Frozen fish is practically out of the market. In smoked fish there is the usual demand. Season for fresh dore closes on the 15th instant.

Foreign Dried Fruits.

Business in dried fruits is quiet, being of a hand-to-mouth character, and there are few changes of any consequence to note. Dates have again advanced 6d, with stocks of Hallowes in small compass. Shelled walnuts continue to show strength and a further advance of some 5 fr. is reported this week.

Sultanas have taken an upward turn and fine grades are now quoted 1-6d higher than March prices. Tarragona almonds are slightly easier owing to the lower freight obtainable by the direct steamer now about leaving.

GORMAN, ECKERT & CO.

LONDON, CANADA
Makers of Grocers' High-Class Specialties

Good morning, Mr. Grocer! "Fine weather, ain't it?" as your friend over the way puts it. You did? I'm very glad to hear it. There's no getting over it—Delhi Epicure Catsup is a great seller; but what else could you expect. It's better and cheaper than most of those so-called high-grade imported Catsups, and it's much better that both you and your customer should have the extra profit than that it should go over the line to help build up Uncle Sam's Navy.

You say some of your customers want a Catsup at a lower price? Now, we have some really good Catsups at remarkably reasonable prices, quality considered.

First and Foremost, there's our Aylmer Canada First Catsup, which we supply in tin, glass or in stone jugs.

Then, if you want anything still good, but a little lower in price, we can supply our Red Cross and Tiger Brand Catsups.

So you see there is really no good reason why you shouldn't give me your entire Catsup trade. You will? Thanks, very much.

THE CANNERS' DRUMMER

city and Victoria there is a decided feeling that the trade of British Columbia should be held for those houses which are located in the province, though the tax was not to aid that view—merely a revenue proposition. The evading of the tax, by residence in British Columbia, does not make it necessary for a traveling man to carry stock in the province. That was the first proposition, but opposition developed from many non-resident in British Columbia who merely act as commission agents, carrying no stocks of the lines they represent. The bill as at first brought down was then amended to except these, and passed in the amended form.

Vancouver citizens are again pressing upon the city council to provide market facilities for the sale and disposal of farm and dairy produce direct by the growers. The subject has been discussed a great deal in years past, and sometimes it appeared as if a successful finish was in sight, but hitherto there has always been a failure at the end. This time it is being urged upon the council and the mayor that they have individually, in many cases, pledged themselves to a market, before they were elected, and they are now being asked to make good their promises.

With the increase of transportation facilities, additional roads and larger number of small steamers serving coast districts, it is pointed out that a great many more producers could now reach the city each week with their products if they had the means provided which a weekly market would give. At the present time, the project is shaping up to have a site on False Creek, in a central location, reached by both the Great Northern and C.P.R. tracks, and accessible from the waterfront of False Creek, so that all coasting craft could come in to the market wharf.

The weekly market at New Westminster, the only successful one in the province, has for years been a feature of retail business in the Royal City. The merchants there are strong advocates and supporters of it. Week by week large quantities of produce are brought down the Fraser River by steamer, and teamed in by ranchers from nearer points, and never yet has there been a dearth of buyers.

The City of Victoria is looking to the revival of an industry long dormant, the rice mill, built years ago in that city, but which closed down seven years ago for lack of support. Mr. Jas. Townley, the owner, has re-located the mill on Douglas street, and has begun the grinding of rice flour once more. He is a practical miller with many years experience, and now that trade is greater in volume in this province there is every hope for success in the revived industry.

Latest news from the north says that the snows are melting fast, and river navigation is expected earlier than any previous season since the Yukon was opened.

Traffic to B. C. up-coast points is increasing very rapidly with the approach of the northern salmon packing season. Many operatives and large quantities of supplies are being shipped weekly, and several additions to the fleet engaged in serving up-coast points are noted. The steamer Venture is being re-modelled from a freighter to a passenger boat, by Capt. Warren, to take the place of the wrecked "Barabara Boscowitz." The C.P.R. have put the "Princess Beatrice" on the northern route, taking her off the Seattle-Victoria run, and the company formed by Capt. Buchholtz and N. Thompson are said to be going ahead with the building of a fine steamer for the same trade.

The announcement has just been made that several Vancouver houses, including Kelly-Douglas & Co., wholesale grocers; McLennan, McFeely & Co., wholesale hardware, and Ironsides, Rannie & Campbell, have just united to form a company to engage in steamboating on the Skeena River. The reason for this decision is that the Hudson Bay Co. now operate the only steamer on that river, and with the traffic which the coming of the G.T.P. has incited the Vancouver merchants do not want to be shut out from the field, as they would practically be if left at the tender mercies of a company trading in opposition to them.

Another steamship line is arranging to commence regular calls at the ports of British Columbia from Atlantic and Southern Pacific ports. This is the line owned by W. R. Grace & Co., a New York firm, which proposes to handle ocean freights for the B. C. ports as well as for U. S. ports. Though owned in New York, the Grace line flies the British flag. The Kosmos line of steamers, owned in Hamburg, also makes the route round the Horn, which the Grace line will cover.

In local markets firmness in the price of butter, weakness in storage eggs, higher quotations on oranges, and also in oats, are noted.

The supply of creamery butter is still limited, though by the next arriving Australian steamer further shipments are expected from New Zealand, while local supplies continue to increase. Fresh eggs are scarcer than they were, but storage eggs are rather heavily stocked for the lateness of the season. Prices run for eastern creamery, about 28c; for local creamery, 30c. in jobbing way. Fresh eggs, local, 25 to 30c.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, April 13th, 1905.

BUSINESS in wholesale grocery circles continues fairly active, some houses indeed reporting an exceptionally good trade in the early days of April. There are not many changes in the list of prices given below from week to week and, in fact, all values in groceries seem steady. Perhaps the most notable change has been the advance in sugar noted in "Last minute Manitoba markets" in last issue. This advance of 10c. on all grades applies only as far west of Winnipeg as Portage la Prairie. West of that town, no change has been made at time of writing. As there had been a previous decline of 10c. on sugars for points west of Portage la Prairie there is, therefore, a difference of 20c. The fixing of prices for the various districts in the Northwest seems to be done in very arbitrary fashion. The rolled oats market in the United States continues very firm. Stocks here are really worth more than is being asked for them in view of the condition of the market, but as there are considerable supplies on hand and contracted for ahead at former prices, it is not likely that any advance will be made at present. In this connection it might be noted that advances have been made in the United States in the price of "Banner Oats" and "Quail Oats" packages containing premium crockery, and in view of the condition of the market, an advance in Winnipeg would be justified. However, as considerable supplies are held in the city, no advance is likely to be made until stocks on hand are exhausted. Canadian canned corn is selling at $2.50 per case, and there are some American brands on the market at a lower price.

Sugar.

As noted last week in our "Last minute Manitoba markets," there has been an advance of 10c. on all grades of refined sugars for points as far west as Portage la Prairie. West of that town no advance has been made, and as a reduction of 10c. was made in that district about three weeks ago, the recent changes have, therefore, made a difference of 20c. Prices seem to be determined for the various parts of the West in most arbitrary fashion. Advices from outside markets continue to indicate a very firm market with no prospect of a decline. A slight reduction may be made locally after the opening of navigation, as freight charges will be about 15c. less from Montreal; but effect has not always followed this cause in previous years. "A Good Dinner May be Life's Most Important Action"

—(Goethe)

In this sentence, the versatile German, did not only wish to depict the emptiness of glory and fame, but also wanted to express his keen satisfaction for having had a good dinner with the king : "sauer-kraut," pheasant, and a few glasses of Madeira wine, presumably.

What Would an Easter Dinner be Without Madeira Wine ?

In this country of ours, pheasants are rather scarce, "sauer-kraut" is not commonly used, but Madeira wines, and the best that Madeira Island has ever produced, are enjoying a great favor and can be had in the twinkling of an eye.

Since twenty years or so the export of Madeira has been gradually increasing, its consumption being yearly magnified for its fine taste and richness of flavor, which make it, indeed, the king of all table wines as an appetiser.

We Most Highly Recommend:

Is an improvement in the list of house cleaning necessities.

It is a scouring soap.
It is a metal polish.
It is a glass cleaner.

It is always used in the form of a thin lather. Requires little water, makes no muss and WILL NOT SCRATCH.

Bon Ami cleans by dissolving the dirt or tarnish; not by "scouring" and "wearing out" the object cleaned.

Glass-Cutting in Canada.

FIVE years ago the art of glass-cutting was practically unknown in Canada; since then, however, the manufacturers have brought it to the attention of the trade very forcibly and, consequently, cut glass has found its way into a very large number of stores. About six thousand glass-cutters are employed in the United States at the present time, where the industry has been carried on for a period of twenty-five years. Only forty-five men are employed at it in Canada, but most of these came from such shops as Dorflinger's, Libby's and Hawkes,' and, consequently, can turn out an article as good or better than any of these firms. It has been a hard matter to convince the public that Canadian cut glass is superior to American, as it is not so well established here, and customers, even yet, are occasionally inclined to favor an article marked "Imported."

The only known firms manufacturing cut glass in Canada are Gowans, Kent & Co. and Roden Bros., both of Toronto, and Henry Birk & Son, of Montreal. The glass used for cutting is specially prepared, being composed of very fine sand, from the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts, and red lead, and is very soft and heavy, as the contents would indicate. Ordinary glass could not be cut as it is too hard and brittle. The stones used for cutting are imported from Scotland. In order that the sparkle and brilliancy may be preserved, all that is necessary is a little care exercised when cleaning. Never use cold or hot water, as the glass is very susceptible to either of these. A very profitable hour could be spent in a cutting shop where you can see the workmen turning blanks into pieces of rich cut glass.

China and Crockery.

The new goods in china and crockery show an advance over previous years. In dinner sets the most attractive thing seen was in china, with a delicate edge of violets or roses. As a general rule, however, the sets with a more elaborate color scheme are the best sellers. Berry sets are displayed in great variety. Floral sprays and a shaded edge form the decoration of the prettiest line. A new line this Spring is a bureau set. It is of opal color with hand-painted decoration, and is sold in an assortment of six pieces.

A New Gas Shade.

The Cremo inverted gas burner is a novelty which should soon become a necessity. Anyone who has read with the light of an ordinary gas light, and has had to put up with the patchwork of shadows and light which is the necessary complement of any ordinary fixture, will hail with pleasure the new device. By being inverted, it is absolutely free from shadows, and it throws a light of the radiance of an electric lamp. Its decorative appearance will commend it to those who aim at having a pretty house. Gowans, Kent & Co. handle it.

Among the Trade.

R. Campbell's Sons, pottery manufacturers, Hamilton, are putting on the market a bed and douche pan of entirely new design.

Dahud clay fuel for gas fires is being manufactured at R. Campbell's Sons' pottery, Hamilton.

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

A DEAL has been completed in Ontario fruit circles this week which promises to be of immense benefit to the fruit growers of Western Ontario. The present system of fruit shipping has been found unsatisfactory, particularly to smaller shippers, who experience great difficulty in keeping in touch with the demands and conditions of various markets. As a result, they are often obliged to sacrifice their fruits on account of having shipped them to an over-stocked market.

To obviate this, a number of prominent fruit shippers have formed a distributors' company which it is thought will bring about a more equitable distribution of fruit throughout the Dominion of Canada. The company have completed negotiations with the Bell Telephone Co. for a private line from Toronto through the Niagara Peninsula. Capitalized at $1,000,000. It is stated that a large quantity of stock has already been taken up.

The directors are: T. H. P. Carpenter, Winona, president; H. M. Mulholland, Toronto, vice-president and managing director; S. M. Culp, Beamsville H. K. Griffith, Grimsby; and T. Oliphant, Clarkson. The head office of the company will be in Toronto. Mr. Mulholland, the managing-director, was formerly manager of Husband Bros. & Co., Toronto.

GREEN FRUITS.

Toronto, April 13, 1905.

The continued fine weather has meant a big sale of all varieties of green fruits. Pines are very firm and scarce owing to cool and dry weather in Cuba. It is confidently expected, however, that there will be a drop in price by Easter time. The orange market has been in an excited state during the week. The California navel crop has fallen short of estimates, and prices have advanced from 50c. to $1 at the coast. This has meant an advance locally of 25c. The banana business is booming on account of the country trade beginning to handle bananas for Summer trade. Bananas, firsts, average from 10 to 15c. per bunch higher than last week. Florida grape fruit is out of the market.

According to latest reports the steamer "Jacona," which sailed from Sorrento April 1, carried 28,698 boxes of oranges and lemons from Messina, and 4,194 half-boxes; her cargo from Sorrento consisted of 12,699 packages. The "Escalona," which it was thought was cancelled, is billed to sail in about a fortnight. Her cargo will be mostly oranges. Louisiana strawberries are down to 15c per pint.

VEGETABLES.

An increasing demand is noted for green vegetables, all others being only in moderate request. Potatoes are down this week on account of over supply. Southern rhubarb is arriving on the market and is selling at $1 to $1.25 per bush. box. Eggplants are noticed in the market for the first time this season, and are quoted at $6 to $8 per bush. crate. Tomatoes are high; shipments from Florida are being resumed this week and it is expected that the price will recede. All Florida vegetables and fruits are now arriving freely, and with continued mild weather a lively trade may be expected. Egyptian onions are quoted at $5 per crate. New Orleans cabbage is selling at $6 per hbl. crate. Florida celery is taking the place of California. We quote the following prices:

GREEN FRUITS.

Trade is fair with a good demand for California oranges, which have gone up in New York from 30 to 50c. per box, and it is expected that within a few days the Montreal market will follow suit. The sale of bananas has fallen off this week on account of high prices, and in Boston they are between 20 to 30c. higher per bunch. Strawberries sold last week at from 40 to 45c., although the demand for them is limited as yet.

Two cars of cocoanuts came in and were sold from $3.25 to $3.50 according to quality. Pineapples arrived in green condition and were put in heaters to color up. There is a fair demand for them at $4.50 to $5. Stock, however, in right condition, sold 50c. higher.

VEGETABLES.

The market for early vegetables is limited on account of prices being so high. Green beans are selling at $5 a box. Last week three cars of cabbages were sold at from $1.50 to $1.60 per bbl., also four cars of red onions found buyers at 2½ to 3c. per pound.

GREEN FRUITS

St. John, April 12, 1905.

Business is quite active. The low price of bananas is a feature, and will increase this already large business. As oranges are likely to rule rather higher than usual, this will be the more appreciated. The light receipts of Valencia oranges is another odd feature of this markct at this season. Californias are selling quitc freely at rathcr higher prices. Some good Jamacias are still offered at quite low prices. Lemons are low. Apples have but a fair sale. Green stuff is seen in a retail way; also a few strawberries.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., April 12, 1905.

AN advance is rice is a feature this week. It was somewhat unexpected. Early prices were high, and English shippers advised the outlook for lower prices to be good. In fact they quoted later shipments at lower prices. It seems, however, the import duty which the Japanese propose to place on rice has caused heavy buying. Spring business begins to open up and the trade are quite well pleased with the outlook. There is, however, not the full confidence of a year ago. Sugar is still the backbone to a great extent, while the market is very firm; should prices go off it would almost be a disaster.

Oil.

There is no change in burning oils. Business is naturally rather less active at this season. Lubricating oils have much attention, and good business is reported. Paint oils are quite active. Linseeds, while low, are firm. Turpentine is still quoted at the lower price, but import price is higher. Fish oil is dull.

Salt.

There is a fair stock of Liverpool coarse salt here, one steamer lately bringing one thousand tons. It has been a great drawback to the importers not to get the smaller shipments by the regular boats, but Winter port steamers have held freights too high for business Prices are very firm. There is improved sale for Canadian fine salt.

Canned Goods.

Corn and tomatoes are very firm. Few American goods have been bought except some little corn. Stocks are not large. There seems to be a full supply of fruit. Condensed coffee, milk and cream show improved business. Domestic fish are very firm, with stock light. Oysters are firmer.

Dried Fruit.

There is little of interest. Our market is quite bare of loose Muscatels, particularly first-class fruit. Seeded are quite plentiful. Currants are unchanged. The sale is for cleaned in cartons, and the market is now being quite largely supplied from New York. Prunes are rather firmer, and there is a fair demand, particularly for small sizes. While there is some slight demand for apricots and peaches, prices are too high for business. The outlook for peels, particularly for citron, is for high prices. Very little stock will be carried over. Evaporated apples have but a fair sale. Quite a few Canadian evaporated are being imported from England. Onions are quite high, owing to the high price ruling on first shipments of Egyptians. Those afloat will cost less money.

Sugar.

There are large stocks. Nearly all orders have been filled. Refiners are backward about selling for future, at least beyond a limited time. Dealers, on the other hand, feel they are carrying as large stocks as are advisable.

Molasses.

Molasses is very firm. The advance of Barbadoes at the island has rather surprised the trade, and the quantity bought is not large. It is reported the crop has been largely marketed. There is still quite a full stock of old Porto Rico held. Little buying of new is yet reported. While the situation is not definite the market is firm.

Fish.

All lines of fresh fish are scarce. There is a fair supply of halibut. Dry fish are still held at extreme prices, though boneless is relatively low. Pickled herring are in light supply, with prices high. Smoked herring are low.

Flour, Feed and Seed.

Ontario flour continues quite firm. Manitobas are rather lower. Feed is quite high. Oats and oatmeal are high. Quite a large stock of oatmeal is held. Cornmeal shows a slight advance. Beans are at least no higher. Yellow-eyes are quite freely offered. Barley and peas are high. In seeds the large sale is for American timothy. Prices are very firm. Clovers are high and scarce. Clover seeds are being imported from across the water for the west.

HALF-HOLIDAY FOR GROCERS.

At a meeting of the London retail grocers on April 4 it was decided to have the usual Wednesday half-holiday during June, July and August, except during the week of July 1 and the Old Boys' Demonstration.

DEAR SIRS:

Your goods shipped to us on March 5th, to hand. We think on the whole they will compare with any goods on this market, and if you sell to no one else here we shall be pleased to have you send us a repeat order as per last shipment if this meets with your approval. We hope to be advised as to immediate shipment; also include a box or two of any lines which we have not yet had and which might be good sellers.

CORRECTION OF ADVERTISEMENTS

The new vinegar company operating in Montreal, and whose advertisement appeared in the two last issues of The Grocer, is not, as stated—the Independent Vinegar Co., Limited—but the Independent Vinegar Co. The insertion of the word "Limited" was an inadvertence, and correction is hereby made. The new company is stated to be launching out under bright prospects, and will be prepared to fill orders about July 1st.

HAMILTON TRAVELERS

The commercial travelers of Hamilton are arranging for a gala day in the "city under the mountain," on July 15. A suggestion is being considered for holding a minstrel show the night previous, and it is almost certain that some form of entertainment will be provided on Friday night to be followed by the celebration on Saturday.

Great enthusiasm is manifested among the travelers over the proposed event, and it is expected that large delegations will be attracted from Toronto, Montreal and London.

STRATFORD BOOMING.

Stratford bids fair to become before long one of the leading manufacturing centres of Ontario. New and important industries are being attracted thither in surprising numbers. At the present time a new carriage factory is nearing completion, and negotiations are going on which will probably result in the location of two more factories. In other directions building is going on apace. A local concern has acquired a large tract of land and is erecting dwelling houses at a rapid rate. Two more churches—a Catholic and an English Episcopal—are to be built, a sure sign of a steady growth of population. Altogether the good citizens of Stratford are well pleased with the outlook.

Canada Loses Export Trade

AN inquiry has reached The Grocer during the week as to the truth of the report that American oatmeal millers have captured the Canadian export business.

The answer is: "Yes, with qualifications." The past year has been an unfortunate one for Canadian millers. With oats scarce and the ruling price, say, 40c per bushel, they have had to stand aside and see American oatmeal brought into this country and sold at a price with which it was absolutely out of the question for them to compete. Raw material has averaged 30c per bush. in the United States this year, which makes a disparity of fully $1 per bbl. between the price of the American and Canadian manufactured product. Thus it is quite easy to see how the American miller can afford to cultivate the Canadian market as he has so successfully done for twelve months back. This principle applies also to the export trade in oatmeal. The Americans have an advantage of $1 per bbl. to begin with, and can easily undersell Canadian manufacturers in foreign markets, even when the products from the two countries are admitted to the said markets on a footing of equality.

A year ago the situation was exactly reversed, and Canada enjoyed a superior advantage as far as the export trade in oatmeal was concerned; she had a bountiful crop, and millers from across the line could not compete in price.

It is interesting to compare the value of oatmeal products exported from Canada in 1904 and 1905. In January, 1904, Canada exported oatmeal to the value of $100,752; in January, 1905, she exported $36,826 worth. Her exports of oats for the same month of 1904 and 1905 were $150,296, and $82,112, and for the seven months ending January 31, $1,147,210 and $706,999.

Cereals and Coupons.

THE American Cereal Co. have made the announcement that unless their recent action in cutting out premiums is appreciated in a more practical way by the retail grocery trade in the United States, they will be forced to resume the packing of coupons in their goods.

For the past three months there has been an uninterrupted spread of anti-premium sentiment among American grocers. Associations everywhere passed vigorous resolutions denouncing part-cash and other premiums with oatmeal, etc. Individual grocers quit handling certain brands because manufacturers were giving out part cash coupons. The American Cereal Co., in deference to the demands of the trade, abolished premiums entirely, and their lead was followed by the H. O., the Force Food and Malta Vita Companies. The Great Western Co. also withdrew its part-cash coupons, but up to date have not done away with any of their other premium schemes.

Now the inconsistency of the retailer asserts itself. Those manufacturers who took the position of quitting wholly a practice that they were told was distasteful to the retail grocery trade are not selling as many goods as they formerly did. On the other hand, the Great Western Cereal Co. is pushing all sorts of premium schemes and selling oatmeal to the very grocers who were loudest in their complaints when the fight was on.

Flour Shipments to Japan.

The new duty to be levied at the beginning of July on flour, in common with many other commodities by the Japanese Government, is inducing shippers to hurry heavy shipments forward from the Pacific coast. Eight steamers have been chartered on the Sound, and the regular liners have all their cargo space taken up. Steamer Drumbarton, now on the way to the Sound from Moji, has been chartered to load at Portland. The British steamer Sandhurst has also been chartered for Portland.

Agency for Canadian Cereal Food.

The London, Eng., office of The Grocer is in communication with an English traveler who claims to have unusually good qualifications and advantages for introducing lines of Canadian cereal foods, package goods, produce, etc., to British importers, and wholesale dealers. This traveler has inserted an advertisement in this week's issue, and he informs us that he will be glad to correspond with any of our readers who wish to open up business in the Old Country.

Tobaccos, Cigars, and Smokers' Accessories

A DEPARTMENT FOR RETAIL MERCHANTS.

A Live Tobacco Department.

THERE is no use in running a tobacco department in a half-hearted manner. It is either worth having in your store or it is not. If it is not, it should be thrown out altogether. But if it is worth retaining, then make it a real, live part of your stock. A man may hesitate about putting in a new line of goods, but when he has made up his mind and bought his stock, there is just one thing to do, and that is to push the stock for all it is worth.

This applies to no department to as great a degree as it does to the tobacco stock. In this, constant display is absolutely necessary. The department must be kept in evidence, it must show signs of life, it must look as if something was occasionally sold out of it. If you have to hunt around for your stock when a man asks for tobacco it is a certainty that you don't sell to many. A customer is quick to notice little things like that, and he will not patronize a store that is apparently shunned by others.

Keep the stock fresh and attractive. It is well worth while. A department run on the right principles will soon prove its right to existence. But no matter how big is the store, no merchant can afford to have a dead department. Its condition is too likely to be infectious. Now is a good time to infuse life into it.

The Mexican Smokes the Most Cigarettes.

THE United States consumes annually 3,600,000,000 cigarettes. On a basis of 80,000,000 population, this is 45 cigarettes a head.

Russia consumes 9,000,000,000 cigarettes. On a hasis of 125,000,000 population, this is 72 a head.

Mexico consumes 4,000,000,000 cigarettes. On a hasis of 14,000,000 population, this is 285 a head.

The headquarters of the industry is the capital city of Mexico, where there are three of the largest factories in the world—El Buen Tone, La Tahacalera Mexicana and La Cigarera Mexicana.

El Buen Tono uses 200 cigarette machines, each of which turns out no less than 60 a minute. The output per year of 300 working days, ten hours a day, is 2,200,000,000. There are 100 men and 1,000 girls employed.

La Tabacalera Mexicana uses twelve powerful cigarette machines, each of which turns out 200 a minute. The annual output is 400,000,000. There are 30 men and 300 girls employed.

La Cigarera Mexicana uses thirty machines, each of which turns out 160 a minute. The annual output is 950,000,000. There are 45 men and 480 girls employed.

The average wage of the men is 90 cents and of the girls 55 cents a day. There are other factories in Mexico and Monterey, but altogether their output will not be larger than La Tabacalera Mexicana. The output of the entire republic is about 4,000,000,000.

A New Drying Machine.

A Montreal man has invented a new machine for curing and drying tobacco. It is especially suited to the treatment of the Canadian weed and should give an impetus to native culture. The new system whereby the tobacco is treated to a sweating and drying process instead of the old method of dry heating, will tend to preserve the sweetness and pliancy of the leaf.

In addition to the many points of superiority which this machine possesses lies the further one of price. The old drying machines cost so much that they are practically out of reach of the average farmer, but, in fixing the price of his machines at about $200, Mr. Porcheron, the inventor, feels certain that the price of one will be saved to the purchaser in about one year.

Tobacco Blindness.

The adjourned action, in which a workman named Peter Johnson claimed compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act from Messrs. H. Boardman & Sons, contractors, of Clayton, for injuries alleged to have been caused by the fall of a hrick from a scaffold on to his head while at work, again came before Judge Parry on a recent occasion.

When the case was first heard, Dr. McNab, of the Manchester Eye Hospital, stated that the applicant had definite traces of tobacco blindness. He admitted smoking an ounce and a half per week and witness did not attribute his defect of vision to his heing struck by a brick. Sometimes a man of middle age got tohacco blindness on half an ounce.

This statement was characterized by Mr. Wingate Saul, who represented the defendant, as "most alarming news."

The case was adjourned, and his Honor appointed Dr. Emrys Jones as medical referee to inquire into the matter.

Dr. Jones reported that the defective sight was, in his opinion, the result of the accident. The vision was improving, and the man might be able to follow his employment very shortly. He did not think the small quantity of tobacco used had had any effect in the case.

His Honor gave a verdict for the applicant, and said that the public would be pleased to hear that smoking would not make their eyes so bad as was at first feared.

Letters to Tom, the Grocer.—No. IV.

HAMILTON, April 14, 1905

Dear Tom:

Sell known goods. The other day you were induced to stock a line of goods that you and your customers never heard of—you were tempted by the price—15 cents a dozen less than what you had been paying You'll find it pretty hard work to sell this line, and you take big chances with your trade. Stick to a safe article. If it costs a little more it is likely worth more. Don't tamper with your best trade.

Same advice applies to T. & B. Tobacco. Stick to it. Its quality is the highest known. Don't be misled. It will surely cost you money.

Freights and Charters

PLENTY of new movements are being recorded in connection with large transportation companies that interest shippers all over the Dominion. A few days ago, President Fred. Nichols, of the Canadian Northern Navigation Co., announced that the purchase of the McIlwraith dock property in Hamilton had been completed. The company will run three freight carriers from Montreal to Port Arthur, and will make Hamilton and Toronto ports of call. It is expected by vesselmen that the installation of the service will have considerable effect on lake rates.

The rate of grain freight by all-water route from Fort William to Montreal is quoted at 6c. per bushel, including insurance, and as much as 200,000 to 250,000 bushels being reported as engaged.

Very little business has been recorded in ocean freights during the week. Of course the principal business is all for May shipment and the rates for grain range from 1s. to 1s. 6d, or 1s. 9d, according to port of destination.

There is not a great probability of heavy grain shipments from Montreal this season; at least that is the opinion of one of the largest shippers. The belief is that the big millers in Ontario and the West will need most of the wheat they can get for flour.

There is, however, some hope of getting some United States corn to ship, as the crop last year was very large, and the St. Lawrence route generally gets a share. Fairly good cargoes have gone forward from St. John, N.B., and Portland during the past weeks. The export trade is now, however, just between seasons, and little can be reported until after April 15.

The "Thistle" Brand Fish

The fact that for twenty years we have sold the "Thistle" Brand of Canned Haddies, Kippered Herrings, etc., is pretty good evidence of the high standard of quality of the goods. By high quality we mean, first, the very best fish put up in the very cleanest way; second, the preservation of the rich, delicate, natural flavor by prompt action after the fish are caught.

There has never been any attempt by the owners of the "Thistle" Brand to produce their goods as cheap goods—quality has been their watchword first, last and always. They have never pretended to compete on the basis of price and they never will. The "Thistle" Brand is to be the best by every test and regardless of expense.

The Manager of the company is unsurpassed as a fish-curer, as his father was before him. The buyers of the "Thistle" Brand can be absolutely sure of perfection. It is the standard from which the quality of all other brands is judged.

JAPAN TEA

A Word to the Grocers

You have all had many complaints from your customers of the tea sold them, some said it "was bitter," others that it was "earthy," had "no flavor," "left a scum," etc. While other teas will all do this more or less, the teas of Japan will not. Try them; prove them the healthiest, purest and most profitable.

Made in Canada

These words are the key to the success that every true Canadian heartily desires for this fair Canada of ours!

Why should we buy goods of any description that are made in a foreign country? The making of foreign goods does not give employment to our artisans. It does not retain money in this country.

Why use Foreign Salt? We have CANADIAN SALT that is superior to any foreign salt that is made.

Why not help build up Canada by using

Canadian Salt

and thereby employ Canadian labor, Canadian works, and Canadian capital?

Demand of your wholesale grocer Canadian Salt, and if he does not keep it write to us for prices and samples.

GROCERS, ATTENTION!

What is your most valuable asset? Is it not your list of customers? What is most necessary to insure the success of your business? Is it not public confidence? By using THE TOLEDO SCALE which INVITES every CUSTOMER TO SEE THAT YOU GIVE THEM JUST WHAT THEY ASK FOR, you gain PUBLIC CONFIDENCE, thereby ADDING TO YOUR MOST VALUABLE ASSET, your list of Customers, and the great point is that you accomplish this without having to give down or over weight. No springs, no poises to shift, and no weights to lift on and off; the goods weigh themselves, absolutely correct, and do it instantly.

The New Business Tax in Ontario in Relation to the Retailer*

IN reply to numerous inquiries from retailers throughout the Province of Ontario as to how they will be affected by the new Assessment Act, which came into force on April 26, 1904, it may be stated at the outset that it has established an entirely new basis of business assessment to take the place of the old "Personal Property Assessment." Formerly a retailer was interviewed by the assessor, who determined his business assessment according to the retailer's own valuation of the amount of business turned over from year to year. The objection to this scheme was that the retailer was enabled to evade taxes by making use of such subterfuges as personal indebtedness, credits, etc. It was an ideal system for use in an ideal community, but lacked the machinery to make it satisfactory as far as practical working out was concerned.

Business Assessment.

According to the new business assessment a retailer's taxes are computed on the assessed value of the business premises he occupies.

In towns where the population is under 10,000 his business assessment is fixed at 35 per cent. of the assessed value of the property occupied for business purposes. Where the population is over 10,000 and under 50,000 the percentage is 30 per cent., and where it is over $50,000, 25 per cent. The minimum assessment according to the new Act is placed at $250; this means that in the event of a grocery or general mercantile establishment being assessed for less than $250, the proprietor cannot be assessed for business purposes below this amount.

The question may be raised by the retailer that he does not occupy the whole of his store for business purposes, but rents say one-third of it to other parties or as a residence for himself. Very well; the business rating is applied only upon so much of the premises as are occupied for business purposes. For instance, a retailer in a town of less than 10,000 inhabitants occupies premises assessed at $3,500 and sublets say one-third of the building. His business rating then will be on two-thirds of the whole premises, or on $2,333, and his business assessment on 35 per cent. of this, or $816.

Thus the retailer may, by referring to the assessment roll, place himself in a position to know the taxes chargeable against his business, subject, of course, to any future increase in realty. He is not concerned at the approach of the assessor, he is not called upon to submit a statement of his assets and liabilities, nor is he asked any question whatever regarding the particulars of his business. The assessor simply enters his name in the roll and rates him as a retailer, after which his business assessment becomes automatically fixed. The same method applies to the distiller, the brewer, the wholesaler, the manufacturer, the departmental store, the coal and wood dealer, the lithographer, printer, or publisher; in fact, all engaged in business pursuits, their ratings varying from 150 per cent. to 25 per cent. of the assessed value of the land occupied or used for such business.

Manufacturers and Wholesalers.

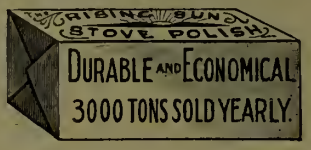
In the case of departmental stores, having more than 5 branches in separate departments, the business assessment is 50 per cent. of the assessed value of the premises where this exceeds $20,000. In the case of wholesale houses the percentage is 75 and in that of manufacturers 60. Manufacturers are not liable to business assessment as wholesale merchants by reason of their carrying on the business of selling the goods of their own manufacture on the premises used by them for manufacturing purposes. It may be added that any person liable to business assessment is not liable to taxation on income derived from his business.

Manufacturers' agents, brokers, etc., are not liable to the business tax, but come under the income tax according to sub-section 5 of Section 10 of the new Act.

The new assessment is to be commended in so far as it is easy of application and entirely avoids the necessity of the assessor delving into the affairs of business men. It cannot be claimed, however, that the new system is equitable from a basis of wealth; in fact, it cannot be, for the reason that a percentage of the assessed value of the land is taken as the business assessment in lieu of the value of personal property. Large capital is employed in small premises, and vice versa; but it has this effect, that no one escapes and all contribute more or less to the burden of taxation. If a comparison is made with the former assessment of personality, there will be found more inequalities that will probably be shown under the new Act. No one ever contended that personal property was or could be successfully assessed; much of it could not be seen. Debts due on account of personality were to be deducted, and the statement is ventured that not one tenth of the personal property liable to assessment is or was assessed. The assessor could not cope with the artifices employed, and beside very imperfect machinery was provided under the Act to assist him in the discharge of his duties.

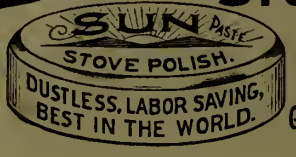
New Tax an Improvement.

The business men as a whole should, and it is believed do, welcome the change in the new Assessment Act; they now know that the assessor cannot go beyond the rating fixed by the Act. Formerly, because of their under-assessments which have been handed down as heirlooms to succeeding assessors, they could not say where the assessment was to stop, as they were liable to an increase year after year, so long as the amount assessed did not exceed the actual assets of the business; all this depending upon the activity of the assessor. This is now done away with and as "new brooms sweep clean," it is confidently expected that the business assessment will show a vast improvement upon the attempt for the past 30 or 40 years to assess personal property as defined under the Act.



Scarcely sufficient time has elapsed since the introduction of the Act to warrant any statement as to its effect upon the retail trade. The general opinion, however, seems to be that, with the possible exception of cities and large towns, the retailer is going to benefit very considerably in the matter of taxes.

Income Tax.



Some important changes have also been introduced by the new Assessment Act in regard to the income tax. Instead of an exemption up to $1,000 on personal earnings and up to $100 on income derived from other than personal earnings, there is now no exemption on other than personal earnings, and except in the case of householders, an exemption on personal earnings only up to $100, householders enjoying an exemption up to $1,000. The provisions of the Act in respect to the income tax are as follows:

1st.—The annual income derived from personal earnings or from any pension, gratuity, or retiring allowance, in respect of personal services, in a city or town having a population of over 10,000, is exempt to the extent of $1,000, and is assessable at the place where he is a resident thereof; and where he is not a householder according to the assessment roll, the exemption is $400.

2nd.—There is no exemption mentioned as to income received or derived from other than personal earnings, therefore such class of income is assessable on the full amount as under sub-section 8 of section 2, "Income" is defined (in part) and shall include the interest, dividends, or profits, directly or indirectly received from money at interest upon any security or without security, or from stocks, or from any investment, and also profit or gain from any other source whatever.

Everyone Liable.

The chief result of this will be the insertion of the name of every resident of every municipality in receipt of income from other than from personal earnings, with the full amount of such income. Thus the dividends from all financial corporations such as banks, insurance and loan, and trust companies, become liable on the full amount as against the resident shareholders in Ontario. This, while providing additional assessment under the heading of income, takes away to a considerable extent the charge that such financial institutions as those named were escaping their just assessment, as it is reasonable that such companies and their shareholders should not be both assessable. It also makes up for the loss now sustained by practically the non-assessment of the income of these companies.

A reference is now made to the legal and medical professions, the dentist, the civil or electric engineer, surveyors, architects, and others, all these are subject first to a business assessment, irrespective of what the income may be. If the income derived is beyond the amount of the business assessment, then the amount of the income in excess of the business assessment is the basis of the assessment, subject to the statutory exemptions. Thus no professional man escapes taxation, and under sub-section 3 of section 10, no less an amount than $250 shall constitute a business assessment.

Successful Machinery.

It might be said here that the clause relating to professional men originally contemplated assessing them on a business assessment only, but was afterwards amended to the above; indeed, the strictest endeavor has been made to omit no class of income properly liable to assessment. In section 11, sub-section "A," every person not liable to business assessment shall be assessed and taxed in respect of income,—so that it at present appears no one can escape. While this is just and all are made liable to assessment (saving exemptions) the mere fact of being liable would not help so very much, if machinery were not given the assessor to help him out, so sections 16 to 21, some new and others amended as compared with the old Act, have been inserted. From these it will be seen that employers are to give or furnish to the assessor the names, places of residence, and wages, salary, or other remuneration of their employes. Section 19 requires corporations to furnish the assessor with a list of the resident shareholders of the municipality requiring the same. Then comes section 21, which provides a penalty of $100 and an additional penalty of $10 for each day during default. The Act, therefore, so far as touched upon, seems not only workable, but of vast improvement.

USEFUL AND ENTERTAINING ADVERTISING MATERIAL.

Advertising in connection with any business is a feature requiring careful study. Many Canadian firms use good judgment in keeping their products before the trade and consumer. E. W. Gillett Company, Toronto, have long been recognized as in the van of users of attractive and judicious advertising material, and many of their novelties have received endorsement at the hands of the public. Two of their latest and most attractive, as well as attention-arresting advertising novelties, are a series of illustrated nursery rhymes and stories and a little celluloid vest pocket memo tablet, the latter showing the new factory in brown and black colors. E. W Gillett Company will be pleased to mail samples to readers of The Grocer, if reference is made to this notice.

COLD CLIMATE ORANGE.

The United States Department of Agriculture is conducting a series of experiments which, if successful, will probably result in orange groves being as common within the next few years in the central and western states as apple orchards are at the present time.

By grafting various varieties of the fruit, the department scientists have managed to develop an orange that is able to stand a remarkable amount of frost, and they expect confidently to develop a variety that can even withstand the severe Winters of the New England States.

The statement is made, moreover, that such oranges will be finer in flavor, more delicious in aroma, and more juicy and palatable in every way than those now grown in semi-tropical countries.

The new northern orange, however, will not be the beautiful golden of the Florida and California fruit, but a dull and lusterless green

JAPAN RAISES IMPORT DUTIES.

A new customs tariff on imports into Japan will go into effect on July 1, with an increase of duties on almost all articles that are now subject to import tax. The increase is in all cases an ad valorem increase, whether the article was previously taxed by specific or ad valorem duty, and is designed to afford an increased revenue for war expenses.

Up to this time the customs receipts have been devoted to internal administration entirely, but after July 1 the excess receipts from the new rates will be used for the war fund.

The increases will be made in accordance with a law promulgated January 1 and designed in the first place to take effect April 1, which is the beginning of a new Japanese fiscal year. Later it was considered unnecessary for the new imposts to be levied before the beginning of the second quarter, on July 1. The law increases the taxes on the following: Land, incomes, business, liquors, soy, syrup, sugar, excise, bourses, customs, mining products, licenses for hunting and fishing, medicines, mails and documents

Bond's Bait Bill Passed.

PREMIER BOND has moved in the Newfoundland Legislature for the adoption of a new bill against American fishing vessels. It provides that if an American fishing vessel is found within three miles of the coast of Newfouudland, with bait, supplies or outfits purchased within any port in the island, the equipment, stores and cargo shall be forfeited. It also is provided that the task of proving that the bait, supplies or outfits were not purchased in violation of this Act will rest upon the owners of the vessels.

According to latest advices a clause has been added providing for the suspensiou of the new bill at the discretion of the Government. The reason for this is because it is thought the United States Senate will have acted upon the Bond-Hay treaty before the next session of the Newfoundland Legislature, in which event it is desirable that the latter should possess the power to move promptly for the prohibitory measure.

Fishing Conference.

A JOINT conference of the fishery authorities of the Lake States and U.S. officials was held in Chicago on April 8th for the purpose of establishing more uniform fishing regulations. The following recommendations were adopted:

Closed season on Lake Erie, Lake St. Clair, Detroit and St. Clair Rivers for all fish, November 15 to April 15.

Closed season on Lakes Huron and Michigan for white fish and trout, October 31 to December 15.

Closed for wall-eyed pike on Lakes Michigan and Huron, including bays and harbors and St. Mary's River, January 1 to May 15; Lake Superior, January 1 to June 1.

Closed season on Lake Superior for whitefish and trout, October 1 to November 15.

Bass and muskallonge, rod and line, January 1 to June 15; to be caught with rod and line only during open season.

Closed season on all great lakes for sturgeon ten years from June 1, 1901.

Taking for export of black bass, muskallonge and brook trout to be prohibited. Catching same fish with nets to be prohibited.

All boxes and packages containing fish to be marked with the name of the consignee and consignor, and with the contents of the package.

Following to be legal measurements of fish to be caught: Black bass, 12 inches: muskallonge, 30 inches; yellow perch offered for sale, not less than nine inches; wall-eyed pike, 15 inches; blue pike and saugers. 10 inches; whitefish and lake trout to weigh not less than two pounds dressed, or two pounds, four inches round: herring in Lake Erie, 10 inches.

State and national fish commissions to be permitted to take spawn during closed season.

Sale of speckled and rainbow trout raised in private waters to be permitted.

Having in possession any fresh fish three days after beginning of the closed season to be considered prima facie evidence of guilt.

Fishermen May Form Unions.

There are forty thousand men engaged in the fishing industry in the provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Hitherto they have not felt it necessary to organize themselves into unions, but it seems that the time has now arrived for them to make a move in this direction. Several associations have been formed by the Maine fishermen, and their brethren in New Brunswick are inclined to join the procession.

Big Salmon Deal.

A big salmon deal was completed in Seattle early this month, when the Northwestern Fisheries Co. purchased the entire holdings of red salmon belonging to the defunct Pacific Packing and Navigation Co. for a sum aggregating $500,000.

Fish Gossip.

Years of alarmingly light catches have been followed this Spring by an extraordinary run of luck for the fishing interests of Lake Erie, according to latest correspondence from that locality.

Preparations for the canning of Spring salmon at points along the coast of Northern British Columbia are well under way, and operators have been leaving Vancouver in crowds during the last two weeks.

and Cold Storage News.

Canadian Bacon Situation.

THE domestic market in bacon and cured meats shows a decided improvement this week, the price of hogs having gone to $6.50. Local trade is good, partly on account of the Easter demand and partly on account of the opening of navigation.

The export market is also looking up, quotations for the week ranging from 52 to 57 shillings in sympathy with comparatively light receipts. Canadian packers are of the opinion that the market is perilously near the danger point because of the very large receipts in the United States which will undoubtedly be unloaded in the near future. In Denmark the market continues about on a level with that ruling for the past few weeks. Receipts are moderate and quotations unchanged.

Important Business Change.

MR. J. A. McLEAN, founder of the J. A. McLean Produce Co., Toronto, Colborne street, has sold his interest to J. L. Bowes, who will conduct the business in future. Mr. McLean has accepted a position as manager of the produce department of the Park, Blackwell Co., Toronto, and will devote his entire time to the domestic and export trade of this firm in eggs, butter and cheese. On Monday, April 17, at his home in Berkeley street, Mr. McLean was presented with a complimentary address and a handsomely-engraved gold watch by his old associates as a mark of their esteem and good wishes.

Mr. McLean has been associated with the wholesale provision business for 17 years. He started with the Gunn, Flavelle Co., Front street, Toronto, and served this firm in various capacities until 1895, when he founded the present business at 77 Colborne street, under the firm name of Graham, McLean & Co. In 1898 the name of the firm was changed to J. A. McLean and in 1902 it became the J. A. McLean Produce Co., a limited concern. The special feature of the business carried on by the J. A. McLean Produce Co. is their domestic and export trade in butter and eggs; the latter having been initiated about 3 years ago and having already assumed large proportions.

Mr. J. L. Bowes, the new president and manager of the J. A. McLean Produce Co., has been associated with the firm for about 3 years as one of the directors, during which time he has identified himself more particularly with the export end of the business. He has visited the Old Country several times in connection with the development of Canadian export trade, and always with excellent results. Mr. Bowes' previous business experience was gained with his father, with whom he was associated in the live stock business in Victoria County. The J. A. McLean Produce Co. have further strengthened themselves by the admission of Mr. W. T. Hogg, president of Hogg & Lytle, Oakwood.

J. Y. Griffin & Co. Extending.

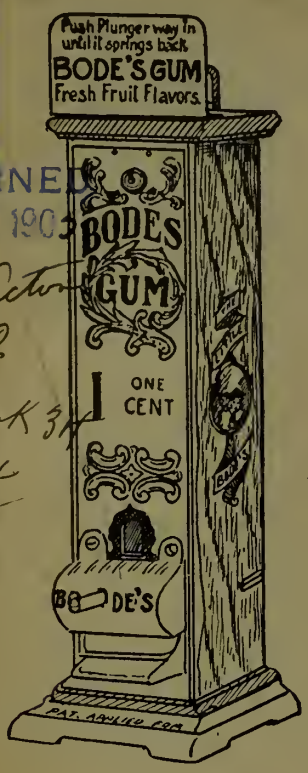
The fire in the J. Y. Griffin & Co. plant in Winnipeg has hastened plans for extension which the management have had in view for some time because of the increasing demands of their business. The present temporary beef plant is to be replaced by another which, in connection with a canning plant, will cost more than $100,000. The new beef plant will be four times the size of the present temporary one and will be completed within two years. The building will be 300 ft. by 60 ft. in dimensions and will be three storeys high. It will be a solid brick structure with all modern improvements,—slaughtering house, refrigerators and storage rooms, etc.

In addition to the beef plant there will be a large canning factory, a branch of the business to which special attention will be paid.

Why Are Eggs Cheap in Winnipeg?

In comparing the ruling price of eggs in Winnipeg and Toronto during the past few weeks, the question may well be asked: "Why are eggs cheaper in Winnipeg than in Toronto?" There are several reasons. In the first place the season is two weeks earlier in the West; this would, however, be offset by the comparatively higher prices prevailing in that market for produce generally. The most significant reason is that the

Mr. J. L. Bowes.



West has been overloaded with eggs since last year and the trade now find themselves in the unenviable position of having to unload at a considerable loss.

Produce Department.

Owing to their large and rapidly-increasing volume of trade in produce, the Park, Blackwell Co., Toronto, have added a number of cold-storage rooms, chilled by machinery, for taking care of large quantities of butter, eggs and cheese for export and local trade.

E. De Montigny has purchased the Occidental Dairy Co.'s butter factory at St. Anne, Man.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Toronto.

Provisions—A better tone is noted in the provision business for the week. Prices are firm, and the presence of Easter week has brought about an increased demand generally. Beef is considerably higher than last week, and the price of hogs, if anything, above that last quoted, namely, $6.25 to $6.50. We quote the following:

Long clear bacon, per lb	$0 09	$0 09½
Smoked breakfast bacon, per lb	0 13	0 13½

Butter—Receipts of butter on this market, although improving, continue light, and barely enough to supply the demand. Prices are high as compared with this time last year; it must be remembered that about Easter time a year ago there was plenty of tub butter on hand, whereas this year the market is bare. Lower prices are expected in the very near future. We quote the following prices:

	Per lb.
Creamery prints	0 24	0 26
" solids, fresh	....	0 24
Dairy prints	0 22	0 23
" large rolls	0 21	0 22

Cheese—The cheese market continues very firm, with the little old stock that remains from last season in comparatively few hands. A few April cheese have been made, but these have been contracted for at the factory at about 10 1-2c., which leaves very little margin between them and old cheese. The export market is firm at about 59s. Our quotations are as follows:

	Per lb.
Cheese, large	....	0 11½
" twins	....	0 12

Montreal.

Provisions—The market maintains a steady tone in all lines. It is expected that this week an improved demand for all kinds of provisions will follow, being the last Lenten week. Spring lamb has made its appearance, and is opening at lower prices than last year on account of the late Easter. Fresh hogs are arriving in good lots. Fresh abattoir-killed hogs are steady at $9.00 to $9.25. Lard is in fair demand. Hams and bacon are in much better demand than for some time past.

Cheese—Trade is quiet locally, with fine white at 12 to 12 1-2c, while fodder cheese is quoted at 11 1-4 to 11 1-2c. There is not much offering, and this is a feature of satisfaction to dealers, who, as a rule, do not encourage traffic in this class of cheese.

Butter—The market eased off a few cents towards end of last week, but has since recovered, and choice fresh milk creamery is quoted at 24 to 24 1-2c. in jobbing way. The output is increasing, and during this week, owing to good Easter demand, no drop is expected. As soon, however, as the factories commence shipping freely, prices will go off considerably.

Eggs—This week business has been good, and the trade is getting in its Easter supply. Held stocks are all cleaned out, and only strictly fresh are being sold. The report that some local commission houses had started pickling is denied, though it is stated that western dealers had commenced pickling.

Butter—Both creamery and dairy butter continue in very brisk demand and in rather scant supply. Prices are firm and advancing, but it is thought that the supply will be sufficient to meet the demand in another fortnight. There should be some profit for dairy butter in the hands of country merchants. We quote following prices to the trade:

Provisions—The market in provisions remains about as reported a week ago, though there have been some declines in prices. Beef has still to be imported, as the native product is not up to the market either in quality or quantity. This week calls for a good display of Easter beef, but it will be largely western. Pork is in good supply, and prices nominal. Veal is plentiful, and there are a few Spring lambs on the market. Fowls, chickens and turkeys are a little more plentiful, but prices are high.

Eggs are now coming forward in good quantities, the fine weather having stimulated production, and prices have declined. On Saturday, fresh-laid colored eggs were retailing at 22 cents, although some were asking 25 cents. The butter market is still strong, with only nominal native receipts.

Provisions—Barrelled pork and beef both tend higher. Pork in particular has of late shown upward tendency. Business is not large. Smoked meats are held at full figures. Pure lard is rather higher. The advance in this line has meant quite an increased demand for refined lard. Fresh beef is tending higher. In veal stock is quite freely offered. Best stock is firm. Some lamb is seen, but price is very high. There is a fair inquiry for fresh mutton. Pork is firm at full figures.

Your Store is Judged

by the quality of the goods you sell. Low prices are a temporary help, but high quality builds up permanent trade. Remember what a famous philosopher once said, "You can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

When you sell Windsor Salt (pure, white, dry, crystaline), you are establishing confidence in the quality of all the other goods you sell. You are building up permanent trade with Windsor Salt—establishing a reputation for high quality. "Your store is judged by the quality of the goods you sell."

SIGNS ON STORES.

THE complaint is heard from time to time that country merchants do not pay sufficient attention to advertising their place of business as such to the casual passer-by; that very often they have no business sign at all in front of their stores, and when they can boast of one it is more likely than not to be so weather-beaten as to be unintelligible.

Such a state of affairs is entirely without reason. A grocer may manage to eke out a living from the trade in his immediate vicinity, even supposing the general public are ignorant of the fact that he is in such and such a place to do business. But can he be said to be serving the community in the truest sense when he has not enough interest in probable customers to keep them enlightened as to where they may find "John Smith's" grocery store?

No enterprising grocer would think of leaving himself liable to such a charge, and, as a matter of fact, the number of tradesmen in this country who have is very small. The minority deserve to be reminded that in failing to serve the consuming public they are neglecting their own interests, and in these days no live grocer can afford to lose sight of a single one of the many ways of attracting trade, to say nothing of neglecting to advertise his place of business by means of a conspicuous signboard.

DEATH FROM HEART FAILURE.

NEW YORK doctors have noticed a startling increase in the number of sudden deaths from heart failure in the city during the first three months of the year. These deaths or the majority of them they attribute directly to the tense life lead nowadays by dwellers in large cities. While the general death rate has been remarkably reduced, through the wonderful aavances made in medicine and surgery, the number of deaths from this other cause has been steadily increasing.

The simple truth is that men are living too strenuously. They eat too fast, they work too hard, they play too hard, and they sleep too little. Sermons could be preached on each one of these heads, but the mere statements should carry conviction.

Even in our Canadian cities, small though they are as compared with New York, the evil is a noticeable and a growing one. Business is carried on with more strain than it used to be and the increased strain is carried into all departments of life. The very multiplication of facilities and labor-saving devices has tended to make the brain and the body work harder. Let warning be taken before it is too late.

NINETY THOUSAND MEN WANTED

Manitoba is calling for 90,000 men, and the request is urgent. This is the intimation given by the Government Immigration Agent of the province, who is in the closest touch with existing circumstances. Here are chances and possibilities and prospects for men crowded in the uncongenial environment of the cities to secure work that is conducive to mental and bodily vigor. There is little excuse for idleness with such a call at hand, and it is hoped that it may reach the ears of those ready to listen, and be answered by many whose condition will be bettered and who will have cause to be thankful for the change.

RAILWAY DISCRIMINATIONS.

THE recent report of the Ontario Railway Commission favoring the taxation of railway property brings up an important subject for consideration during the present session of the Ontario Legislature. It is necessary that every section of industry should bear its fair share of taxation, regardless of whether the interests are corporate or private. For years the railways have escaped the payment of taxes upon their productive property, while the small business man has been paying his own share as well as that of the shirkers.

Another question of importance is that of discrimination in freight rates. Every merchant knows of cases where favor has been shown certain interests or sections of the country to the disadvantage of others. Only this session has it been up for discussion in the House of Commons. A short time ago a mass of evidence was produced to show that the rates on agricultural products leaving the country were arbitrary, and on many products excessive. The rates on commodities were dealt with. The export rates on these manufactured articles were found to be from 50 to 60 per cent. higher than the import rates—that is, the American or other foreign manufacturer could send goods to Canadian customers over Canadian railroad lines at rates 40 to 50 per cent. below those exacted from the Canadian manufacturer. Members from the Northwest have also had something to say about freight rates there.

SHOULD COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS BE TAXED?

THE following letter from a prominent firm of importers and wholesale grocers in Victoria, B.C., is significant in view of the legislation against commercial travelers from Eastern Canada, which has just come into force in British Columbia:

Editor The Canadian Grocer—

Under separate cover I am sending you a copy of the "Daily Colonist," in which you will see an editorial comment on "The Commercial Travelers' Tax," which is now in force in British Columbia. This was prompted by your editorial on the same subject in your issue of March 31, and I think, in justice to the merchants and manufacturers of this province, that you should give this editorial a like privilege in one of your future issues.

H. G. WILSON.

Victoria, B.C. April 13, 1905.

The editorial referred to appeared in the Victoria Colonist of April 13, and is as follows:

The Canadian Grocer of recent date reflects in its editorial columns the hostility which has been aroused in Eastern Canada in wholesale centres against the action of the British Columbia Legislature in imposing a tax of $100 per annum on commercial travelers doing business in this province. The Grocer a few weeks ago condemned this action on the ground that British Columbia had no right to discriminate against Eastern Canadian houses, and that the national interests of Canada required a perfectly free intercourse of trade between the various provinces, and it reminds its readers again "that the successful working out of the scheme of Confederation postulates unrestricted and unhampered trade and intercourse between the people of the different provinces, and that anything that does not conserve this end cannot be viewed as other than a barrier in the way of our commercial development as a nation." It regards the tax as a short-sighted policy and contrary to the spirit of Confederation.

Manufacturers and wholesalers in the East whose interests are affected by this bill have sent deputations of commercial travelers, from various centres, to Ottawa to interview the Minister of Trade and Commerce.

They claim that the imposition of the $100 tax is a violation of the British North America Act and a restriction upon trade, and have asked the Dominion Government to veto a measure that cannot do other than injustice to the wholesale manufacturing and mercantile interests throughout the Dominion. It was pointed out by these gentlemen that, roughly estimated, the imposition of this tax will mean an annual outlay to the merchants of Toronto alone of over $14,000.

The question of the constitutionality of this tax is one which can easily be decided by reference to the courts, but we hardly think the Minister of Justice will take the responsibility of advising the disallowance of an Act which appeared, to the British Columbia Legislature at least, to be clearly within its rights. In fact, there is not much doubt about it.

Naturally, the eastern wholesaler and commercial man will oppose anything that increases the expense of doing business in this province or elsewhere, but there are other considerations involved. It is very well to talk of the free interchange of products throughout the Dominion and the undesirability of imposing restrictions upon trade. It is forgotten, however, that, by reason of the position that British Columbia occupies in Confederation, the benefits of interprovincial trade are wholly one-sided. While British Columbia pays 8 per cent. of the price of Confederation it gets in return 1 per cent. of its trade benefits.

Let us consider how the matter of the tax works out in connection with our own commercial interests. One of the serious complaints of the late Assessment Act by the commercial community was that while the local merchant and manufacturer were taxed upon their stocks as personal property by the Provincial Government and at the same time were made to pay heavily to the municipalities for their realty, the commercial traveler from the east could come in with his samples, sell in competition and enjoy all the benefits of the local market without contributing a cent to provincial or municipal treasuries. We need not go into an exhaustive comparison between the conditions here and in the east and consider the handicaps imposed upon our trade and industry of this province by these conditions, which include sparseness of population, isolation, high freights, dear labor, etc., etc. The eastern wholesaler and manufacturer have enjoyed the freedom of our market, which is one of the most profitable in the Dominion. The British Columbia manufacturer and wholesaler enjoy few, if any, of the advantages of reciprocity with the rest of Canada.

Can the eastern man, if in these circumstances, complain that, in doing business in British Columbia he is asked to share a small portion of the burden cast upon the local men with whom he comes in competition? If the commercial travelers should have to pay even $15,000 or $20,000 a year for a trade which is worth many millions of dollars, as a business transaction, we do not think they have any grievance. Would they not willingly pay a much larger sum to reach any other market which offered the same advantages that British Columbia does?

It is evident that the wholesale merchants and manufacturers of British Columbia will have a certain amount of protection under the new Act which they did not enjoy before. But as to the injustice of local firms being subject to a tax upon stocks carried by the Provincial Government and liable to a heavy realty tax from their municipality while the eastern traveler comes in as a free lance to compete with them on their own ground, there is room for argument. It must not be forgotten that the eastern wholesaler or manufacturer also pays heavy taxes at home, and that the visits of his traveling representatives to British Columbia are not entirely barren of beneficial results to the West.

As to the claim that British Columbia enjoys no benefit from unrestricted interprovincial trade it will scarcely be contended by British Columbia houses that they do not profit from the trade they have worked up in the Territories and Manitoba, to say nothing of the business connection they have established in the east. It looks threateningly like penny wisdom and pound foolishness on the part of western business men to have even attempted to exclude eastern Canadian merchants from British Columbia. Surely they have no desire to bring about an entire segregation of British Columbia from eastern Canada in matters of trade. There may, of course, be local circumstances to be taken into account of which we are not cognizant; in the meanwhile The Grocer still holds that the Government authorities and the business men of the Pacific province have consulted their immediate interests rather than their own best interests, and that of Canada as a nation in allowing the Commercial Travelers' Act to become law. The reading columns of The Grocer are open for discussion on this vital subject.

KEEP PLYING THE OARS.

The most successful advertisers of this country are the steady advertisers; the men who plan campaigns in great detail; the men who have started advertising in a modest way and have increased their appropriations as the results became apparent. These men have never been foolhardy enough to believe that they could scale the heights of prosperity at a single bound, or could count on past advertising to carry them along on "downy beds of ease" through the present. Advertising gathers force as it goes—stop it for any length of time and you have to make up for the loss of momentum. The merchant or manufacturer who drops his advertising during dull seasons is dropping his oars in midstream and letting the current bear him backwards.—Printers' Ink.

RETAIL GROCERS' CONVENTION

THE first annual Provincial Convention of the Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada was held in the board room of the Association at Toronto commencing on Wednesday afternoon, April 12, at 2 o'clock. Over 100 delegates were present.

After addresses of welcome by President S. Corrigan of the Toronto branch, and Chairman Geo. Good of the Grocers' Section of the Toronto branch, F. C. Higgins, chairman of the Provincial Committee, delivered a thoughtful address on the needs of the grocery trade. He believed the time had arrived when retail grocers should recognize that meetings of this sort were as much a part of the individual business of grocers as was their daily occupation. He stated that several important questions would come before the meeting, and he wished every member would give them very careful consideration. He desired also to say that he believed he was expressing the views of everyone present when he stated that they had not met for the purpose of fault-finding or raising antagonism against any other portion of the grocery trade, because he believed that the retail trade could only be improved as they worked in harmony with the wholesale and manufacturing interests. But by working in harmony he did not mean that they should accept all terms and conditions presented to them without passing an opinion upon them. He felt that the retail grocers of the Dominion were quite capable of understanding their requirements, and that the trade as a whole could only be benefited by the manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers all working in harmony under some intelligent methods and through properly-conducted organizations. He hoped that next year when they met again, they could point to a great deal of good work that had been brought about through their gathering to-day.

The proposed amendments to the Pedlars' and Hawkers' Act, as proposed by the Dominion Board, were then taken up, and with a few slight alterations unanimously adopted. Considerable discussion took place on the proposed amendments to the Transient Traders' Act as suggested by the Dominion Board, which were also carried unanimously. The proposed amendments to the Trading Stamp Act whereby the present Act would be amended so as to abolish all coupons, premiums, and all gift schemes, were unanimously adopted and the Dominion Board heartily congratulated on the efforts they had put forth to have this system abolished.

In reference to the Division Court Act, the only change made was to increase the fee to 50c. instead of 25c. as originally proposed, and to reduce the amount of salary to be allowed a debtor from $7 to $6.

Thursday Session.

The Thursday morning session opened with a continued discussion on the Pedlars' and Hawkers' License Act, which lasted until 11.30, when the committee adjourned and waited in a body upon the Honorable W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, and the Ministers of the Crown. There was a large delegation present. They were introduced by Mr. Geo. Pattison, M.P.P., for South Waterloo. The case was presented by E. M. Trowern, the Dominion Secretary, who asked for four amendments to the Municipal Act. (1) That the Pedlars' and Hawkers' License Act be amended. (2) That the Transient Traders' Act be amended. (3) That the Trading Stamp Act be amended. (4) That the Division Court Act be amended.

The following speakers then endorsed the need of the amendments: J. F. Clark, Port Hope; J. McMillan, Bracebridge; Hy. Foulds, Brantford; C. A. Nairn, Goderich; Alderman Steveley, London; G. S. Klein, Hamilton; R. S. Ford, Petrolia; Geo. Vicars, Barrie; Mayor E. Y. Godfrey, Meaford.

The afternoon session was opened at two o'clock when the resolutions and reports of committees were presented as follows:

Resolutions on Trade Subjects.

Resolution 1—That the practice adopted by some manufacturers of placing a set retail price on their goods and advertising them without giving the retail trade a fair profit, and without consulting the retail trade, is an injurious practice and that it should be considered by this meeting.

Resolution 2—That as the retail grocer's profit is so small in proportion to the great amount of work that he is compelled to do, it be strongly urged upon the meeting the desirability of having as many goods as possible placed upon the Price Contract Plan.

In reference to the above, the meeting resolved, that the practice of some manufacturers advertising their goods to be sold at a retail price that does not give the retailer a fair reward for his labor be condemned, and that all manufacturers be recommended to adopt the Price Contract Plan and consult with the Association before doing so. Carried.

Resolution 3—That the system adopted by some wholesale houses of selling direct to consumers is unfair and that the Association recommend the secretary write to the Wholesale Guild and all other wholesale houses or associations, both fruit and produce, drawing their attention to this abuse and asking for its discontinuance.

Resolution 4—It is the opinion of the grocers present that goods in bulk are preferable to package goods, and that, excepting those package goods sold on the price-current plan, the Association should recommend bulk goods to be pushed and sold in preference.

Resolution 5—That it is desirable that some system should be adopted whereby dishonest salesmen could be reported, and that in the case of a dishonest salesman or driver, his or her case should be reported to the Secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association and the Secretary or some other person of the Retail Merchants' Association investigate the matter and hold all information for all members.

Resolution 6—Are the methods adopt by the Wholesale Grocers' Guilds or Associations beneficial to the retail trade? The meeting resolved that the methods adopted by the Wholesale Grocers' Guilds or Associations are not in the best interests of the retail grocers, if the retailers are not consulted and made a party to all trade arrangements.

Resolutions on Legislation.

Resolution 1—That the proposed legislation brought in to the Provincial Legislature by the Council of the City of Toronto, whereby all fruits, meats, etc. shall be kept inside and not exposed in any manner, is injurious legislation for the grocery and fruit trade, and that this meeting oppose it, believing that the officials of all municipalities should make special efforts to keep the public streets clean before they ask the trade to cover up their goods.

Resolution 2—That the Legislation Committee be requested to look into the possibility of having the law amended in reference to grocery salesmen going from town to town taking orders for delivery from city stores. This resolution was approved and transfered to the Legislative Committee of the Provincial Board.

Resolution 3—That the weight of a bag of potatoes be determined so that we can have uniformity in all provinces. This was unanimously approved and transferred to the Dominion Board to take it up at Ottawa.

Resolution 4—That it is advisable to have the Adulteration Act amended, so that the manufacturers can be compelled to label the quality of their goods, and hold them, and not the retail grocer, responsible for the quality. This was also approved and transferred to the Dominion Board to take it up at Ottawa.

Resolution 5—The Association consider the present system of scales inspection an injustice to the retail merchants, and think this a very important matter and should be brought before Parliament and adjusted. As this matter is now being dealt with by the Dominion Board, the Association express their hearty approval of their action in taking it up, and promise them their best support.

Resolution 6—That in the opinion of the Convention the encouragement of the sale of pure foods and the discouragement of impure foods will encourage the manufacturers to bring their products to a standard of purity. Unanimously approved.

Election of Officers.

The election of officers then took place, which was as follows: Chairman, F. C. Higgins, Toronto; first vice-chairman, J. O. Carpenter, Hamilton; second vice-chairman, H. C. Ellis, Ottawa; treasurer, F. Darnley, Preston; secretary, E. M. Trowern, Toronto.

Among the delegates present were the following: Jas. Burns (Brantford), H. A. Foulds (Brantford), T. H. Broad (Aurora), Fred C. Harp (Brantford), R. Harcourt (Guelph), J. C. Irwin (Barrie), W. J. Moisley (Thorold), T. C. Allen (Wiarton), D. J. Cheyne (Windsor), A. T. Lawler (Whitby), D. J. Mills (Sarnia), John Scott (Woodstock), John M. McMillan (Bracebridge), J. W. Boyle (Dundas), G. H. O. MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Groceries.

Montreal, Thursday, April 20, 1905.

A REVIEW of the trade generally shows a distinct quietness. There is no "snap" as yet apparent, but as is usual just prior to the opening of navigation and the putting into effect of the Summer railway rates, trade always is on the dull side. Many outside buyers are holding off their heavy orders until the river is clear for vessels. The ice has moved down stream, and in a few days the commencement of activity on the waterfront will inaugurate livelier business. Many jobbers have good orders booked for first sailings of river and coastwise trade. Business from the Maritime Provinces is slow of coming in and the outlook for heavy trade not good. Travelers returning west report conditions in the east as dull; the terrible Winter experienced has had a serious effect on trade, and the fisheries are none too good. In grocery circles an improvement is noted in teas. The scarcity of Ceylon greens and the strong tone of Ceylon blacks, as well as improved business in Japans, is noted. Sugars are unchanged and business quiet. Fish are none too active. The Finnan Haddie Packers' Combine is confirmed; in the strict sense of the word "combine" is not applicable to the new move of the packers, as owing to heavy losses in the past four years it was only a question of getting together and readjusting selling prices and terms, or close up the canneries. One of the largest packers stated to The Grocer that rather than sell at the ruinously-low prices of the past few seasons he would close up. As the output is practically only a limited one there does not seem to be any occasion for packing at a loss, and as the prices arranged for this season are close, the trade generally can endorse the action of the packers. Spices and coffees are unchanged, though mild coffees are thought likely to be advanced. Statistically such an advance is warranted. In dried fruits, business is dull and featureless. The auction sale last week of damaged shelled walnuts and almonds ex Parisian, caused some interest, but none of these goods were bought hy the wholesale trade, all of them being taken up hy the manufacturers. Provisions of all kinds are in good demand this week. Butter, which eased off a few cents towards end of last week, has recovered and choice fresh-milk creamery is selling at 24 to 24½c. Eggs are selling freely, the usual Easter week demand taking all that are offering. Cheese is dull and little trading done.

SUGAR.

Locally there has been no change in the conditions prevailing last week. Business is quiet, both with refiners and jobbing trade. Orders from the country are small and there does not seem to be an inclination on the part of the trade to stock. The foreign beet market from last reports has tended easier, though not sufficiently to warrant any change in prices here. New York aiso is fairly easy in tone for raws, though it is not anticipated that any change of any extent is to be looked for.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The strong feeling continues in Barbadoes. There has been no change in prices, however, though at the figures the jobbing trade are selling at, it is not leaving them much margin on basis of cost of new goods. Reports from the Islands continue strong, and it should not surprise us to have to report another addance in the near future. Antigua molasses has also advanced, and is to-day quoted at 35c. Corn syrups are receiving a good deal of attention, on account of the high price of molasses.

TEA.

Trade on the whole has not been very active, although there have been quite a number of inquiries for Japans at 12c. to 12½c. Ceylon and Indian greens are also in quiet form. The local market is lower than London and better prices are being realized there. Considerable business has been done in Ceylon blacks in the London market during the past week and there is also a better demand here for these. China greens are selling slightly better. The market now has an upward tendency and larger trade is looked for in these teas in tne near future. Gunpowders, medium and high grade, are also being looked to for better business.

There is a fair demand for coffees with prices firm. It is generally thought, however, they will go higher in a short while. The general feeling is that mild coffees are likely to take an advance; stocks are none too plentiful.

CANNED GOODS.

Business is quiet. Orders are small and little demand for anything outside of tomatoes, corn, beans, with here and there a few orders for canned fruits. Salmon, lobsters and finnan haddies are selling fairly well, as is to be expected during the Lenten season. The report that the packers of finnan haddies were contemplating getting together for the purpose of placing the business on a more satisfactory and paying basis, is confirmed and the new regulations will in a measure recoup them for the heavy losses sustained in the past. It has long been evident that the goods were being packed at a loss, and some measure looking to the preservation and continuance of the industry was absolutely necessary. Even at the present quotation of $4 a case the margin is small. The present catch is small and prices will, no doubt, tend higher rather than break.

Foreign Dried Fruits.

Foreign dried fruit market is sluggish. Business in all lines continues quiet, the only item of interest during the week having been the auction sales of damaged nuts, ex Parisian. Prices realized were naturally low and the stock was absorbed entirely by manufacturers who alone could utilize the goods in such damaged condition. The stock consisted principally of shelled walnuts, which sold at about an average of 3c. a pound, and shelled almonds at 4c. a pound. Currants are slightly easier. Valencia raisins are quiet, but stocks are getting gradually reduced and we hear of some inquiries locally.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Groceries.

Toronto, April 21, 1905.

WITH business conditions improving in the country, the grocery trade is beginning to assume its wonted air of activity after the quiet Winter season. Boats will be leaving for upper lake ports by the end of this week or the first of next, which means that regular communication has been established again with the retail trade throughout Northern Ontario and the West. Additional impetus to business and particularly in produce has been given on account of next week being Easter time.

Canned goods continue firm with tomatoes moving freely and American goods coming to hand in larger volume than usual for cheaper trade. Canned fruits also show improved demand, slight shadings being noted in the pack outside of combination goods. The demand for sugar is only fair, and the markets in the United States and Europe are developing additional weakness. There is a scarcity of figs on spot and consequently a slight firming in prices. Evaporated apples are ½c. easier than last week. Second arrivals of Behring Sea dried and cured fish for the season are recorded this week. Beans are slightly easier and a scarcity in red clover is reported together with inquiries for flint corn.

CANNED GOODS.

A very active market is reported in tomatoes for the week, American goods having been again imported on a large scale. Canned fruits are also beginning to move very freely. This is largely on account of supplies of domestic canned fruits having reached a pretty low ebb in the country. Among the orders for the opening of navigation was a particularly large volume of canned fruit orders to go to points along the north shore of Ontario. In canned fruits, particularly cherries, Lawton berries, peaches, pears, pineapples, plums, raspberries, strawberries and blueberries, quotations are being given by some members of the wholesale trade below regular market quotations on goods outside the combination. Readers of The Grocer may find these by referring to special advertisements which appear from time to time. Our quotations are as follows:

SUGAR.

The more hopeful features of last week's report have not been borne out by later developments, and since then the generak tendency of the market has been towards weakness, the easier feel- the general tendency of the market has evidently by a considerable falling off in the consumption. According to British Board of Trade returns the decrease in consumption during the month of March alone was 50,000 tons, and the figures for all Europe from September to March 1, showed a decrease of 140,269 tons, as compared with the same period in last campaign. Almost similar conditions prevail in the United States, although it is practically impossible to arrive at the actual figures as the decline in consumption would be shown in invisible supplies were it possible to arrive at statistics. These conditions combined with the fact that Cuba has still about one half the crop to market may compel the planters to make considerable concessions in order to place sugars. This may be further necessary owing to the large holdings of the U.S. refiners which, according to the latest advices, were 253,531 tons, or, say, little more than two months' supply. At one time it appeared as if refiners would re-enter the market and make considerable purchases, but they quickly changed their attitude on receipt of offerings from Europe of 50,000 tons 88 per cent. beet at a figure considerably below public quotations, thus indicating a desire on the part of holders to unload. The selling pressure in Europe has evidently continued and prices are to-day 1 shilling per cwt. below those of a week ago.

The liquidation of contracts has carried prices down to 13s. 6½d f.o.b. Hamburg, equivalent to parity of 4⅞c. duty paid New York for 96 test centrifugals. Last transactions in canes have been at 3 7-16 c. and f., equal to 4,13-16c. duty paid, thus evidencing the intention of holders of cane sugar to meet competition from Europe.

It is difficult to predict the future in view of the present demoralization, but it is evident that sugar is rapidly getting down to a solid basis from which it should be possible to foresee the developments of the next few months. Recent estimates of the present Cuban crop indicate that it will probably turn out from 100,000 to 150,000 tons less than the original estimate of 1,200,000 tons. There has been considerable rain on the Island, thus hastening the termination of the crop, and during the week ending April 18, five more central factories ceased operation. There are now 155 centrals grinding compared with 159 at the same time last year.

U. S. refined sugar has declined 10c. per hundred pounds since April 12. No change has been made in the official list, but some refiners started to give concessions and to-day the net cash quotation is 5.90 per lb. as compared with 6c. a week ago.

Mr. F. C. Licht estimates sowings of all Europe for the coming campaign as 13 per cent. larger than last year, but this has been generally expected for a long time and has had practically no effect on the market.

Combined stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates were 2,800,477 tons as compared with 3,464,000 for the corresponding period a year ago, a decrease of 663,523 tons, which is practically all in continental countries. On this side of the Atlantic there has been an increase of 166,477 tons over last year.

There are no changes to record in Canadian refined; quotations and the situation remain practically as at last advised with no special indications for the immediate future, though, no doubt, operators here are closely watching the trend of events in the leading markets. COFFEES.

Local trade in coffee is reported quiet for the week. Buying on the part of wholesalers is also on the quiet side in view of the fact that they are expecting lower prices, following the recent advance which was occasioned partly owing to the rise in Brazil exchange. As a matter of fact Rio coffee can be bought more cheaply in New York than in Brazil at the present time. The unloading of May options is about done and the speculative market is ruling at about 8c. for Rios in New York. We quote the following prices:

TEAS.

A good movement in teas is reported for the week. Additional interest has been lent to the foreign market by the closing by the Japanese of Kelung, the principal shipping port of Formosa, which has had considerable influence on the speculative market, some of the trade being apprehensive of a delay in exports of new crop Formosa tea.

Foreign Dried Fruits.

Prunes continue to move into consumption freely; the only other interesting feature is the scarcity of dates on the local market and increased inquiries for the same. Hallowees are exhausted in London and most Canadian houses are without stock. A few Sairs are still available on spot and are being sold at hardening prices. Currants are reported weaker in Patras. EVAPORATED APPLES.

The evaporated apple market is slightly easier than last week, a few lots having changed hands as low as 6½ to 7 cents. We quote, accordingly, these prices to the trade:

BIRD SEED.

Conditions on this market remain practically unchanged. We quote the following prices:

Canary seed, per lb	0 06½
Hemp "	0 05½
Cottam's	0 08
Brock's	0 07½

DRIED AND CURED FISH.

Dried and cured fish are not attracting special attention this week with the possible exception of cod. The second consignment of Behring Sea fish for the season of 1905 is reported this week, including whole cod and cod strips in one and two-lb packages, halibut strips and cutlets, smoked salmon, lobsters, crabs, clams and smelts, which are being distributed by the wholesale dealers. We quote the following prices:

Boneless fisb, per lb	....	0 04½

Country Produce.

EGGS.

An improved demand is noted owing to the proximity of Easter week and supplies of eggs are coming in comparatively freely. Some of the packers are beginning to pickle, fearing that the price will not come down to the regular level sufficiently early. Eggs should be bought at about 10c. for pickling in order to be a sure investment. This is out of the question so far on account of dealers going through the country gathering up eggs at from 13 to 14c. It is thought that there will be a flush of eggs by May 1, and that there will be plenty of time yet to gather supplies for the pickling season which lasts about two months. We quote the following:

New laid eggs, per doz	0 14	0 15

BEANS.

The bean market is slightly easier for the week and trade is quiet with no particular indications. Our quotations are as follows:

Beans, handpicked, per busb	1 85	1 90
" prime, No. 1	1 70	1 75
" prime, No. 2	1 55	1 60
" Lima, per lb	0 07	0 07½

HONEY.

The volume of business in honey during the week has been comparatively small and this article has ceased to attract much attention for the time being. Our quotations are as follows:

Honey, extracted clover, per lb	0 07½	0 08
" sections, No 1, per doz	1 90	2 00
" " No. 2. "	....	1 65
" Buckwheat, per lb	0 05	0 06

SEEDS.

Clover seeding in Central Ontario is now over for this season, having been from ten days to a fortnight earlier than last year. Red clover is scarce and the markets are firm. Considerable inquiry is noted for flint corn which is quoted below as follows:

Alsike clover, per busb	5 00 9 00
Red clover	8 00 10 00
Mammotb clover, per bush	7 00 11 00
Timothy	1 50 2 50

MAPLE PRODUCTS.

A brisk trade for the week is reported in maple products at unchanged prices. Our quotations are as follows:

Fish and Oysters.

Seasonable demand for fresh fish of all kinds is noted with no new varieties on the market. On account of the late-

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS MEET.

THE Toronto Retail Grocers' Association held their regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, April 17, in the Temple Building. This is the first time the Association have met in their new quarters, and the event was celebrated in right royal fashion at the conclusion of the business meeting proper. The "Red Room," which will be the official home of the Association in future, is in every way suited to the purpose, and if Monday's meeting is any criterion, the new environment is going to add materially to the interest taken in the executive work of the Association. About sixty members and their friends were present and the keenest interest taken in the discussion from start to finish.

A report was received from the At-Home Committee showing a surplus of $95. The annual At-Home this year was the most successful financially ever held by the Association. The question of the annual Summer excursion came up for consideration and was handed over to the executive.

The principal order of business was a discussion on the Pedlars' By-law. The grocers are of the opinion that the city market should be made the headquarters of people who drive in from the country to sell produce and vegetables. As it is at present such pedlars are allowed to dispose of their stuff as suits their own convenience. No such latitude is allowed pedlars in any other Canadian city. In Hamilton, for instance, they are compelled to pay market fees, and to remain in the market until 2 p.m., after which they may peddle from house to house. On a motion by F. Johnston and D. Bell, it was decided to take action on this matter at the next regular meeting of the Association.

Among the traveling men who joined in the social entertainment that concluded the business meeting were: J. Mortimer, of Christie, Brown & Co.; C. Hayes, of Perkins, Ince & Co., S. McGiffin, of McWilliam & Everist, C. Wilson, of Todhunter & Mitchell, and E. Oke, of Clemes Bros.

BRITISH COLUMBIA CONDITIONS.

Vancouver, B.C., April 13, 1905.

ALL the butchering business carried on for the service of the City of Vancouver will soon be done in a modern abattoir under the positive instructions of the provincial medical health department. For years the question as to appliances and places for slaughtering cattle for the market has been a troublesome matter in this city. Recently the city authorities enlisted the aid of the provincial health department, for the reason that some of the butchers had slaughter houses outside the city limits. A direct result has been the positive order from the provincial health officer to provide proper places within two months, or at least show that such places are under construction. His suggestion was that all combine to put up one large and thoroughly modern abattoir.

P. Burns & Co., who have branch butcher shops all over the West, and whose abattoir in Calgary is perhaps the largest and most up-to-date in Canada, have announced that they are going ahead with the erection of a modern abattoir in the city, on what is known as the old "smelter site" on the harbor front. The manager, Mr. Dominick Burns, announces that his company is prepared to make arrangements whereby all the other butchers can do their killing there also. The new structure will be largely built of cement and concrete, and it will have capacity sufficient to meet all possible demands for many years, allowing for a rapid growth in the city as well.

As the season advances in the North it is difficult to hear of the progress of affairs in Atlin and Dawson until after the opening of navigation. However, this week The Grocer received a letter from the representative of one of the Vancouver wholesale houses, who is on his way in to Dawson for the Summer. He says in part, in his letter, which is dated April 1st, from White Horse:

"Before leaving you asked me to send you the news of the North: Well, so far there is not much to send. I found Atlin district very quiet; there is very little work going on there outside of Spruce and Boulder Creeks. There have been some very good 'dumps' taken out on the former during the Winter, and they all claim to have good pay dirt in them. If correct that should make things good during the Spring clean-up months. On Boulder they have been sluicing more or less all Winter. There are not many individual mines there, the principal concern being the Black & Grant Co., which is operating in a large way. They have had a very difficult proposition, deep ground, boulders and water coming in. They expect to close down in June for a time. The large operators on Pine, Willow and Gold Bottom Creeks have not yet started up, nor has the big hydraulic company on McKee Creek.

"Although it has been a very quiet Winter for the merchants of Atlin, they all look forward to a good Summer trade. This town (White Horse) is very quiet, nothing but a little transient trade at present. A number of the Dawson merchants are here with outfits of goods, having them freighted across the ice on Lake Labarge ready to get down the river as soon as the ice goes out, which, as you know, is earlier on the river than on the lake. The river is expected to be open very early this year."

Because Eastern Canada and the Northwest cannot supply the demands of the B.C. market for fresh creamery butter (price no object with British Columbians as long as the goods are up to the mark), the deficiency is being supplied from outside points this Spring. For a long time it has been impossible to bring in California butter at a profit, but this year, the extreme shortage of the butter market here, together with fairly good supply in California, bringing price there down somewhat, there have been a number of heavy importations.

New Zealand has also been shipping butter this last two or three trips of the Australian steamers. By the Miowera, which arrived to-day, the local dealers received some fairly large consignments. Prices of California are quoted at 28c. and 29c., the same as Eastern. The New Zealand is slightly higher. Local creameries are beginning to turn out very much increased quantities as the season is advancing rapidly. The two at Chilliwack are shipping heavily to this city every week. The new creamery at Port Hammond for the Maple Ridge district has commenced operations.

In fruits, the apple stock of local growth is about out for this year. Tasmanians come in by the Australian boats, but the present is rather too early to expect them. California oranges are slightly higher this week. Some blood oranges are in the last shipments.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

April 18, 1905.

NAVIGATION may be said to be open. The river steamers have made a start. There are some seven lines of steamers running up the St. John River and its tributaries. Several of the runs are long, taking six to ten hours for the trip one way. Beside the freight business the tourist business is large. The ice is now out of even the up bay ports, and the various coasting steamers and schooners are busy taking forward Spring and Summer supplies. The Winter port is about closed. The last steamers are either in or due. Already efforts are being made to increase our facilities for next Winter; this is made the more necessary because of the increased size of the steamers coming. Where we could dock three steamers last year, now the same space will dock but two.

Salt.

Liverpool coarse salt is held very firm. There is a fair stock, and just a fair demand. In fine salt there is improved sale, particularly for Canadian.

Canned Goods.

There is good business reported. Some American corn is now on the market. American prices are quite low. Corn in that market is rather easier. While prices are firmly held and stocks are not large, these things prevent prices advancing. Canadian goods will, however, command better prices than American. Peas are a fair stock. Fruits are plentiful. Salmon is unchanged. Oysters are firm. Meats are the same as last year. Domestic fish is unchanged. There is but little to offer except sardines. Prices are kept too low. New-canned clams and scallops are offered. The latter a light pack.

Green Fruits.

Oranges are dearer than usual at this season. There are practically no Valencias. Californias have advanced, and small sizes are hard to get. There are but few other kinds offered. Lemons are low and very slow selling. Apples have but a fair sale. Prices quite low. Bananas are plentiful and cheap. Green stuff is now coming in, as rhubarb, cucumbers, strawberries, etc. Of course these are imported.

Dried Fruit.

There is but a fair business. Seeded raisins are low and full stocks held. There is some inquiry for loose muscatels. These are quite firm. In prunes there is a fair sale, with prices low. Small sizes are rather hard to get. Apricots and peaches are too high for business. Dates are rather higher. Peels are higher. Figs are very slow at any price. Currants have a fair sale, price unchanged. Evaporated apples are firm. Some Canadian stock is being imported from England. In onions first shipments of Egyptians are here. Prices at first were high, but there has been quite a decline. Old American onions, quite good stock, still offered. There is quite a large sale.

Fish.

In fresh fish some gaspereaux are now offered. Price is still quite high. Very nice halibut can now be bought. Haddock quite scarce. In dry fish prices are still very high. Stocks are small. Pickled herring are also very firmly held. Smoked are quite low.

Flour, Feed and Seed.

Flour is held at the lower price named last week. It seems rather strange that prices should be lower, as wheat is, if anything, higher. Feed is quite high; there is a fair demand. Oats are not quite as firm. Oatmeal is unchanged. It is a long time since so large a stock was held, chiefly American meal. Cornmeal is rather lower. Beans are unchanged. In seeds there is quite a large business. Clovers are higher and quite hard to get. Mammoth seems to have increased demand. This year's timothy, while firm, is little changed.

WE wish to thank our many friends for their kind sympathy on the death of our late father, J. A. Mathewson. Owing to his objection to the continuing of anyone's initials in a business after their death, we, William Black Mathewson, Samuel James Mathewson and James Adams Mathewson, his sons and partners for many years in the wholesale grocery business, have registered as the continuing firm under the style of "MATHEWSON'S SONS," with ample capital, and owning outright the historic premises 200, 202, 204, and 206 McGill Street, Montreal.

We solicit from our friends a continuance of the trade so generously placed there with the Mathewsons since 1834, and hope to merit it. The traditions of the firm will be adhered to. We will not handle tobacco, liquor or adulterated goods, but in every other respect will compete on modern lines.

National Cash Registers make careful and ambitious clerks. Your clerks will welcome the handling of the five most important daily transactions in your store—cash sales, credit sales, money received on account, money paid out and money changed—by an accurate, automatic system. Each clerk has his separate cash-drawer so that he is only responsible for the transactions which he handles.

Lighten the burden placed on your clerks and you have their good will.

The good will of an employe means greater efficiency. This brings satisfied customers, increased business and more profits.

A National Cash Register furnishes a complete system for handling the transactions in any retail store.

Let one of our representatives call on you and explain our system to you.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

(Market quotations corrected by te'egraph up till 12 a.m., Thursday, Arpil 20th, 1905.)

A FURTHER improvement in the general feeling of the grocery market and in the volume of business transacted is reported this week. Collections are still the subject of complaint by crcdit men, but, upon the whole, there seems to have been some improvement. The opening of lake navigation is close at hand, and when the lake and rail routes are in operation again stocks of several kinds, now running low, will be replenished.

Price changes are not numerous. Sugar continues steady at the advance recorded two or three weeks ago. Pot barley has been advanced about 25 cents per sack and new quotations will be found below. Tuckett's tobaccos have been advanced 1 cent per lb. for plugs and cuts. New figures are given below. Beans continue very firm, but the high price has checked consumption and the demand is not so brisk as before.

Sugar.

At time of writing there has been no change in sugar since last week. The advance noted in the early part of the month is maintained; it will be remembered that it did not apply to points west of Portage la Prairie. Whether or not the opening of navigation may cause a slight decline in prices, owing to reduced freight rates, is a mooted question. The difference in rates is about 15 cents per cwt., but sugars did not decline in consequence last year. We quote as last week:

Canned Goods.

As noted last week, Canadian brands of canned corn are now selling at $2.50. Some American brands are selling at lower prices. We again quote:

Nova Scotia Markets.

Halifax, April 17, 1905.

THE wholesale grocery market is in a good condition at present, making allowance for the scarcity of money in the country district. The towns and manufacturing centres are sending in good orders. Payments are on a slightly better basis than two months ago, or even one month; but they are not yet up to the mark. The sugar and molasses situations remain firm and unchanged. The tendency of both is to advance. The flour situation is still firm, notwithstanding the late announcement of 20 cents decline. Feeds are firm and have been in good demand. Cornmeal has lately been subject to an advance of ten cents per bag, and the situation is firm as stocks are not large in this market.

FISH.

Considerable fresh fish is coming on the market from the shore fisheries, and the demand is good. The trout season is now on, and there have been some good catches for sale in the markets. The lobster fisheries have opened along the eastern and northern coast. The canning factories are about opened up, and some live lobsters are being sent forward to Boston. The catch on the south shore, which commences on December 15, has not been large this season. Prices now in Boston are about $15 to $20 per crate, which is comparatively low.

Last year's stock of fish, especially cod, is about sold out and the new season's take will be on the market. Last year's prices were abnormally high, and this year's is likely to be on a par with them, as the first to return of the Bank fleet arrived at Lunenburg last week and their catches are only normal. It may also be noted that the sealing steamers of the Newfoundland fleet have nearly all returned to port and their catches are small compared with other seasons.

FARM PRODUCE.

Prince Edward Island potatoes are now plentiful, the price being 32 to 35c. at the wharf. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia potatoes, which are considered of better quality, bring 42 to 48c. It is still necessary to import carrots and parsnips from Boston as the native supply is short, the former having been largely used for feed during the Winter. Hay, which is largely imported Quebec, is quoted at $12.75 to $13.50, according to quality. Oats are still high and quoted at 52 to 55c. Seed oats are selling at 60 to 65c. and the quantity of native is small. Large quantities will have to be imported for Spring sowing.

IMPORTED FRUITS.

There is an abundance of imported fruit now in this market. Oranges which have been over-abundant, circumstances of which have been previously reported, are still plentiful and about at the lowest price they will be during the season. Californias sell for $3 to $3.25. Jamaica oranges are about cleaned up, but a further large supply is on the way here. Valencias are rather scarce. A large quantity of these were brought over on the steamer Parisian, which was partially submerged at her dock after being in collision with the steamer Albano, and being under water for about ten days, the fruit is practically ruined. The quotations on this fruit are 420s at $4.50; large, $5; 714s, $5.50. Messina lemons are in good supply at $3 per case. Cape Cod cranberries are quoted at $9 to $9.50.

GREEN FRUITS.

Apples are somewhat abundant in the market at present, and large quantities have been coming in from the Annapolis Valley. The quality, however, is not good. Fairly good No. 2s have been selling at 50c. to $1 per barrel, according to condition; good No. 2s at $1.50, while a few No. 1s may be had at $2.50 to $3 per barrel. The foreign market this season has not been good even for Winter fruit. The latest report (April 14) quotes Ben Davis at 7s. to 11s. Nonparcils at 10s. to 15s. In a year when prices are high a good many No. 2s are exported, but this year the ruling prices of No. 1s would not allow of freight and cooperage on No. 2s, of which there is still a considerable quantity in the apple districts. So great has become the necessity for a means to dispose of second-grade and refuse apples that a company with $50,000 capital has been organized to put up cider, vinegar, preserved apples, jellies and evaporated apples, and it will be in operation next season. The works will be located at Port Williams, King's County.

REMOVAL.

E. R. LUNDY, of Niagara Falls, assisted by W. H. Harrison, M. J. Greene, F. F. Best, J. Doyle, J. S. Hutchinson and others, have organized a co-operative canning company at Niagara-on-the-Lake. The company have rented the property known as "Steel Works" and are fitting it up for this season's operations. They will erect a new building in the Fall.

The fruit growers of Owen Sound and vicinity have formed a company to be known as the Owen Sound Fruit-Growing Co., for the purpose of adopting the co-operative system in growing, packing and shipping fruit.

The C.P.R. will pay special attention this year to handling British Columbia fruit consigned to points east of the Rocky Mountains. The refrigerator car service will be improved, a faster freight service will be inaugurated, and if the volume of business warrants, a reduction will be made in existing freight rates.

The F. T. James Co., wholesale fish and oyster dealers, 76 Colborne street, Toronto, have added a fruit and vegetable department to their wholesale business, and taken in 78 Colborne street for the accommodation of the latter. At present they are filling orders for foreign and domsetic fruit and vegetables. The change has also necessitated a considerable augmentation of their office and warehouse staff.

Ontario Markets.

Toronto, April 20, 1905.

GREEN FRUITS.

THE extreme cold weather this week has had the effect of putting a damper on the green fruit trade, which is usually extraordinarily brisk before Easter week. The fruit men, however, have no complaint to make, and say that business has been satisfactory considering the unfavorable weather conditions. The orange market is high, an advance of 50c. in California navels being recorded for the week. This advance is to be accounted for because of the lack of Valencia, Sicily and Sorrento oranges in the American market this year, in addition to the fact that the season for California navels is now on the wane. Their place will soon be taken by Mediterranean sweets which will arrive shortly and be quoted at high prices. California seedlings will also be on the market before the next issue of The Grocer goes to press. Havana pines are slightly easier in price; the demand, however, has been slightly curtailed on account of the high quotations ruling during the past few weeks.

Marmalade oranges are off the market. Bananas are higher in price and are arriving freely in anticipation of Easter trade. Louisiana strawberries are coming more freely, daily arrivals now being the rule. Quotations have been reduced 3c. Some Mexican oranges are arriving for Western Canadian trade. These oranges cost from 25 to 30c. less per box laid down in Toronto than Mediterranean sweets and California seedlings. We quote as follows:

Bahama grape fruit	4 50	5 00

VEGETABLES.

Seasonable demand and an improving market for imported vegetables is reported for the week. Domestic vegetables are unchanged in price. Florida tomatoes are again arriving on the market to replace the Cuban variety which is nearly exhausted. Bermuda onions are in transit to this market and are being quoted to the trade at $3 per crate. Egyptian onions are selling at $4.25. Hot-house cucumbers are 25c. easier than last week and southern rhubarb is quoted 25c. higher. Florida tomatoes are bringing 50c. more than last week. New beets are down 25c., spinach 10 to 20c., asparagus 50c., carrots 15c., waxed beans, 50c., and New Orleans cabbage $1 per crate. Egg plants have disappeared from the market for the time being. Quebec Markets.

Montreal, April 21, 1905.

GREEN FRUITS.

The green fruit trade generally is quiet. Country orders are not coming in as freely as last year, and city trade also is not what was expected. California navels have advanced from 25c. to 50c. a box, with strong demand. Tomatoes are very scarce, selling from $4.50 to $5 for extra fancy, and $3.75 to $4.25 for choice. Pineapples are in good demand, considering prices are so high, and are selling from $1.25 to $4.50. Good colored stock demanding from 25c. to 50c. higher than last week. Cucumbers have dropped 50c. a doz. on account of heavy receipts. California celery is very scarce; price is $6.50. Bananas are in good demand, ranging from $1.50 to $1.90 per bunch. Charleston strawberries are selling at 40c. a box. Trade in other lines is unchanged.

Among the Boards of Trade

Napanee Business Men Organize.

A MEETING of the business men of Napanee was held on Monday, April 10, for the purpose of organizing a board of trade. It has been felt for some time that such a body was absolutely necessary if the interests of the merchants and tradesmen were to be properly looked after.

After considerable animated discussion on topics of public interest, the election of officers was proceeded with, resulting as follows:

President—John W. Robinson.
1st Vice-Pres.—J. L. Boyes.
2nd Vice-Pres.—J. L. Madill.
3rd Vice-Pres.—F. E. VanLuven.
Sec.-Treas.—W. T. Waller.

On motion the following members were elected as an executive committee to act with the officers in assisting to place the board of trade on a sound footing: Messrs. J. C. Hardy, T. B. Wallace, M. S. Madole, F. W. Smith, T. S. Henry, T. F. Ruttan, Dr. Sills. J. R. Dafoe, E. Loyst, C. A. Graham, W. T. Gibbard and W. F. Hall.

Quebec Board Meets.

The members of the Quebec Board of Trade held an important meeting on Tuesday, April 11th, to discuss among other things the making of Quebec a free port, and the unwarranted discrimination of steamship companies against it.

In connection with the agitation inaugurated by the Quebec Board of Trade to secure equitable railroad rates for Quebec, it was announced that the new tariff issued by the G.T.R. for import traffic showed a considerable reduction in the difference between rates from Quebec and those in operation from Montreal to points in Ontario, Quebec being now placed on the same basis as Portland as far as the G.T.R. was concerned.

The demand on the steamship companies to place Quebec on the same basis as Montreal was also considered. In the opinion of one of the speakers this question was wholly in the hands of the merchants of Quebec. If no united effort was made in shipping no solution of freight rates could be reached, but if the merchants come to some agreement to ship unitedly the proper pressure could be brought to bear on the steamship companies. A number of firms represented stated that they had already issued orders to foreign shippers not to forward goods by any lines whose steamers did not stop at Quebec.

In view of similar action taken by Montreal, it was decided to start an agitation to have the port of Quebec made a free port, and to send a memorial to this effect to the Dominion Government, making mention of the many advantages possessed by Quebec, including the fact that the harbor had open navigation for eight months of the year.

A resolution was also passed supporting a petition of West Indian wholesale importers in regard to the sale of molasses called Barbadoes, which is being compounded, and asking the Government to prohibit such compounding, or that the name Barbadoes be not placed on the packages and the word "compounded" branded in large letters

Preston Board of Trade.

The first annual meeting of the Preston Board of Trade was held in the town hall April 17, Mr. George Pattinson, M.P.P., presiding. The reports presented were very encouraging. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, George Pattinson, M.P.P.; vice-president, C. Dolph; secretary, A. D. Pringle; treasurer, Frank Moss; council, F. Clare, C. E. Yates, S. J. Cherry, F. Moss, C. R. Hanning, Otto Homuth, Z. A. Hall, J. K. Ball and H. J. Kindson. The various committees were re-elected.

DEATH OF YOUNG JOURNALIST.

The junior ranks of Canadian journalism have sustained a distinct loss in the death of Ambrose P. Hinds, of the Ottawa Citizen, which occurred in Ottawa on March 25.

Mr. Hinds had barely passed the quarter century mark and had been associated with the Ottawa Citizen ever since the time of his graduation from the Collegiate Institute in Barrie, his home town. During this time he performed the many varied assignments of a modern city daily, to each of which he brought undoubted talent and ability. A short time before his death he was given entire charge of the semi-weekly edition of the Citizen and was rapidly pushing that publication into the front rank of provincial journalism when struck by the grim reaper.

BUSINESS IN THE WEST INDIES.

Mr. John Cameron, our West Indian commissioner, has got as far as Trinidad, and is still doing good work for the MacLean Trade Newspapers. This week another good batch of subscriptions came to hand, and also a few good advertising orders for the export number of The Canadian Grocer. Mr. Cameron is having some pleasant experiences as well as being successful in securing business, a good deal of which will be related in a subsequent issue of this paper.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

ONCE more the icebound harbors and waterways of the Dominion are clear for business. Craft of all kinds from the ocean and inland will being plying the different routes, and the wheels of commerce will move more importantly all around. The big transportation companies have issued their new rates for ocean shipping, which came into force last Saturday, April 15.

The outlook for grain and lumber as far as bookings go is reported very poor. The grain dearth was explained last week in that Americans are not shipping via the St. Lawrence route and the Canadian wheat is being utilized for flour in Western Ontario. The condition of the lumber market in the Old Country is one where low prices are prevailing and no Canadian shipper is sighing for business at any less rates than have been existing. Hence the lumber outlook is gloomy. Nevertheless, several new charters of steamers have been reported for the United Kingdom, and the price for deals has been quoted at 30s. and 32s. 6d, that is for deals, and 35s. for full cargoes of lumber.

The outlook for dairy produce is very encouraging and the large shippers prophecy greater things than ever from the port of Montreal.

Considerable attention is being directed towards the first fruit boats. The Jacona, of the Thomson Line, is expected here first week in May. She comes direct from the Mediterranean with a cargo of oranges and lemons from Messina ports. She is making her way over the sea with 28,698 boxes and 4,194 half boxes of oranges and lemons; 12,699 packages of oranges and lemons from Sorrento; total, 49,591 packages. This steamer will be followed by the Escalona which is now making her way to Spanish ports from whence she will sail direct for Montreal on April 29.

The lake and rail freight rates went into effect on the 15th and there was marked activity ruling in inland shipping during the week.

There is considerable agitation in important shipping circles in Montreal regarding the peculiar position adopted by the Harbor Commission and the probability of heavy wharfage fees being levied. At least it is very glaringly apparent that Montreal will not be a free port for some time to come. There are, however, some conflicting opinions.

TO PRIVY COUNCIL.

The action brought by E. W. Gillett Co., Toronto, against Lumsden Bros., of Hamilton, for infringement on the Gillett Co.'s registered trade mark on Gillett's Cream Yeast label, will shortly be taken to the Privy Council. The claim made by the plaintiffs is that Lumsden's Cream Yeast is an infringement, owing to the use of the word "Cream."

In the Trial Court Mr. Justice Street granted a perpetual injunction restraining the Lumsden concern from using the word "Cream" in connection with yeast cakes. This injunction was afterwards dissolved by the Divisional Court, hence appeal to the Privy Council. Jas. Bicknell, K.C., of Laidlaw, Kappele & Bicknell, is acting for the plaintiffs in the case.

Biscuits and Confectionery

Retail Trade.

THE Easter candy trade is growing each year. The novelties in confectionery arouse great interest and cause greater sales of all kinds of candy. The grocer has come in for his share of this business. The arrival of new maple sugar has also had an invigorating influence on the sales. The next two weeks should prove the best of the season. As Lent draws to a close there will be a general revival of festivities in which confectionery will play a prominent part. The reaction should ensure a big demand for sweetmeats. In anticipation of this grocers have, generally speaking, stocked well in this department.

Raw Sugar Refining.

The difficulty which has been experienced in running a beet sugar factory profitably bids fair to be overcome by D. A. Gordon, of East Kent. Under present conditions there are just enough beets to keep a factory running for three or four months in the Autumn and early Winter. Mr. Gordon has imported a large quantity of raw sugar and will consider the possibility of keeping his factory running all year with the aid of this. The success of this experiment will be of the utmost value to Canadian manufacturers. It will not only make it far more profitable to refine the beet sugar, but will introduce the refining of imported raw sugar, which will be a great industry in itself.

The Trade Situation.

THE week shows little change in the condition of the market for raw materials. Prices have remained on the whole firm, with a slight increase all along the line. The manufacturers and retailers have met the situation by an advance in prices, but not to the extent that the raw material has advanced. In spite of the higher prices, business has been on the whole good. There has been no appreciable falling off in purchases. In the country the roads have been bad and business has not been as brisk as might have been desired, but here the prospects are for a speedy improvement. With better prices and good consumption there should be no question about a prosperous season.

1905 Maple Crop Light.

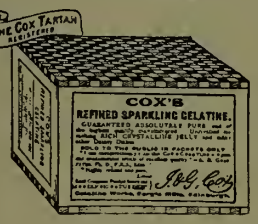
According to G. R. Small, of the Canada Maple Exchange, Montreal, the maple crop this year will be light owing to unfavorable weather conditions. It may turn out better in Eastern Quebec, where sugaring starts two weeks later than in the west, and is just beginning now. There will, however, be no diminution in the supply nor perceptible increase in the price of this product.

American Confectionery in England.

A DEPUTATION of confectioners and allied and subsidiary trades of Great Britain recently waited upon the chancellor of the exchequer to urge the discontinuance of the tax on sugar because "it was exercising most disastrous effects upon the industries represented." A Mr. Edwards, the first speaker, said that America was sending to Great Britain 150,000 tons of confectionery per month with no duty on it, that the Swiss were sending many thousands of pounds sterling worth of chocolate per year at a cheap rate because they use bounty-fed sugar, prohibited to manufacturers here, and that sugar was high here and cheap on the Continent, allowing continental makers to endanger the British position in the neutral markets of the world.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain, the chancellor of the exchequer, in his speech, in reply to the deputation, said it was not true that imports of confectionery into this country has risen to an enormous extent since the duty was imposed. He thought there must be some misapprehension as to what the so-called confectionery was, for the imports of real confectionery did not increase at all, and practically the whole increase of 1903 over the imports of 1902 was accounted for by the increased imports of bottled fruits and syrups, and, so far as manufactured sugar articles were concerned, the foreigners paid the same tax as the British manufacturers did.

The chancellor's statements seem to be borne out by statistics. The facts point to a reduction rather than an increase in the amount of confectionery exported by the United States to England.



Push the Cracker Trade.

Crackers ought to be great profit gatherers. The relation of their sale to the total amount of sales will go up or down as they are made a prominent feature in the store display, and as they are universally used and appeal to the housekeeper as a satisfactory and healthful between-meal nibble for the children, they are in constant demand. It is not necessary to push the sale of the stand-

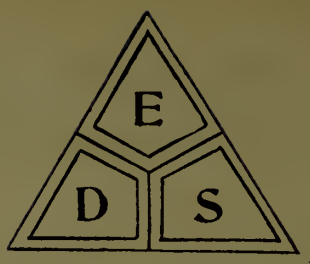
Generous Profit Sharing.

A generous profit-sharing system has been adopted by Walter Baker & Co., chocolate manufacturers. Each employe of the company recently received a cheque for ten per cent. of his wages for the year 1904. The plan of making employes personally interested in the welfare of a business is growing in favor. As the Walter Baker company state, it is only by the personal efforts and interest of every member of the staff that the best results can be obtained.



New Industry for British Columbia.

A new industry, or rather the revivication of one long dormant, in Victoria, B.C., is among the items of interest in flour and cereal circles this week. The B. C. Rice Mills have begun operations and will revolve and grind rice for domestic consumption and export. The capacity of the mills is five tons of rice per day and the output can be increased as trade grows.

The Dominion Confectionery Co., Portage La Prairie, have purchased the Richmond Block in that town, and will convert it into a factory.

Again, the retailer pays $2.85 for goods that he sells for $3.60, giving him a gross profit of 75 cents. On our Jumbo package he pays $4.10 for goods that he sells for $5.00, giving him a gross profit of 90 cents per case.

Fall Wheat Damages.

REPORTS received during the week indicate more or less serious damage to the Ontario Fall wheat crop. The wheat came out of the ground green and vigorous looking, and was greatly benefited by the warm rains and sunshine of last week. During the past few days, however, the cold winds and frost have had a most injurious effect in many districts and the plant is turning brown. It is not definitely known just how much damage has already been caused and warm weather may overcome to a large extent the injury already done.

William Whyte, second vice-president of the C.P.R., is authority for the statement that there will be twenty-five per cent. more land under seed in the Canadian West this year than last; in other words, over a million more acres of grain will be harvested than one year ago. With an average yield of twenty bushels per acre this means an addition of $15,000,000 to the wealth of the settlers. Mr. Whyte further says that while last year 150,000 people entered the West, there is every prospect of an equally large immigration this year. With an increase of the acreage under seed of a million a year, in ten years the Canadian West will annually export from 250,000,000 to 300,000,000 bushels of wheat, representing a money value, conservatively stated, of $200,000,000. Seeding operations are under way in the West, but it is as yet early to comment on future crop conditions.

U.S. Crop Report.

The U. S. Government crop report, showing the condition of Winter wheat on April 1, is very favorable, showing the average condition to be 91.6. This indicates a yield of 479,787,000 bush., against a crop of 332,935,000 last year, 399,867,000 in 1903, and 411,788,000 in 1902. The report compares as follows:

April 1, 1905.	Dec. 31, 1904.	April 1, 1904.	April 1, 1903.

Opening of Navigation.

The near approach of the opening of navigation on the Great Lakes is being forestalled by Canadian grain firms who have already chartered a large number of boats so as to have them ready at the earliest moment. It is thought that boats will be at the lake ports about April 20. The transportation companies have fixed rates this year at two cents to Georgian Bay and Lake Huron ports, and six cents through to Montreal from Port Arthur or Fort William.

The rush to get the grain down the lakes will keep the lake fleet busy, and in addition will have a livening effect on local grain business. Stocks of wheat in store at terminal elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur now total 6,777,966 bushels, but of this amount about 2,000,000 bushels is in the new private elevators, the Empire and Ogilvie, so that the amount to be shipped down the lakes will aggregate 4,777,966, against 1,919,000 the same date a year ago.

U.S. Exports Dwindling.

The exports of wheat from the United States for the eight months of the present year ending February, were 4,196,022 bushels, as compared with 40,713,275 bushels for the same months of the previous year. Of the 4,196,022 bushels shipped, 3,983,279, no less than 95 per cent., were shipped from the Pacific coast. The shipments from the Atlantic ports were only 212,733 bushels as compared with 35,572,994, or a decrease of 99.4 per cent.

Failure of Wheat Fields.

In the opinion of the Secretary of Agriculture for the United States there will shortly be a large increase in the price of breadstuffs unless American farmers change their method of growing wheat. At present the average production of wheat to the acre in the United States is eight bushels, while in Europe the farmers grow thirty.

Last year the American wheat crop was sickly and this indicates that the land refuses to grow wheat any longer on a profitable basis. In order to save the wheat fields of the United States experts are being sent to the northern part of Norway and Sweden to find legumes which will grow in cold climates.

Grain and Cereal Notes.

According to official statistics New Brunswick is producing about a hundred thousand barrels of flour yearly at the present time.

The town of St. Albert, Man., proposes to go into the flour-milling business. The municipality will put up the entire cost of the enterprise, $40,000.

C. H. Crawford, flour, feed and seed dealer, Ingersoll, has purchased the store formerly occupied by J. P. Archibald, and is removing his stock thither.

The C.P.R. have completed a new elevator at Fort William, which has a storage capacity of 500,000 bushels, and is able to unload approximately 300 cars of wheat per day.

The display of them lends variety to the cigars and tobacco, and attracts attention to the department. A pipe has a great fascination for most smokers, and a man will often buy one which attracts his fancy, when he has no need for it.

Tobacco pouches come in the same category. They give an up-to-date appearance to the stock and, as nearly everybody carries one, they should have a good sale. These are just illustrations of what might be handled in every store. The nature of each dealer's business must govern him in the extent to which he goes in for these side lines. Yet every dealer who has a tobacco department at all can put in a few of these articles to advantage.

Retail Trade.

The cigar trade, like the commerce of nations, depends much on the "open door." A cigar store with its doors wide open presents a hospitable and attractive aspect to the public, and there are many pedestrians who would pass by the closed portals without stopping, but who cannot resist the tacit invitation of the wide-open doors. However, open doors are only possible with fair skies, which is one of the many reasons why the retail cigar trade depends so much on the thermometer and barometer.—The U. S. Tobacco Journal.

New Source of Tobacco.

"Lattakia, Syria, tobacco is an article of commerce well known in Europe and America. It is black in color, owing to its fumigation by the Nusairich mountaineers in the smoke of a tree called 'elezzer' or 'ezr,' which imparts to it a peculiar aromatic flavor. This fumigation lasts for from seven to nine months, but only produces the desired effect during those of Winter and Spring, although the tobacco is still fresh and green in Summer when it is hung to the rafters for smoking purposes. The 'ezr' grows wild, seldom attaining the size of the oak, and gives out its aromatic odor when burned in the green state. It is a native of the Nusairich mountains and not found elsewhere, so it is claimed. Last year the Lattakia tobacco crop amounted to six thousand bales as against eight thousand bales for the preceding year. A bale weighs 87 to 92 kilos (191.4 to 202.4 pounds). Most of it goes to England at 14 to 24 cents per pound. It was rumored last year that the American Tobacco Trust was trying to secure a monopoly of the Lattakia tobacco product. It already controls the licorice root industry in the Lattakia and Alexandretta districts. An average crop of Lattakia tobacco, as far as it is available for export, is worth about $350,000."

An Aggressive Tobacconist.

Mr. A. Michaels, the progressive tobacconist on the corner of McGill and Notre Dame streets, Montreal, as those who are familiar with Montreal know, is an up-to-date cigar and tobacco dealer. His store always attracts attention by some unique feature of advertising. While he has in the past had many "arresters," this week he has certainly capped the climax. His four large plate-glass windows, two on each street, are placarded with illustrated colored scenes of the Russo-Japanese war, brought over by Mr. J. A. Poole, of the China and Japan Silk Co., and loaned by that gentleman to Mr. Michaels. As there are about fifty of these pictures, and all strikingly displayed, there is a constant crowd attracted by them, particularly at noon and evening hours is this so, and to such an extent that often a blockade occurs. Besides the pictures Mr. Michaels exhibits a bronze bust of Admiral Togo, also brought over by Mr. Poole, and, needless to say, it is a good drawing card for business.

The Tobacco Seed.

How big do you think a tobacco seed is? The plant grows to be taller than a man. It has leaves from 20 to 50 inches long, and from 3 to 18 inches wide. One would think the seed might be the size of a walnut. It is, in fact, about the smallest seed known. I have before me a bottle about half the length of my little finger, and not so large around. It contains 25,000 such seeds. Each seed is not much bigger than the point of a pin. Nevertheless, it produces this mighty plant, and, more wonderful still, on the plant will grow from 500,000 to 700,000 seeds.

At Leamington, in three days, the Empire Tobacco Co. received 600,000 pounds of tobacco, for which they paid out in cash over $70,000. One farmer received $3,600 for his last season's crop.

Ice-clad Grocers

We meet a few of them—good men, but————. They wouldn't put in cigars if they were offered a stock free. Prejudices of this sort disappear after a while and we get a new customer—and keep him.

Why shouldn't we? What other firm that you know of sells you goods on our terms—money back for unsold stock at the end of three months.

Send us an order for 1,000 cigars on the terms we offer, and while we do not insist upon it, we advise that the order should include Pebble for a 5-center and Pharaoh for a 10-center.

J. BRUCE PAYNE, LIMITED, Makers, Granby, Que.

Letters to Tom, the Grocer.—No. V.

HAMILTON, April 21, 1905

Dear Tom:

You lost your temper the other day with a good customer. His opinions and yours didn't agree. It was on a matter that is always dangerous to discuss—politics. Politics are all right—that is, in a general way; but you can afford to let the discussion of party measures alone. Just now you are in business, and you can't afford to antagonize good customers.

By the way, you'll find it absolutely safe to give your smokers T. & B. It will please them, and help your trade in other directions.

Yours truly,

GEO. E. TUCKETT & SON CO., LIMITED.

BIG COFFEE DEAL.

THE largest purchase of green coffee ever made in Canada has been effected by William Braid & Co., the well-known tea, coffee and spice importers of Vancouver, says The Weekly News Advertiser of the same city. This fact is not only noteworthy as a piece of news, but as an indication of the growing business of Vancouver and of this reliable and old-established firm. Few realize the proportions of such a purchase as this, but when it is remembered that 500 tons is 1,000,000 pounds, some idea may be formed of the amount secured. Reference is often made to the large business deals of neighboring Pacific Coast cities, but it is rarely that firms make such a large purchase.

It is a credit to the growing commercial importance of Vancouver that a business house should see sufficient trade ahead to enable it to dispose of so much coffee alone, and shows to some extent what an important distributing centre Vancouver has become. William Braid & Co. make a specialty of coffee, and supply the trade along the coast, in the Interior, the Territories, and Manitoba. Consignments are sent to the Yukon and Alaska; in short, the whole western country is covered by the travelers of this enterprising firm.

The opportunity was taken during the recent slump in the market to make the purchase referred to, and the coffee is now in transit to the Port of Vancouver.

INTERESTING AND ATTRACTIVE CARDS.

The "Bee" Starch Co., Montreal, have issued a set of handsomely-lithographed colored cards and hangers, displaying exact facsimile of their various products. As these are attractive and beneficial to every grocer, every one should have them. A postal card addressed to Snowdon, Forbes & Co., Montreal. will bring a set by mentioning The Canadian Grocer.

on our recommendation, and urged his tobacco customers to try them and to bring back a report. That report varied. Some said—"We like the kind we've been accustomed to." Others said—"We like McAlpin's Tobaccos; there's a flavor to them that just suits us." So Jack Robinson is making more money to-day because he had courage to dare.

McALPIN'S TOBACCOS ARE PROFITABLE

GLEANED FROM THE TRAVELERS.

MR. C. DUNKE, of Dunke & Co., Berlin, spent a couple of days in Toronto last week calling on the trade. Mr. Dunke has just returned from a pleasure trip to Cuba.

Mr. St. George Price, who has been engaged for a number of years in the grocery trade at Goderich, and for the past two years in Hamilton, has joined the traveling staff of H. P. Eckardt & Co. He will cover territory in Ontario from Berlin east.

Mr. R. Harstone, Warkworth, Ont., one of the most successful business men of that town, has sold out to Dickson & Co., who will continue in the general mercantile business.

Mr. J. H. Lehmann, formerly of the traveling staff of H. P. Eckardt & Co., will in future represent the Royal Crown Soap Co., of Winnipeg. His territory will be Western and Northern Ontario. The Grocer wishes Mr. Lehmann success in his efforts on behalf of "Witch Hazel" soap.

Mr. R. A. Elliott, Roseneath, has sold out to Mr. Mulholland, formerly of Haldimand County. Mr. Elliott is going into farming.

Mr. H. J. Colwill, Arthur, is making extensive improvements in his store. He reports that owing to the phenomenal growth of business he found the old premises altogether too cramped. Mr. Colwill recently returned from the sea side.

Mr. J. Ireland, Durham, says business has been booming during the past fortnight.

R. Scott & Co., Mount Forest, are in receipt of a big shipment of goods for Spring trade.

Mr. W. J. Cameron, Southampton, is recovering from a severe attack of grippe, and able to greet his many friends with that "genial smile."

Mr. W. H. McFarland, proprietor of the largest departmental store in Northern Ontario, reports business conditions satisfactory, considering the state of the country roads during the past few weeks.

Mr. G. Metcalfe, Berlin, was in Toronto last week.

Halliday & Stinson, Chesley, have completed their Spring preparations and are stocking up with "good" goods for Summer.

Mr. C. J. Halliday, Chesley, has one of the most up-to-date stores in the north country.

The C.P.R. will shortly let the contract for the Byng Inlet and Boulton division of their new short line from Sudbury to Toronto.

The north channel will not be open for navigation before April 25, according to present indications.

There will be three steamship lines from Owen Sound to the Soo this season: The Northern Transportation, Dominion Transit, and Algoma Central (a new line).

Col. Thompson, president of the Nickel Trust, is trying the oil concentrating process at Massie, with considerable success.

The new smelter in operation at Copper Cliff has a capacity of 1,000 tons per day, and is the only one of the kind in Canada.

The Helen mine, which has been turning out 800 tons per day during the Winter, will increase its output to 1,000 tons for the Summer months. Sixty per cent. of the ore smelted at the Soo Steel Works comes from this mine.

The quantity of pine saw logs taken from the forests of Northern Ontario this year is considerably smaller than last year's output. Lumbermen are regretting the fact on account of the recent marked improvement in the lumber market.

SUGGESTIONS FROM KENTVILLE.

Editor The Canadian Grocer,—As a reader of The Grocer from week to week, I often wonder how you are able to gather material so as to fill its pages once a week, and to keep out stale matter. One interesting and valuable section of The Grocer is that devoted to green fruits and vegetables, and especially that part relating to apples.

Again, as one interested in board of trade work, I find The Grocer realizes the importance of such organizations and has done a great deal to stimulate its readers along these lines. The Maritime Board of Trade is greatly indebted to The MacLean Publishing Co. for support since its inception, and has freely endorsed that fact. I should like to see a board of trade department added to The Grocer, and short reports from as many boards as possible. Merchants would more and more see the benefits arising from being members of their town or local board. There is something in a live board of trade that makes a merchant take more pride in his business; that broadens his views and makes a better citizen of him.

I am looking forward to the Export Number as it is an index to what our live business men are doing to extend Canadian trade and help the retailer, keeping him in touch with all that relates to his business life and to the life work of others who are trying to solve the same problems.

It will be a pleasure to many of us (after your Mr. Cameron has taken his Barbadian bath and a few Canadian ones as a contrast), to read of his impressions of the West Indies and where our Canadian manufacturers are lax in not securing more trade.

As a good friend of the Maritime Provinces, I hope to see The Grocer take up again the advantages of Upper-Province people making more frequent visits this way and getting acquainted with our people and country. We want to see these provinces the tourist grounds for Upper Canadians and not allow the New England States to absorb all the pure air and lovely scenery we have to offer. I know full well, from favorable reports made in your papers, that many a person has come among us, and only wish all our trade journals were as loyal.

As to the state of trade in the Annapolis and Cornwallis Valley it is too soon to estimate what effect the extraordinarily severe Winter will have on the future, but I find that the merchants are in good spirits and have strong faith in the future. As the sun melts the snow, and roads improve, they are ready for Spring trade, and it looks as if the balance sheet would be all right at the year's end.

Anyway, the safe plan is to read The Grocer and attend to business. We have never yet taken Sir Richard's advice to "work harder and eat less."

M. G. DeWolfe.

Kentville, N.S., April 11, 1905.

Mr. De Wolfe is well known to readers of The Grocer as ex-president of the King's County Board of Trade, and a prominent business man of Nova Scotia.

Coote & Tuck, dealers in groceries, boots and shoes, and crockery, Oakville, have disposed of their business to Thomas Harker of that place. The firm was founded by Mr. Coote in 1869, Mr. Tuck becoming a partner about five years ago. The senior partner will live retired, having supplied the community with pure food for nearly two generations. Mr. Tuck is entering upon the undertaking business in Oakville.

Window and Interior Displays

Timely Hints and Suggestions

Window Dressing in England.

THE English method of window decoration is what we term the embankment system, where the main display arises from a bank that has a height of six inches or so in front and runs back to a height of 18 inches in the rear. The goods exhibited are just packed up through the centre, in profusion, having a width to correspond with that of the window, and the exhibits are usually beautifully blended—indeed this is a leading feature. Flanked on either side are handsomely arranged receptacles for a counter display, such as nuts, dried fruits and confectionery of all kinds.

And some very elegant electric light displays are shown with the views, being made to harmonize in their colorings with one another. And it is right here that the Englishman excels.

Banked up in this manner, there is something impressive about the display, and it appeals at once to the eye as massive, gorgeous and satisfactory. There is also something decidedly practicable in these solid English designs. They carry a business air that cannot be mistaken.

Although Canadian grocers have progressed far in the art of window dressing, in the matter of blending, coloring and electric lighting, we have still to take the queue from our kinsmen from across the water.

Attractive Grocery Interior.

This week's illustration represents what may be done for the interior of a grocery store with the exercise of a little care and ingenuity. The first thing to be kept in mind in arranging any interior display is to have as much variety as possible to attract the attention of customers. No grocer needs to be told that the average shopper comes to his store with a list prepared of the articles required, and that it rests with the grocer to swell that list to just the extent that his ingenuity allows. Of course, a clever salesman is necessary to make the actual exchange, but an attractive display goes a long way to pave the way for his persuasive eloquence.

In the accompanying illustration, the most striking feature is its variety. No one or two lines of goods are utilized, but fruit, vegetables, canned and package goods, condiments, etc. The scheme is, perhaps, dangerously near the limit, as far as quantity of goods on show is concerned, but it must be remembered that this is a very uncommon failing with seventy-five per cent. of the grocery trade throughout the country, who seem to persist in hiding their wares either behind the bars of a storeroom or under the counter. The idea of the man who arranged the particular display has undoubtedly been to win extra custom from regular patrons, and, judging from its general effect, the bait ought to have been successful in accomplishing the purpose intended.

THE SALT SITUATION.

A report appeared in The Clinton New Era recently to the effect that the salt plants at Brussels, Seaforth, Stapleton and Goderich had closed down and that in a short time the Wingham plant would follow suit. This is quite incorrect so far as the Wingham plant is concerned. That particular industry is as busy manufacturing as it can be and has orders on hand that will keep it so for some months. Its proprietors claim to be turning out one of the purest salts now manufactured in Ontario and are selling to some of the most important packing houses in the country.

CIDER VINEGAR

GOLDEN RUSSET BRAND . . . . .

WE hope before we have finished our story to have every grocer in Canada persuaded concerning two things:—

The noxiousness of Chemically-Prepared Vinegars.

The Wholesomeness of Nature's Vinegar---the pure fruit of the apple.

THIS IS LITERALLY A VITAL SUBJECT. WE CRAVE YOUR ATTENTION.

MANUFACTURERS, MONTREAL

THE TRADING STAMP QUESTION

THE GROCER is indebted to Printers' Ink for a report of the recent meeting of the Sphinx Club of New York, at which the trading stamp question formed the principal subject of debate. A number of the addresses delivered by prominent American business men are reproduced in this week's issue.

W. L. Hughes, of the Sperry & Hutchinson Co., proprietors of the green trading stamp, defended this form of premium as a modern method of giving a discount to every purchaser who paid cash to a retail merchant, however small the amount. Ever since trade began it has been the recognized custom to offer an inducement to the cash customer, but on very small purchases the actual cash discount is a petty consideration. Hundreds of small cash discounts aggregated in the form of a book full of trading stamps, however, and exchanged for an article of worth, made it an object for customers to pay cash. Hence the trading stamp, though assailed, denounced, legislated against, has held its own as an integral part of merchandising. The trading stamp, he said, made it possible for merchants to handle a greatly increased business at no added expense for store service other than the cost of the stamps. In a known case the stamps have attracted a half million people to one floor of a department store in a single week. He believes this co-operative system of giving discounts is only in its infancy.

Philip A. Conne, of Saks & Co., New York, said the trading stamp was an outgrowth of the old-time tea coupon, which was legislated out of existence when it became an abuse. So far the trading stamp has been tolerated because it could not be proven unconstitutional. Trading stamps may increase a merchant's business twenty per cent., but he must pay upon this increase the tax of the trading stamp, and pay it also on the business he had to start with. Small merchants pay $2.50, $3 and even $5 a thousand for the stamps, while big stores get them for fifty cents. The small merchant pays the freight of the whole system. Some of the great stores that had adopted and advertised the stamps were now sick of them, he said. The argument that the trading stamp is a form of advertising, reducing other advertising expenses, had not been borne out in practice. Its power to attract new business is soon spent. Trading stamps are on the decline, and the people are learning their worthlessness. At no distant date they will disappear.

William Kennedy, advertising manager of the Bennett Co., Omaha, said he had come a long way to speak in favor of trading stamps. The store he represents is away from Omaha's shopping district, and the company always had difficulty in drawing shoppers to it until trading stamps were introduced. The departure was so successful that now, in a city of 100,000 population, the store employs 1,000 people. Many local associations have tried to down the stamps in Omaha, but the people are with them. More than 20,000 people in Omaha collect them. Trading stamps have increased the volume of advertising in Omaha daily papers. With double trading stamps for a special sale his store has sold four and a half tons of coffee in a day, 3,500 brooms, etc., and sales of such articles always show a permanent increase after. In the store's cafe four out of every six men patrons collect the stamps. If trading stamps are an excrescence on business, then advertising may also be regarded as an excrescence.

Clarkson Cowl. of James A. Hearn & Son, New York, said he was in favor of trading stamps. They cause a lot of talk, a lot of thought, and are a good thing—for the other fellow. Where stamps are given in a store the sales force look to it as a seller of their wares, while competitors work to sell without this aid. Every increase in the clientele of the stamp company decreases the stamp's advantages by reducing its advertising possibilities. Stamps do not appeal to the more substantial class of people, but to those who are attracted by a small premium—the unthinking purchasers. Sooner or later the yeast is out of the stamp scheme, and it cannot easily be given up. It is a fallacy to try and convince thinking people that the intervention of a third party between buyer and seller improves the quality of goods or decreases their cost. In a business of $1,000,000 the stamps cost $20,000 to $40,000. That money could be better spent in improving service, offerings, etc. Morally, the stamps are wrong because they work harm to the ignorant and thoughtless, lower the standard of commercial integrity. They cannot take the place of value. When stamps were introdused by certain big stores in New York it was predicted that a certain other store would lose $1,000,000 in sales because it refused to adopt stamps, but since then this latter store had greatly increased its business and store space.

Hon. J. T. Newcome, of the New York State Legislature, admitted that double gifts of trading stamps have power to move unsalable goods, but questioned the permanence of a business conducted by such methods. He produced articles that had been purchased that day, both in stores giving stamps and those that do not. A pair of opera glasses, identical with another pair purchased for $3.98 in a store that gave no stamps, cost $5 in a store that does give them; a deck of playing cards cost twenty-nine cents in a non-stamp store, and thirty-five cents with stamps in a trading stamp establishment; two bottles of chow-chow cost twenty-six and thirty-two cents respectively, and a box of gold dust cost four cents more in a trading-stamp emporium. Things he wished to know about the stamps were the difference in prices to different merchants, what proportion of stamps are unredeemed, whether trading stamp companies raised their premiums, etc. He had heard it reported that when the output of stamps reached a certain percentage the companies raised the number of stickers necessary to secure a given premium. Legislation in New York State has failed against the stamps, but he is confident that it will yet stop the evil. At the first sign of waning merchants should abandon the stamps. Merchandising will ultimately have to return to old-fashioned methods—return to the simple life.

W. Benton Crisp, attorney for the Sperry & Hutchinson Co., said the commercial soundness of the trading stamp has been demonstrated by the fact that no merchant or body of merchants has ever vanquished it on a fair competitive base. Opposition has always taken the form of legislation, which in turn has invariably been pronounced void. Answering Assemblyman Newcome's question regarding the proportion of stamps unredeemed, he said it was infinitesimal—about one-tenth of one per cent. This is more than overcome by the free stamps given by the stamp companies themselves. Even if a profit were made in this way, it is a fair profit. Railroads make money on lapsed tickets, life insurance companies on lapsed policies, etc. Trading stamps have led many small merchants to advertise who never before used advertising, and created a demand for millions of dollars worth of merchandise used for premiums that would never have been sold otherwise.

B. J. Greenhut, of the Siegel-Cooper Co., New York, said his company had often been accused of having an interest in the Sperry & Hutchinson Co. This assertion was unwarranted and false. Very little was heard of the stamps in New York until the Siegel-Cooper Co. adopted them two years ago, though 5,000 small merchants were already giving them in New York City. His concern's advertising of the stamps had helped them all. Competitors, seeing the increase of business brought by the stamps to the Siegel-Cooper Co., had tried to get them too, and failing, had resorted to legislation against them.

THE EBY BLAIN CO. SCORCHED.

On Sunday morning, April 23, the warehouse of the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, was again visited by fire. Fortunately it was confined to the roasting department of their factory, situated in a building separate from their main warehouse. While the damage to the stock was light, the principal loss will be the damage to the roasting and milling machinery. With their usual promptitude, orders for new machinery were despatched immediately, and in a very short space of time everything will be in usual running order. The fire will not interfere with the filling of orders as the firm report they are in a position to fill all orders the same day as received.

CORRECTION.

In last week's issue of The Grocer it was stated that Holbrooks, Limited, Birmingham, had completed the distribution of samples of their products in the leading Canadian cities as follows: Toronto 40,000, Hamilton 10,000, Montreal 40,000 and Ottawa 10,000. As a matter of fact the sampling has been completed in Toronto only, and the other cities will be covered in the course of a few weeks.

FALLING OFF IN FOREIGN TRADE.

THE Government trade returns for the nine months ending Mar. 31, 1905, show a falling off in the aggregate foreign trade of Canada of $3,662,395 as compared with the corresponding period last year. In exports of domestic products there is also a falling off of over $10,000,000. Exports of fisheries and manufactures continue to more than hold their own.

The grand total of imports for nine months was $188,784,809, as against $179,032,017 in the same nine months of the previous fiscal year. Increased imports is a sign of healthy trade conditions in this case, for the augmentation consisted almost entirely of free goods, being raw materials for manufacturing. So long as the increase in imports consists of raw materials and an exportation of domestic manufactures is maintained there is nothing much to complain about. Of course, one would prefer to see a greater shipment of agricultural products, but in that respect the trade returns for March exhibit a great improvement. Under almost every heading there has been a satisfactory gain, which gives rise to the hope that before long Canada's trade will exceed the high water mark of past years. Following are the details of the exports of domestic produce for the past nine months, and for March, 1905, as compared with the same months last year:

The mine	$26,054,731	$22,907,006

SHIPPING BLUE TO ENGLAND.

The old saying, "carrying coal to Newcastle," is being verified in a most striking manner with the substitution of the word "blue" for coal. J. M. Douglas & Co., Montreal, manufacturers of "Blueol," the "never-streak blue," are making a large shipment of their produce to England on the opening of navigation. Canada has been accustomed to looking to England for blueing, and the invasion of the home market by a Canadian firm will be watched with interest.

Fresh and Cured Fish

Salmon Situation.

THE salmon situation is increasing in interest owing to the probability that opening prices will soon be made by the leading packing interests on Columbia River, Puget Sound and in Alaska, says the New York Journal of Commerce. Some of the outside packers of Alaska red salmon are already in the market with offers to sell 1905 pack at 95c. f.o.b. coast, which, according to some estimates leaves no margin of profit on the cost of packing the goods and landing them in San Francisco from the Alaska factories. There is much speculation indulged in as to what price the Alaska Packers' Association will name on its 1905 output, but there is no intimation from any authoritative source of its intentions in this matter.

The Spring fishing season on the Columbia River has opened, and it has been expected that prices on the 1905 pack would be made before this. It was understood that the packers have been waiting until the question of prices to be paid to the fishermen for fish should be settled, and it was generally supposed that if the fishermen did not demand more than was paid last year, the packers would not risk complications by refusing it. Advices just received by mail from Astoria state that at a recent meeting the fishermen fixed the price they expect the packers to pay for chinook salmon this season at 5c. for fish under 25 pounds, and 6c. for fish of and over that weight. These are the same as last year's prices, and if accepted by the packers would enable the latter to open the market at $1.45 for talls, $1.55 for flats, and 95c. for half-pounds, which are the same as last season's initial figures, except in the case of half-pounds, and which it is understood represent the ideas of most packers as to what this season's pack should sell at. One reason why the packers may hesitate to put out prices until the pack is well under way is thought to be the uncertainty which is felt concerning the probable extent of the pack. In some quarters the belief is held that the pack will be light owing to the almost complete absence of snow in the mountains above the Columbia, which means a short freshet in the river and a consequently short run of fish.

No prices have yet been made on Puget Sound sockeyes, but it is rumored that the packers have practically decided upon quotations based on $1.25 for talls.

U.S. Fishermen Hard Hit.

A DESPATCH from Washington intimates that representations will be made to the British Government for the purpose of securing disallowance of the Act of the Newfoundland Government aimed at the American fishing industry.

What success an appeal to Great Britain may have remains to be seen. The Americans have the right to catch fish on the southern shore between Cape Ray and the Rameau Islands, a distance of about 200 miles. They have also the right to catch fish on the western and northern coast of Cape Ray to the Quirpon Islands, but this last concession is virtually useless, because it is too far from the Banks to serve as a place of bait supply. What the Legislature of Newfoundland is endeavoring to prevent is the sale of bait to American vessels, and there is nothing in any treaty to prevent them doing that. The difficulty Newfoundland experienced in the past was in enforcing such regulations on its own people. The temptation to sell bait for ready money is great. In latter years it has been pretty successfully enforced against the French, however, and the fishermen are more easily convinced now that in the long run it is in their own interest.

Will Cure Salmon for Germany.

THE installation of fish traps on the southern coast of Vancouver Island is to be followed by other industries beside salmon canning, says the Victoria Times. For many years a growing trade has existed in shipping mild-cured salmon in cold storage to the German market. The Columbia River was the original home of this industry, but of late years it has spread northward, and considerable has been done in it in Canada. During the past Winter the cannery on Barkley Sound has been following this branch of the salmon industry with marked success.

This Spring the curing of the salmon will begin in Victoria. Robert Lindenberger, of Astoria, Oregon, whose firm is one of the largest shippers to the German market, has been in Victoria looking into the opportunities for beginning the business. It is said that he was so well satisfied with conditions that it is all but settled that the salmon curing will begin about May 1.

The fish used in this method is the larger salmon. Small fish cannot be used. These will be treated to a special preparation which is described as mild curing. They are then put in cold storage and sent in refrigerator cars to New York for shipment by steamer to Germany.

The supply of fish will be obtained from the fish traps situated in the straits, and already negotiations are in progress looking to the obtaining of a sufficient quantity. This will not interfere with the canneries at all, as the fish used will be larger than are sought for canning. The Spring salmon run lends itself to this process, being larger than the sockeye.

This is looked upon as only the beginning of this part of the salmon industry, which is likely to develop into proportions only second to the canning end of the trade.

Fraser River Fisheries on the Wane.

ACCORDING to Mr. Williams, fishery inspector for Northern British Columbia, sockeye salmon fishing on the Fraser River is on the wane, and there will shortly be a desertion of the Fraser for the northern rivers by the salmon canners. There the sockeyes come direct from the sea. Canadian traps are not allowed, and the American traps are not within 200 miles. There are no cycles, the catch being entirely dependent on climatic conditions.

During the next five years enormous packs will be put up on the Skeena River and River's Inlet. A fifteen million fry hatchery is to be in operation on River's Inlet this Fall, and a twenty million fry hatchery is to be built on the Skeena. One factory alone on the Skeena last year packed as many sockeyes as all the canneries on the Fraser combined, namely 30,000 cases. The entire pack of the north last year was 322,103 cases as against 234,179 cases the year before.

To Operate Four Canneries.

John Rosenc's Northwest Fisheries Co. will operate this year only four of the ten canneries recently purchased from the Pacific Packing and Navigation Co. The four canneries are located at Nushagak, Chignik, Uyak and Dundas, Alaska. Next year the Northwest Fisheries Co. will probably be able to operate as many more, but this season was already so far advanced when the property was taken over that it was impossible to get the additional canneries ready for the salmon run.

Trawling Unsuitable.

The Halifax Board of Trade, prompted by an inquiry from an English firm experienced in steam trawling, has succeeded in securing a consensis of opinion from practical fishermen in regard to the possibility of conducting trawling fishing in Atlantic waters. The replies are unfavorable, the majority holding that the sea bottom is too rough and the currents too strong.

Fish Gossip.

It is authoritatively stated that the Dominion Government will appoint a commission to inquire into the B. C. salmon fishery question before the close of the present month.

On account of the recent action of the Newfoundland Government it is expected that the Gloucester fishing fleet will be obliged to seek bait and supplies in Cape Breton this season.

Petrie & Co. are erecting a cold storage plant at Louisburg, N.S., with capacity of 400 tons of ice and 60 tons of bait. They are sending a vessel to the Magdalen Islands for a cargo of herring.

The Capital City Canning and Packing Co. have elected the following board of officers: President, D. E. Campbell; directors, J. G. Cox, W. Turpel, W. Grant, R. F. Verrinder, W. J. Leary and F. Walker; secretary, F. F. Hodges. The company immediately begin the erection of three salmon traps at Otter Point, Sherringham Point and French's Beach.

It is reported that a good share of the salmon packing trade that has gone to San Francisco in past years will this year go to Seattle owing to the sale of the Pacific Packing and Navigation Co.'s property to a northern syndicate. It is the intention of the new combine to extend operations to the Siberian coast where they have received concessions from the Russian Government.

The Bacon Situation.

PACKERS report satisfactory local business for the week. The price of hogs has advanced 25c., quotations now being $6.75 for fed and watered stock. The situation in Great Britain continues practically as last advised. This week's quotations range from 52 to 58 shillings. The Canadian trade are under the impression that export prices have about reached the upper level and considerable anxiety is being experienced as to the future trend of the market. Receipts continue light in Denmark with the market steady and prices unchanged.

Want Uniform Butter Package.

FROM advices received from England by the Agriculture Department, it is evident that Canadian shippers of butter to England are not obtaining as strong a foothold upon the market there as they might if more attention was given to the method of packing. The leading butter merchants in England are very particular regarding a uniform weight of butter in what is intended to be the 56-pound box. It is stated that boxes are frequently marked 57, 58 and even 60 pounds. It is not claimed that these boxes contain less than the marked weights any more than those which are marked 56 pounds. The objection is against having either more or less than 56 pounds in each package. The butter makers of New Zealand, Australia and Argentine are very careful on this point, and the uniformity in their weights is much appreciated by the trade. The 56-pound package was adopted because it represents half an English cwt. If any other weight is marked or invoiced, the advantages of having such a standard are lost. The butter merchants in Great Britain are as much influenced by a matter of this kind as they are by the quality of the butter itself. New Zealand butter is receiving a premium over Canadian to-day more on account of its uniformity in all respects, the excellent packages and heavy parchment paper which are used, and the careful attention which is given to weighing and branding than because the quality is superior. It is a penal offence in New Zealand to place any other than the true net weight in a package of butter or cheese.

Every butter box should be weighed after the parchment lining is placed therein, the tare marked on it, and then filled with the proper amount of butter to ensure its turning out 56 pounds.

Liquid Eggs in Tins.

THE Dominion Department of Agriculture have forwarded to The Grocer the following inquiry from a South African produce firm concerning liquid eggs in tins:

Sirs,—I beg to inquire if you know of any Canadian firm who supply liquid eggs in tins. I am agent here for an Irish firm for liquid eggs, but the only drawback is that I cannot get the proper supply to meet the demand here. I have made several contracts with some of the bakers here for their supply for twelve months and could do six times the trade if I could only get the supply. Now, as your country is a good one for eggs, it struck me that some of the firms there may go in for this business. I may tell you that there are a good many kinds of liquid eggs on the market but none can touch the Irish egg up to this; the reason is that all other liquid eggs are broken up in the tin, but mine are whole eggs; that is, the shell broken and the egg dropped from the shell into the tin, so that when using the eggs after, they come out with whole yolks. I cannot say what preservatives my people at home use, but if any of the firms you know will take it up I will be only too happy to send a sample tin on to them or you. The eggs are made up in 14-lb. tins, and six tins packed in a case, and can be sold here at 8d. per lb.

The Grocer will be glad to supply further particulars to any produce men desiring to go into the question more thoroughly.

American Meats at a Discount.

FOR some time past there has been a steady decrease in the British consumption of American meats, i.e., hog products, while a corresponding or even greater increase has occurred in the imports of Canadian meats, and for the time being it looks as though American packers were rapidly losing the English trade, says the United States Consul at Bradford, England.

It has previously been pointed out by a correspondent that "when the American packers realize that hog products are produced to be consumed and not to gamble with, it will be better for the American provision trade." This fact is exemplified by the considerable shipments of stale and over-kept meats to Great Britain, which has in every way helped Canadians to take a firm hold on the market. One of the leading importers says: "The Canadian, by his regular weekly shipments of a mild and well-selected meat, has met the popular taste of the north of England artizan, and close observation during the last two years leads me to think that the business will be done more largely with Canada and still less with the United States."

New Packing House.

Another addition has been made to the plant of the Montreal Stock Yards Co. at Point St. Charles, Que., in the shape of a new packing house to be known to the trade as the Montreal Packing Co. The new plant has been fitted throughout with the latest improved machinery for manufacturing all lines of prepared meats and curing hams and bacon. It will be in charge of G. W. Bowman, who was previously connected with the Ingersoll Packing Co.

For Canadian Packers.

A Liverpool importing house writes to enquire names of Canadian packers of meat desiring representation in Great Britain. Any packers who care to send in their cards will be immediately placed in communication.

Dairy and Provision News.

S. Lowe, of Massey, Ont., is building a provision store.

On Saturday, April 22, J. A. Wilson formally opened his fine new provision store at the corner of Market lane and the Square, London, Ont.

The Wm. Davies Packing Co., Toronto, intend building a large packing house at Point St. Charles, Que.

The property of the Moose Jaw Creamery Association is being offered for sale. The reason assigned is insufficient patronage during the last three years.

The Lambton Creamery Co., Petrolea, which was recently incorporated with capital stock of $30,000, is going into produce in addition to its creamery business, and will buy and sell butter, eggs, cheese and poultry. J. W. Steinhoff, late of Stratford, is in charge.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Toronto.

Provisions.—Slightly firmer prices and improved demand is noted for all kinds of cured meats, lard, and fresh meats. The Easter season is possibly responsible for this in a measure. The opening of navigation and improvement in the export trade situation have also to be taken into consideration. Lard is up 1-4c. all round, and hogs are selling at from $6.75 to $6.85. Beef is firmer than last week. We quote the following:

Butter.—As the season advances the butter situation shows signs of improvement. Receipts are increasing, and the creameries are now getting under way for the season. It is reported that a number of creameries that closed down last season are again starting to operate. Creamery in both prints and solids is down 1c., as well as dairy butter. We quote as follows:

Cheese.—A firm market at slightly hardening prices is reported in cheese for the week. An improved demand is noted in foreign markets in which quotations range from 60 to 62 shillings this week. Locally some dealers are asking 12c. for large cheese and 12 1-2c. for twins, but the quotations given below rule generally. Some new fodder cheese has been offered on the basis of 10 3-4c. to the factories, but it can hardly be said to be moving as yet. Our quotations are as follows:

Provisions.—Market generally continues firm in all lines of provisions. The market for live hogs continues particularly strong owing to the light receipts and good demand from packers, selected bringing $7.25 per 100 lbs. Dressed hogs firm, fresh-killed abattoir stock quoted $9.25 to $9.50 per 100 lbs. Lard in good demand.

Cheese.—Volume of business passing is small. Stocks of old cheese are very light, with prices quoted at 12c. to 12 1-2c. Fodder cheese still ruling at 11c. to 11 1-2c., and supplies not coming in freely, a feature pleasing to dealers.

Butter.—A firmer tone is noticed this week on account of the light offerings. Receipts have not been as plentiful as was expected by dealers. New fresh milk creamery is quoted at 23c. to 23 1-2c. and in good demand. An improvement in receipts is confidently looked forward to next week, when prices are apt to decline some.

Provisions.—Prices are higher, particularly in pork products. Barrelled pork is at least two dollars higher than the first of the year. Beef does not show quite as much advance. Smoked meats, particularly hams, are held at full figures. Pure lard holds firm at the advance. Refined lard is still low. The Easter season saw some extra fine fresh meats in the market, chiefly beef and veal. In all lines prices were high. A few small lambs are seen. Even fresh mutton was held firm. Pork unchanged.

Halifax.

Dairy Produce.—During the last week the supply of butter has been coming in fast from the local creameries, and is almost equal to the demand, and prices have somewhat declined, though they are still abnormally high. Creamery prints are now quoted at 26 to 28 cents; creamery boxes 25 to 26 cents, dairy rolls 23 to 25 cents, and there are still lower grades, principally imported.

For Halifax egg quotations see Halifax markets.

Provisions.—The provision markets are well supplied as usual in Easter week, though much of the stock had to be imported. The supply of native beef coming in for the last three or four weeks has been small and the quality poor, most of the best beef being western. However, the various dealers have been on the lookout for Easter beef, and on Saturday it was worth the time to visit either the jobbing or retail shops, where extraordinarily fine beef might be seen. The dealers, especially at this season, prefer native beef, as they can make a much better show of it fresh killed, neat and clean. Though native beef for some time was bringing only about 5 cents, this beef brought higher than the imported. Lamb is now more plentiful; fowls and chickens are in fair supply with good demand and accordingly high prices.

Ideal Household Ammonia

All makes of ammonia are not the same—some are weak in cleansing power, are not disinfectant and contain ingredients which are injurious to the hands and articles washed.

And a woman will quickly discover these poor qualities.

But she will remember the name of a good ammonia just as quickly.

Ideal Household Ammonia is a strong, quick cleanser, thoroughly disinfectant and contains no injurious substances—will cleanse everything in the home whether woollen, wood, metal or glass.

You can hold your customers' trade for ammonia by selling them Ideal Ammonia—and it helps to sell other goods.

Place a trial order with us and watch the results.

TRADE AT HOME.

IT is the duty of every business man to inculcate in the citizens of his town the desirability of buying from home merchants. This is not a matter for sentimental theorizing. The evil of patronizing outside stores is present, and it must be combatted by retail merchants with vigor and dispatch.

It requires no argument on our part to prove that this is unfair. The whole fabric of civic life depends upon the organization of every element of the town for the common good. The merchant invests more or less money in his stock and store; he pays taxes on this; he pays wages which enable his clerks to live and contribute their share to the general fund; the public institutions of the town are to a large extent dependent upon his generosity; it is through the mutual intercourse of the farmers and himself that a market is established; the schools are supported largely through his taxes. Everything in the town which depends upon good citizenship, generosity, and enterprise, is directly supported or largely benefited by his presence.

What does the mail order store in the big city do for the town? Its proprietor pays no taxes, employs no men, has absolutely no stake in the place. The maintenance of good streets and public buildings are of no account to him. His influence is on all sides injurious. In the closing or weakening of the retail stores he does a double injury. Not only is the merchant ruined, but the numerous clerks and workers who are contributory to his business are thrown out of employment. So the town loses the benefit from this class also. The mail order house is always drawing the money away from the town; it contributes in return nothing.

These are facts which should be kept before the people. It is not sufficient for the merchant to know that such conditions are not right. He should start a crusade against them; get the local newspaper interested in it and then set about stirring up public sentiment against the unfair practice. Let him, however, never forget that the best weapon to use in such a campaign is up-to-date merchandising. If possible beat the mail order man on his own ground.

A NEW DEPARTURE IN INDIA.

THE average reader is inclined to associate the word "India" with the tea-plant exclusively, forgetting that India produces a variety of natural products exceeded in number and value by but very few countries in the world.

According to latest reports Indian agriculturists are beginning to turn their attention to an industry that promises to become even more profitable than tea-growing, namely, the cultivation of the rubber plant. This industry has been carried on in a small way for ten or eleven years, although it is only recently it has assumed such proportions as to warrant the establishment of regular selling agencies in European markets.

The owners of tea estates have planted rubber extensively this year both in India and the Straits, and within five or six years, which is the time required for a rubber plantation to come into full bearing, the practice will have become general throughout the country. It is interesting to note that the tea-growing industry will be benefitted rather than suffer from the inroads of the rubber plant, inasmuch as the rubber tree serves as an excellent shade for the tea plant, both of which can be grown on the same land. At the same time there is no telling what large proportions rubber planting may assume on account of the splendid margin it offers. For instance, a pound of rubber sells in London at six shillings and sixpence per pound, as compared with a pound of tea, which brings say sevenpence. Those who are conversant with the situation say there is plenty of room for the tea planter and the rubber planter in India for many years to come, and that any anxiety on the part of those even indirectly concerned with the tea trade is entirely groundless.

THE EFFICACY OF KNOWLEDGE.

KNOWLEDGE of the details of any business is always a valuable asset in any merchant's stock-in-trade. The man who can explain simply and correctly any question pertaining to his business is a man who will make a success of it. By this is not meant any question of a personal or private nature, but questions relating to his stock such as any customer might put to him.

A loaf of bread is a loaf of bread, but any grocer who can give reliable information about the source of the flour from which it is made, the grade of the wheat, the sanitary kneading and the careful handling, etc., will convince customers of his worth and reliability. He will stand to them in a much more favorable light than the grocer who knows and can tell naught of all this.

There are many commodities handled to-day in grocery stores which were unknown in former days. There are many proprietary articles of recent production. There are new fruits and many other articles, about which information is available, which will help the grocer to sell them. Grocers should learn as much as possible about their stock and be able to satisfy the curiosity of their customers.

THE INTERDEPENDENCE OF BUSINESS.

FEW merchants realize just how much the success of their neighbor's business influences their own business. They seem to imagine that the welfare of their business depends entirely on their own exertions. They consequently become narrow in their outlook and adopt a don't-care attitude towards their neighbor and his interests.

As an example of this, take the connection between the sale of books on flowers and the sale of flower seeds. The bookseller across the street makes a sale of a book on flower gardening to a man who has hitherto never had his attention drawn to or his interest awakened in this agreeable pursuit. He takes the book home, looks over the illustrations and conceives a desire to surround his home with plants and flowers. He reads the book and learns how to cultivate flowers successfully. Next day he will probably enter a grocery store and buy a selection of seeds.

Did the grocer sell those seeds? In a way he did, but it is much more probable that the bookseller across the way actually sold them. It was through his good salesmanship that the aforementioned man bought the book on gardening, and if the latter had not bought it, it is not likely the grocer would have sold the seeds to him.

Now, a moment's reflection will suffice to call up a number of examples similar to this, all of which teach the important lesson of the interdependence of business in any town or city. But some doubter may say: It is all very well to make this proposition about firms which do not compete; how about competitors?

Regarded from certain standpoints, of course, the proposition is not true. Jones' success may mean Smith's failure; but then, again, this does not always follow. Jones may be able through good salesmanship to persuade a customer to substitute a better and more expensive brand of tea for what she has hitherto been using. His profits are increased and his business is more successful. The customer dilates on the excellence of the new tea to her neighbor, who patronizes Smith. The neighbor is led to order this new tea from Smith and Smith profits, also; but did he make this gain through his own efforts? Not at all; the exertions of Jones brought it about, and to Jones must be accredited all the gain that ensued.

It may be taken pretty well for granted that the progress of one firm reflects on neighboring firms, and if they prove alive to their opportunities they can share in the accruing advantages.

KEEP DOWN EXPENSES.

THERE are certain fixed expenses in every store and on the ratio of these to the receipts depends the success or failure of a business. Expenses of stock are not included in these. Such expenditures are only made as the sales demand. In a well-ordered store, the higher these run the higher the receipts run. The expenses which eat up the profits are the small ones which in themselves bring in no return. Lighting, heating, care of buildings, etc., are all fixed. They do not necessarily vary with the amount of business done. It should be the merchant's object to reduce these as much as possible, consistent with giving the best service. Watch the petty expenditures. If you have money to spend put it in the store or in permanent fixtures. Do not fritter it away on unnecessary trifles.

DISTRIBUTE YOUR INSURANCE.

DO not have your insurance so placed that it will all expire on the same day. Many merchants do this and claim as their reason that it is easier to keep track on it that way than if they had to pay a number of premiums at different times. There are a number of very weighty reasons why the insurance should be distributed. In the first place it is just possible that you may forget to renew your policies, and then the store is absolutely without protection. Many exigencies may arise to prevent you looking after this matter on some particular time. You may be called out of town temporarily and detained over the time for renewal. Sickness or a press of other business may cause it to slip your mind. Yet if a fire occurred during the time after the policies had lapsed you would suffer a total loss.

Another feature of the case which is worthy of attention is your comparative independence if you have your insurance divided up into a number of policies which expire at different times. You are in a far stronger position to deal with the insurance companies. There can be no possible chance of the company holding you up unduly, as they could if they knew that your whole insurance expired on that day. You would have to accept their terms or take a chance, for a time at least, of your entire establishment. This is a matter which merits your closest consideration. Do not concentrate your securities too much.

U. S. LOBSTER INDUSTRY ON THE WANE.

ACCORDING to a recent issue of the New York Times, the extinction of the lobster industry in the New England States is simply a matter of time, unless the Government can effect some scheme which will afford proper protection for the fisheries. During the past season there has been a falling off in the catch which, estimated in lobsters per pot, aggregates about fourteen per cent., as compared with the season of nineteen hundred and three. In thirteen years in the catch of lobsters per pot the decrease has amounted to more than sixty-six per cent.

The 1904 Blue Book, published by the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, tells a different story about the Canadian lobster industry. As a direct result of the action of the Dominion fishery officials in providing close seasons and protection for berried lobsters, the yearly catch shows a steady increase. For instance, during the seven months ending Jan. 31, 1905, exports of canned lobsters from all Canada totalled $1,716,633, as compared with $1,390,287 for the same time in 1904, and $1,293,890 in 1903, and the export trade in fresh lobsters continues to more than hold its own.

What the United States needs is more efficient administration of its fisheries, and more severe restrictions on fishermen, whose sole aim seems to be to get all they can out of the industry, regardless of the future.

A NEW FOOD VEGETABLE.

FROM time to time within the last few years items have appeared in the public press about a new species of potato, on which experiments have been in progress. So much that is wonderful and unexpected is done nowadays in the way of plant-breeding and cross-fertilization that it is hard to startle the public; statements regarding the virtues and value of the new tuber have therefore met with ready acceptance. It would appear, however, from a paper contributed to Cosmos (Paris), by M. Jules Rudolph, that the new potato is not yet quite ready for the market. That it has a future before it, he thinks probable; but it is not yet certain whether this may be reached sooner by cultivation and selection, or by crossing with the ordinary variety. As it stands at present the species, though hardy, is too bitter to be edible. Says M. Rudolph:

"The plant is not a new one, having been described by Dunal in 1822. A native of Brazil . . . it is very vigorous and reaches the height of about 60 centimeters (2 feet), producing numerous subterranean creepers, throwing out at intervals aerial stems, each bearing a tuber at the base. . . . These tubers are of variable form, spherical, pear-shaped, or egg-shaped; hitherto they have varied in size from that of a nut to that of a hen's egg. . . . These tubers are soft, and of a yellowish tint; the eyes are well marked but not deeply sunken. The proportion of starch is from 17 to 20 per cent.

"It is to Dr. Heckel, director of the Marseilles Botanic Garden, that we owe the introduction of this new Solanum to cultivation. He has grown it since 1896 without having observed other variation than a progressive development of the tubers, which increased in weight from 3 to 150 grams. . . .

"In the Solanum Commersoni we have a spontaneous type, from which cultivation has already removed its natural characteristics, as it long ago removed those of our ordinary potatoes, of which we now have more than 500 different varieties and forms. . . .

"The plant is vigorous, resists disease, may remain in the ground all Winter, grows in moist soil, and is very productive. The vigor of the plant is real, but it is a great runner, which is not a good quality. It does away with hilling, of course, but from the point of view of the digger it is a great labor to search for potatoes over the whole surface of a field, not daring to leave a single corner untouched.

"Its resistance to disease seems certain at present . . . but plant diseases do not usually appear until after they have been long cultivated, and there is nothing to show that this species will prove more refractory than others.

"One of its best points would seem to be its rusticity; that is, its ability to Winter in the earth, which is especially valuable in mild climates where it can thus be dug as needed.

"Its ability to flourish in moist or marshy places is also one of its best qualities, for our ordinary potatoes prefer a light, dry soil. This will enable the farmer to place under cultivation soils that have hitherto remained unproductive, and is possibly its greatest merit.

"Of its productiveness we will say nothing here, preferring to wait for confirmation of the figures given. According to these it is remarkable, reaching 63,000 kilograms to the hectare with the violet variety obtained by M. Labergerie (about 30 tons to the acre).

"The most important question remains—the quality of the product. Of this little has been said, except that it may be eaten by cattle, but that the tubers are bitter and that several more years of cultivation are needed before they will become really edible. This may easily be realized; for it is impossible to change in a short time the food value of a plant so as to adapt it to our tastes.

"This is the plant; let us see now what may be made of it. Two ways are open before it, that of selection and that of hybridization. Both are good practically.

"The plant having already varied, the selective process recommends itself as likely to have good results; but it is usually a long task, requiring much care and attention. . . . The method, however, may be more rapid, especially with a plant with a natural tendency to vary. . . . .

"But it is especially from the standpoint of hybridization that I believe this species capable of serving a good purpose, and of preserving in its descendants the vigor of the species, its rusticity, its immunity from disease, and its ability to flourish in moist and marshy ground. If, when crossed with one of the edible varieties, it keeps these good qualities, we shall have made a remarkable gain from the alimentary point of view.

"Nevertheless, M. Lille, of Lyons, writes us, efforts to obtain seed have been in vain, as the pollen is not fertile. Different varieties have been cultivated side by side, . . . but there has been no crossing. The future, however, may have surprises in store for us.

"To sum up, we have here a spontaneous type of potato that it is our business to try to improve, for it is, perhaps possible to obtain favorable results; but in cases like this we must be careful not to be carried away by the magic of numbers and by the supposed merits of a plant before being able to control the exactitude of the data. . . .

The new potato that frost cannot kill.

"In any case, this impartial study has for its object to let our readers know what has been said since 1896 about this potato, in which we may see, in the course of time, a new element in the development of one of our best foods."—Translation made for The Literary Digest.

DEATH OF WELL-KNOWN TRAVELER.

The grocery trade throughout the Maritime Provinces will regret to hear of the death of Mr. H. P. Wetmore, one of the most widely-known commercial travelers in Eastern Canada, which occurred on April 15, at Clifton, N.B.

Mr. Wetmore began his business career in St. John, where he was associated with Mr. G. Robertson, grocer. Later he became traveling representative for a St. John firm, and more recently for John Tobin & Co., of Halifax.

BRIEF— BUT DEAD TRUTHFUL

There are no teas on sale to-day (bulk or packet) in Canada or out of it that Salada will not readily out-class and out-draw all the way from 25% to 50%.

This is the real secret of its unprecedented popularity and demand.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Groceries.

Toronto, April 27, 1905.

ORDERS for the opening of navigation are now practically filled and regular business may be looked for from the upper lake ports from now on. This means an increase in lake trade until the regular Summer demand begins. Locally the Easter holiday has interfered somewhat with the course of trade. Business is reported quiet with the usual volume of sorting-up orders and is without special feature.

The weakness of the raw sugar market continues, although there has as yet been no change in the refined situation. A scarcity of New Orleans molasses on the spot is reported owing to the severe customs regulations interfering with importations from the south. Large sizes of prunes are scarce and high in price. New Brazil nuts are reported in the market, being quoted this week at 13 to 14c. The provision business is active, particularly in eggs and maple products. The end of this month will see the close of the oyster season and even at the present time frozen fish have disappeared from the market.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature of the canned goods market this week is tomatoes, importations from the United States being on a large scale. The market over there is exhibiting a firmer tendency and indications point to an advance in the near future.

A better demand is also noted for all varieties of canned fruits. A scarcity of sardines is reported, and it is not improbable that prices for the new pack will be higher than last year. Our quotations are as follows:

SUGAR.

A quiet and featureless market is reported in refined sugar for the week. The trade expect an increased demand within the next few weeks, when the market will become more interesting locally. The weakness of the raw market continues. Our quotations are as follows:

Paris lumps, in 50-lb. boxes	6 38

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Maple syrup has the run in the local markets. A scarcity of New Orleans molasses on the spot is reported largely owing to the fact that American exporters are dubious about sending molasses to Canada on account of the unsatisfactory customs regulations. We quote as follows:

COFFEES.

Fair to good local business is noted in coffee for the week. Speculative markets are slightly higher, an additional advance in the rate of Brazil sterling exchange having had a strengthening influence upon values in addition to the continued small crop movement of Brazil coffee. The smallness of the Brazil crop and the indication that comparatively little new crop coffee will be marketed before July 1, or the opening of the new crop year, is leading many of the trade to the belief that the outturn of the Rio and Santos market crop for this season will prove to be short of 10,000,000 bags, compared with 10,400,000 bags last year. We quote the following prices:

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Steady demand and unchanged price list rules this week in rice and tapioca. According to advices received from the Southern States, the rice mills are beginning to shut down, intending to carry supplies of rough rice over to next season. The prospect of a large decrease in the rice acreage, particularly in Louisiana this season, has had considerable influence as a market factor and it is understood that some prominent interests have accumulated moderately good lines in anticipation of an upward turn to prices. We quote as follows:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

An active demand for prunes is noted with large sizes scarce and appreciably higher in price. Evaporated apricots are in limited consumption owing to high prices ruling. Some currants are being sold for importation on a weak market which continues steady. Latest advices from Europe, however, advise a slight advance. The scarcity of Hallowee dates noted last week continues.

The prune output this season will be much less than last year, some authorities placing the estimate at half a crop. Santa Clara Valley reports that large prunes are all right. We quote the following prices:

FOREIGN NUTS.

The feature of the Spring nut market is always the arrival of new Brazil nuts. This occurred during the week under review and prices are being quoted to the trade at 13 to 14c. A firmer market is noted in peanuts, particularly best grades. Our quotations are as follows:

DRIED AND CURED FISH.

Cod fish continues to move into consumption freely but with this exception, the dried fish trade is quiet and featureless. It is a pity that there should be any falling off in this department with the passing of Lent, particularly as the manufacturers are now putting up dried and cured fish in such attractive form, making it eminently suitable as a Summer diet. It would seem that the consuming public of Ontario need some lessons in cooking fish, which may teach them to use it more extensively. There is still some salmon trout in the market which is being quoted at $2 per keg. Lake herring are practically out of the market for the season. We quote the following prices:

Country Produce.

EGGS.

A good Easter trade is reported and a subsequent easier feeling, with supplies coming freely and prices down to 13½c. this week. Although pickling is not general as yet, the wholesale dealers have in some instances begun operations, being somewhat dubious as to the future course of prices. We quote the following:

New laid eggs, per doz.....	0 13½ 0 14

BEANS.

A lull in the bean market for the week is reported with prices unchanged and no particular indications. We quote as follows:

Fish and Oysters.

There has been a fair to good trade in fish and oysters for the week at unchanged prices. The oyster season will close about the end of this month. Frozen fish are now practically out of the market, and stocks of fresh fish may be expected in liberal supplies from now on. We quote the following prices:

Grain, Flour and Breakfast Foods.

GRAIN.

In sympathy with the break in the May wheat on Saturday in Chicago the price of Ontario and Manitoba grain is lower all round this week. Manitoba Northern No. 1 has declined 4 1-2c., No. 2 4c., and No. 3 2 1-2c. Red and white wheat are each down 2 1-2c. Trade is reported quiet. There is very little grain moving. We quote the following prices:

FLOUR.

The flour market is without special feature, and prices continue unchanged from last week. For flour in large lots quotations are 10c. under those quoted below. The break in May wheat which has brought down the price of Manitoba and Ontario wheat will doubtless react on the flour, although as yet no reduction in prices has been made. Our quotations are as follows:

Hides, Tallow, Skins and Wool.

The market continues quiet with receipts small, and practically no change except in country hides, flats, which have advanced 1-4c., and deacons, dairies, which are 5c. higher than they were last week. We quote the following prices:

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Groceries.

Montreal, April 27, 1905.

IN wholesale grocery circles the trade during the week has shown an improvement. Orders are coming in more freely, many of them for the opening of navigation next week. As compared with business last year the general opinion seems to be that it compares favorably. Remittances are coming in fairly well and prospects are bright for the future. Sugars are not being bought very heavily as yet, but the time for providing for the heavy Summer demand is not far off. Owing to the weakness shown by the foreign beet market and the speculative character of the trade jobbers have thought it wise to hold off buying heavily. In teas, interest has been aroused in Ceylon greens and blacks and latest advices report a firm market and slight advance. Japan teas have done well during the week, considerable lots having changed from first hands at prices that should tempt buyers, even speculative ones. High-grade gunpowders are scarce. Molasses is slightly easier, but not enough lower to warrant any reduction in jobbers' prices. The fish trade is dull. Canned goods are moving out slowly. Flour and feed situation is unchanged and no reductions noted, though the drop in wheat has tempted spasmodic cutting. Butter has shown a slight weakening and eggs are coming down, as supplies of both are coming in more freely than was anticipated. Provision market is quiet. Live hogs have been scarcer lately and an advance of 25c. per 100 lbs. is noted. The demand from the packers is stronger than the supply. It is rumored on the street that there is trouble in the paper bag trade and some lively times may be looked for within the next few days. Trade in foreign dried fruits is dull and little news can be gathered.

SUGAR.

The weakness of the foreign beet market still continues, though latest reports indicate that the speculative feature of the situation had been quieted and an improvement is looked for. Cane sugar is firm and the statistical position strong. Local trade is quiet, no heavy purchasing been made by jobbers, but as navigation opens next week there will be heavier shipments and better business generally looked for.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Conditions as to Barbadoes molasses are unchanged. Advices from the Islands by cable report a slightly easier feeling. Shipments are about finished and stocks practically all out. The local trade is quiet and there is no change to note in quotations of last week. Corn syrups are keeping well to the front and the demand for same is steadily growing.

TEA.

Business during the week is reported as fairly good. Latest advices from Colombo and London show strong market and firm prices in both green and black Ceylons; blacks slightly higher. Some heavy clearing out has been noticed in Japans, the near approach of the opening new Japan market being usually preceded by a cleaning out of local stocks. These are now getting into small compass in first hands. Some good-sized lots were turned over during the last few days. Gunpowders are in good demand, particularly pea leaf. These latter are scarce. Some few lots of Pingsueys have changed hands at speculative figures.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned goods market is featureless and trade quiet, no particular lines being in more than usual demand at this season. Canned fish and fruits moving steadily. Tomatoes are offered to the jobbing trade at somewhat lower prices, though the price of $1.30 still obtains. One jobber reports having had offers of $1.15.

Some inquiries by the jobbing trade have been made on brokers, but owing to the high prices demanded, business has not developed. The market is steady. We quote: 6¼ to 6¾c. Dried apples dull at 3 to 3½c.

Eggs.—Owing to heavy receipts and an accumulation of stocks during the past week the market has weakened, and the impression prevails among dealers that a further decline is not unlikely within the next few days. Fresh new-laid for round lots sold at 13c. to 13 1-2c. per dozen, though 1-2 to 1c. advance on these quotations is obtained from the grocery trade.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, April 24, 1905

THE wholesale and jobbing grocery trade in Halifax during the last week has improved considerably, notwithstanding the fact that country roads everywhere are still in a bad condition, and the general feeling prevails that it will still further improve during the next month. The outport harbors are now all free of ice and trade in this direction is opening up well, as the country traders at points not reached by railway had their stocks pretty well run down. Collections, though not on the usual footing at this season of the year, are improving, and the wholesalers feel more free to push for larger sales. The retailers throughout the country are doing a better business than a month ago and are stocking up well for the Summer's trade. In the wholesale grocery trade, as in other lines, the tendency is getting greater for a shortening of credit time.

Sugar and Molasses.

There is no change in the sugar market, and prices are firm. Sugar has been running so high and conditions so uncertain that dealers have not been buying in quantities, but merely as necessity requires it.

Barbadoes molasses has advanced in all 12c. in the primary market from opening prices, and the price in Barbadoes is almost as high as the former jobbing price here. It is now on a parity with Porto Rico, and of the two dealers find that Porto Rico gives much better satisfaction to customers. Prices quoted are: Choice Porto Rico, 38 to 40c.; extra choice Porto Rico, 40 to 42c.; fancy Trinidad, 42 to 44c.; choice Trinidad, 35 to 36c.; Barbadoes, 40 to 42c.

During the last two weeks considerable maple syrup and sugar have been in the market but the native output has been smaller than usual. The kind of maple sugar and syrup that can be made at any old time of year is very plentiful.

Eggs.—Producers held their stocks of eggs back till within a day or two of Easter, expecting higher prices, and then the market was flooded and prices suddenly dropped. Fresh eggs were retailing on Saturday at 18 and 20 cents, with the jobbing price considerably lower. A glance in the windows of the various dealers late Saturday night would reveal the fact that the local market was very much oversupplied, as hundreds of dozens could be seen still undisposed of, even with the big demand for Easter.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., April 25, 1905.

THE first of May being so near leads one to think of the regular changes the season brings. In the wholesale grocery business they are not particularly important. W. C. Brittain retires from business and Hunter White, manufacturer's agent, takes his store. The store from which he moves will be occupied by the Canadian Oil Co., who in this way (their present quarters being next door) just extend their premises. W. S. Clarkson & Co. and H. S. Wallace, both manufacturers' agents, the latter also doing some jobbing business, move to enlarged quarters on the south wharf. The Vim Tea Co. also move into enlarged quarters. Business is reported just fair. There are, of course, the regular large Spring shipments being made. Markets show little change. Prices are generally firm. Provisions, particularly, tend higher. Rice is very firm.

Oil.

There is a steady business in burning oil. The price continues low. Shipments of lubricating oils are now active. The fact that the standard of quality varies in this line causes increased competition. Paint oils are in demand. Linseed oil is low but very firm. Turpentine is also in a strong position. Cod oil has little movement at this season.

Salt.

In Liverpool coarse salt quite a full stock is held, though not as large as often at this season. Prices are firm. There is a strong agreement among the importers in this line. In fine salt the sale is for Canadian. There is the regular increase in demand at this season.

Canned Goods.

Corn and tomatoes are very firm at full figures. Peas are unchanged. In fruits market is well supplied. Gallon apples are rather dull. Meats are unchanged. There is increased business at this season. Salmon is unchanged; fair stocks are held. New clams are being received, also new scallops; the latter pack is light. Oysters are firmer. There are still some domestic sardines, but kippered herring and haddies are very scarce.

Green Fruits.

Apples have but a fair sale. Season is late. Bananas are very plentiful and quite cheap. For best stock the retail price is quite well maintained. Oranges are scarce and high. Californias are about the only kind offered and they run very large. There are very few Valencias compared with other years. Lemons have just a fair sale; prices low. Green stuff is coming in quite freely. Rhubarb and strawberries, while high, are more reasonable.

Dried Fruit.

Seeded raisins are a fair stock. Prices are low and there is no sign of higher prices at least this season. There is, however, some range in quality. Other lines of raisins are in small stock and quite firm. Currants are low with a fair business. Prunes are low and small sizes hard to get. Apricots and peaches are high. Dates are much firmer. Peels are higher, particularly citron. Evaporated apples have but fair demand. Onions are lower. Some nice Bermudas are now offered.

Sugar.

Stocks held are very large. Dealers have largely stopped buying. Prices are firmly held but unchanged for some time. Foreign sugar continues a factor in the situation.

Molasses.

Market is quite well supplied. A fair quantity of new Barbadoes has been received, but the outlook is that the import will be much smaller than usual. No new Porto Rico has yet been received. There is quite a full stock of old; prices very firm.

Fish.

Market is rather better supplied with fresh fish. Gaspereaux are quite freely offered. Stocks are, however, light and prices high. Dry fish are still held at extreme prices and pickled herring is scarce and high. Smoked herring is freely received and price is low.

Flour, Feed and Seed.

Flour is unchanged at the rather lower prices quoted last week. There is a good steady business. Feed is firmly held. Oats are hardly as high but quite full prices are asked. In oatmeal there is a large stock here with prices unchanged. Cornmeal has a fair demand at even prices. Beans are quite firm. There is quite a full stock of yelloweyes. Barley and peas are high. The backward weather has affected the sale of seeds. clovers are higher. Timothy is firmly held.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Contributors are requested to send news only, not puffs of goods they handle, or the arrival of standard goods that everyone has in stock, or that they are offering goods at close figures, or that they have had an unusually large sale this season.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, report booking large orders for new "Anchor" maple syrup—"The finest line on the market."

Upton's golden-shred marmalade is now on the market, the list price is $1.75 per doz.

S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal, will be glad to send samples of their Club coffee to any interested buyers.

H. P. Eckardt & Co., Toronto, are offering a fine Japan tea sifting in 1-lb. packages.

Buyers of Malaga table raisins may get some from H. P. Eckardt & Co., Toronto.

Mr. E. D. Marceau's range of values in teas should appeal to every buyer. Samples freely sent.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, have some "Acadia" yellows in stock, especially suitable for bakers and confectioners.

The Dawson Commission Co., Toronto, are expecting the arrival of a car each of bananas, Bermuda onions and Egyptian onions this week.

"Ocean" brand Pacific lobster in ½-lb. tins, to retail at 15c., is a quick seller with the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto. Order at once as the stock is limited.

A car of North Carolina strawberries is due to McWilliam & Everist, Toronto, this week. Stocks are reported especially good this year and McWilliam & Everist are able to get the best going on account of their supplies being personally selected.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, are offering a snap in a Japan tea, extra quality, at 16c., which is exceptionally good value, and will sell readily as a 25c. retailer.

Mr. J. H. Maiden, Montreal, reports arrival this week of two more cars of Diamond Crystal salt, "Peerless" brand, and is prepared to fill all requirements of the trade.

HANDSOME SHOW CARDS.

The Duncan Co., Montreal, manufacturers of "Chaser" soap, have recently issued a set of six handsomely lithographed show cards, one for each day of the week. The cards depict two busy little maidens employed according to the day of the week, with washing, ironing, mending, sewing, baking and cleaning. The set complete is one of the best ads. The Grocer has lately come across. Reference to this notice with a letter addressed to the Dunean Co., Notre Dame street, Montreal, will bring the set to grocers.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Thorpe, of MeWilliam & Everist, Toronto, is in New York this week.

Mr. Norman, of Dundas, was in Toronto on Tuesday of this week calling upon the wholesale fruit trade.

Mr. R. S. Herron, of R. Herron & Co., Montreal, has just recovered from an attack of grip whieh kept him indoors for a week.

Mr. S. S. Arnold, representing R. Herron & Co., Montreal, has gone to his home in Toronto for a rest after a sueeessful trip to the coast.

Mr. Galbraith, of Carter, Galbraith & Co., wholesale grocers, Montreal, is spending Easter week in New York. Mrs. Galbraith and the Misses Galbraith accompany him.

Mr. A. H. Brittain, Montreal and Quebec rcpresentativc of Black Bros. & Co., Halifax, N.S., is in Quebec this week looking after the interests of "Halifax" and "Acadia" brands prepared codfish.

Mr. N. Tobias, grocer, Ville Marie, P. Q., was a caller at the Montreal offices of The Grocer this week. Mr. Tobias reports that the Temiscamingue District is developing at a steady rate and in a substantial manner. As a subseriber to The Grocer, he looks forward to its weekly arrival with interest and profit.

Mr. A. M. Ross, mayor of Oxford, N.S., and head of the milling firm of A. M. Ross & Co., is dead.

Mr. E. Marsh, Trenton, is having his store remodelled. Thc work will be completed about May 1.

FAIRBANKS FACTORY FOR TORONTO.

The new Canadian Fairbanks Co. are endeavoring to seeurc a site for a large factory in Toronto, the announcement having been made in these columns some weeks ago that in future the Fairbanks scales would be "Made in Canada." No definite arrangements have been concluded, but the company look with favor upon a nine acre site on Perth avenue, between the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railway tracks. Toronto has the best chance of securing this new industry, whieh will employ between 200 and 300 men to eommence with, and about 500 when the whole works are in running order. The deal is expected to be closed during the coming week. The proposed purchase of the factory at Valleyfield, Quebec, is evidently being held in abeyance pending the negotiations for a site in Toronto.

BARBADOES MOLASSES.

THE molasses trade between Barbadoes and Canada is once more the subject of official correspondence between the Government of Barbadoes and the Imperial Government.

The point of issue is one which is of the greatest interest to all connected with the trade, being the alleged adulteration of the genuine product with foreign importations, New Orleans molasses being referred to as one of the grades imported for this purpose.

The history of this subject is not a new one, and some legislation was enacted in Canada recently on the representation of the Imperial Department of Agriculture of the British West Indies, the practical outcome being that British West Indian molasses was admitted free of duty. But this does not seem to have checked the alleged evil, and the matter has been taken up in London, England, by that important body the West India Committee, who have represented the matter to the Imperial authorities to communicate with the authorities in Ottawa on the subject. The matter has also been referred to J. Russell-Murray, of Montreal, the representative of the Imperial Department of Agriculture of the British West Indies, and of the West Indian Committee, who is discussing the matter with the trade in Montreal, with the object of ascertaining their views. We understand that there is an almost unanimous opinion that strong measures should be taken to check the alleged adulteration and so preserve to the consumer a pure Barbadoes molasses, and to the island producers a trade and name to which they are justly entitled.

DECLINE IN PRICES.

Since last reports, cables have been received advising a decline in the Barbadoes market of 2c. per gallon, the present quotation being 22c. first cost puncheon included. This decline has been brought about through buyers having withdrawn from the market on basis of 24c. first cost, and partly owing to one or two speculators being anxious to realize their holdings bought at a low price on the opening of the Barbadoes market. At the decline sales aggregating about 3,000 puncheons are reported to have been put through for account of Lower Province firms, but we cannot learn of any further business having been done for the St. Lawrence ports.

The stock now estimated as being unsold, ineluding the holdings of speculators, is about 4,000 to 5,000 puncheons, the total supply having been finally estimated at about 30,000 puncheons. This represents an increase over earlier estimates, no doubt brought about by the fact that planters have been anxious to make as much molasses as possible in view of the high price.

It has been reported here that the quotation at the Island is 21c. in view of cables having been rcceived soliciting business at 25¾ c. and f., but this quotation was made owing to cheap freight being possible on a steamer which is bringing a eargo of sugar for account of refiners. This vessel was due to leave Barbadoes on the 26th and, therefore, futurc costs will have to be figured on basis of 22c., first eost, puncheon included.

REPORTS TRADE GOOD.

Mr. Walter J. Elliott, Quebec representative of the E. W. Gillett Co., Toronto, was a caller at the Montreal offices of The Grocer this week. Mr. Elliott has just returned from an extended trip through the province and in an interview as to the general condition of trade, commented on the excellent business outlook for the coming year. The trade as a whole consider business satisfactory. "As regards my various lines, I may say that trade is improving all along. Magic baking powder, poudre a pate Magique is rapidly becoming a favorite and an increased demand is noticeable. It has been a pleasure to me on my trip to notice The Canadian Grocer in the hands of the trade and also the high regard in which its opinions and news items are held. I certainly look for The Grocer in every town and rarely look in vain." Mr. Elliott also reports Spring orders for opening of navigation showing up well.

COMPANIES INCORPORATED.

LA REINA MINERAL WATER CO., Montreal, have been incorporated with a share capital of $20,000, to deal in mineral and aerated waters and to carry on a retail and wholesale cigar and tobacco business. Provisional directors: A. Hamelin, L. Hamelin, M. Gabias, J. Hamelin, J. A. Leprohon, N. Normandin and J. A. Hurteau, all of Montreal.

Among the Boards of Trade

Annual Meeting of Guelph Board.

AT the annual meeting of the Guelph Board of Trade on April 18, the old officers were re-elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, G. B. Ryan; vice-president, J. W. Lyon; secretary-treasurer, J. Watt. Council, J. M. Duff, J. M. Taylor, C. Kloepfer, J. C. Keleher, W. W. Near, R. L. Torrance, J. M. Bond, F. W. Galbraith, J. E. McElderry, H. Murton, F. Frank, J. M. Struthers, E. R. Bollert and H. C. Scholfield.

The question of Government ownership of telephones was thoroughly discussed and a resolution adopted favoring Government ownership and operation of the long-distance telephone lines, coupled with Government or municipal ownership and control of city services.

Port Arthur Board Meets.

The Port Arthur Board of Trade held its annual meeting on April 18, which was attended by the largest representation of influential members of the board in the course of its history. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, G. O. P. Clavet; vice-president, H. A. McKibbin; council, W. F. Langworthy, J. T. Emmerson, J. L. Meikle, C. H. Shera, S. W. Ray, J. Little, F. S. Wiley, A. G. Seaman, R. A. Ruttan, J. G. Ashforth, F. Mariaggi and A. McGillis.

Want Free Port.

The council of the Montreal Board of Trade discussed the increase of harbor charges at its meeting on April 19, and the members expressed the conviction that the abolition of such charges was required in the interests of the point. A resolution to this effect was adopted and forwarded by wire to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It was worded as follows:

"Whereas the expenditure incurred to enable the port of Montreal to satisfactorily handle the trade of the country which passes over its wharves has caused the harbor commissioners to endeavor to increase the revenue of the port by the imposition of charges on all ships and craft using the harbor; whereas such addition to the charges of the port will prove a serious hindrance to the trade thereof; whereas the Dominion Government has encouraged, by a wise and liberal expenditure on the canals, on the channel of the St. Lawrence and on aids to navigation, the development of the carrying trade of the cauntry by the national waterway, and whereas the object of such expenditure will be partly defeated if the Montreal harbor dues are not abolished;

"Therefore resolved, that in the opinion of the council of the Montreal Board of Trade, the time has arrived when the Dominion Government should assume the obligations of the Montreal harbor commissioners and the cost of maintaining the port, in order that the trade of the country, so large a proportion of which passes through Montreal, may forever be free from the harbor charges now imposed to meet the obligatians of the Harbor Board."

Reports were received from the Provincial Legislation Committee with regard to bills before the Legislature, relating to insurance companies and trust companies. The report ran as follows:

"That the Provincial Insurance Act, being entirely inadequate to protect the community against the loss which would be involved by the sudden failure of insurance companies with small paid-up capitals, it should be replaced by improved legislation on the lines of the Dominion Act; that if the introduction of such legislation is not considered advisable at this session of the Legislature the immediate adoption of such amendments to the statutes of the province is urged as will render impossible the passage of the bills providing for the incorporation of insurance companies now before the Provincial Legislature. As an instance of the need for legislation for the protection of insurers, it may be mentioned that so many small insurance companies, fire and life, have had to give up business that the superintendent of insurance has recently advised the Dominion Government to insist upon a very large paid-up capital before permitting a company to carry on business, and this although the present law provides that such companies must, before the issue of the Government license, deposit with the Minister, in good securities, the sum of $50,000; moreover, the Dominion Government will not grant a license to any company to carry on life, fire, accident, health, guarantee, annuity and endowment insurance."

IN THE LEGAL COURTS.

The litigation between Mr. Saunby, miller, London, and that city still goes on merrily. The Supreme Court reversed the judgments of the two inferior courts and gave their decision in favor of the city by a majority of three to two. Mr. Saunby has now taken the case to the Privy Council and judgment is expected to be given in July. The dispute has reference to the building of a dam by the city and the consequent loss of power to Mr. Saunby's mill.

APITEZO—THE NEW BISCUIT CEREAL.

Apitezo—the American Cereal Co.'s new product—which has met with popularity in the United States, is being successfully introduced in Ontario by Henry Wright, the company's agent.

Apitezo is made of selected cereals and is called the "Iron Food" because of the plant iron it contains. This is the same iron that is found in vegetables, such as peas, beans and spinach, but in much greater proportion in Apitezo. This plant iron is the only food element in the world known to make the red or vital property of the blood. Apitezo is cooked ready to eat, comes in crisp, brown biscuits and can be served crisp or soft, as desired.

DON'T CHEAT YOUR WORK.

An employer of thousands of men was asked what thing in all his large operations gave him the most concern. "The man who does a little less than is expected of him," was the reply. "He is the dangerous factor in all business. The absolute failure we readily discover and discharge, but the 'almosts' escape detection for months and often for years, and they make our losses as well as our fears," and with a very serious smile he added, "The drip in business is worse than the leak."

Thousands of men fancy they are fulfilling their duty to their employers and to their tasks by keeping hours and performing just enough to hold on to their positions. They have an idea that to do more would be to give larger service than their compensation required. They object to what they believe would be extra values. "The old man sha'n't get more than he's paying for," is the vernacular.

Possibly it never strikes these trimmers that in cheating their work they are doing double damage; they are injuring their employers much, but they are robbing themselves more; they are, in fact, losing everything in life that is worth while. They fare worse than if they did nothing at all, for time with all its precious values slips entirely from them and leaves no substance or satisfaction. Half doing soon brings undoing. It is the nine-tenths doing or the ninety-nine one-hundredths doing that bleeds business and saps character.—Saturday Evening Post.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MARKETS.

Vancouver, B.C., April 20, 1905

LAST Thursday the first prosecution took place under the new Act licensing commercial travelers. Mr. John Hughes, representing J. L. Nichols Co., of Toronto, was the defendant. Mr. Hughes now carries a blue paper as a souvenir of his visit to this province. He stated to the magistrate when his case was called, that he had been in the Maritime Province recently and had not heard of the new law. As it was the first case, the magistrate ordered a withdrawal of the charge on condition that Mr. Hughes would suspend operations for the present. This he did, appointing a local representative and leaving for the east, where licenses are not required from the unfortunate traveling man.

Had it been "way down east" that dimes were tampered with to defraud one might not have been surprised, but that an uprising was almost precipitated in British Columbia, where but a few short years ago the advent of the "short bit," as the ten cent piece was called in distinction from the half of 25c. or the two-bit piece as the quarter is called to this day, is hardly to be believed. A number of these doctored coins have been circulating, and from the style of the work, experts lay it to the skill of Orientals. The coins are split and the inside hollowed out cleverly, and then filled with base metal and soldered together again. This is so cleverly done that the detection of the fraud is difficult. The coins detected were King Edward issue, 1902.

The White Pass Railway officials in Vancouver have received late advices from the north that the Yukon River is opening. On the 11th the ice moved out of the river opposite White Horse. Of course it will be later when it goes out of Lake Lebarge, but the lower river always opens before the lake. The ice in the latter is very thin this year and will likely go out early next month so that navigation will be open clear from White Horse to Dawson before many weeks.

In 1902 the breakup took place on April 21; in 1903, on May 2, and in 1904 on April 25. At Dawson the ice began to move in 1902 on May 13, in 1903 on May 11, and in 1904 on May 7.

Buchanan, who joined the Woodward Departmental Stores, Limited, in Vancouver when that concern was formed, and closed his own business to do so, has withdrawn and is again setting up on his own account in the old line of crockery and house furnishings, under the style of R. G. Buchanan & Co. He has secured premises on Granville street in a new store on the west side and north from the Hotel Vancouver.

Australian fruits and produce were represented much more liberally in the cargo of the Miowera, which arrived last Thursday from the Orient, than was anticipated. The shipments of fruit were grapes, pears and apples, the former being most in quantity. Altogether there were sixty tons of fruit and the consignments arrived in better shape than any other shipments of fruit from Australia have ever reached this coast. The system of cold storage has been changed, which accounts for the improvement. The former method was to force cold air into the chambers in which the fruit was stored. As a result it "sweated" in the package and spoiled. Now, however, the temperature is lowered by means of a brine-freezing mixture forced through coils in the chamber, and the process does not disturb the atmosphere in the compartments. This has had the result of avoid-

About 90 tons of onions arrived from Australia by the same steamer, and they were in excellent condition. They are being marketed at about the same prices as paid for California onions, perhaps a half-cent better. The prices run about 5 to 5½c. per lb. Local onions are out of the market almost.

A few new potatoes from California were received last week, but they came on special order and were sold at 5c. per lb. Local receipts are much freer since cold weather passed, as up-country and up-river stocks have been forwarded.

Prediction is a dangerous role. But it is hardly a prediction to state that this will be the banner year for British Columbia dairy produce. Already the number of creameries has increased so much that the local product is a distinct factor in the market. This year, early as it is yet in the season, the quantity being marketed is very large. Add to that the fact that a fine and warm Spring has advanced the pastures till cows are now being fed on the fields of clover entirely and are giving an extraordinary flow of milk, and it is to be expected that the output from the rapidly-increasing number of ranches of the lower mainland will greatly exceed former seasons.

Local butter is still fairly firm at 30c. but dairy make is coming in freely, and with that the creamery will fall a little. The California stock which has been in the market is a little cheaper this week because the Australian or New Zealand stock which arrived ex Miowera takes the lead as fancy stock. The latter brings a better price, but the whole range is within 27 to 28c.

Local green vegetables, bunch lettuce, radishes, green onions, etc., are very liberally offered and prices are extremely low. From 25 to 35c. per dozen bunches covers the jobbing rate. California celery is dear at $1.10 per dozen.

GOOD MAPLE SUGAR CROP.

D. Rattray & Sons, of Montreal and Quebec, who are the largest handlers of maple sugar in Canada for the American market, which buys the bulk of the Canadian crop, tell us that about a month ago the appearances were very poor for a good crop, but that owing to the favorable weather of the last three weeks not only will there be a large crop but one of fine quality. Beauce and Dorchester, the largest producing counties, have large crops, and there is also a good crop throughout L'Islet, Kamouraska and other counties in the Beauce district. Prices on the new crop have not been named as yet, as the bulk of the sugar will not be marketed until towards the end of May, but they are expected to be moderate.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegrapb up to 12 a.m. Thursday, April 27th, 1905.

BUSINESS continues brisk. There is a heavy movement of goods, and not much change in values. Sugar continues very firm at the recent advance in Winnipeg, but no further advance has been made for points west of Portage La Prairie. Some advances have been made in spices. Pepper has been very firm for some time, and local prices have now been advanced to 28 cents for white pepper and 20 cents for black. Cassia and ginger have also been marked up to 18 cents. Coffee is weaker, and local prices are declining.

Sugar.

No further change in sugar is reported at time of writing. As noted before, the recent advance in Winnipeg does not apply to points west of Portage La Prairie. We quote:

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

The outlook for fruit this year is splendid. The peach trees Wintered well, and from present indications there will likely be a big crop.

Almost the entire peach crop of Northeast Georgia was killed by the freeze of April 16. The peach crop as well as truck and other tender vegetation has been seriously damaged in other sections of the state.

Canada stands in the very front rank of exhibitors at the fruit exhibition now being held in London, Eng., under the auspices of the Royal Horticultural Society, her display of bottled fruits and vegetables being the finest ever seen in London.

The "strawberry weevil" is reported to be doing considerable damage this year to the North Carolina berry crop. Heavy frosts during the week have also inflicted more or less damage on the fruit and vegetable crops throughout the Southern States.

The apple-growing district of King's County, Nova Scotia, is to have an up-to-date plant for utilizing fruit unsuited to the English market. A company has been capitalized at $100,000 and a factory will be erected at Port Williams Station during the coming Summer for the manufacture of evaporated apples, vinegar, jellies, etc.

Fruit growers in the Niagara district report that the cold weather which has prevailed for the past few days has not damaged the trees in the least. Instead of being harmful it is rather a benefit, as the buds have not formed sufficiently for any hurt to come to them from frost. The cold stops the flow of sap in the trees and retards growth and for this reason there is less danger from frosts later on.

American Dried Fruits in Europe.

(From United States Consul-General Cheater, Budapest, Hungary)

The alertness of the Germans is doing everything to place as many hindrances as possible on the German frontier to the admission of undesirable industrial or agricultural products. It is especially attending to American dried fruits, which are often found fault with, owing to high content of sulphurous acid, due to their strong exposure to sulphur. Lately the Crefeld Food Inspection Station reported that of 47 shipments of dried fruit of American origin, it had to reject 37 for superfluous sulphurization, because they exceeded the amount of sulphurous acid content licensed by the Prussian Minister of Agriculture. This is instructive for Hungarians, too, as American fruits are being sold in Hungary which make a fine showing, but are less healthful.

It is evident that there is a good market for American dried fruits in Hungary so long as the "Prussian system" is kept at a distance by the Hungarian domestic competitors.

Winter Apples for Mexico.

Mr. A. W. Donly, Canadian agent in Mexico, informs the Canadian public that our winter apples will find a good market there if carefully selected and packed. Fruit must be uniform in size, and each apple must be wrapped in tissue paper. Medium-size boxes, and not barrels, should be used. Mexico imports $400,000 of boxes and box shooks a year. One Canadian firm is reaching out for this trade, and, in spite of high freight rates, and having to ship via New York, is meeting with considerable success. Could a freight rate of 25 cents per hundred pounds be secured Canada could control the market. The present rate is somewhat over 90 cents per hundred pounds.

GREEN FRUITS.

Toronto, April 27, 1905.

As an evidence of the very satisfactory Easter trade in green fruit repeat orders are already being freely received by the wholesale fruit houses. Oranges are firm with prospects pointing to a high market all season. The quality of the fruit, however, has never been so good at this season as it is this year. Mediterranean sweets are arriving on the market and are being quoted at $3.50 to $4. The banana business has been slow, particularly in green stock; in fact, there have been more bananas in green shape on the local market this week than the wholesale trade could handle with convenience owing to the cool weather. Seven hand bunches are selling in a jobbing way off track at from 65c. to 75c.

Pines are 50c. easier than they were last week and sweet potatoes 25c. Grape fruit is 50c. higher.

The first direct steamer from Mediterranean ports will have landed in Montreal by the time this week's issue of The Grocer reaches its readers. Owing to light supplies of lemons a few cars are being bought in New York from the steamer Jacona's cargo for immediate requirements.

Strawberries are coming daily, and Louisiana fruit will be replaced this week by North Carolina stock which will arrive regularly from now on until the Baltimores start. We quote as follows:

(Just as we go to press the Jacona is reported at Cape Breton.)

VEGETABLES.

A quiet market in domestic vegetables and active business in imported green vegetables are reported for the week. A scarcity of potatoes was noted last week but supplies are now coming more freely; prices, however, are somewhat firmer than they were a week ago. Southern cabbage is in evidence this week and prices have dropped to $3.25 and $3.50 per crate. Egg plants are also down from $2 to $3 per crate. Green peppers are off the market. Florida celery is selling at $3.75 per case. Bermuda onions are down 75c. and Egyptian onions 25c. Kale is seen on the market this week and is quoted at from $1.75 to $2 per bbl. Radishes are selling at 40c. per doz. bunches.

GREEN FRUITS.

Last week's trade was fair in all lines on account of Easter, but this week will be quiet. There has been a great demand for California navel oranges but the supplies were light. Dealers are now awaiting the arrival of direct Mediterranean steamers, some of these having large cargoes of fruits. The Jacona is expected at the end of the week with a consignment af green fruits. The sale of bananas is quiet generally. A heavy shipment of pincapples is also coming. There is a feeling that the trade will greatly gain in activity within a few weeks.

JERSEY CREAM YEAST CAKES
The yeast on the square.

To the Grocery Trade

GENTLEMEN :

Our travellers complain that they are met everywhere in Ontario with the statement, "It is difficult to get JERSEY CREAM YEAST CAKES." They say even travellers who represent houses who handle our yeast say they do not keep it. While we very much prefer you to buy OUR Yeast Cakes from your regular wholesale grocer, we want you never to be out of it. You all know the difficulties we have had to contend with—a long, expensive law suit, men going around making all kinds of statements against our goods, post cards warning you not to handle our goods, our signs being torn down all over Ontario, etc., etc. With all this contemptible competition the sale of Jersey Cream Yeast Cakes has increased steadily month after month. If you like fair play and cannot get our yeast in regular channels, WRITE US DIRECT. Order a few articles to make up freight as there are so many that it makes no difference to you where you buy. Remember there is a certificate in each box that when you get ten you can procure a box of yeast from any wholesale grocer in Canada, free. This is taken from our advertising account. While we want you to buy direct from your wholesale grocer, who is allowed a fair profit, who also receives his full profit on free box, IF YOU CANNOT GET IT FROM HIM, order direct. Also bear in mind when you are asked for yeast, it pays best to sell Jersey Cream Yeast Cakes. DO NOT SELL ANY OLD YEAST. We will exchange all old yeast or pay you the cash for it.

BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

Retail Trade.

THE Easter trade has been exceptionally good. The quietness of the Lenten season has been followed by a reaction in which confectionery has played a prominent part. The holiday season provides unbounded possibilities to the candy stores. The city stores, in particular, have taken great advantage of their opportunities. The windows have been filled with the most alluring displays of sweets. The egg, which has become emblematic of Easter, has been imitated in confections of various degrees of excellence. Many windows have assumed an unwonted interest through the candy eggs and the chicks and rabbits which have been exhibited. The grocers are sharing extensively in the extra sales of the season.

Feature Crackers.

Crackers are good things to feature during the Summer months. They are a part of all outdoor social gatherings and for serving in the house have gained much popularity. If they were pushed energetically they would provide a highly profitable part of the business. Try some boxed goods and draw your customers' attention to them. A personal introduction to goods is usually followed by a sale. It will not be long before crackers will establish a hold among your customers which will extend to strangers. Be persistent in showing them. Crackers have a big sale now, enough to make it well worth your while to go after it. If you just throw your energy into it, for the next few months, this department will stand second to none in your store as profit getters.

Candy-Eating Nation.

REPORTS have recently come to hand to the effect that the candy manufacturing business in Mexico has received a decided impetus in the course of the last twelve months. Mexico, as a matter of fact, is one of the world's great sugar-producing countries, and cane sugar is the best for candy. The Mexicans themselves are large consumers of confectionery, or the candied fruits and other products which have largely occupied its place. The great abundance of luscious tropical fruits and vegetables growing there have already coupled the name of Mexico with sweets. For example, the camote or Mexican sweet potato, when baked is extremely sweet, and exudes a delicious syrup

Mexican ladies, at their receptions and other social affairs, invariably have candy. Small trays of it are passed around from time to time, and it is even eaten by both sexes during the course of animated conversation. The high price of imported confections has hitherto been a drawback to the general consumption of this article, though the first great step in the introduction of this branch of manufacture was accomplished in the popularization of candied fruits. There are numbers of prosperous stores, in the City of Mexico, even where nothing else is offered for sale but native fruits cooked in syrup or encrusted in sugar. The principal fruits treated in this manner are the pineapple, which is sliced before preparation, the fig, the plum, the pear, and the camote, the latter being a vegetable rather than a true fruit. At the present time candied chestnuts are imported and retailed to the cultivated taste at from ten to fifteen cents apiece. From the candied fruit to pure candy was the next progressive step, and this has at last been taken. The United States is noted as the greatest candy-consuming country in the world, and Mexico is now preparing to follow in the lead of her enterprising neighbor to the north.

Confectionery Notes.

The candy factory of the Robert Simpson Co., at 109 Front street east, Toronto, was damaged by fire last week. The loss did not exceed $150.

A HINT TO THE GROCER.

Are your customers asking for "Royal Household," and are you failing to supply it? If so, be assured that you are driving away the best of your trade, for people are going to the place where they can get "Royal Household," and maybe their flour trade is not all they will take with them.

The extensive advertising of "Royal Household" is awakening an interest on the part of people who have not yet tried "Royal Household," and the thousands of published testimonials of people who have used it are convincing them that they want to give it a trial.

When a woman gets an idea that she wants a barrel of "Royal Household" to give it a trial, there is no use trying to put her off, and it will not be a good thing for you if she must go to another to get it; for not one woman in a hundred will ask for any other flour after she has used "Royal Household" once.

In the light of these facts you simply cannot afford not to handle "Royal Household," for otherwise you would have to stem the tide of public sentiment, which is far too strong. You can afford to be without some brands of flour, but not "Royal Household."

Grain Prospects.

LATEST reports from Manitoba state that wheat seeding is two weeks earlier than last year, and is being prosecuted under the most favorable conditions. The same is true of Spring seeding in the United States, which is well advanced. The progress made in the growing Winter wheat crop there is said to promise big results.

New Flour Mills

THE Lake of the Woods Milling Co. are about to erect a big mill at Montreal with capacity of 4.000 barrels, and another one at Winnipeg with capacity of 5,000 barrels. In addition to the two new plants, the company are making important extensions and improvements in their present mills and elevators.

The capacity of the present mills is 5,000 barrels, but with the additional plants the company will place themselves among the largest milling concerns in the world.

Up to the present time the operations of the company have been confined to the country west of the Great Lakes, their mills being situated at Keewatin and Portage la Prairie, and their 66 elevators being distributed throughout Manitoba and the Territories. Work in connection with increasing the capacity of the Keewatin properties is already under way.

No statement was made as to the location of the Montreal mill, but the property on which the plant will be erected at Winnipeg has been placed at the disposal of the company. Plans for the two new structures are expected to be ready by June, and it is understood that both mills will be operated by electricity.

Re Export Duty on Wheat.

The London (England) Standard comments as follows on the recent proposal of certain Canadian grain interests to place a duty on wheat exported from Canada: "The proposal is undoubtedly attractive to those who would develop native industries to the utmost: but difficulties and dangers attend its execution, and it may be that the ultimate effect would be the opposite of that intended. To discourage the export of an article to a country which is ready to buy it is to set that country looking round for an alternative source of supply: and the world's potentialities of production are great enough to lead to the expectation that the search would not be in vain: and then when the alternative supply is found, the country which would not export its raw materials is faced, not with a comfortable double industry of its own, but with a double competition, which may check both its raw material and manufactured article production. It is a different matter with an export duty on coal, imposed to preserve to home consumption a vanishing article; it would be different in the case of a raw material of which a country had an absolute monopoly; but these considerations do not apply to the wheat and wool, etc., of Canada, which country, not having a monopoly of them, but having the power to produce them to an enormous extent, would surely be best advised to go on producing them, even though a large part of them leave Canada in an industrially uncompleted state."

Three Hundred Million Wheat Crop.

WINTER wheat is among the possibilities for the agriculturists of Southern Alberta; in fact it is expected that fully two million bushels of Winter wheat will be harvested this Summer from land hitherto regarded as only fit for ranching purposes, says J. Carruthers, the well-known grain merchant, who has just completed a tour of the Northwest.

The experiments so far have been carried on in the vicinity of Calgary. The wheat is sown in July and harvested the following July, and so far has seemed to stand the Winter well. So favorably have the C.P.R. been impressed that they are buying 25,000 bushels of hard Kansas red Winter wheat to sell at cost to Southern Alberta farmers. This is a splendid hard wheat and very hardy. It matures early, and if its culture proves a success it will mean an enormous advance for Northwest farmers. Hitherto the Territories have been regarded as an exclusively Spring wheat district, and there has been the ever-present danger of loss by early frosts. With Winter wheat this will be obviated. If present signs of progress are any indication, the wheat crop of the Canadian West ought to reach 300,000,000 bushels within ten years.

U.S. Imports Growing.

FOR the seven months of the present fiscal year ending January, 1905, wheat importations into the United States amounted to 2,021,479 bushels as compared with 4,092 bushels for the same period in 1903.

In wheat exports the figures for the seven months of 1903, 1904 and 1905, ending January, were 83,722,750 bush., 39,319,769 bush., and 4,073,652 bush., respectively. During these periods the United States exported to British North America 4,389,881 bush., 1,176,617 bush., and 52,602 bush.; to the United Kingdom, 38,749,161 bush; 20,927,952 bush., and 3,709,516 bush.; to British Africa, 4,084,236 bush, 821,997 bush., and 31,902 bush.; and to Germany, 10,-591,843 bush., 6,562,048 bush., and 100,-042 bush.

During the same period of 1903, 1904 and 1905 the United States exported flour amounting to 12,029,265 bbls., 11,-947,481 bbls., and 5,300,887 bbls., distributed as follows: to the United Kingdom, 5,969,143 bbls., 6,377,593 bbls., and 1,577,919 bbls.; to British North America, 159,242 bbls., 133,556 bbls., and 39,524 bbls.; to Germany, 537,016 bbls., 420,020 bbls., and 97,616 bbls., and to British Africa, 748,780 bbls., 310,321 bbls., and 133,061 bbls.

It begins to look as if the United States was losing its reputation as one of the great wheat and flour exporting countries of the world.

Canadian Mills For Great Britain.

A gigantic plan is on foot for the organization of a company, with capital of $10,000,000 to $12,000,000, to establish grain elevators in the Canadian Northwest and build flour mills in Great Britain. It has long been recognized that Canadian mills are at a great disadvantage in competing in the British markets against English millers, on account of labor being cheaper in Great Britain and the advantages enjoyed by British millers in the selection of raw material, in addition to the fact that the cost of transportation for the raw material is usually about one-half the cost for the manufactured product, the former being easier to handle.

Break in May Wheat.

APRIL 22 marked one of the sensations of the year in grain circles in the United States, when May wheat crashed downward through a range of ten cents a bushel on the Chicago Exchange, and left the Wall street operators, headed by John W. Gates, out of pocket to the extent of several million dollars.

Convinced of their defeat at the hands of more experienced western powers in the grain trade—the so-called Armour combination — with which in self-defence they combined their energies when they saw the last hole of escape closed, the Gates people liquidated on an enormous scale in all the principal markets of the country.

The immediate effect in Canada of the sensational decline in the States has been a decline of from 2 to 3c. per bushel all round in the price of wheat.

Canned Rice.

THE enormous increase in the production of rice in the Southern States—particularly in Louisiana and Texas—has outstripped the demand, and there is corresponding concern in increasing the market. The use of rice as a staple food is very nearly limited to the south, where it takes the part assigned to the potato in other sections of the country. The rice growers made serious efforts to promote a wider use of their product by making "rice kitchens" a feature of their exhibits at the Charleston, Buffalo and St. Louis expositions. These have demonstrated that rice, when cooked in the various ways in which it was served, was most palatable and nutritious, but it was not so easy to teach people how to reproduce such dishes. Hence its principal use outside of the south is in puddings and other sweet dishes. The demand has been somewhat increased by making rice the basis of two or three sorts of prepared foods of the "cereal" order. Possibly, considerably more can be done in this direction. There is a very numerous constituency for all sorts of "hygienic" foods, and, since rice is really one of the most wholesome articles of diet, there may be a considerable future for it in this direction.

It has lately been suggested that the consumption of rice may be largely increased by use as a canned food. The convenience of canned foods, not only for use at sea and in camps, but for ordinary domestic purposes, where the saving of time and trouble is no small consideration, has led to an enormous and steadily-increasing consumption. Some of the figures of the annual output in the canning business in the United States attest its enormous extent. Foremost stands sweet corn, of which 260,000,000 tins are said to be put up annually. Tomatoes make a close second, with 250,000,000 tins, while of salmon there are 206,000,000 tins. The canning of "Boston baked beans" has led to an enormous consumption; formerly they could hardly be had outside of New England, and now they are in world-wide use. It is thought that the consumption of rice may be promoted in similar fashion. The American rice interests are well organized, and it is said that they will be likely to take this matter up systematically.

Poor Outlook For Grain Shipments.

The prospects for the Canadian grain shipping trade for the season 1905, which begins in about two weeks, are anything but promising. At one time it was hoped a good export trade in corn might be worked up owing to the record crop in the United States last year, but with present prices nothing can be done; and as for the export of American wheat, that is out of the question. In regard to Manitoba wheat, most of the surplus will be needed by Ontario millers, and very little will go forward from the Port of Montreal for May. A portion of this year's crop may go out towards the close of navigation.

Flour and Cereal News.

The plans for a million-dollar elevator at Port Colborne will shortly be completed.

The Northern Elevator Co. have arranged to build a 3,000-barrel flour mill in Winnipeg, as well as an elevator with capacity of 250,000 bushels.

CANADA-CUBAN SERVICE.

The Canadian Government have called for tenders for a monthly steamship service between Cuba and Canada. It is proposed that the service in Summer shall be between Havana or some other port in Cuba, via Nassau in the Bahamas, to Charlottetown, Halifax and Montreal. In the Winter time it will be from Cuba to Halifax, via Nassau.

Trade Conditions.

THIS month has not been as strong in retail sales as the preceding month promised. The continued coldness of April was a decided set-back. However, the prospects now are for a betterment in conditions as the warm weather becomes assured. Weather conditions are of paramount importance to the tobacco trade. The more men can get out in the open air, the more will be the sales of tobacco.

Altogether throughout the country there is a strong feeling of hopefulness. The factories are turning out good supplies and the buying has been large. This condition should have a strong influence on the business of the grocer. The next few months should prove of great value to the tobacco department. The grocer must see that a fair share of the anticipated prosperity in this line of business comes his way.

Everyone Smokes in Japan.

A RECENT traveler in Japan discusses the question of Japanese smoking:

"I think every man, woman and child in Japan smokes. This may be an exaggeration, especially as regards the children; but it is no exaggeration to say that smoking is as much a part of the everyday life of the people as is eating and drinking, and it is indulged in by women with the same innocent, nonchalant enjoyment as is exhibited by the men. It was a bit of a shock to me when I first came to Japan to come face to face with this fact before I had an opportunity to form any sort of impressions of the little women in whom I was prepared to be so interested.

"I landed at Nagasaki, and almost immediately took a train for Moji, whence I was to go for a trip through the interior. It was early morning, and being in the midst of the rainy season, everything was soggy damp. The first-class carriage into which I was shown was anything but first-class; it was unclean and badly ventilated, and its only other occupants were two Japanese ladies and a man.

"The women had evidently just finished breakfasting in the car, and were now sitting on their feet upon the seat absolutely enwrapped in clouds of the most evil-smelling smoke, which they puffed from long cigarettes. They were beautifully dressed in silk kimonos and were undoubtedly gentlewomen. I knew that even then, when I had seen so few, and I must confess I was rather annoyed, because their daintiness seemed to be entirely destroyed. But now, after a residence of months, I think I would rather see them smoke than not. They do it so daintily, so innocently, with such frank enjoyment, and so constantly that it seems a very part of their quaint Jappiness."

Troubles of French Smokers.

That long-suffering individual, the French taxpayer, is at present indulging in an energetic protest against the tobacco regie. The manufacture of tobacco in every form is in France a Government monopoly. The result is inferior wares.

I do not mean that the French tobacco is unwholesome. On the contrary, I believe that the products of the regie are all sound tobacco, without deleterious mixture of any kind. They may be a little trying to a delicate larynx, but they will not wreck the nerves or ruin the digestion.

One of the most common causes of complaint is the unsatisfactory way in which the tobacco is prepared. Sometimes one finds great bits of wood among the leaves. I sometimes imagine that the two monopolies, telegraph and tobacco, get mixed, and that an occasional telegraph pole gets chopped up and finds its way into the packets of Caporel. The regie explains that these chunks of wood are from the branches of the tobacco plant.

High Prices in British Guiana.

According to the Demerara fortnightly market report dated April 5, 1905, the effect of fixing the duty on tobacco at 50c. per lb. for leaf containing not less than 35 per cent. of moisture and at 3c. additional for every 2 per cent. less moisture, has been to make some black tobacco liable to a higher duty. The temporary scarcity of low-duty tobacco in British Guiana has been to slightly advance values and unsettle trade.

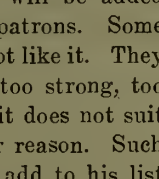
HOW TO CULTIVATE YOUR COFFEE TRADE.

THERE is no good reason why any retail grocer should not have a profitable coffee trade. The great difficulty with the retail coffee trade lies largely in the fact that retailers are not particular about observing a few common-sense business rules. They do not handle their coffee trade properly, and as a result they do not get out of it anything like the returns that they should get, says a writer in Tea and Coffee Trade Journal.

The retail grocer should understand in the very beginning that the buying and selling and care of coffee is quite a different matter from dealing in potatoes and package goods, or a long list of staple articles that might be named. Some of these goods that the retailer handles might be managed just as well by a slot machine as by a first-class grocer. Coffee, however, is something which calls for the use of brains, and the man who uses his brains to the best advantage will get the most out of his coffee trade.

Many retail grocers are not successful coffee buyers because they lack confidence in their own judgment. They allow their opinions to be warped by the complaints of a few of their patrons, who are, in fact, poor judges of coffee. They forget those who are satisfied with good coffee but say nothing, and fancy that because a few complain, the good coffee they may be handling is not what it should be. They carry the complaint to their jobber, and insist upon getting coffee for the few, and lose the good opinion of the many.

The retail grocer must get it into his head that there are comparatively few good judges of coffee among his patrons, and he should know that if he once gets a really good coffee and persists in selling it, he will educate enough people up to a liking for that coffee to make him a nice coffee trade. He must expect to lose a few customers who do not like good coffee. There are such people in every neighborhood, and there are, too, people who like one kind of good coffee and dislike another coffee of equal quality. The retail grocer, to be successful with coffee, must know these things and govern himself accordingly. He must create a demand for a certain kind of good coffee, and stick to that kind, no matter what any of his patrons may say. If he will do this he will find that he will get a group of people drinking this particular kind of coffee, and this group will grow.



The retailer must not suppose that everyone who wants good coffee and is willing to try his grade will be added to this group of coffee patrons. Some of those who try it will not like it. They will find it too pungent, too strong, too mellow, or they will find it does not suit their taste for some other reason. Such people the grocer cannot add to his list of high-grade coffee drinkers. He must not let them influence his judgment so that he will change his best grade of coffee. He must persevere and keep on creating a larger and larger field of buyers whose tastes this particular coffee fits.

This is only a small part of the business of coffee dealing. It takes a bright man to buy coffee and get what he pays for. Of course, the retailer should be a good judge. But in the nature of things few retailers are able to go into a jobbing house and taste several kinds of coffee and then reach a satisfactory judgment. What the retailer should do is to put himself in the hands of the coffee man, and allow him to furnish him such a blend as will most likely suit his trade. Then the retailer should drink this coffee with his meals, in his own house. His judgment there will be better than it would be at another man's coffee table.

Having got a satisfactory coffee, the retailer should familiarize himself with all its qualities. He should know where it was grown and how it has been treated from the time it was picked. Knowing these things, he can talk coffee intelligently to his patrons. If he convinces them he knows a lot about coffee and is trying to give them the benefit of his knowledge, he will get their confidence and hold their trade.

Another important matter the retailer should not overlook. He should learn from his coffee man just how many cups a pound of coffee should produce to be at its best. And he should make this known to his customers. He should learn, too, how best to make coffee, and this he should make known to his customers. Then he should talk coffee with them from time to time and find out whether or not they are getting the results they should get. In short, the retail grocer who would be a successful dealer should use his creative faculties. He should really take charge of his customers and see to it that they learn to know good coffee, to know how to care for it.

And this means some considerable trouble for the retailer. Well, anything that is done well, done just a little better than the majority do, is just what marks the difference between the successful and unsuccessful man. The coffee trade is the best trade the retail grocer can have, and it is worth all the attention he can possibly give it. Let him subscribe to his trade paper and read it religiously; in this way he will accumulate a vast deal of information that will stand him in good stead.

Anyone can buy well the general run of grocery goods, but it taxes a man's creative faculties to properly manage a retail coffee trade. It pays to put brains and energy in the retail coffee trade.

While there is a good profit in coffee well bought and well sold, the retailer should not get the idea into his head that he is to charge an outrageous price for even his best coffee. A fair profit and a large trade should be the rule. Instead of this plan there are many retailers who cut on staples and other lines, and they try to make up their loss on coffee. The result is they never have anything like the coffee trade they should have.

Coffee sold on its merits independent of all other goods in the store will yield a good profit from such a large trade as may be built up by men who have brains and know how to use them. But the coffee should not be made to take care of a lot of bad business deals.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

TRADE will improve generally as soon as the different lake, river and ocean vessels get into regular service. The lake and river craft are well started, and within a few days the ocean traffic at Montreal will have been fully initiated. In fact, by the time this matter reaches the public it is expected that several ocean steamers may be docked at Montreal. The R. & O. Navigation Co. have slipped their various river steamers out of Winter quarters and spick and span they look with new paint and various accoutrements of promise great trade development this season.

For instance, the probabilities are that Canadians will have a fine chance to ship hay. It is reported from our own correspondents in London and New York that the hay supplies are short. There is a tendency in both these large consuming centres towards higher prices and the report goes further, inasmuch as it states that the best supplies in clover hay and mixed clover come from Canada. For the last three weeks large quantities of Canadian hay have been shipped from Boston, Portland and St. John, N.B., as well as from New York. On the other hand, from the farmers' early reports, the outlook for a good hay crop is first rate. That is principally guess work so far.

In other lines the big shipping offices in Montreal report excellent supplies and the bookings for May have exceeded the general record for last year.

Dairy supplies are continuing to look well and the best early sign is that stocks of both butter and cheese have been well cleaned up on both sides of the Atlantic. From all parts of Ontario and the West it is reported that shipping will be abundant and early.

Grain rates for May shipment continue to fluctuate, but it is not likely that there will be any material change on the card rates until after the first month of ocean navigation is over.

Plenty of deals are arriving in Montreal for shipment and there are several charters closed this week which are ostensibly for lumber and clear deals in exclusive cargo.

Coal boats are moving and cohorts of colliers are scheduled to leave Sydney within the next few days so that the first week in May will be an interesting one for the whole Dominion as far as freights and charters are concerned.

These rates are for general information only, and are subject to change at any time without notice; it is therefore important that all contracts must be reported by wire and confirmation obtained before closing with shippers, and unless specifically stated to be prompt shipment, or shipped within ten days after date of contract from the west.

The above rates are exchanged on basis of $4.80 to £1 Stg., excepting that when freight is prepaid, the ocean proportion of the through rate must be col'ected on basis of $4.86 to the pound sterling.

If freight is offered other than specified above, on which steamship connections are accustomed to quote a weight or measurement rate at their option, prompt replies will be facilitated by giving, when applying for rate, the relative weight and measurement of the merchandise.

It is understood that when reporting Sack Flour engagements, a carload is considered 28,000 lbs.

It is also important that shipper's name be given for every engagement made.

* Rates quoted in cents are per 100 lbs.

The "Thistle" Brand Fish

The fact that for twenty years we have sold the "Thistle" Brand of Canned Haddies, Kippered Herrings, etc., is pretty good evidence of the high standard of quality of the goods. By high quality we mean, first, the very best fish put up in the very cleanest way; second, the preservation of the rich, delicate, natural flavor by prompt action after the fish are caught.

There has never been any attempt by the owners of the "Thistle" Brand to produce their goods as cheap goods—quality has been their watchword first, last and always. They have never pretended to compete on the basis of price and they never will. The "Thistle" Brand is to be the best by every test and regardless of expense.

The Manager of the company is unsurpassed as a fish-curer, as his father was before him. The buyers of the "Thistle" Brand can be absolutely sure of perfection. It is the standard from which the quality of all other brands is judged.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS' TAX

AROUND of the Winnipeg wholesale establishments shows that there is no little surprise and indignation among Winnipeg business men at the action of the British Columbia Legislature in imposing a tax on commercial travelers from other provinces. It is argued by all that as wholesale business is almost entirely carried on through the travelers, this tax is really as much in restraint of inter-provincial trade as a protective duty on the goods would be. Business men are not lawyers, and hence are not competent to express opinions as to the validity of the Act, but the layman's view is that this tax is as contrary to the spirit of the B. N. A. Act as a direct protective duty would be:

The arguments of the Victoria Colonist and other British Columbia apologists for the measure, are not taken seriously. It will be remembered that the Colonist argues for the tax on the ground that B. C. business men have to pay taxes, and should not be subjected to competition with firms that do not pay taxes. Winnipeg business men point to their own heavy taxes in reply to this.

They also claim that it is absurd to suppose the benefits of inter-provincial trade are wholly one-sided. There are many lines of goods which B. C. houses can sell more cheaply in the Territories than can Manitoba or eastern houses, the reason being that they are imported goods from England, brought to British Columbia by water routes, while the Manitoba and eastern houses are forced to pay heavy railway rates.

The opinions quoted below represent the feeling of business men in Winnipeg and Toronto.

John Horne.

John Horne, of Campbell Bros & Wilson, president of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association, was seen by a representative of this paper.

"The tax is an absurdity," said he. "It is a sort of treatment which could scarcely be excused towards foreigners, and it is very strange treatment of Canadians."

"What are the association doing about it?" was asked.

"We were represented in the delegation which went to Ottawa recently to ask for disallowance. The executive here are drafting a resolution, which will be sent to Ottawa."

F. J. C. Cox.

Ald. Cox, secretary of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association, was emphatic in his disapproval.

"It is a protective tax, pure and simple, and designed to shut out trade from other provinces. I can't understand how any province can have the power to impose such a tax. If the various provinces of the Confederation can't trade together freely it is time to dissolve partnership. But the action of the B. C. Legislature is not endorsed by the people of that province. The Vancouver Board of Trade condemned it, and I have just received the following resolution from the Nelson Board of Trade:

" 'That in the opinion of the wholesalers' section of the Nelson Board of Trade the resolution of the British Columbia Assessment Commission to the Government of the province, respecting the imposition of a tax on commercial travelers doing business in British Columbia, is conidered most objectionable in principle.'

"This was passed on April 13. I am including it in a resolution which the association here are sending to Ottawa."

D. J. Dyson.

D. J. Dyson, of the Dyson Co., was emphatic in his disapproval:

"It is an unjust restraint upon trade, and it gives the British Columbia wholesale men a measure of protection to which they are not entitled. It is not in the best interests of the British Columbia merchants, for it will have a tendency to diminish their buying market. Some houses may call away their travelers.

"Eastern competition hurts us more in Manitoba than it does in British Columbia, but it would be foolish for our Legislature to tax travelers."

Thos. Lock.

"It is a hold-up," said Mr. Lock, of Foley, Lock & Larson. "We don't object so very much because of what it will cost us, but we think the principle of such a tax is wrong."

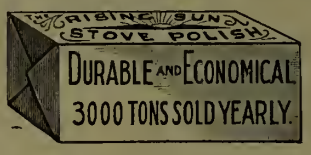
L. C. MacIntyre.

L. C. MacIntyre, manager of the Paulin-Chambers Co., is treasurer of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association, and therefore interested in the question apart from the effect upon his own business.

"Yes, you can say that I consider this tax an injustice. There would be a great outery in British Columbia if the new provinces in the Northwest were to pass a similar law. I remember when there was a law of this kind in force in British Columbia a number of years ago. The tax was hard to collect, was recognized as unjust, and was finally abolished."

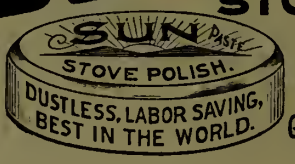
J. F. Eby.

J. F. Eby, of the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, expressed the opinion that the tax would have a tendency to curtail trade. "Competition will be cut out in degree," said he, "and the British Columbia retailer and consumer be placed in the unenviable position of having to pay whatever local wholesale houses wish to ask. The western trade, moreover, will not get as fine assortment of goods as they are getting at present. There is a brisk demand for eastern goods in B. C.; if the tax becomes prohibitive, however, wholesale houses in the east may decide to give this section of territory the go-by."



W. A. Warren.

W. A. Warren, of Warren Bros. & Co., Toronto, remarked to The Grocer representative that the policy of the B. C. Government seemed a petty one as far as the trade were concerned. It was a question whether the wholesale men of Ontario would seriously consider legislating against commercial travelers from other provinces. The only possible reason why the retail trade in British Columbia could favor the new legislation is that they are clannish. Manifestly it cannot be in their best interests to legislate in any way that would tend to limit the local buying market, which the new commercial travelers' tax undoubtedly will.



Mr. M'Quillan.

Mr. McQuillan, president of the Commercial Travelers' Association of Canada, said the stand taken by the association was that the new commercial travelers' tax was distinctly a violation of the spirit of Confederation, if not of the letter. The B.N.A. Act postulated absolute free trade and unrestricted commercial intercourse between the provinces. "Suppose the new western provinces were to levy a similar tax on outside commercial men, which they might very well do, what would be the result? The east is very properly up in arms against the new legislation. It is largely due to eastern business men that the West has reached its present stage of development, and now the western trade would cut them off entirely from trade intercourse. Why don't they put a tax on all agents seeking to do business in British Columbia instead of singling out the commercial travelers?"

In answer to the question as to whether anything was likely to come of the deputation which recently waited upon the Dominion Government, Mr. McQuillan remarked that it was questionable whether the authorities at Ottawa would take any steps towards disallowing the tax, at least at the present time. "It is a debatable point," said he, "as to just where the Dominion Government should come in and dictate to the provinces. It is, moreover, a question according to the Minister, whether a tax of $100 can be considered a hindrance to trade and commerce, whereas there might be no doubt if the tax amounted to $700 or $800. The question of the tax being for revenue purposes only has also to be taken into consideration."

Lieut.-Col. J. I. Davidson.

The head of the firm of Davidson & Hay, Toronto, when interviewed by The Grocer representative, stated that the commercial travelers' tax in British Columbia would affect his firm indirectly through their Calgary house. It was suicidal policy on the part of the retail trade to agree to any arrangement that would tend to limit their buying market. If they didn't care, however, about the only thing for eastern Canadian wholesale houses to do was to go in and bear it. The B. C. wholesale trade were undoubtedly working in their own interests.

PURE FOOD REGULATIONS.

THE success of the public health authorities of Massachusetts in securing an effective enforcement of the State Pure Food Law is of special interest to the Canadian manufacturer and consumer just now, when a similar campaign is being waged by the authorities at Ottawa in the interest of pure foods.

The provisions of the law itself are as follows : "Food shall be deemed to be adulterated : 1. If any substance has been mixed with it so as to reduce, depreciate or injuriously affect its quality, strength or purity. 2. If an inferior or cheaper substance has been substituted for it wholly or in part. 3. If any valuable or necessary constituents or ingredients have been wholly or in part taken from it. 4. If it is in imitation of or is sold under the name of another article. 5. If it consists wholly or in part of a diseased, decomposed, putrid, tainted or rotten animal or vegetable substance or article, whether manufactured or not, or in case of milk, if it is produced by a diseased animal. 6. If it is colored, coated, polished or powdered in such a manner as to conceal its damaged or inferior condition, or if by any means it is made to appear better or of greater value than it is. 7. If it contains any added substance or ingredient which is poisonous or injurious to health. 8. If it contains any added antiseptic or preservative substance, except common table salt, saltpeter, cane sugar, alcohol, vinegar, spices, or, in smoked food, the natural products of the smoking process; but the provisions of this definition shall not apply to any such article if it bears a label on which the presence and the percentage of every such antiseptic or preservative substance are clearly indicated, nor shall it apply to such portions of suitable preservative substances as are used as a surface application for preserving dried fish or meat, or as exist in animal or vegetable tissues as a natural component thereof, but it shall apply to additional quantities.

"The provisions of this and the two preceding sections relative to food shall not apply to mixtures or compounds not injurious to health and which are recognized as ordinary articles or ingredients of articles of food, if every package sold or offered for sale is distinctly labelled as a mixture or compound with the name and per cent. of each ingredient therein.

"Section 19. If a statement of any of the ingredients of an article of food or drink or of an article entering into food or drink is required by law to be stated upon the label of such article, such statement and the name and address of the manufacturer or vendor of the article shall be distinctly and conspicuously printed on the label in straight, parallel lines of plain, uncondensed, legible type, well spaced on a plain ground. The statement of ingredients shall be clearly separated from and not interspersed or confused with other matter, shall specify every such ingredient by its ordinary name, and shall be in the English language. The letters of said type shall be not less than one-twelfth of an inch long, and shall be larger than those of any other printed matter on the label or package, except the name of the compound or chief article enclosed therein, which may be in larger type. The required label shall be firmly attached to or printed on the exterior of the package or envelope of the said article, on the top or side thereof and in plain sight. But the state board of health may in writing approve specific labels not strictly in accordance with the above provisions, if it is of opinion that the information required by law is set forth thereon clearly enough for the reasonable protection of the purchaser. Goods labelled in violation of the provisions of this section shall be subject to the provisions of law relative to adulteration of food which is unlabelled."

CO-OPERATIVE PACKING OF FRUIT.

AN interesting visitor to the Toronto offices of The Grocer this week was Mr. A. McNeill, chief of the Fruit Division, Ottawa. Mr. McNeill has just returned from his home in Western Ontario, where he has been enjoying a well-earned rest.

He says the Dominion Government are sparing no pains in their endeavor to put the fruit growing industry in Canada on a more satisfactory commercial basis. It is generally recognized that the present system of packing, shipping and marketing fruit is too expensive, and it is thought that the gradual introduction of co-operative methods will have a tendency to improve conditions throughout Canada in this respect. Up to the present time growers and shippers have failed to grasp the fact that keeping and shipping qualities, what the trade know as "long lines" and uniformity of fruit, are quite as important considerations in export trade as general appearance and flavor. Readers of The Grocer will hear more about co-operation in the Canadian fruit industry in the Export Number, to which Mr. McNeill is contributing a special article.

Fresh and Cured Fish

Depletion of Georgian Bay Fisheries.

ACCORDING to Capt. King, of French River, one of the best informed fishery experts in Canada, the depletion of the finest fishing field on the American continent—the Georgian Bay—is due to the fact that the fishermen are fishing exclusively for trout and whitefish and not for the enemies of these two classes of fish—the herring, perch, pickerel, German carp, suckers and mullets which live on the spawn of the larger fish. In Georgian Bay in the last twenty years, the supply of white fish and trout has fallen off eighty per cent., until last year there were only two million pounds caught. Less than three hundred thousand pounds of rough fish, as the other classes are termed, were reported in the Government returns. All the latter class of fish are habitues of the inshore, and the reason that not more are caught is that they are not fished for. In Lake Erie where one ton of white fish are caught, thirty of the rough kind are taken, and it is a remarkable fact that in the past twenty years the quantity of white fish caught in Lake Erie has only depreciated 20 per cent. In the past few years the price of rough fish has increased from one to four and five cents a pound in the Eastern States markets, and Capt. King says that there is a big field of industry in catching these classes that is untouched, besides the advantage that the billions of eggs of the trout and white fish which are devoured annually would have a better chance to develop into fish.

Will Low Water Interfere With Salmon Run.

FROM present indications there will not be as much water in the Fraser River this year as in former years, owing to the lack of snow on the mountains, and fishermen are now wondering what effect this will have on the run of sockeye salmon.

"Whether or not the low water in the river will have any effect in lessening the run of fish this season, it is impossible to say," said Mr. Sword, fisheries inspector. "Some of the fishermen think that it will, but there seems to be no good reason why it should. The fishing may not be so good as in seasons when the river was fuller, owing to the fact that the water will be clearer on account of the lack of sediment, and this will enable the fish to see the nets, and avoid them.

"The low water in the river itself will have no effect on the gathering of spawn for the hatcheries, as the ova are procured in the small streams running into the Fraser, and not in the river itself, and these streams are fed from springs, and not from snow water. Last year there was some difficulty in getting the full number of eggs, owing to the drought, which had the effect of drying up the small streams, but this had no connection with lack of snow, and whether the same thing will happen this year or not it is impossible to say."

Everything is going on satisfactorily at the hatcheries. Work is progressing on the new one at Pemberton, and the Harrison Lake hatchery is now completely finished and ready for the rush of next season. This hatchery, it is estimated, will hold as many as 15,000,000 eggs.

Two hundred licenses have already been sold this year, but the majority of these are for the Spring fishing, and the big rush will come in July, when the time comes for the big run of sockeyes.

To Arrange Close Season.

Following the failure of the combined movement on the part of the Canadian and United States Governments to enforce a prolonged close season for sockeye salmon on the Fraser River, Juan de Fuca Strait and the Gulf of Georgia during 1906 and 1908, the canners have been trying to come to some arrangement among themselves by means of which the preservation of the salmon industry will be guaranteed. It is understood that they are in favor of closing down voluntarily for the period named. The outcome will be awaited with interest by the trade.

Price of Herring Advances.

The action of the Newfoundland Government in refusing to allow United States fishing vessels to buy bait in Newfoundland waters is having its effect upon the Gloucester fleet. During the past few days thirty sail of American vessels have arrived at Canso from the fishing grounds seeking bait. Fortunately a good supply of bait awaited them, herring in unusual quantities being taken in nets. The shore fishermen have benefited by the unusual demand. Competition among buyers has advanced the price paid to netters, and herring that usually sell at a dollar a barrel have been bringing as high as five dollars. These American vessels are paying from $200 to $400 each for their baitings, which is a bonanza for the net fishermen.

This is likely to continue throughout the season, as this fleet will be obliged to depend upon the Nova Scotia bait supply now that they are shut out of Newfoundland.

A number of Lunenburg vessels also arrived from the fishing grounds and returned with a supply of bait. They report fish scarce and dogfish plentiful.

Spring Salmon Plentiful.

Latest reports from the coast state that this year's run of Spring salmon is the biggest in fifteen years. As a consequence there are more fishermen out than there have been at this time of the year for many seasons past. The phenomenally large run of Spring salmon has had the effect of lowering the price of fish on the eastern markets, which are tending to become overstocked under the continuous stream of fish from British Columbia. The consequence is that the cannerymen have been forced to lower their prices per pound, to the fishermen. Cape Flattery halibut are already beginning to come in in large quantities.

To Limit Bait Supplies.

The Newfoundland Government has issued regulations under which Newfoundland and Canadian vessels will hereafter be allowed to procure bait in colonial waters, but restricting the quantity permitted them and imposing severe penalties for any violations of the rules. This action by the Government is designed to prevent native fishermen from obtaining excess stocks of bait from which they might supply United States fishing vessels, excluded from these waters under the new Bond Bait Act. The regulations are very comprehensive. They include the treaty coast and Labrador, and show that the Government is determined to enforce the anti-United States law.

To Bar Canadian Fish.

A bill has been introduced in the New York State Senate prohibiting transportation companies from bringing into the state fish caught in that portion of Lake Champlain known as Missisquoi Bay, Que.

Opposed to U.S. Fish Combine.

An effort is being made to induce the Ontario Government to curtail the privileges enjoyed in Ontario by the Booth Fish Co., of the United States, one of the largest concerns of its kind in the United States. The Board of Trade of the Town of Sault Ste. Marie are among those who are moving in this direction and petitions have already been sent to the Commissioner of Public Works.

Those who object to the operations of the Booth Fish Company and similar concerns, do so on the grounds that they are depleting Canadian waters by using nets, and the Government are asked to prevent this.

LOWER GRAIN RATES.

The Board of Railway Commissioners have given an important decision in the matter of the complaint of the Farmers' Association of Canada against the Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific and other railway companies in Ontario and Quebec. The farmers alleged that discrimination exists between the rates charged for the transportation of grain and of grain products, in that higher rates are charged on grain than on flour, oatmeal, etc., both of which were formerly carried on the same basis of rate.

Counsel was heard both for the farmers and railway companies, and upon the report and recommendation of the chief traffic officer of the board the railway companies have been ordered to reduce the rates now charged on grain to the same basis as charged on the milled products.

and Cold Storage News.

The Bacon Situation.

OWING to the scarcity of domestic hogs the Canadian packers in their anxiety to keep their establishments running have been obliged to import from the United States on a liberal scale during the past week. At the close of the market the price of hogs in Chicago is $5.50; add to this $1.50 per cwt., which is the duty on pork coming into Canada, and you have $7.00 per cwt., which represents the price Canadian packers have had to pay for their experiment. The price ruling locally is from $6.75 to $7. When this is compared with the price at which American products can be brought into this country it represents a condition in the Canadian provision trade which has not occurred for upwards of twelve years. The outcome of what now can only be considered an experiment will be awaited by the Canadian trade with interest.

Domestic trade is reported good, and a firm market prevails in the old country, the price of Canadian bacon this week being quoted at from 52 to 56s. Receipts in Denmark have inclined to the light side, which has contributed to additional firmness in the British market.

Danish versus Canadian Butter.

THE most casual study of British trade returns, according to P. B. Ball, of Birmingham, Eng., in his latest report to the Department of Trade and Commerce, shows a steady increase in Great Britain's importations of butter. Denmark contributes to the British market an amount far in excess of all competitors. In the last four years Australia and New Zealand have shown the most noticeable advances. This is attributable to the great attention these countries have devoted to all matters of packing and regularity of quality and quantity. For 1904, Canada shows a considerable increase over 1903, but a decrease compared with 1902.

CANADA'S CARELESS SHIPPING.

Reference has been made before this to the carelessness on the part of certain exporters in shipping butter from Canada. One can hardly understand dealers of Great Britain, who purchase such enormous quantities, paying so much attention to minor matters; but it is the small things that count in Great Britain. All countries except the United States and Canada pay special attention to the minutest details connected with shipping.

UNIFORMITY OF QUALITY.

It is not with the quality of Canada's well-packed and well-made butter that fault is found, but with the lack of uniformity in quality. A dealer will get one shipment under a certain brand, and it is particularly good; he gets the price and is thoroughly satisfied with it, and opens up a regular trade; the next shipment comes, marked with the same brand, but a comparison with the former shipment is quite impossible. There would be a difference in the salting, color, and other points, and it can be readily understood how detrimental to trade such a procedure is.

The British importer, or dealer, naturally wishes to conduct his business with as little trouble as possible, and this want of uniformity in quality is a hindrance to him. He must deal with shippers on whom he can rely for regularity, and this is one of the things which prevents Canada from more largely developing her butter exports to Great Britain.

ALL YEAR ROUND SHIPMENTS.

Another thing which makes against Canada, is that she does not ship all the year round. Ireland and Denmark ship all the year round, and their monthly product is about equal. Canadians are not able to do that, and the Summer shipments have to contend with the heat. Of course, in Canada there are good cold storage facilities. Every Canadian retailer has his refrigerator, although such an article in Great Britain is scarce owing to the drawback of variations in temperature.

DUMPING BUTTER IN OVER-HEATED DOCKS.

Coming out of cold storage from the ocean ships, unless by special arrangement otherwise, the butter is dumped down in docks very much over-heated, and necessarily this does not very much improve its quality. However, all export countries, with the exception of Ireland and Denmark, have this to contend with.

PREFER BUTTER IN CASKS.

British buyers prefer the butter in casks. The Irish send them in ½-cwt. (56 lbs.) or 1-cwt. (112 lbs.), but the Danish people send 1-cwt. casks. The brand of the dairy is always placed on the side, so that it cannot be removed. Each dairy has a trade mark, and that is almost half the selling.

GOVERNMENT SUPERVISION OF DAIRIES.

Government supervision of all the butter factories in Denmark tends to produce regularity, and the Danish buttermakers take particular pride in the prize that is given every year by the Government for perfection in the factories.

Mexican Egg Test.

It is a common sight in the plaza in a Mexican town to behold a stall-woman who is selling two reals worth of eggs pick them up one by one, put one end and then the other to her lips and hand them over to the customer, who repeats the same operation. To the inexperienced onlooker it seems as if they were tasting the extremities of the eggs. As a matter of fact, they never touch the eggs with the tongue.

The idea of the performance is that when an egg is fresh one end is distinctly colder than the other. The end which has the air chamber is the warmer of the two. The human lips are exceedingly sensitive to heat and cold, and even the novice at this form of egg-testing promptly becomes a capable judge. If both ends of the egg reveal the same temperature, that egg may be counted as bad, as it is a fairly good sign that the air chamber is broken, and the contents spread equally within the shell.

Cheese Market Cornered.

The report is current that the cheese market in Great Britain has been practically cornered by two or three large English firms, and that persistent reports of heavy shortage are being circulated in order to unduly inflate prices and put money into the pockets of the combine at the expense of small dealers.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Toronto.

Provisions—Very firm prices and a good healthy demand are reported in provisions this week. The scarcity and high price of hogs has induced importations from the United States, something that has not happened in years. Quotations this week range about $7, although even higher prices have been paid in some instances. Very little change is noted in last week's quotations on cured meats, and only a slightly wider range of prices in some varieties of beef. We quote the following:

Long clear bacon, per lb	$0 09½	$0 10
Smoked breakfast bacon, per lb	0 13	0 13½
Roll bacon, per lb	....	0 10
Small hams per lb	0 13	0 13½

Butter—Supplies of dairy butter have been literally pouring in during the last few days. This, together with freer arrivals of creamery, has brought about a considerable reduction in prices all round. Most of the creameries are now under way, and butter is rapidly getting down to a normal basis of value. It is interesting to note that the price of creamery last year at this time was approximately only 17c. So it can be readily believed that prices will go still lower. We quote as follows:

	Per lb.
Creamery prints	0 21	0 22
" solids, fresh	0 20	0 21
Dairy prints	....	0 19
" large rolls	....	0 18

Cheese—New fodder cheese is being quoted this week at 10 3-4 to 11c. Twins are scarce and large cheese firm at 11 1-2c. Old cheese is getting into small compass, and a firm market with fair to active demand is noted. The export trade shows signs of easing off. Our quotations are as follows:

	Per lb.
Cheese, large	0 11½
" twins	0 12

Montreal.

Provisions—An easier feeling prevails in the market. The demand for live hogs is not very brisk. Selected lots sell at $7.40 to $7.50, and mixed lots $7.00 to $7.25. The tone of the dressed hog market is steady. Abattoir fresh-killed sold at $9.75 to $10.00. Demand for cured limited with values well maintained. Lard advanced slightly.

Butter—Prices are steady, and though more is offering competition is keen, and a slight enhancement was noted in the township creameries. The market is, however, tending towards a steadier feeling and firmer prices. Choice new-make creamery sold 17 1-2 to 18c., and with the opening of the export trade it is not likely that these figures will be shaded materially. Receipts are plentiful.

Finest creamery	0 18	0 18½
Fine	0 17½	0 18
Medium	0 16½	0 17½
Fresh rolls	0 15	0 16
Fresh dairy tubs	0 15	0 17

Cheese—The market has eased off considerably during the week, and 10 1-4 to 10 1-2c. appear to be about the ruling figures. Towards end of last week 10 1-8c. was paid at country points, and the tendency is towards a still further drop. Liverpool, as compared with same period last year, has about 37,000 boxes on hand. The make is increasing weekly, and it is safe to say that no advance is in sight in the near future.

Eggs—Local market is steady considering the large receipts arriving daily, averaging from 1,000 to 1,500 cases daily. The decline looked for by the dealers has not as yet materialized, and though country buyers have been trying to bring prices down the demand generally is too good to effect this. It is generally felt by commission houses that the price is about down to buying level. Strictly fresh are obtainable freely at 13 1-2 to 14 1-2c., some No. 2 going at 13c.

Winnipeg.

Creamery Butter—There is still a decided scarcity of good creamery butter, and prices are maintained at a high level. We quote:

Finest fresh creamery, in 56-lb. boxes	0 29
" " in 1-lb. bricks	0 30

Dairy Butter—Also scarce. Quality of butter offered is not all that might be desired, and jobbers are paying the following prices at country points:

Dairy, assorted pkgs., selected	0 17
" round lots	0 15

Cheese—Prices are firm at the recent advances. We quote:

Finest Manitoba, large	0 12½
" Ontario, "	0 13
" " twins	0 13½
Square cheese	0 12½

Lard—Steady at the sharp advance noted last week. We quote:

Lard, 50-lb. pails, per pail	5 60
" 20-lb. " "	2 2·
" 3-lb. tins, per case 60 lbs.	7 00
" 5-lb. " " "	6 90
" 10-lb. " " "	6 75
Pure lard in bbls, per lb	0 10½

Provisions—The provision market is well stocked at present with nearly every commodity. Meats are plentiful, though there has been a considerably greater demand since the close of Lent. With our present railway facilities there need never be any shortage in this market, as western beef is always available. Prices in meats rule slightly higher than normal for this season.

Butter and Eggs—Though there is still a shortage in creamery butter for every-day table use, the market is otherwise well stocked. In fact on Friday last the largest butter firm in the city, and one which never advertises this article, inserted in the daily papers an announcement headed "Butter has dropped," which clearly indicates the state of the market. Eggs are very plentiful, and the price has dropped to a normal level. Fresh eggs, which sold retail at 35 cents a month ago, can now be procured at 16 to 18 cents. P.E.I. stock at 15 cents.

Watering Canadian Butter.

A SENSATION has been caused in Canadian dairy produce circles lately by the announcement that colonial butter is being regularly sent across from London and Liverpool to Holland where water is added by the Dutch manufacturers and the whole shipped back to England to be re-sold at a profit, but at a less price than that at which it was originally produced.

The general impression seems to be that if the English consumer likes to pay for the addition of water to his butter, he may as well have his wish without the intervention of the Dutch. There is no objection to Canadian producers adding to the percentage of moisture in butter, since under recent legislation in England it is permissible to sell butter containing moisture up to 16 per cent.. At present Canadian butter averages about 12 per cent. of water and an additional three or four per cent. would represent a good substantial sum in the aggregate of the year's shipment.

by the quality of the goods you sell. Low prices are a temporary help, but high quality builds up permanent trade. Remember what a famous philosopher once said, "You can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

When you sell Windsor Salt (pure, white, dry, crystaline), you are establishing confidence in the quality of all the other goods you sell. You are building up permanent trade with Windsor Salt—establishing a reputation for high quality. "Your store is judged by the quality of the goods you sell."

WESTERN ASSOCIATION MATTERS.

IN another column will be found an account of the meeting in Winnipeg last week of the executive of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada. The appointment af a permanent secretary-organizer to devote his whole time to the work of promoting the organization among the merchants of Western Canada was a necessary step and there is reason to believe that in W. A. Coulson the executive have secured a competent man. He enters upon his duties immediately, and will commence an active canvas of the western retail trade.

The aims of the association entitle it to the enthusiastic support of the retail trade. At the same time it is not antagonistic to the interests of the wholesalers, many of whom have shown their active sympathy with it. It is in the interests of the wholesaler just as much as of the retailer that destructive cutthroat competition be done away with. It is reasonable to suppose that the wholesaler is surer of his money from a store that is making a profit than from a store where business is often conducted at a loss. The association stands for sane, sensible business methods, and its influence is for the protection of all branches of the trade. It is a mistake to suppose that it represents any antagonism of the retailer towards the jobber.

A circular letter will be sent out shortly by the secretary-organizer to the entire western retail trade, and it will be followed by a personal visit as soon as possible. But the organizer has an immense territory to cover as the association includes the whole of Canada west of the Lakes. It is evident that his canvass of the trade will occupy some time and no merchant should imaginc himself slighted or overlooked if the secretary does not visit him immediately.

EXTEND YOUR BUSINESS.

NO business man can afford to rest content with the business he already has. The law of nature, that progress is necessary to prevent decay, is also true of commercial life. The most promising field for an extension of business, in the case of the average storekeeper, is among the farmers. There are particular reasons which make the trade of the farmers valuable. Chief among these is the fact that it is practically a cash business. A farmer comes into the market and exchanges or sells his produce and exchanges the money for the necessaries of his own home. There is no question of delayed payments or bad debts. Again, this class, as a rule, does not demand the great variety of goods which must be shown to a town customer before making a sale. Neither is there the same fluctuation among the residents as there is likely to be in a town. In the latter case a considerable number of customers are merely transient. The farmer, on the contrary, seldom moves, unless to come into the town when he retires.

For these and other reasons the trade of the farmers should be cultivated. This can be done by special appeals to them on market days, by advertising in the papers, for the farmer reads his paper from cover to cover, and by displaying goods which are likely to catch their fancy. The merchants of a town in Western Ontario made a combined effort to induce the farmers to come into town to the market two days a week. Special bargains and sales were offered on Wednesday and the idea met with considerable success. The advantage of this business should be recognized by all merchants.

THE LATE MR. GOODERHAM.

THE Canadian business world has sustained a distinct loss in the death of Mr. George Gooderham, of Toronto, which occurred on Monday of this week. Not that it will occasion any financial disturbance on the "street," for the simple reason that he was a thorough business man who kept his affairs thoroughly in hand and depended upon no false props.

At the same time, Mr. Gooderham's interests were so great and so varied that there is scarcely a branch of finance or commerce with which he was not in touch. Manufacture, real estate, banking, insurance, mining,—in all of these he was a colossal figure. He was pre-eminently the prompt, reliable, active, business man who found his chief enjoyment in the round of commerce and finance.

It is difficult to estimate the influence of such a personality in directing the course of national trade and commerce, especially when it is remembered that there have been few commercial undertakings of any magnitude in Canada within the last fifty years that have not had associated with them the name of the late George Gooderham.

INTERDEPENDENCY OF INDUSTRIES.

THE claim made by the Victoria Colonist of April 13, that "the British Columbia manufacturer and wholesaler enjoy few, if any, of the advantages of reciprocity with the rest of Canada," seems to be contradicted by the following extract taken from a recent article in the Colonist on the subject of "The Interdependency of Industries." When it is seeking for excuses for the new tax on commercial travelers the Colonist has a different story to tell than when it is discussing the development of industrial activity in British Columbia:

"In the contemplation of industrial activity one is prone to be circumscribed. The ordinary observer sees no advantage in business development unless its local application is paramount. The proposition that the Pacific coast is materially interested in the upbuilding of industry in the Atlantic provinces would not be hastily assented to. Yet during a conversation with Mr. N. Curry, of Amherst, Nova Scotia, it was brought home to a Colonist representative that the peculiar interdependence of industrial activity in all parts of our broad Dominion is apt to be overlooked. Mr. Curry is president of the firm of Rhodes, Curry & Co., of Amherst, one of the largest manufacturing establishments in the Maritime Provinces, whose business last year represented some $2,300,000, and which paid $367,000 in wages during that period. The manufacture of all sorts of railway conveyances is an important branch of the Rhodes-Curry works. Their receipts from the sale of cars alone in 1904 amounted to $1,400,000, and the establishment has at the present time about $1,000,000 worth of orders for cars on hand. During the past three years they sold about $2,000,000 worth of cars to the Canadian Pacific Railway alone. They also manufacture largely for the Intercolonial and other Canadian roads.

" 'Do you use British Columbia timber at all in car construction?'

" 'Oh, yes. Nearly all our roofing and siding comes from the Pacific coast. We also use a great deal of your clear fir and cedar for general work—that is, in connection with our planing mill, where we turn out all sorts of building materials, bank office furnishings, etc. We use about 3,000,000 feet of British Columbia timber annually, and we have been dealing with one of your coast mills for about eighteen years.'

"To a reporter's interrogation, Mr. Curry admitted that it did seem a long way to haul timber. 'But then,' he remarked, 'it is splendid material.'

" 'Do you use any other British Columbia product in your manufactures?'

" 'The most of our copper comes from your province and we require large quantities of it. It is used for axle bearings and car trimmings. Considerable quantities of tin and lead are also used.'

"Mr. Curry remarked upon the settlement of the Northwest and the enormous markets which would be there developed for British Columbia timber. He also observed that timber was not the only commodity that would be wanted. Every new town or settlement would develop its concomitant industries. Electric enterprises and other schemes of civilization would follow the people, and with these, great markets would open for copper and lead, and the mines of the province would benefit accordingly. Thus the development of Central and even of Eastern Canada means a reflex stimulus to the insustries of this great province."

HOW TO FIGHT THE PRICE-CUTTERS.

A PROGRESSIVE Montreal jobber, in conversation with The Grocer recently, laid stress upon the modern tendency of retailing which in his mind approached the "bargain mecca," notwithstanding the steady trend of demand for the better and higher class of merchandise. Instances of the methods pursued in large city stores were touched upon, and the cases of small towns, where illegitimate and undue price cutting was resorted to, were explained.

Undoubtedly this method of merchandising tends to educate people to a point where they will buy only when goods are offered at a special sale. Discount sales, bargain sales, and every conceivable form of price cutting deafen people to the value of a real bargain. In towns and cities where the number of grocery and general stores is excessive, reckless price competition is usually found the natural outcome. This tends to eliminate the weaker merchants, but does not necessarily mean the survival of the fittest. No merchant can continually buy to better advantage and undersell his competitors.

Wise merchants avoid this price-cutting competition as far as possible. In modern merchandising there is a good deal more than price to be considered. It is by no means urged that a reputation be obtained for only high-priced merchandise, for staples must be sold as low as competitors. It is upon novelties that the profit must be made. There are innumerable ways of attracting trade without undue price competition. For the right merchandise a good round price can be obtained. Nowadays the merchandise comes into scrutiny, as much as the price. Convince the public that what you offer is right in quality and relatively high prices will not deter people from buying.

When the need of a special sale is felt, work it up in a thorough and progressive manner. Take time and get the people talking, and when the time comes to spring the sale you will get the people into the store and they will be satisfied and stay satisfied.

QUIETNESS OF TRADE.

A SUBJECT for general comment throughout the Canadian grocery and general mercantile trade, particularly of Ontario, during the past ten days, has been the quietness of Spring trade.

The reason is not easy to discover, even after allowance has been made for the quiet season following the break-up of the country roads, and preceding the opening up of Summer business.

Conditions throughout the country are such as ought to be productive of increased activity in trade. Practically all industries are in a flourishing condition. Immigration both from Europe and the United States is exceeding the records of any previous year. The transportation companies are increasing their facilities for handling freight and passenger traffic. Additional steamers are being put on to ply between Canada and England, and negotiations continue in the matter of developing our trade with the West Indies and Mexico. All these activities denote an optimism which is as widespread as it is well-founded. The population is increasing, new fields for agriculture are being opened up, and we have a large and growing industrial class earning good wages. Farmers, moreover, are getting a high price for all kinds of produce. In fact there is every reason why trade should be brisk. Such is not the case, and even the optimists can only sigh and hope that the beginning of Summer weather may effect the desired change.

FRENCH IMPORTS.

AT a meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, held last week, Kenneth McKenzie brought to the attention of the board an injustice which is being done to Canadian trade by the provisions of the existing trade treaty between Great Britain and France. Under the present wording of this treaty, which is applicable to Canada, goods of French origin are permitted to enter Canada from other foreign countries where they are broken in bulk, mixed with other products, and entered at Canadian ports on the mere declaration of the shipper that they are of French origin. This practice obtains mostly in the United States, and works to the disadvantage of Canadian trade. Moreover, the treaty provides expressly that goods sent from Canada to France must go direct to France in order to enjoy the advantages of the treaty.

Mr. McKenzie submitted the following resolution, which was carried unanimously :

"That under the present wording of the French treaty, goods of French origin are permitted to enter Canada from foreign countries, and are allowed by the customs of Canada the full benefits of the preferential clauses of said treaty to the detriment of the direct importing trade of Canada; therefore be it resolved that this board recommend to the Dominion Government that article 'one' of the French treaty be amended by the addition of the words 'when imported direct from France, or on a through bill of lading, via another port, without breaking bulk and accompanied by a certificate of origin.'

"Also be it resolved, that the conditions of trade having changed from what they were in 1895, the French treaty as it stands does not now meet the requirements of present day trade, that the benefits of the treaty should be extended to a number of other and new articles."

The wholesale grocery trade of Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces have also experienced the injustice of a treaty that allows American importers to unload French goods on the Canadian market whenever market conditions warrant, and a movement was initiated some time ago in the east to secure the necessary amendment to the French-Canadian trade regulations.

BACK FROM THE WEST.

MR. J. F. EBY, of the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, returned on Friday, April 28, from a trip to the Pacific coast. In the course of an interview with The Grocer, Mr. Eby expressed himself as enthusiastic over the trade possibilities of Western Canada. The time was not far distant when the population would outnumber that of Eastern Canada. The tendency of immigration, moreover, was distinctly favorable as far as the class of new comers was concerned.

The C.P.R. were making great strides in developing the mining of anthracite coal in British Columbia. Industrial conditions seemed to be in a healthy state throughout Alberta and the Territories. The only danger was in "overdoing" things in a country pushing ahead with such rapidity as the West. There was, however, no suggestion of this so far.

The ranching districts were anticipating a profitable season. The cattle had wintered in excellent shape, the prairie grass showing up well, and ranchers were of the opinion that this year's outturn would mean considerably more to them than that of 1904.

DEATH OF MR. W. A. RITCHIE.

THE late Mr. Wm. A. Ritchie, whose death occurred in Montreal last week, was for many years, and until two years ago, in charge of the Montreal markets of The Grocer and Hardware and Metal.

Mr. Richie was born in St. Romuald, Que., forty-one years ago. After the completion of his academic training he joined the staff of the Montreal Herald as a reporter. After seven years' service he went to Boston where he remained three years, returning to Montreal as city editor of the Herald. In 1889 he joined the staff of the Gazette, Montreal, as commercial editor, which position he held until his death last Friday, April 28. As an authority on dairy produce, particularly cheese, Mr. Ritchie was almost without a peer in Canadian trade circles. He had made it a practice for years to visit the various cheese-making centres throughout the country every year in order to become thoroughly conversant with ruling conditions.

The funeral was held from his residence, 587 St. Denis street, on Monday to Bonaventure Station, thence to St. Romuald, Que., and was largely attended by his fellow workers and members of the press.

ORGANIZER APPOINTED.

A MEETING of the executive of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada was held in the Leland Hotel, Winnipeg, on the evening of April 27. President Lawlor, of Killarney, presided.

The most important subject which came up for consideration was the selection of a secretary-organizer for the association. Previous to the meeting, applications had been called for through the advertising columns of the daily papers, and some twenty odd applicants sent in letters or appeared in person. The choice of the executive is W. A. Coulson, a bright young newspaperman formerly connected with the Ottawa Free Press. He will enter upon his duties almost immediately, and will visit the entire western trade. Mr. Coulson is advocating a good cause and should meet with a good reception from western merchants. His address is 384 Kennedy street, Winnipeg, and any communications addressed to him will receive attention.

At the meeting in February a number of names were placed upon the executive roll of merchants who were not present. Two of these have found it impossible to act, although they are in hearty sympathy with the movement. Accordingly, Messrs. Brown and Galloway have been replaced by Messrs. Hill, of Griswold, and Brown, of Neepawa.

Secretary A. T. Embree, of Boissevain, retires, his duties being taken over by the newly-appointed organizer. Mr. Embree also acted as treasurer, and Robert Rollins, of Killarney, was appointed at the executive meeting to have charge of the association's funds. The president and treasurer belong to the same town and should be able to work together conveniently.

It was decided to call another general meeting in Winnipeg during Exhibition week. The exact date will be announced later.

SHIPMENTS OF INDIAN TEA.

In last week's issue of The Grocer was published a statistical table, submitted by McMeekin & Co., London, Eng., giving shipments of Indian tea from Calcutta and Chittagong to Canada for nine months ending Jan. 31, 1905, as 10,914,850 lbs. Of the total Toronto was credited with 264,752 lbs.; Montreal with 353,698 lbs., and St. John with 8,713,634 lbs. A correspondent points out that these figures represent direct shipments only, and a good share of the comparatively large quantity of tea shipped to St. John is again transhipped to Ontario and Quebec firms which in reality makes shipments to western centres much larger than would at first appear.

GLEANED FROM THE TRAVELERS.

MR. G. PRICE, of H. P. Eckardt & Co., reports a satisfactory week's business in Berlin and territory east.

Mr. J. H. Lennon, Lindsay, has sold out.

Mr. Goff has opened a grocery store at Niagara-on-the-lake.

Walter Bros., Listowel, have established a branch store at Atwood. Mr. W. Walter is in charge.

Mr. W. E. Hall, Sunderland, has moved into fine new premises.

Mr. J. A. McCargar, Bracebridge, is moving into larger premises on Main street. It is his intention to further extend his grocery business.

Mr. G. L. McCabe, general merchant and mill owner, Lotus, was married last week to Miss McRae, of Cartwright.

Parr Bros., Blackstock, are making extensive improvements in their large store. They have the largest departmental store in Eastern Ontario.

Mr. F. H. Brown, Port Hope, is rebuilding his residence. Mr. Brown has the reputation of being one of the most up-to-date grocers in Ontario.

Mr. W. D. Stephens, Port Hope, reports business booming.

Mr. J. F. Honor, Port Hope, the north ward grocer, says trade has never been so satisfactory as this Spring. Mr. Honor is a representative on the Port Hope High School Board, which is famous all over the country.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Groceries.

Toronto. May 4, 1905.

THE Ontario grocery trade tends to quietness this week, and, with the exception of sorting-up orders, there is little of special interest. A representative of The Grocer interviewed a number of commercial men this week and learned that business throughout the country is extraordinarily quiet for the season of the year. It may be that this is because the farmers have been busy with their seeding. It might, however, be expected, in view of the unprecedented industrial activity throughout the province, and the abnormally high prices which farmers are getting for their produce, that this would have induced more liberal buying of the necessities of life by the consuming public, which is not the case. Money is slow in nearly every section of the country. The trade are of the opinion that once navigation is thoroughly open and regular trade with the north country thoroughly established for the season, trade conditions will improve.

An event of interest this week was a decline of 10c. all round in the price of Canadian refined sugar. Since then, however, the price of raw cane has advanced 1-16c. in New York, and the beet market also records an advance. In canned goods there is a report of weakness in corn. Fruit is moving well, and [illegible] are being taken for future haddie and lobsters. From present indications haddie will be considerably higher in price this year. An advance of 50 points is reported during the week in Rio and Santos coffee. The Japan tea market opened on May 1, five days later than last year, when a few parcels were bought at prices ranging from 50 to 60 yen, as against 45 to 50 yen last year. The market in white pepper is reported firm and rapidly advancing.

There has been a sharp advance in Valencia raisins in England of 2s. per cwt., which has induced a similar advance in local market quotations. Currants also show additional firmness. Prunes are high and reports from California indicate very short crop for the season of 1905. A decline of 1-4c. is noted in higher grades of peanuts during the week.

In general grocery staples an especially good demand is noted in pickles. Maple sugar, 1905 stock, is arriving on the market this week and selling to the retail trade at 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

An interesting feature of the canned goods market this week is a reported weakening in canned corn. Supplies are in a few hands, and on account of the slight falling off in the demand it is said that these interests are disposed to offer canned corn at a slight reduction. The tomato situation continues strong and unchanged from last week.

Fruits are beginning to move into general consumption, and orders are being taken for future salmon subject to later confirmation. Some orders are also being taken for future lobsters and haddie for June delivery. At the opening of the market a month hence last year's selling price will be no more than equivalent to this year's cost price. Some members of the trade are of the opinion that sardines are going to be higher in price owing to the fact that the sardine season moves in cycles, and as this is the third or last year, next year is expected to be a poor season.

Salmon packers on the Columbia River have announced American opening prices on the 1905 pack of chinooks and steelheads. Prices on the former are the same as last year, namely, $1.45 for talls, $1.55 for flats, and 90c. on half-pounds. Prices made on steelheads are $1.30 for flats, $1.20 for talls, and 85c. for half-pounds. On chinook salmon in oval tins a price of $2.20 has been named. It is worth noting that the salmon season on the Columbia is considerably later than on the Fraser River, and that the selling regulations there are entirely different from ours. SUGAR.

Just after publication last week the long anticipated occurred, namely, a decline of 10c. per 100 lbs. in Canadian refined sugar. While it was held by some that this would give confidence to buyers, having removed to a certain degree the element of uncertainty which has prevailed for some months, the effect as yet has not been all that might be desired. This is largely to be attributed to the fact that there is practically only a minimun consumptive demand from the country, and buyers have rather lost faith in the article. It is pointed out, however, that actual conditions are as steady to-day as at any time during the current campaign. No adverse change has occurred in the statistical position since November, when sugar made several rapid advances; on the contrary (with the exception of an increase of over 40,000 lbs. in the estimate in the Sandwich Islands growing crop) other statistical changes have been more favorable to holders of sugar than otherwise.

True there has been an apparent falling of of 150,000 lbs. in European consumption for the six months of the campaign ending February. 1905 but there is some degree of doubt as to the reliability of these figures, which are believed to be due to reductions of stocks carried by the trade in a declining market. There has also been an apparent decrease of about 60,000 tons in the United States consumption, but it is believed that a reaction from the recent depression, which is now due, is all that is required both there and in Europe to stimulate inquiry, which for the foregoing reason should be unusually heavy.

There has been considerable liquidation of May beet contracts in Europe, sending quotations for 88 per cent. down to 12s. 6¾d., basis f.o.b. Hamburg. This liquidation seems to have exhausted itself, and since a new set of buyers have come in prices have taken an upward turn, f.o.b. quotations having gone to the 13s. 0¾d. for May, and 13s. 1½d. for June shipment, with August quoted at 13s. 3d. May quotations are equivalent to parity of 1.78c. duty paid, New York, for 96 test centrifugals.

The improvement in Europe has been felt on this side even, as the markets were sympathetically affected by the decline there. Within the past week Cuban sugars reached the low level of 3 3-16c. c. and f. New York, or 4 9-16c. duty paid, on which hasis 150,000 hags were sold for late May shipment, and though it was expected that the market might decline a further 1-16, the reverse has taken place, and on Monday, May 1, the Arhuckle refinery re-entered the market, taking 60,000 bags Cuban centrifugals afloat at 3¾c. c. and f., or 4⅝c. duty paid, for 96 test. Since then there have heen further sales of nearhy sugar effected on the same terms, thus establishing a recovery and a much hetter feeling in the market.

It is believed that U. S. refiners would now probably pay a further 1-16 for May shipment, hut holders are inclined to stand aloof. Receipts at Cuhan shipping ports continue to fall off, and for the week there has been a decline of stocks on the island of 10,500 tons, with 117 centrals grinding, or 25 less than the previous week.

U. S. statistics for the week ending April 25, show a shrinkage in meltings of 11,000 tons, owing to the refineries heing closed during the Easter holidays; during the week stocks increased 20,000 tons. U. S. and Cuban stocks combined for the week ending April 25 were 633,-830 tons, against 429,110 tons last year, an increase of 204,720 tons. Combined stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates showed a decrease for the week of 500,280 tons, as eompared with last year.

The New York refined market shows a decidedly hetter tone, and while the apparent margin between raws and refined is large, it is believed that it is much less owing to the average cost of sugar in refiners' hands heing at least ¼c. per lh. above to-day's import cost. There is no reason to look for a reduction in refined across the line. Similar conditions prevail in Canada, and with the near approach of Summer a much better demand is expected. COFFEES.

Since last week there has been an advance of fifty points in Rio and Santos coffees, which amounts to 1c. all round. Maraeaibo coffees are also recorded stronger.

At the close of the market the speculative price of Rio shows a slight decline. Cable advices from European coffee markets showed unexpected weakness. News from Brazil, however, continues of a character favorable, and both Rio and Santos are recorded as holding firm. Private advices received from Santos say that the weather has been unfavorable for harvesting, and the harvest will be considerably later than usual. We quote the following prices :

TEAS.

A fair to brisk trade is reported for the week, some grades of tea being particularly scarce on spot, viz., low-priced Indian and Ceylon teas with good samples. According to latest cahle advices the Japan tea market opened on May 1, five days later than last year. The quality of the tea received is reported good. A few parcels were bought at from 50 to 60 yen as against 45 to 50 yen last year.

The immediate effect of the 2d reduction in the duty on tea entering Great Britain has been to bring about a better tone which should develop as July approaches. Deliveries till that date will, no doubt, be at a minimum and the stock in hond on June 30 will probably represent the actual supply in the United Kingdom. With the prospect of heavy clearances during July, the normal ratio hetwcen stocks and deliveries should, before long, he reached, thus paving the way for the opening of the busy season under more favorable auspices than the last.

With imports for the past three months showing an excess of 5 millions over last year and deliveries a decrease of 5 millions, the stock, as indicated hy the board of trade returns, is naturally very heavy. Ceylon's position is less unsatisfactory than that of other growths, duty payments heing 1½ millions ahead of 1904. The unsettled state of affairs in Russia has had the effect of reducing shipments to that country hy 1¼ million lhs. since Jan. 1. We quote the following prices:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

During the week there has been a sharp advance in Valencia raisins in England of 2 shillings per cwt., which means that goods on the way are quoted at from ¼ to ⅜c. higher than two weeks ago when the market reached the lowest point of the season. As stocks of raisins are used up in Denia this will probably mean a permanent advancc. The currant market in Greece has shown much more activity during the last two or three weeks than during the first months of the present year, and prices show an advance of 1s. 6d from the lowest price.

Reports on the 1905 California prune crop are being further discounted and instead of this year's output being estimated at half an average crop, it is now thought that it will hardly average more than one-third and possibly not more than a quarter of the ordinary yield. Quotations on prunes have been withdrawn at the coast for the coming season's crop. Locally prunes are beginning to move more freely, although the trade are of the opinion that the consumption of prunes this year is not up to the standard of former years. A brisk demand is noted for Tapnet figs, and some dealers report that stocks on spot are short and in many cases difficult to ohtain. We quote the following prices:

EVAPORATED APPLES.

The evaporated apple market is quiet and prices are unchanged from last week, viz., 6½ to 7c.

BIRD SEED.

The trade continues quiet and quotations on bird seed remain practically as last advised. Canary seed, which costs 5¾c. in New York, is retailing anywhere between 6½ to 7c. We quote the following prices:

Country Produce.

EGGS.

Supplies of fresh eggs are now coming freely and prices are down to 13½c. this week. Pickling is general, dealers not being content to wait until the market drops. It is unlikely that lower quotations will be given in the city markets, although dairy produce men are expecting slightly lower prices in the country within the next few weeks. We quote the following:

New laid eggs, per doz	0 13½ 0 14

MAPLE PRODUCTS.

The demand for maple syrup continues good although it is beginning to show signs of easing off. Supplies of pure maple syrup are difficult to obtain. Maple sugar, 1905 make, is now arriving on the market. Our quotations are as follows:

Fish.

The demand for fresh fish continues to improve, regular shipments of fresh-caught fish having begun about a week ago. The oyster season closed on April 30, and oyster quotations accordingly have been withdrawn from the market. Fresh-caught white fish are quoted for the first time this season at 9c. B.C. salmon is up to 20c. and the price of lobsters has declined 5c. We quote the following prices:

Grain, Flour and Breakfast Foods.

GRAIN.

A further decline in the price of Manitoba and Ontario wheat is reported for the week. Manitoba Northern No. 1 has declined 3¼c.; No. 2, 3½c.; and No. 3, 4½c. Ontario red and white wheat have each dropped 1c. Business is quiet and the market is without particular indications for the future. According to Mr. Goldie, of the Goldie Milling Co., the condition of the growing wheat crops in Western Ontario is a mixture of good and bad. In some districts the grain has wintered well. In others it is showing spotted and on the whole the top is very small. We quote the following prices.

FLOUR.

The local milling business is quiet and as yet millers have not reduced prices, following the sensational drop in wheat last week. A considerable amount of export business is recorded on account of U. S. houses to go to Cuba and the West Indies; Manitoba flour is also being exported to South Africa. BREAKFAST FOODS.

An improved demand for breakfast foods generally is noted this week. The decline in the price of wheat was not sufficient, however, to warrant a drop in flour prices. Quotations remain as last advised:

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Groceries.

Montreal, May 4, 1905

JOBBERS report trade considerably improved in the past week; the stimulus given to same is the fine weather and the opening of navigation.

Country orders are arriving more freely. Shipments of butter and eggs are arriving in good lots and this has a tendency to improve return trade. The sugar market continues steady; a drop of 10c. per hundred was made last Friday after The Grocer had gone to press. New York is reported firmer and beets also are improved. Tea trade during the week has been dull; no heavy orders for any lines have changed hands. No definite advices have been received as to the opening of the Japan market, except that owing to unfavorable weather conditions same has been retarded about ten days. Barbadoes molasses has been reduced 2c. per gal., and puncheons are now quoted at 38c. Advices from the Island report the market practically closed. The general opinion is that owing to the shortage, about 15,000 puncheons this year, that prices will be fairly well maintained. In canned goods the trade is reported as normal. Orders are being booked by some of the canners at open prices, for future delivery. There is little to report in the foreign dried fruit market, with the exception that currants have shown considerable strength and sales have recently been made at 1s. to 1s. 6d higher than last month's sales. A reduction of 10c. per hundred lbs. is noted in rice. Fish is showing up better. Prices are in buyers' favor. The season for dore will open on the 15th inst. Flour and feed and rolled oats are dull with no changes to note. The provision market is easier, with a light demand for live hogs. Butter prices are steady, but tending upward slightly. Eggs are coming in very freely and strictly fresh are obtainable at 13½c. to 14½c.

SUGAR.

A drop of 10c. per 100 lbs. was made by refiners last Friday after The Grocer had gone to press. The general tone of the market early in the week was easier, although no further decline is looked for this week. On the contrary, New York is stronger and a firmer feeling obtains. Local buying is still light and there are no indications that jobbers are stocking up for their future requirements.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The price of Barbadoes molasses was reduced 2c. per gallon end of last week. Latest cable advices from the Island give market as practically closed. As compared with last year's crop, there is a shortage of about 15,000 puncheons. This position should tend to hold up the price and, though in some quarters it is the opinion that the present high prices will not hold, statistically no reduction amounting to anything should take place. Last year at this time, also, the trade both in Quebec and Montreal carried considerable stock over, while this year the local markets have been practically bare. Still in the face of all these conditions the jobbing trade has not bought as heavily as in previous years. Corn syrups maintain their steady sale, and if anything are growing in popularity. It will only require continued high prices in molasses to make these corn syrups still more sought after.

TEA.

Local tea conditions are on the quiet side. While there is more or less inquiry for all kinds, no large lots are changing hands. Japans are dull and no heavy buying noted. Reports from Japan advise that the opening market for this season's teas has been retarded some 10 days owing to unfavorable weather. What effect this will have on the prices is not certain, but if anything it will have a tendency to raise opening figures. In Ceylon greens a fair demand obtains. Blacks are also inquired for. Market for both is still in buyers' favor. Gunpowders, high grades, asked after, but few obtainable.

COFFEE.

Demand for coffee is only fair as unsettled weather checks sales. Mild coffees are always scarce and demand for them is firm. Very little new stock is coming in. Prices remain firm and unchanged. We quote:

SPICES.

Demand for spices is fairly good at prices quoted. Peppers, however, are expected to go very high at a short notice. The stocks of white and black are practically exhausted in New York and in London they show up by about 400 tons against 6,000 same time six years ago. Cloves are firmer and meet with fair demand. Nevertheless prices remain unchanged.

CANNED GOODS

Situation is unchanged and business only fair in all lines. Some shipments of fancy French tomatoes, peeled and whole, have lately made their appearance on the market and another large shipment is due this week. These goods are of excellent quality and packed in different style from Canadian and United States tomatoes. The price is higher than domestic pack, but, owing to style and general appearance, they are being readily bought by dealers of fancy and high-class groceries. It is reported that orders are being booked by the combine at open prices this week. Salmon continues in fair demand at steady prices. Futures are also being booked by representatives of the B. C. canneries.

Foreign Dried Fruits.

In foreign dried fruits there is little to report. Sultanas remain stationary with small demand. Shelled almonds and Tarragonas are slightly easier mainly owing to Summer freight rates having come into force. In shelled walnuts large sales have been recently made at gradually hardening prices, and cable from Bordeaux this week advises that there are no sellers on the moment. Currant market has shown considerable strength and rates have recently been made at 1s. to 1s. 6d higher than last month's sales. Malaga raisins, fine quality, are completely exhausted, nothing being left in Malaga except Connoisseur grades.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

FLOUR.

Flour trade is quiet and not increasing as rapidly as first expected. Better hopes are entertained for the near future. Although wheat prices have gone up in Manitoba, dealers claim it has not affected the local trade in any way nor increased the demand. No change in prices to note.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, May 1st, 1905.

THE wholesale and jobbing grocery trade continues good, and there is found to be quite an increase since the country roads have become fairly passable and the outport harbors are all open for traffic. Travelers are sending in good orders, and they report business brisk in nearly all sections of the country, and the monetary situation greatly improved, although it is not expected that money will be very plentiful until this season's crops are ready to go on the market. The prosperity of the country depends very much on the weather of the next few months. Retail trade is good in the city, and it is reported remarkably good in the mining and manufacturing centres.

Molasses.

A large quantity of molasses has arrived at this port during the last two weeks, principally Porto Rico, some of which went forward by rail to the Upper Provinces. The Newfoundland demand for Barbados having been about supplied—that colony consumes twelve to fifteen thousand puncheons—the price has eased off somewhat in the primary market, and planters finding themselves with considerable stocks on hand are not so firm in their ideas. The price there started at 18 cents, increased to 24 cents, and in a few cases higher, but has now dropped back to 22 cents, and it is expected that the original price may prevail towards the end of the season. This will not affect the price here, as considerable has been purchased at the higher price, but may result later in the year in cutting on the part of late buyers.

Sugar.

The sugar market has been rather unsatisfactory for some time, and buyers have not been stocking heavily with the expectation that changes in price would come at any time. Some time ago the New York market declined ten cents, but was not regarded here as

CUP TEAS

Estabrooks' Indo-Ceylon teas usually sell to the exclusion of all others with merchants who take hold of them. These teas are not made to look at, but to drink.

The leaf is often rough and somewhat broken; but when tea is in the pot you don't look at it, you drink it. Just put Estabrooks' teas in the pot and compare with other teas at the same price.

I think you will then make up your mind that your customers would like to drink that kind of tea. Might help you sell more tea. You don't get teas like these from firms who buy tea the same way they buy Sugar, Beans, etc.

Don't you think it is well to place your tea business with some firm who have a reputation of knowing what tea is, and make that one article their exclusive business?

Think About It

Do you know anything about Red Rose Tea in packets? It is worth knowing—your customers will say so.

local refineries from which the principal stocks were purchased still held to the old price. Last week, however, the Acadia suger refinery announced a similar decline, and the local markct will adopt it.

It is considered, however, that the decline in sugar in Europe was rather the influence of speculation than otherwise, and that no great decline from present prices may be expected. Advices here state that the conditions in Cuba are not favorable. Rainy weather has prevailed, and it is predicted that the crop will not be larger, if so large, as last year.

Fish.

Fresh fish is in good supply in the local market, and the lobster fishermen are reported as doing well. Considerable quantities of live lobsters are going forward from Halifax and Yarmouth to Boston and New York, and already some cases of canned have also been shipped from Halifax. Trout are now plentiful in the local market.

The fishing on the Banks has been good. A large number of the Lunenburg fleet have returned from their first trip with good fares. The American fishermen are not doing so well, as they find it difficult to procure bait. Some of them lately procured supplies of herring bait at Canso, which cost them up to $5 a barrel. the usual price being around $1. This is quite a tax when a vessel requires 50 to 60 barrels. The fishermen of Canso are rejoicing that the Newfoundland Bait Act has brought them such good luck.

OPENED A BRANCH IN WINNIPEG.

THE GORMAN, ECKERT & CO. wholesale spice and grocery house, of London, Ontario, have not confined their efforts entirely to the Ontario field, but for a number of years have been developing a tidy business in Manitoba and the west.

During the past two years business from this territory has grown so rapidly that they recently concluded, if the interests of their western customers were to be properly looked after, it would be necessary to open a mill and warehouse in Winnipeg. Such a branch has been accordingly located at 3 Princess street. It will be not merely a sample room, but will carry a large stock of their entire line of coffees, spices, extracts, olives, ammonia, catsup, etc., and will be in charge of Mason & Hickey, who are well known to the trade and considered to be among the best posted and most competent men in their lines. Mason & Hickey will cover the territory from Port Arthur to Calgary, making regular trips; and the intention is to put another traveler on at an early date. The Canadian Grocer has no doubt that Western Canada will soon be as familiar with, and appreciate the high standard of, the Gorman, Eckert & Co. lines as the Ontario trade do at the present time.

The Gorman, Eckert & Co. business was established in a very small way in London, Ontario, just twenty years ago. At that time the staff consisted of the firm and an office boy, while the warehouse was of the most modest pretensions, consisting of one eighteen by twenty foot room. In the short space of twenty years their business has developed so rapidly that it now takes the entire time of ten of the most expert traveling salesmen in the business, and a large warehouse and office staff, to look after their interests in Ontario alone, while their factory is a large five-storey building, all of which is fully occupied.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Major Zeph. Hebert , of Hudon, Hebert & Co., Montreal, accompanied by Mrs. Herbert, spent an enjoyable ten days' Easter vacation in New York.

Mr. Alexander O. Hastings, agent for the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. in the Maritime Provinces, dicd suddenly in St. John, N.B., last week. The funeral was held in Montreal on Monday, April 31. Mr. G. V. Hastings, general manager of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. at Winnipeg is a brother of the deceased.

Mr. N. N. Munro, of the Hamilton Coffee & Spice Co., Hamilton, Ontario, is at present calling upon the Montreal retail trade. He reports business good and growing.

Mr. H. D. Hoffmann, well known to the grocery and provision trade of Montreal as agent for Wight & Co., pork packers, Toronto, has lately added Quebec City to his territory. His first call upon the trade in the ancient capital was productive of such good business that he is again exploiting the merits of "Sweet Briar" brand of bacon and hams.

Mr. D. Hamilton, one of the oldest residents of Galt, is dead. Mr. Hamilton was formerly in the grocery business in Hamilton.

Mr. J. H. Harris, traveling representative for J. H. Harris & Co., Moncton, who has been seriously ill since the beginning of January, is recovering rapidly and expects to be about in a few days.

Mr. C. S. Blackwell. of the Park, Blackwell Co., Toronto. has gone to England for a two months' trip.

Mr. Philip Templeman, a prominent and wealthy merchant, of Bonavista, Newfoundland, recently spent a week in Toronto and was accompanied by Mrs. Templeman. They were entertained by Mr. Dobie, general manager of E. W. Gillett Co., and made several trips in his automobile, and in this way saw the city thoroughly. Mr. Templeman is a stockholder in the company named. He and his wife left with the best impressions of Toronto and hope to return for another visit next year.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

John A. Moir, 6 St. Sacrament street, Montreal, is offering the "Unity" brand of kippered herrings, and kippered in tomato sauce, at attractive prices. As indications point to scarcity of these goods buyers should avail themselves of above present offerings.

White & Co., Toronto, are receiving North Carolina strawberries daily, having had four cars during the past few days.

McWilliam & Everist, Toronto, report the arrival of 6 cars bananas, 4 cars oranges, 2 cars cabbage, and 2 cars pineapples.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, have just passed into stock another carload of Williams Bros.' famous pickles. This comprises some new lines. They are giving away some handsome display jars.

The Canada Brokerage Co., Toronto, report the arrival of a shipment of "Apitezo," which is meeting with ready sale.

The Dawson Commission Co.. Toronto, have received during the week a car each of new and old onions, a straight car navel oranges, and a mixed car navels and Mediterranean sweets.

"Old Oaken Bucket" prepared mustard —the best 10c retailer on the market— is a seller with the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto. Order at once.

White & Co., Toronto, received a car Florida tomatoes this week, the first full car direct to reach Toronto this season.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. are offering some exceptionally fine Barbadoes grocery sugars.

Buyers of Japan tea siftings should communicate with H. P. Eckardt & Co.

John Sloan & Co., Toronto, report satisfactory returns from their new branch in Belleville.

Among the Boards of Trade

THE new rooms of the Halifax Board of Trade at the corner of Hollis and Sackville streets, Halifax, were formally opened on Tuesday, May 2.

At the regular meeting of the Waterloo Board of Trade on Tuesday, April 25, the principal order of business was a discussion of the proposed improvements in the town hall and market rooms. Among those present were. George Moore, president; E. P. Flintoft, secretary; W. Wells, W. H. Riddell, Ford Kumpf, A. E. Devitt, A. Weidenhammer, Cleason Shantz, W. G. Weichel, S. B. Bricker, J. Knauff, J. B. Hughes, Levi Stauffer, J. H. Roos, W. Dawson, L. Shuh, C. Kreutziger, L. Graybill, C. Boehm, C. Huehnergard and J. Ritzer.

The annual election of officers of the Levis, Que., Board of Trade was held on April 26, 1905. Mr. Etienne Dessault was unanimously re-elected president as well as the rest of last year's officers.

The usual program of the annual meeting of the Amherst, N.S., Board of Trade held this year on April 25, was pleasantly varied by an At Home tendered the officers and members of the board by the retiring president, J. McKeen. Last year's officers were unanimously re-elected as follows: President, J. McKeen; vice-president, C. A. Lusby; secretary-treasurer, A. D. Ross. The financial statement of the treasurer showed the finances of the board to be in a healthy condition.

At a meeting of the council of the Montreal Board of Trade, on April 26, boards of examiners were appointed for the year as follows:

For the office of port warden—Robert J. Dale, Charles P. Hebert, H. O. Metcalfe, George Sumner and James Thom. For the office of weigher, measurer and gauger—Charles Chaput, Thos. J. Drummond, Albert Hebert, A. J. Hodgson and R. Paton McLea.

A letter was presented which the president had received from the American Society of Municipal Improvements, advising him that the society will hold its annual convention in Montreal in September, with an exhibition of municipal supplies aad appliances in the Crystal Rink. The courtesy of the Exchange Hall will be extended to the visitors.

The council appointed its representatives on the committee of the Montreal Business Men's League as follows:

Executive Committee—J. C. Holden and Alex. McFee. Advisory Committee—Hon. Louis Beaubien, William Birks, H. A. Ekers, W. D. Lighthall, D. Masson, Robert Munro, C. S. J. Phillips and Hon. J. D. Rolland.

A letter was received from Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, embodying the substance of his remarks in the conference between himself and the council on April 14, with regard to the rules for the weighing of butter and cheese. The communication was referred to the board of examiners for their report, as the act provides that amendments to these rules must be made by that board.

CROSSE & BLACKWELL'S NEW LINES.

C. E. Colson & Son, Montreal, Canadian agents for Crosse & Blackwell, are introducing to the trade several new lines of high-class table delicacies, and the attractive manner in which these goods are packed, combined with the well-known reputation of their principals, should bring good orders to Colson & Son. Among the lines shown to The Grocer representative by Mr. Colson were gelatine of chicken and tongue, prawns in aspic, chicken breasts, Oxford brawn, etc.

TRADE CONDITIONS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Vancouver, B.C., April 27, 1905.

THE possibility of providing rail facilities for sending fresh fruits and vegetables from the ranches of British Columbia to the consumers in the Northwest and Manitoba is seriously discussed by Mr. F. W. Peters, general freight manager for the western division of the C.P.R. Mr. Peters has been spending some time in this province recently looking into freight matters generally, as they affect his department, and he has seen enough to become surprised at the expansion of the production in all lines of farm produce, especially in fruits and vegetables.

He says the C.P.R. will at once improve the transportation facilities so that there shall be the least possible delay in getting the fresh and perishable fruits to market. If necessary, Mr. Peters says, special trains will be run, handling fruits and fresh vegetables, similar to the trains which carry garden produce and fruits from California to the Eastern States. Incidentally Mr. Peters observed that there was quite as much activity in selling off farm lands in B. C. as in the Northwest.

The city council of Vancouver again struggles with the question of a market for farm produce, such as commonly exists in eastern cities and towns. Progress is slow. A water-front site is necessary as so many people will have to send by boat to the market, if it is established. But a central location with water-front is hard to find, even on False Creek, the secondary harbor of the city.

The Provincial Government means business in the matter of collecting the tax on commercial travelers. Mr. W. L. Fagan, provincial tax collector, has received all necessary instructions, and is prepared to issue licenses to all who apply at his office in the court house, Vancouver. If they do not apply, the unfortunate commercial men may meet with summary punishment, if caught selling goods without the license.

Movement of real estate in the business portion of Vancouver is more active this year than ever. In a very desirable location in the centre of the city, with frontage of 52 feet on Hastings street, and railway siding privilege, a small triangular portion of the holdings of Wm. Braid, wholesale tea and coffee merchant, was sold this week to P. Burns & Co., the wholesale butchers. The price is reported to be in the neighborhood of $15,000. The frontage, 52 feet, is the widest part, as the lot slopes to a point at the rear, being alongside the C.P.R. city transfer track. Other business men this week mentioned as purchasers are E. J. McFeely, who bought for $27,000 three lots opposite the Hotel Vancouver; and G. I. Wilson, formerly manager of the B. C. Packers' Association, who, in association with W. J. Bowser, M.P.P., has bought the Van Horne Block on Granville street, the consideration being some $40,000.

The Easter market at New Westminster was marked by a large attendance of ranchers and also of buyers, supplies in many lines being large. Befitting the time, the supply of eggs was large, and sold to the trade at 25c. But a large part of the offerings were picked up early in the day by wholesale produce men in large lots as they could get. Butter, mostly dairy, and, of course, strictly fresh, was largely represented, but the demand was good, 35c. retail being secured for most of it, and buyers taking it freely at that price. Fresh vegetables were confined to bunch stocks of radishes, onions and lettuce, with a few "greens." The potato market remains firm at $25 per ton.

One of the oddities in business experience in the West is to be noted at Fernie, the coal town on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, where two of the city council introduced a by-law enabling all stores and shops to be kept open on Sundays. As the majority of the council thought the proposed legislation was a backward movement it was voted down on the first reading. One alderman remarked that it was backed more by cigar stores than anything else.

Since the arrival of the last Australian steamer, bringing large consignments of grapes, some apples, pears, and even peaches, nothing new has been on the market. California oranges still come in plentifully, and prices enhance slowly. New California potatoes in small lots offer at 5c. per lb. wholesale; selling slowly.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up till 12 a.m., Thursday, May 4th 1905.)

SUGAR is again the centre of attention in the western market. Within a few hours after The Grocer went to press last week considerable activity developed in the sugar market, and the net result has been a drop of 20 cents in Winnipeg. The details of the different changes will be found below. Reports to hand from California indicate the probable course of the market in foreign dried fruits. Apricots are expected to be a normal crop, but the output of peaches, pears and prunes will be below the average. Prices may be expected to reflect the opinion as to the crop. Prices for July and August delivery of apricots are quoted below. Cornmeal is advancing and is now quoted at $1.65 in sacks and $1.70 in half sacks.

General business is active and the outlook is considered good.

Sugar.

As noted above, several changes occurred in the sugar market shortly after The Grocer went to press last week. The first change gave little indication of what was to come, as it was an advance of 10 cents for small lots supplied from Brandon to points on the main line of the C.P.R. west of, but not including, Broadview. This change was only of local significance, and it was followed in a few hours by a decline of 10 cents, which applied only as far west as Portage la Prairie. The following day saw another decline of 10 cents, which applies as far west as the British Columbia boundary. At time of writing, there has been a net reduction of 20 cents in the Winnipeg market, and, subject to further possible corrections in our "Last Minute Manitoba Markets," we quote as follows:

Montreal granulated, in bbls	6 20
" " in sacks	6 15
" yellow, in bbls	5 70

Canned Goods.

There are no new features in the canned goods market. There is an active demand and prices are steady. We quote:

Apples, 3's, 2 doz. cases, per case	2 15	2 20
Cherries, red pitted, 2's, 2 doz		4 40

Coffee.

There is still an easy tendency in the coffee market. We quote again last week's reduced prices:

Green Rio, per lb	0 10½	0 10½
Roasted, per lb		0 13

Cocoa and Chocolate.

The price of Baker's chocolate in ½-lb. packages is now 37c., and ¼ and ½-lb. packages of cocoa are sold at 42c. per lb.

Jam.

Upton's jam is quoted at 50c. per pail in Winnipeg. The Brandon price is 52c., the price in Calgary and Lethbridge, 57c., and the Edmonton price, 60c.

Tobacco.

We quote again the new prices on Tuckett's tobaccos. They represent an advance of about 1c. per lb. Prices are:

T. and B. plugs, 3's, 4's and 9's, per lb	0 77
"Lily" plugs, per lb	0 69
"Crescent," per lb	0 66

Walnut, per lb	0 12
" (shelled) "	0 25
Pecans, per lb	0 15 0 16
Brazils, per lb	0 16

Foreign Dried Fruits.

Reports from California indicate something of the extent of the new season's crop of different fruits, but as all danger from frost is scarcely yet past the predictions made now are liable to be upset. Apricots are expected to be a normal crop. The result is seen here in the opening prices for July and August delivery. Winnipeg houses are offering standards for July delivery at 10 to 10¼c. per lb. and choice at 10½ to 11c. per lb.

Peaches are expected to be a 75 per cent. yield, while the pear crop will be very light, perhaps only half the normal crop. Indications also point to a light yield of prunes, and in view of the unfavorable crop reports an advance in the local market is expected very soon. It is too early yet for any reliable prediction as to the crop of muscatel raisins. We quote:

Valencia raisins, Trenor's, per case f.o.s	2 00

The olive trade is growing fast and is becoming one of their most profitable lines with some dealers.

It would pay you to figure out just what increase has been made in your olive sales during the last year.

It should be much greater in proportion than the increase in your other lines.

And, if it is not, there is a reason which would be well worth locating and rectifying—perhaps we could help you to explain the trouble; we shall be glad to try.

Write and explain to us the condition of your olive trade.

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

W. B. Stringer & Co., Toronto, have engaged T. Smith, formerly of McWilliam & Everist, as manager of their retail department.

The Essex Canning Co. are busy fitting up their factory at Essex and expect when it is finished to have one of the best appointed canning factories in Canada.

Communications received from the fruit and vegetable producing sections of the Southern States indicate that, with the possible exception of Northern Georgia and Delaware, the recent reports of damage to growing crops from frost have been grossly exaggerated.

The Atlantic Fruit Co. and the Cuneo Trading Co., the leading independent banana concerns located in New York, have merged their interests under the name of the former firm.

Work will be commenced at once on the new canning factory to be erected at Napanee. The machinery is all arranged for and the factory will be in operation for corn and tomatoes about the middle of August.

Canning Factory Damaged.

The plant of the Oshawa Canning Co., at Oshawa, was damaged by fire on April 27 to the extent of $20,000 to $25,000, the process room being entirely destroyed. The main building, offices and store-rooms, escaped uninjured,. together with what remained of last season's pack, amounting to several thousand cases.

GREEN FRUITS.

Toronto, May 4, 1905.

THE last day or two of cold weather has had a depressing effect on the green fruit trade which otherwise continues very satisfactory. Bananas have been in rather over supply on this market during the past week, New York interests being evidently favorable to unloading on this side of the line. Prices have dropped from $1.50 to $2 to from $1.40 to $1.60 on large bunches, and to from 80c. to $1 on 8's. Red bananas are noted on the market for the first time this week, and are selling at from $2 to $2.25. Prices are quoted on loose lots of bananas ex car, which are favorable to buyers. The first direct fruit steamer from the Mediterrancan which was reported at Cape Breton last week is now forcing its way up the St. Lawrence and will be in port by the time this week's Grocer reaches its readers. Havana pines are 50c. cheaper than a week ago. North Carolina strawberries arc coming in car lots daily, and prices are down 5c. We quote the following:

Bahama grape fruit	....	5 00
Havana pines per case	3 50	4 00

VEGETABLES.

The attention of the trade seems to be slowly veering around to imported green vegetables. All other varieties are quiet and prices practically unchanged from last week. Tomatoes are coming more freely and the market is reported considerably easier than last week. Prices per case are from $1 to $1.50 lower. The last car of celery for the season arrived on the market on Wednesday and will be sold at $4 per case. Other southern vegetables are arriving freely, Charleston cabbage having taken the place of New Orleans stock; cabbage is quoted 75c. cheaper than last week. New Baltimore radishes are being quoted at $1.25 to $1.50 per hamper. Bermuda onions are down 50c. and Egyptians from 75c. to $1. Asparagus is 25c. cheaper than last week. We quote the following prices.

GREEN FRUITS.

Trade is fair and gradually gaining in activity. There is a good demand for fruits generally, and dealers expect an increase within a few days. One car of California navel oranges was sold here from $3 to $3.85. Two cars of strawberries also found buyers at prices between 13 and 17c. Bananas are selling well with a good demand, prices ranging from $1.15 to $1.50. A few steamers with cargoes of fruits are on the way to Montreal and are expected here soon. We note a few changes in prices:

VEGETABLES.

Trade is fair and vegetables meet with an increasing demand at prices quoted. Although little new goods are coming in, lines held in stock are plentiful for requirements. Florida vegetables are arriving in very light quantities owing to high prices, but it is expected that inside of a week their cost will weaken and stocks will come in more freely. Dealers also hope much from the arrival of vessels in this port to increase the trade and reduce prices.

FRENCH TABLE DELICACIES.

Mr. J. H. Cross, 112 St. James street, Montreal, manufacturers' agent and direct importer of fine French grocers' specialties and table delicacies, has moved into his new offices at above address, where he is now in excellent shape to show his great variety of French goods. Among the numerous firms represented by Mr. Cross, and whose products he has successfully introduced to the Canadian trade during the past number of years, may be mentioned the following: Bayle Fils Freres, Bordeaux, canned goods, preserves, alimentary pastes, the latter from the Marseilles factory; E. Sage, Dansse & Cie, Bordeaux, olive oils, vinegars, etc., recipients of gold medal at St. Louis Exposition: Anasty Freres, Marseilles, castile soap, etc.; R. Cusin-Gogat, Bordeaux, pineapples, pineapple juice, syrup and pulp and preserved fruits.

Among the wine and spirit houses represented by Mr. Cross are the following: John Begg's Royal Lochnagor Distilleries, located on the King's estates at Balmoral; J. O. Briand & Cie, Cognac; R. Chabannes & Cie, Bordeaux, clarets and sauternes; Anton Bourgeois (Beaune), burgundies; J. Laurent & Fils, Bordeaux, liqueurs, vermouths and rums; D. Chavin, Bourgoin (Isere), liqueurs; Hoffmann, Heffter & Co., Leipzig and Dresden, Germany, Rhine wines, moselles, etc.; Desgranges & Co., Reims, champagnes.

Full lines of specialties and liquors are carried in stock by Mr. Cross in bonded warehouses in Montreal, and orders are always promptly filled.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN AGENCY.

Sutcliffe & Bingham, Manchester, England, manufacturers of "Kkovah" specialties, have issued a circular to the Canadian grocery trade advising that Jas. R. Greig has ceased to represent them in Canada and announcing the appointment of R. L. Millward and George Bradwell as agents with offices at 17 St. John street, Montreal. Stocks of "Kkovah" specialties will be carried at the Montreal branch and orders will be promptly filled.

REMOVED TO NEW PREMISES.

Barnard & Holland, Montreal, dealers in crockery, formerly at 290 St. James street, have removed to 401 Coristine Building, corner of St. Paul and St. Nicholas streets, and most cordially invite their patrons to pay them a visit. Their new quarters are admirably adapted for the display of their large stock of china, glassware, porcelain and fancy pottery.

To the Grocery Trade

GENTLEMEN:

Our travellers complain that they are met everywhere in Ontario with the statement, "It is difficult to get JERSEY CREAM YEAST CAKES." They say even travellers who represent houses who handle our yeast say they do not keep it. While we very much prefer you to buy OUR Yeast Cakes from your regular wholesale grocer, we want you never to be out of it. You all know the difficulties we have had to contend with—a long, expensive law suit, men going around making all kinds of statements against our goods, post cards warning you not to handle our goods, our signs being torn down all over Ontario, etc., etc. With all this contemptible competition the sale of Jersey Cream Yeast Cakes has increased steadily month after month. If you like fair play and cannot get our yeast in regular channels, WRITE US DIRECT. Order a few articles to make up freight as there are so many that it makes no difference to you where you buy. Remember there is a certificate in each box that when you get ten you can procure a box of yeast from any wholesale grocer in Canada, free. This is taken from our advertising account. While we want you to buy direct from your wholesale grocer, who is allowed a fair profit, who also receives his full profit on free box, IF YOU CANNOT GET IT FROM HIM, order direct. Also bear in mind when you are asked for yeast, it pays best to sell Jersey Cream Yeast Cakes. DO NOT SELL ANY OLD YEAST. We will exchange all old yeast or pay you the cash for it.

FRUIT PROSPECTS GOOD.

THE GROCER is in receipt of the following reports from correspondents in the fruit-growing districts of Ontario on the prospects for the 1905 crop. By means of such reports from time to time throughout the season, it is our intention to keep the trade posted on conditions prevailing in the country:

O. W. Schoan, Aldershot.

Strawberries in this section do not promise to be more plentiful than last year; they were hurt some by water standing on them in the Winter, and there is not the acreage under cultivation owing to the fact that a great many one-year-old patches had to be plowed under last year, being so badly hurt in the Winter of 1903-1904. Raspberries promise to be a good crop, also currants, gooseberries, blackberries and other small fruits. Plums, pears, peaches, cherries, apples and all tree fruits, promise a heavy crop, and if we escape a Spring frost, we in this locality will have double the crop of tree fruit we had last year.

W. H. Merriman, St. Catharines.

From present conditions there will be an abundant apple, peach, pear, plum and small fruit crop this present year. Weather conditions, however, will control almost entirely from now until the various crops are harvested. For instance, a cold, heavy rain, when the fruit trees are in blossom, will almost wholly destroy the crop. The trees all wintered well. Strawberries promise to be a heavy crop. Of course rain is needed from time to time to insure good growth.

E. S. Johnson, Grimsby, Ontario.

In this district there is every prospect of a greatly-increased fruit yield over 1904. All trees and bushes came out well, the Winter having had no bad effects. There is a much greater average of strawberries and raspberries than ever before, and, no doubt, there will be an abundant crop. Peaches, plums, pears, etc., are in splendid condition, and the acreage of them has also increased enormously in the last two or three years. This will be the first bearing season for thousands of new trees. It is too early yet to speak of apples, but there is no reason why the crop should not be good, especially as the growers are spraying most extensively.

T. C. Hagaman, Oakville.

The apple, peach and plum crops, and in fact all fruits, have passed through the Winter without any damage. All that is necessary from now on to insure good crops is bright and warm weather through blossom season.

J. J. Fee, St. Catharines.

The peach trees have wintered well, and from appearances at present will have a large crop. It is a little too early to tell how the apple crop will be, but I expect it will be light after the last two heavy crops. Strawberries will be a large and plums a fair crop; trees have wintered well.

Dixon Bros., Hamilton.

It is impossible at the present time to say how the different varieties of fruit will turn out as none of the varieties are even in bloom yet. Growers report everything very promising.

E. J. McIntyre, Niagara.

It is yet quite too early to forecast the fruit crop of 1905. So far, however, nothing has occurred of a general nature to injure the prospects of a good yield. There are reports of Winter-killing here and there of peach trees that bore heavily last year; and some pear orchards have suffered severely from blight. The usual depredations of field mice are also in evidence. But fruit buds generally are healthy looking and plentiful; and if the fruit sets well; if insect pests are Grain Crop Report.

ADDITIONAL reports of unfavorable crop conditions have been received from Ontario points during the week, but it is expected that the result of the snow and rain storms a week ago and the subsequent warm weather will soon be apparent, when more cheerful advices are looked for from country correspondents.

Latest C.P.R. reports from Manitoba and the West show that at many points along the main line seeding operations are almost completed. This applies more particularly to the Broadview section, where the majority of the stations report 90 per cent. of the work done. Taking the country as a whole, the average is high; the general feeling is hopeful and with sufficient rain there should be a good crop as the seed is in early enough and the land in good shape. The wheat acreage in Manitoba and the Territories this year will be considerably over 4,000,000 bush.

The recent sharp decline in Manitoba and Ontario wheat has induced export business in Manitoba grain on a more liberal scale and several large shipments are going forward by the first boats sailing from Montreal. The Canadian export trade in flour is limited to some fair-sized consignments to South Africa. This trade bids fair to increase to much larger dimensions as the quality of Canadian flour is well liked there and competes successfully with the United States product.

Export Possibilities.

THE Earl of Minto, late Governor-General of Canada, recently delivered a speech in England, in which he referred to the immense area of fertile land available in the Canadian Northwest for the growing of wheat. In Manitoba and three provisional territories there were 171,000,000 acres suitable for cultivation, while in Alaska and Mackenzie there were 155,000,000 and 340,000,000 acres of land respectively, where considerable quantities of wheat had already been grown. Supposing that the 171,000,000 acres were under wheat, the total wheat crop would be 855,000,000 bushels annually, making Canada much the largest wheat-producing country in the world.

This showing, says Bradstreet's, is on much the same lines as that of Mr. George Johnson about a year ago, in answer to some remarks by the London Statist, which apparently did not take a very sanguine view of the possibility of Canada's supplying a good share of the British consumption of wheat. Mr. Johnson showed from diagrams that Canada had enough wheat land to supply all Great Britain's needs and still leave untouched the greater part of its immense area. Coincidently with the publication of Lord Minto's remarks comes the report from Winnipeg that a great combination proposes erecting elevators in the Canadian Northwest to store wheat, the plan being to ship the wheat to England, to be made into flour there.

Assuming that Canada does develop this immense wheat business, there is, of course, to be kept in mind the fact that the Canadian may not be long satisfied to ship his wheat in the form of grain, but may, in fact, do as has been done this season by some Canadian mills; that is, ship the wheat in the form of flour. This will, of course, become increasingly possible as the new country fills up and an outlet for the by-products of flour milling is offered. It would seem, in fact, as if the history of the United States would be repeated in the case of Canada, and the formerly large export of wheat in the form of grain would be diverted to that in the form of flour. This, of course, lies in the future, and it is, perhaps, well to remember that the United States is not yet obsolete as a wheat exporter, as argued by some observers. Despite the fact that the crops for three years have been short, that foreign wheat has been relatively cheap, and our own wheat has sold at almost prohibitive prices, the exports from the United States of domestic wheat and flour were equivalent to 33,659,960 bushels. Given a crop of 748,000,000 bushels, an amount equal to that gathered in 1901, and 200,000,000 bushels larger than that of 1904, it would seem possible that a good share of that country's export trade in wheat and flour would be regained. It seems reasonable, in fact, to expect that with present crop prospects the United States will contribute largely to the world's breadstuffs supply in 1905-06; if not in the form of wheat, then in the form of flour, which allows of the American miller getting a profit from the wheat, which some years ago went abroad largely in the form of grain.

Tobaccos, Cigars, and Smokers' Accessories

A DEPARTMENT FOR RETAIL MERCHANTS.

Keep the Stock Fresh.

OF first importance to the success of a tobacco department is the proper keeping of the stock. This applies not only to the care of the tobacco, but of the fixtures and accessories to an equal degree. The cigars should be kept in good condition by a proper amount of moisture. This may be supplied by a sponge kept moistened and left in the case. It may be thought that this is an unnecessary piece of advice, and the advisability of such treatment of the tobacco is so patent to every dealer that there should be no need to mention it. The fact remains that many dealers do neglect this very obvious means of keeping their stock in good condition. Many a man has put a sponge into his cigar case only to let it shrivel up with dryness for the lack of a minute's care. Do not let this occur in your tobacco department.

Another point which deserves attention is the care of the fixtures. Let the tobacco case, the woodwork and glass, be kept polished and clean. It adds greatly to a man's desire for cigars or tobacco if the smoking material is put up in an appetising way. Make it as easy and pleasant as possible for a man to make his purchases. The increased revenue from the tobacco sales, which will follow a systematic care of this department, will amply repay any trouble which is taken.

A Sovereign Remedy.

AN exchange recounts an incident, the nature of which gives evidence that there is something recommendable in the habit of smoking for the business man, however much some are wont to condemn the practice. I was calling at the home of an old-time friend a few days ago, and was greatly surprised when I saw the head of the house, who is one of the leading physicians of this city, quietly smoking a finely flavored Havana. In all the years I had known him it was the first time I had seen him smoke, and naturally expressed my surprise. He informed me that it was but a recent habit he had formed, and that his greatest regret was that he did not take it up many months before he did. He stated that owing to the immense practice he has and the irregular hours he has to keep thereby, that he had reached that stage when sleep was a stranger to him, and that he felt himself on the verge of a complete collapse. He spoke to a brother physician about how he felt, who advised him to try smoking, making it a practice not to allow his thoughts to dwell on anything pertaining to his practice, but to turn his mind away from cares, even from the topics in the newspapers during the time he was smoking. He advised that he should smoke his first cigar just a half hour or so before retiring. He ridiculed the advice at first, as he had dropped smoking thirty-five years ago, and pictured the joshing he would receive from his wife and daughter. However, when he returned home he was handed a neatly wrapped package, and upon opening the same discovered a box of extra fine quality cigars. He was greatly amused at his friend's earnestness in having him follow his advice, which, of course, he had to explain to his wife. Contrary to his expectations, she thought it quite sensible, anh that evening immediately after his dinner she insisted on his trying the experiment. Whilst he greatly enjoyed the cigar, of course, still he could hardly say that the first trial was sufficient to prove the value of his friend's suggestion. However, he continued the practice, and in a week's time he noticed the good effect it had worked upon him. He now smokes at an average of four cigars a day. When smoking two of these cigars he endeavors to follow the advice given him of diverting his thoughts as much as possible from their usual train, that is when he smokes after his noonday meal and the other a half hour or so before retiring, and the result has been most satisfactory. He finds that he feels greatly rested in mind after having enjoyed his dinner cigar, and better able to think on the many questions that are brought to his attention. Besides that, he finds that he can sleep quite soundly now when retiring, something that he had been unable to do for many months previous to his following his friend's advice. Let anyone who doubts the veracity of this statement give it a trial, if he does not believe in smoking and suffers from nervousness or similar ailments.

Almost the entire issue of the last number of the Australian Tobacco Journal is devoted to this question. It points out very clearly the deficiencies of Regie tobacco monopolies.

Contributions of Smokers

Tobacco has a great deal to do with the governmental affairs of the world. The French treasury report of the tobacco monopoly for 1904 shows a clear profit of $71,000,000. The Government receipts from tobacco tax in Great Britain last year were $60,000,000. In the United States the Government collects $45,000,000 from tobacco in internal revenue taxes. In Italy tobacco selling is a Government monopoly, and will yield a net profit this year of $45,000,000, and Austria-Hungary expects to collect about the same amount

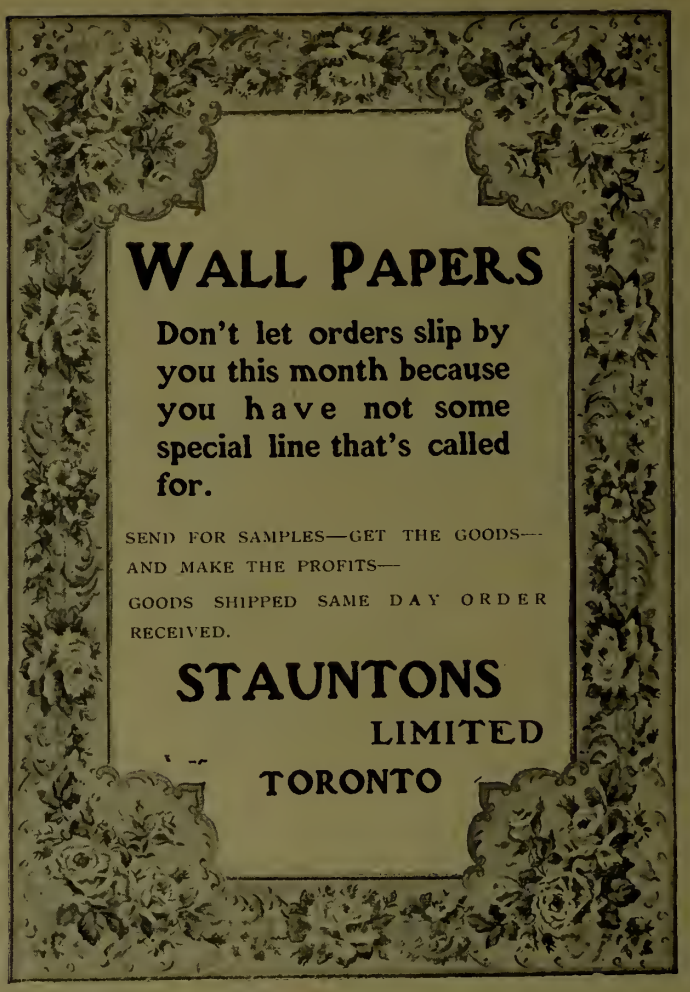
WALL PAPER

WALL PAPER SALESMANSHIP.

THE correct selling of wall paper requires much skill in the salesman. The customer should not be allowed perfect freedom of choice. It is the part of the salesman to suggest correct patterns. He should select a few designs which would be suitable to the room to be papered, and submit these to the customer. In this way the client is sure of having an artistic room and still has the utmost range of choice consistent with this.



There are one or two points which should be kept in mind in selecting wall paper. It should be constantly remembered that the paper is a part of the whole interior decoration. If this were only considered there would be much less of the inartistic contrasts and ostentation that are seen so frequently. In some rooms each individual piece of furniture and ornamentation seems crying out for recognition. Such a room is badly furnished even though every article in it is a masterpiece of art. The artistic room is the one in which the paper, the carpet, the furniture, all go to make up some ensemble effect. In the latter case, the room will attract attention as being harmonious. The individual articles will then be in best taste when they are satisfied with this subsidiary position and do not lay claim to being all-sufficient in themselves.

In pursuance of this general principle, wall paper should not be too obtrusive. This does not exclude richness of coloring and luxuriance of pattern. It merely means that the paper should be chosen so as to conform to the general idea of the room. For instance, if there are to be pictures in the room, there should be no decided pattern to the paper. Otherwise the background which the pictures need would be lacking. Generally speaking, floral designs should be conventional. This is a characteristic of the present season's patterns, as elaborate foliage and flowers are much in evidence. Moreover, a room with heavy furniture should not have a light, delicate paper.

The shape of the room often regulates the kind of paper which should be used. If the desire is to give the effect of a low ceiling, a wide border or frieze should be used. So a wide or a narrow pattern influences the appearance. These are points which should be carefully watched in choosing a paper. The salesman should have the general points of the room well in hand and make his recommendations accordingly. By doing so he will have no complaints after the room has been decorated, as is almost sure to be the case where the customer is permitted to chose an unsuitable pattern. Good salesmanship consists in more than selling goods. Giving satisfaction to the buyer is a necessary qualification. This will be found in the great majority of cases to follow the sale of the correct thing at all costs.

SPRING SALES.

THE Spring sales in wall paper have been fully up to expectations. In some parts of the country weather conditions were somewhat unpropitious, but on the average the season was fair from this standpoint. The manufacturers report a good activity in repeat orders, and this is a positive sign of the general healthiness of the trade. The manufacturers appear to have gauged the popular fancy with great skill, as the repeat orders have not been confined to one class of paper in particular, but have been distributed over the whole range. This is a good condition to have, both from the manufacturers' standpoint and from that of the retailer. It protects both from having to keep on hand a large and varied stock of undesirable papers, while having to re-order one or two outstanding patterns.

UPHOLSTERY ACCESSORIES.

THERE are many articles that have a place in the stock of the upholstery department that do not have a fair show. Take screens, for instance. They add a touch of elegance to any home and should meet with much more extended use. They are exhibited with more or less prominence, but in very many cases the suggestive touch that brings order is lacking. This the partial furnishing of an apartment or the suggestive price placard should remedy. The point to the customer is, "How would it look in the home, and what does it cost?" Price is a big factor in the trade of people of moderate means, and figures should be liberally quoted. When a timid woman is buying dress goods and timidly skirts the fringe of the upholstery department, she does not stop to make inquiries unless she means to buy. The department should be alive with neat and tasteful signs, which are ornamental rather than otherwise, telling visitors all about things of which they know but little. Buyers know better than anyone else that sales of upholstery goods must be forced in a way, or the results don't come. Every department should become headquarters, through advertising or otherwise, for the house furnishing customer—a bureau of information, in other words, where it is understood that visitors can come and look around at will, find something worth seeing, and get plenty of ideas to make their homes beautiful.—Exchange.

"The best business man is the one who learns wisdom from his own mistakes."

If you have made the mistake of not keeping

Paterson's Camp Coffee Essence

Learn wisdom—and learn it as soon as possible—you may have a call for Paterson's any time, as it is a fast seller, and then it looks so bad to be "just out."

GROCERS, ATTENTION!

What is your most valuable asset? Is it not your list of customers? What is most necessary to insure the success of your business? Is it not public confidence? By using THE TOLEDO SCALE which INVITES every CUSTOMER TO SEE THAT YOU GIVE THEM JUST WHAT THEY ASK FOR, you gain PUBLIC CONFIDENCE, thereby ADDING TO YOUR MOST VALUABLE ASSET, your list of Customers, and the great point is that you accomplish this without having to give down or over weight. No springs, no poises to shift, and no weights to lift on and off; the goods weigh themselves, absolutely correct, and do it instantly.

A postal will prove the foregoing. Think and act.

Modern Merchandising demands modern methods. The ALLISON COUPON BOOK is a strictly modern CONVENIENCE and SAFEGUARD against mistakes and consequent loss of money. It is better than any pass-book, punch or check system ever invented, and its absolute accuracy makes it the CHEAPEST SYSTEM on this big earth—excepting, of course, the cash system. See here:

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

for $10, give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book, charge him with $10, and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for ten cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all. HALIFAX BOARD OF TRADE

FROM very limited numbers a year or two ago, the membership of the Halifax Board of Trade has grown to four hundred and fifty-three, and is expected to reach the five hundred mark before the present year closes; from small rooms on Bedford Row, one of the back streets of Halifax, a change has been made to large, airy and nandsomely furnished rooms on the busiest part of Hollis street.

Board's Forward Movement.

For the last few years the growing usefulness of boards of trade in all the cities and towns of Canada has been acknowledged, and in no other place more than in the City of Halifax. Many years ago (about 1820), such a board—at that time called the chamber of commerce—was established in Halifax to look after the shipping interests prineipally, which in the olden days were of paramount importance. Some two years ago a "forward movement" was inaugurated and the results noted in the opening paragraph have been since accomplished. This end was brought about by a number of the younger business men of the city who felt the need of enlarging the scope of the board's work. A thorough canvass of the city was made which met with a hearty response, both as to membership and as to monetary pledges to increase the usefulness of the board, and to procure quarters that would be a credit to the city.

Process of Centralization.

The general result has been that every line of business or business interests in the city is now represented in the membership; the Tourist Association, the Retail Merchants' Association and other kindred interests have been absorbed, and a permanent energetic secretary has been engaged who is devoting his whole time to forwarding the interests of all concerned, which can be more easily accomplished by centralization.

How the Business is Done.

At present the business of the board is done in a very systematic manner which will, no doubt, have good results. The officers are as follows: President, James Hall; vice-presidents, A. M. Bell, G. E. Faulkner; secretary-treasurer, A. T. Weldon, council: G. S. Campbell, Alexander McNeil, S. D. Boak, C. H. Mitchell, Alex. Stephen, J. E. DeWolf, H. A. Flemming, James Billman, J. P. Cox, A. MacKinlay, I. C. Stewart, O. E. Smith, W. J. Clayton, L. J. Mylius, I. S. Bowser, H. L. Chipman.

Twenty-one Standing Committees.

For convenience in forwarding the work twenty-one standing committees have been appointed, representing interests including banking, learned professions, finance and insurance, manufactures, municipal, room and membership, pilotage and harbor regulations, reception and entertainment, tourist, transportation, freight rates, mining, West India trade and fisheries, immigration, flour, produce and commission, tariff and customs, retail merchants, dry goods (wholesale), hardware (wholesale), groceries (wholesale), the press. Every member of the council is chairman of a committee, each of which is composed of from five to twenty members.

The Work of the Committees.

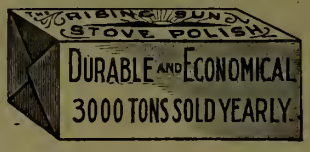
The various committees meet separately to consider the interests with which they are identified and report to the council, the latter reporting to a full meeting of the board, thus making a division of labor which cannot but tend to forward the interests of the city generally. Under the new regime the younger business men have come in with their new and progressive ideas, while those who have been longer in business are also there to give the benefit of their more mature practical experience as a healthy ballast to steady the deliberations of the board. Much good is expected to result from the new order of things.

Formal Opening of New Home.

The formal opening of the new quarters took place on Tuesday afternoon, May 2, and no better evidence of the success of the "forward movement" could be given than the large assemblage of business men present. The principal speakers on the occasion were Lieut.-Governor Jones, one of the oldest members of the old chamber of commerce; Major-General Sir Charles Parsons, commander of the British garrison; Attorney-General J. W. Longley; Major MacIlreith; President Hall and others; and each was enthusiastic and hopeful as to the results that must follow the combined efforts of every interest to promote the welfare of the City of Halifax, and indirectly to influence the efforts of other boards of trade in promoting the welfare of the country as a whole.

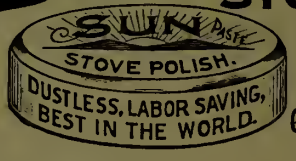
Congratulations of Visitors.

Among the visitors present from outside the city were W. E. Porter, president of the board of trade, Kentville; W. H. Roach, president of the board of trade, Windsor; and Alfred Dickie, Stewiacke, president of the Nova Scotia branch of the Manufacturers' Association, all of whom were happy in their remarks and extended congratulations to the board on their accession to new quarters as also to a broader and more useful sphere of work.



Handsomely Furnished.

The new quarters of the board were the subject of general admiration. The location is the second floor of the McManus Building, corner of Hollis and Sackville streets. From outside it shows off well, the front and side containing fourteen large plate glass windows each a single pane about six feet square fitted with a patent appliance which swings the whole window frame on a central pivot allowing the best of ventilation. From the entrance doors on Hollis street to the smallest room on the premises everything is fitted in the most approved modern style and elaborately finished in quartered oak. The main room is large, with a seating capacity of about 250. This room, when not in use for general meetings, will be utilized as a reading room. On a long table may be found the principal newspapers and trade journals of the Dominion and some of the financial and other journals of the United States. The walls are handsomely finished and hung with pictures representing local points of interest. There is in addition a smaller council chamber, a secretary's office, typewriter's room, library, storeroom, coat room and lavatory. No expense has been spared to make the rooms attractive and they are considered the finest in the Maritime Provinces.



General Policy of the Board.

As outlined by some of the speakers at the opening, there are three important things that the board is working for as a whole—Greater wharf accommodation, more railway sidings, and a five-day boat from the other side. To obtain the first two an effort will be made to secure a part of the lately abandoned dockyard, which will give abundant room for deep-water wharves as well as sidings. The need for greater railway accommodation may be seen from the fact that during April 2,100 cars of freight were landed here, besides the large quantity used for outward freight. A further object of the board in this connection is to be prepared to take advantage of what traffic may accrue on the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

Good Work of Tourist Committee.

The Tourist Association, which has now amalgamated with the board of trade, and is represented by a strong Tourist Committee, has done good work for the past few years in advertising the city's attractions, usually spending about $1,000 to $1,200 a year. The committee has now in press a booklet—"Lake, Stream and Forest"—devoted particularly to the fishing attractions of the country. Another booklet—"Halifax Side Trips"—is also in course of preparation. It has also prepared and will soon place in position sign boards on the various roads leading from the city and on cross roads within a radius of some miles. In connection with the tram company the Tourist Committee are arranging for a number of evening concerts at Green Bank (Point Pleasant Park), and at the beautiful North West Arm. Everything is being done which will tend to make the stay of tourists in the city pleasant and profitable.

R.C.H.

VALUABLE BOOK.

A Classified Article List of Industrial Products for Canadian Buyers, 1905-1906. Trade edition. Bound in blue cloth, $2.00. Montreal: The Manufacturers' List Co.

This volume of 430 pages is supplementary to the Canadian Industrial Blue Book, The Manufacturers' List, Buyers' Guide of Canada, issued by the Manufacturers' List Co. It provides a complete list of the articles contained in the Blue Book, and any additional articles that have subsequently been brought out by the industries of the country. It is issued for the benefit of merchants and dealers throughout the Dominion.

The plan of the book is to work from the article to the manufacturer. The articles manufactured are arranged alphabetically, and beneath each are given the names and addresses of the manufacturers. Before each name is placed a figure indicating whether the manufacturer's shipping rating is local and provincial, provincial and dominion or dominion and export. There are also references to the advertisements contained in the book, which give more detailed information about the products of the various firms. An index of articles only appears at the front of the book, referring by number to the page and paragraph, where further particulars are given.

The book is a most valuable one, and should find a place in every merchant's office. It is at the same time a splendid advertisement for Canadian industries, and very helpful in the export trade.

TORONTO COFFEE EXPERT IN MONTREAL.

Mr. J. W. Maybee, manager coffee department of the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, was a visitor to Montreal end of last week, and paid the offices of The Grocer a friendly call. Mr. Maybee's reputation as a coffee expert has extended beyond the confines of the Queen City, and his name is known by all interested in this branch of the grocery trade. Certainly from the point of long training and experience Mr. Maybee's opinions should be what they are—valuable—and that his judgment of coffees is weighty is borne out by the reputation of the special lines of coffees marketed by the Eby, Blain Co.

NEW GROCERY FIRM.

Belleville has a new grocery firm under the style of Hamm & Fairfield, they having recently bought out Adam Henry, who has been doing business there for a number of years. F. B. Hamm has been three years connected with the old business, and H. E. Fairfield has for the past fourteen years been connected with R. J. Graham, an extensive apple exporter. Both men are well and favorably known and already the new business shows considerable increase. They have remodelled the premises and intend to do an up-to-date general grocery and flour and feed trade.

Fresh and Cured Fish

Preparing for Salmon Season.

PREPARATIONS on the Fraser River for the big salmon pack of this year are now well under way and will be in full swing by the middle of May. The overhauling pf a large number of the canneries began on May 1, and before long can-making will commence in earnest. The managers of all the British Columbia Packers' Associations' canneries assumed active control of the various establishments on May 1. By the end of June all the canneries will have their preparations for the season's pack completed, and in July the first run of sockeyes will take place. It is reported that as this season is one of a large run a great many northern Indians are coming down to the Fraser. The northern natives may fish for a time for the canneries on the upper coast, but as soon as the runs there commence to slacken off they will head for the Fraser.

To Supply Fishermen With Bait.

It looks as if a new solution of the bait question were about to be offered to fishermen in the Maritime Provinces. A representative of the firm of Benet & Fils, Granville, France, has recently been in North Sydney with a view to supplying French and American fishing vessels with free samples of preserved bait such as is now used by this firm in France. Machinery for a bait-preserving plant is now on its way to Halifax. The new system is said to have great advantages over the cold storage plan as vessels can go to the fishing grounds and remain there as long as they wish with constant fresh material instead of having to return to port frequently for cold storage bait. It also removes the trouble and expense of carrying large quantities of ice.

To Investigate Fisheries.

THE proposed fishery commission to be appointed by the Dominion Government will have a much wider scope than was at first contemplated. There are many fishery questions of both local and international importance arising from time to time all along the line from Victoria to Halifax. In view of this the commission will probably take cognizance of fishery conditions in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Ontario besides British Columbia.

For the work in the Eastern Provinces a small commission of experts may be selected, which will begin its work on the Atlantic coast, taking the evidence of fishermen, fish merchants, canners and others, and hold conferences with state fish commissioners in Maine, New York and Vermont. Having done its work in the east, this commission will proceed to British Columbia, where it will be increased in size by the addition of three or four British Columbia representatives, where its most important work has to be done. Meetings will be held at Victoria, Vancouver, Nanaimo, New Westminster, and at a convenient point on the Skeena River. Conferences will also be held with the Washington state fish commissioner and with American canners and fishermen, to arrive if possible at a mutually satisfactory agreement in respect to regulations.

In British Columbia the commission will have to deal in the first place with the salmon industry, including such live questions as stringent rules against over-fishing, fish propagation, the location of traps and their effective regulation. There are also the halibut and herring industries, now assuming importance, and the wonderful wealth of the Pacific in other valuable food fishes that should be thoroughly inquired into in an investigation of this kind.

Provincial vs. Federal Rights.

The question of provincial and federal rights with regard to fishing privileges has arisen in British Columbia in a case brought before the Supreme Court by B. I. Short, who has been refused permission to erect salmon traps on the foreshore fronting Victoria after having been granted a federal license. The refusal by provincial officials is on the ground that the site is outside the territory decided upon as open for traps.

No Sardine Combine.

The report current some weeks ago that a combine had been formed among several of the sardine packing interests on the Maine coast is discredited by the New York Commercial. According to this journal no combine has been effected and the probabilities that one will be formed are now exceedingly remote.

Trap Fishing Begins.

Trap fishing began in the Straits of Georgia on May 2. The early start this year is for the purpose of securing a fish supply for a German firm who contemplate placing it in cold storage prior to exporting to Germany. The shipment of salmon to the German market is not an entirely new line. Carload lots have been forwarded from the Pacific

Fish Gossip.

It is said that the Dominion Government will shortly establish a fish hatchery at Windsor, N. S.

C. S. Windsor, the veteran Fraser River canner, is erecting an up-to-date cannery at New Westminster, B.C.

It has been formally announced that no readjustment will be made this year in the close season for salmon in British Columbia to make it agree with the close season in the State of Washington.

R. Henry, of Windsor, Ont., has been appointed by the British Columbia Packers' Association to supervise their business in Ontario, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, and part of the Province of Quebec for the next five years.

APPOINTED AGENTS.

The Union Oil Co., of Providence, R. I., have appointed as sole agents in Eastern Canada the N. K. Fairbank Co., Montreal, who are now carrying a stock of the famous brand "Pure Salad Oil" and offering same to the wholesale trade in the Dominion at attractive prices.

B.C. TRAVELERS' TAX.

THE North-West Commercial Travelers' Association have sent the following petition to the Minister of Trade and Commerce with reference to the tax on commercial travelers from other provinces recently imposed by the Legislature of British Columbia:

"Your petitioners, the North-West Commercial Travelers' Association of Canada, took all possible steps to induce the Government of British Columbia to refrain from passing legislation putting a tax on members of this and other associations of travelers in Canada, on the ground that it is an unjust discrimination against Canadian non-residents and a direct interference with inter-provincial trade. Your petitioners also have been accorded an interview by you, having waited on you with delegates from Toronto, London, Montreal and other associations of commercial travelers.

"The obnoxious tax is now being enforced, and we would respectfully beg that you would take up the matter of disallowing this Act at as early a date as possible, and would respectfully submit the following resolution passed by the Board of Trade at Nelson, B.C., showing that the people of British Columbia are not by any means in favor of this essentially class legislation, which has a tendency to interfere with the freedom of trade between the several provinces of the Dominion.

That in the opinion of the wholesalers' section of the Nelson Board of Trade, the recommendation of the British Columbia Assessment Commission to the Government of the province respecting the imposition of a tax on commercial travelers doing business in British Columbia is considered most objectionable in principle.

"Your petitioners would humbly pray for an early consideration and adjustment of this matter. Signed on behalf of the North-West Travelers' Association of Canada.

John Horne, President.
Fred J. C. Cox, Secretary."

TARIFF DECISIONS.

According to the latest decision of the Board of Customs, Ottawa, the following articles of foreign manufacture coming to Canada are subject to duty: Kremoline, used in the manufacture of confectionery, 25 per cent.; refined cocoanut oil, not further manufactured than bleached or refined, 20 per cent.; Thomson's essence for coffee, 2c. per lb.

DAIRY PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

and Cold Storage News.

The Bacon Situation.

THE importation of American hogs continues on a small to fair scale this week, as a result of the scarcity and high price of the domestic product; the price of the latter rules practically as last week, viz., $6.75 to $7.00. Good domestic business is reported, particularly in Ontario, and large orders are reported from the Upper Lakes district.

Conditions on the export market continue as last advised. Owing to the approach of Whitsuntide in England, when the bacon trade usually tends to the quiet side, Canadian packers are not anticipating as lively a demand from that quarter as usual. Killings in Denmark continue about the average, and there are no particular indications to record.

Canadian vs. Danish Bacon.

IN discussing the respective merits of Canadian and Danish bacon as viewed by the provision trade of Great Britain, W. A. MacKinnon, Canadian commercial agent to Bristol, says, the trade as a whole seem to be much gratified at the general improvement in the quality of Canadian bacon, and it is emphatically stated that the best samples of Canadian are not excelled by any other. It must be admitted that both Danish and Irish bacon, having a great advantage of nearness to the market, arrives fresher than Canadian. Danish is also milder cured, and is in high favor in the London markets, where it can be cut up quickly and consumed. Representative Cardiff importers say that Danish is not "hard" enough for the Welsh hill trade, that it discolors quickly, and is, therefore, not so safe handling as Canadian. Russian, likewise is not nearly so sound as Canadian bacon, and runs at about 3s. less. One large dealer states that Canadian is much more useful for his trade in Wales than Irish bacon, the proportion of his sales being twenty Canadian to one Irish.

THE USE OF BORAX

Leading importers express regret at the free use which is made of borax, though none of them appear to suggest a substitute for borax as a preservative. If salt only is used the result is too "hard" a cure, popular demand being for mild-cured bacon. This objection does not hold or at least is minimized, if the bacon is used within a week of landing, but when there is a longer interval, especially in warm weather, the bacon seems to become saturated with borax, which also produces a paler appearance instead of the attractive pinkish color of the salt cured.

UNITED STATES BACON SOLD AS CANADIAN.

It is freely stated that United States bacon is not sold as such, nor as American, but as low-priced Canadian. Such statements are often difficult to prove, but it will be evident that if the practice is as claimed, the effect must be to reduce the average quotations for Canadian and make them compare less favorably with the figures for Danish than would be the case if only standard Canadian brands were sold under that name. It is also claimed that some of the best Canadian bacon is sold as English.

SOME DISADVANTAGES OF CANADIAN BACON.

Some dealers attribute a considerable part of the excess in the price paid for Danish bacon to the relative scarcity of this product. A still more important element in determining a higher price for Danish bacon is that it is known to be free from borax. It is strongly asserted that if Canadian bacon could be landed here quite free from borax there is no reason why Canadian should not bring as much as Danish.

CANADIAN BACON NOT UNIFORM.

One thing greatly to be desired to bring Canadian bacon up to the level of Danish is uniformity in length and trimming of the sides, as also in the amount of fat. There is a somewhat frequent complaint that Canadian bacon is uneven, while the Danish product may be depended upon, bale after bale, to turn out almost exactly uniform. This is a most important advantage for any staple commodity in the British markets.

Best in the World.

J. J. Ilbaenes Casanova, a Mexican dairyman and factory man, who is at present on a three months' visit to the United States and Canada, says that Canadian dairying methods are the finest in the world, particularly those in use in Eastern Ontario and Quebec.

Mexico at the present time lacks the natural facilities for refrigerators and the Mexican Government has promised to give liberal concessions to any who will embark in the business. While in Chicago, Mr. Casanova visited different artificial ice plants, the ideas of which he is taking home to put into use, and which he thinks will become general in his country in a short time.

Cattle Embargo Again.

A conference of representatives of English and Scottish agricultural associations, municipal boards, and chambers of commerce was held in London, Eng., on May 11, with a view to securing the removal of the present restrictions on importations of Canadian cattle.

Dairy and Provision News.

The annual meeting of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Exchange, in London, on May 6, for the election of officers, resulted as follows: President, W. F. Sanderson, Rannock; vice-president, S. F. Brown, Mapleton; secretary-treasurer, J. A. Nelles, London (re-elected); auditor, T. B. Miller, London; directors, Martin Kidd, Aylmer; Thos. Ballantyne, jr., Stratford; J. W. Symington, Camlachie; James H. Thomas, Ingersoll; D. Smith, Widder; Western Fair representatives, J. R. Isaacs and T. B. Miller, London.

Creameries in Quebec.

The port of Three Rivers has just established a wholesale market that promises to do much for the development of the international trade in butter and cheese. A rich agricultural region centres around this point, and constitutes one of the principal sources of supply of both these articles for the Canadian market and export. Over two hundred creameries have joined a new association called the Three Rivers Butter and Cheese Board, and there is scarcely a parish in the Province of Quebec that does not have a dozen or more creameries.

The Petrolea Packing Co., Petrolea, have just finished a commodious building in which to kill cattle. They intend branching out in the beef export trade.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Toronto.

Provisions—Active demand and firmer prices continue to rule the provision market this week. The price of hogs continues at practically the same level as last week. The price of long, clear bacon and shoulder hams is 1-2c. higher than at last quotations. Lard is up 1-4c all round. Cold storage Spring lamb is out of the market. The export trade in cured meats is reported quiet. We quote the following:

Canadian cheese exports from Portland, St. John, New York and Boston the past week were 4,183 boxes, against 39,608 a year ago. Total shipments for the season of navigation, May 1, 1904, to May 3, 1905, were:

	1905.	1904.
Grand total	2,605.844	2,946,804

Canadian butter shipments last week nil, compared with 1,804 packages a year ago. The following are the total shipments of Canadian butter since the opening of navigation May 1, 1904, to May 3, 1905, from Montreal, Portland and St. John, including rail shipments to New York and Boston, showing comparisons with last year:

Provisions—The strong market of last week is being maintained. Live hogs are short in supply, and packers are paying $7.40 to $7.50 for selected lots and $7.25 for mixed. Dresed hogs, consequently, are stronger in feeling, and prices advanced 25c per 100 lbs. Abattoir fresh-killed selling at $9.75 to $10.00. Business in other lines is fair, but with the advent of warmer weather better trade is expected in hams and bacon.

Eggs—The egg market is interesting dealers lately, and though 14 1-2c jobbing way has been given out, several large dealers are holding out for 14 3-4c. Pickling operations by exporters, which have been going on lately, have let up some. A large quantity have been put away and left the market very bare. Demand for eggs from country points during the past few days has been profitable to dealers, and pickling operations have been shortened in consequence. Country buyers have been held to paying 13 1-2c., and this stiff price has kept the local market strong.

Cheese—Market conditions improving slowly. Prices, however, show no change this week. Demand is not active, as receipts are coming up heavier. Finest Ontarios quoted at 10 1-8 to 10 1-4c, Easterns at 9 7-8 to 10c, though holders are none too ready to let go at these figures.

Butter—Contrary to expectations the market holds strong. This is no doubt due to the fact that creamery supplies are not coming in heavily yet, and the good local demand is able to use up what arrives. Another factor tending to hold up prices is that outside points are good customers of dealers here. Generally dealers, as usual at this time, have been expecting lower prices, but, as stated above, conditions are unusual this Spring, and the market is holding up. Very much higher prices are not looked for, in fact an easier tone is predicted.

Provisions—There is but a very limited business being done in barrelled pork and beef. Local prices are in many cases below that at which goods could be replaced. Both beef and pork are rather higher. Smoked meats have a fair sale at full prices. Pure lard is firm at the advanced price. There is now quite a wide range between pure and refined. The latter was advanced slightly this week. Fresh beef, both western and domestic, is rather higher. Veal is quite plentiful; price unchanged. Lambs still high. Few are offered. Mutton holds at a fairly good price. There is little sale for pork.

THE NEW GERMAN TARIFF.

IN March, 1906, it is probable that the new German tariff law will come into force. It has taken several years to get the tariff into shape, owing to the fact that since the law was passed in December, 1902, several treaties of commerce have been negotiated between Germany and other countries of Europe. Besides this, treaties already in force have had to run their course, before any new arrangement could be effected. By the beginning of 1906, all the old treaties will have expired and all the new treaties will be secure, so that the new law can be properly put into force.

On February 22 last, the German Reichstag passed the last of seven treaties of commerce negotiated by the German chancellor of the exchequer with seven European countries, viz., Italy, Belgium, Roumania, Switzerland, Servia, Austria-Hungary and Russia. Under these conventions the seven countries will severally enjoy advantages not accorded to other countries in their commerce with Germany.

As an example of these advantages may be cited the schedule relating to dried fruits, such as apples, pears, peaches and apricots. At present these articles pay a duty of 95 cents per 220.4 pounds (100 kilograms). Under the new schedule the same articles will be dutiable at $2.38 per 220.4 pounds; but when imported from Italy, Roumania, Austria-Hungary and Servia, they will come in at a reduced duty of 95c. per 220.4 pounds, an advantage of $1.43 in favor of these countries.

Apples in barrels will be similarly discriminated against. Under the new tariff all apples in barrels will be dutiable at $2.38 per 220.4 pounds, except those entering from Italy, Belgium, Servia, Roumania and Switzerland. The duty on these will be $1.19 or half that imposed by the autonomous tariff. Another important feature in this connection is that from September 25 to November 25 fresh fruits, such as apples and pears, when unpacked, that is, piled loosely in bulk or carried in bags, may be imported free. This will enable the great cargoes of fruit that come into Germany from Austria and Switzerland by canal boat to enjoy a decisive advantage over apples of American origin, which are now imported uniformly in barrels.

LEADING CANADIAN STORES.

THE re-modelling and re-building of stores goes on apace all over the country. Every effort is made to render the store attractive and store arrangement and equipment are recognized as vital factors in successful merchandising. Economical operation, quick service, and protection from carelessness or dishonesty are sought to be provided in as far as possible. The ultimate aim is not only to render the store a pleasant place to trade in, but to enable the clerks to wait on a greater number of customers in a given time. These scientific methods of merchandising are considered wise by every class of retailers. Never was the convenience of customers regarded in so important a light.

Merchants generally obtain ideas in this direction by visiting centres and studying what other stores are doing.

To those denied such opportunities The Grocer appeals through the medium of its department of Window Dressing and the Art of Display, supplemented from time to time by special articles on store equipment, plans, etc. In this connection we earnestly desire the co-operation of our readers. Send us your plans for helpful criticism, as well as photographs and descriptions of your stores.

THE TRIVIAL DETAIL.

NO man should be discouraged because he inadvertently makes a mistake in his business. He should take comfort from knowing that even the shrewdest and most thorough-going and successful business man sometimes blunders. Sometimes a project of great importance is wrecked or defeated through the oversight of a man, whom no one would dream could ever make such a mistake.

A case in point occurred recently in a Canadian city involving the erection of an important building. The projector of the building was among the city's shrewdest business men, and had built up a highly successful business. He planned the new building with the greatest care; secured an exceptionally fine and central location and set to work to demolish the buildings already standing on the lot. But the new building was never erected, simply because he discovered that the conditions existing in the neighborhood were such as to completely preclude the possibility of finishing the structure without doing away with a small but most essential feature in its construction.

It is surprising how many small things, which yet have important results, are overlooked in this world. The inventor after overcoming the apparently insuperable, often finds his work completely undone by the apparently trivial. It makes us wonder whether our view of life is not upside down.

INCONVENIENCE TO THE TRADE.

ANYONE conversant with the routine of the wholesale grocery trade knows that this is the season when orders are taken for salmon for Fall delivery. In the east the custom is for the retail trade to order through their wholesaler in carload lots; a number of merchants get together and make up an order for one or more cars to be delivered at a point convenient to all, in this way avoiding the delay, inconvenience and additional expense which would be involved were the wholesale grocer obliged to receive all shipments of fish direct and afterwards to forward to individual customers.

A recent order issued by the C.P.R. freight department threatens to upset all this and to entirely disarrange the salmon business for the coming season. From now on the minimum weight of a car of salmon is fixed at 40,000 lbs. This means that in cases where orders have been accepted from certain districts for carload lots it will be necessary to increase orders to carload requirements or else cancel orders on that basis. It is easy to see the inconvenience to which the trade are going to be subjected when it is borne in mind that in many cases orders have already been taken on the old basis. The argument of the C.P.R. is evident; although it is a question whether a "kick" from the wholesale trade would not be quite within their rights.

SHOULD PUBLISH PRICE LIST.

A REPORT has reached the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, from one of its commercial agencies in Great Britain, that Canada is losing a great deal of trade over there through our manufacturers failing to publish price lists of their goods for the English market, c.i.f. at Liverpool. Other countries almost without exception pay scrupulous attention to this particular and naturally enough have Canadian shippers at a serious disadvantage. British dealers want to know exactly what goods will cost them delivered without having to go to the trouble of looking up freight schedules. If Canadian manufacturers want to cultivate the export trade they will have to be a little more careful in catering to the requirements of foreign markets in which the first and foremost consideration should always be "what do they want?" and not "what do I want to sell."

TO IMPROVE DOMESTIC FRUIT BUSINESS.

A SCHEME is being proposed by the authorities of the Department of Agriculture whereby the Fruit Marks Act may be more rigidly enforced throughout the towns and cities of Canada. Heretofore the Department has devoted its attention principally to the export trade and it is only beginning to be felt that much remains to be done in the way of improving the grading and packing of fruit for the domestic market.

Although it is feasible to enforce the Act direct from Ottawa, this plan would be very expensive. A better plan seems to be to have the Act enforced by local authorities. It is prescribed that anyone may lay information, and while special powers are given to the inspectors appointed by the Dominion authorities, such powers are not at all necessary for ordinary cases arising in fruit stores and markets.

The grocers are now the chief fruit sellers. They are usually a well-organized body and it is proposed to entrust the enforcement of the Fruit Marks Act to them. Their interests are all on the side of honest packing and grading, but, unfortunately, there are grave reasons why individual fruit sellers will not enforce the Act. It would, however, be feasible for the organized grocers and fruit sellers of each town or city to appoint one of their own body as their secretary or treasurer, for instance, to whom complaints might be made privately and whose duty it would be to investigate the cases and if necessary make the prosecutions.

An alternative plan would be to bring pressure to bear upon the city or town council or some committee who would appoint an officer, one, perhaps, whose time is not already taken up, and who could conveniently add to his other duties the inspection of fruit and fruit packages. Not so much expert skill is required in this phase of the work as to prevent any intelligent health officer, market clerk, or police sergeant from acting in this capacity. The Grocer is heartily in accord with any plan that will add to the profits and improve the status of the fruit business, and thinks these suggestions worthy at least of the consideration of the trade.

THE LATE HON. JAMES SUTHERLAND.

IN the death of the Hon. James Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, which occurred in Woodstock on May 3, Canada has lost a public man of great experience and executive ability, whose work in connection with the Federal Parliament during the last twenty-five years is a tribute, not only to the political party with which he was so long identified, but to the sterling worth of the man.

Mr. Sutherland's unique public career dated from 1880, when he entered the town council of Woodstock as its mayor. In December of the same year he made his entry into Canadian politics as member for North Oxford, which constituency he represented to the time of his death. On the death of James Trow in 1892 he became chief whip of the Liberal party, a position he held until appointed to the Cabinet without portfolio in 1901. When Mr. Tarte left the Ministry he became Minister of Public Works and was appointed chairman of the Commons Railway Committee, positions filled by him with much acceptance owing to his marked administrative ability. Mr. Sutherland was a many-sided man and will be equally missed in social circles on Parliament Hill, where he was looked upon pre-eminently as a "man of the people."

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

PEOPLE speak to-day of the sailing vessel having been relegated to the past as a means of ocean transportation. There are exceptions to this rule, however, if one is to judge from an address delivered before the Kings County Board of Trade, Nova Scotia, by R. E. Harris, of Wolfville, at its last quarterly meeting, in which reference was made to the experiment of sending apples to London in a sailing vessel. The fruit arrived on the English market in perfect condition after being two months in the ship. The interesting point is that the shippers saved no less than three shillings on every barrel shipped in this fashion. Who knows but that apple shippers from this side may be induced to follow up the experiment on a larger scale.

RETURNED FROM PORTO RICO.

MR. A. B. HARDWICKE, Canadian representative of James Pyle & Sons, Pearline, was a caller at the Montreal offices of The Grocer this week. Mr. Hardwicke, who is in the city in the interests of his firm, has just returned from a three mooths' visit to Porto Rico, where he combined business with recuperation of health. Mr. Hardwicke left New York in February for San Juan, which city he made his headquarters while in the Island. He also visited Ponce, that great sugar and molasses port, and was impressed with the vast amount of business done there in these two lines. He described San Juan as an up-to-date city, due to the fact that since the Island passed into the hands of the United States modern American methods and, to some extent, American customs, had been introduced. The city is very compactly built, clean, brick-paved streets, well-lighted, also trolley system of street cars, this street car line running out to the modern residential section and Summer bathing resort, San Tuce. In the way of stores he noticed only one American grocery, and that was as up-to-date as anything in this country. The Spanish or Porto Rican stores, many of them, are also bright, well kept and modern concerns.

Mr. Hardwicke was fortunate enough to be in San Juan during the Mardi Gras Festival, which is held annually during the two weeks preceding Lent. This festival was an amusing and interesting experience and the natives thoroughly enjoy themselves at this, their big blow out.

Speaking of the climate, Mr. Hardwicke states it as having been delightful and his sun-burned and healthy color shows that the land of "dolce far niente" agreed with him.

Asked as to business possibilities with Canada he thought little could be done as the trade was practically turned United States wards on account of the tariff arrangements and shipping facilities.

Mr. Hardwicke left for Quebec on Wednesday.

A VISITOR FROM MALAGA.

AN interesting visitor to the Toronto grocery trade during the present week was Mr. F. C. Bevan, of F. C. Bevan & Co., fruit exporters, Malaga, Spain. In the course of an interview with The Grocer Mr. Bevan stated that "there has been a steady increase in the acreage devoted to the cultivation of Malaga raisins since the terrible filoxera some ten or twelve years ago. This year's probable crop is estimated at a million and a half boxes (22 lbs. each) of sun-dried raisins. During the last few years the trade in raisins between Malaga, Spain, and the United States and Canada has shown considerable falling off on account of California growers having come into the market to supply the commoner grades of raisins."

F. C. Bevan & Co. are going more and more into the cultivation of fancy table raisins and are packing these in fancy cartons of 1 lb. each. The advantage of the new system to the grocer is evident. Instead of having to buy a 22 or a 30-lb. box of raisins in bulk he gets the same sized box packed with fancy table raisins each in pound packages attractively labeled. The grocery trade in the States have taken up the package idea enthusiastically and a similar disposition is noted in Canada where a number of the leading wholesale grocers are having their Malaga fruit put up in cartons with their own special brand.

Prospects are favorable to buyers for the coming season's stock, the growers in Malaga having been scared by the sensational drop of 20 per cent. shortly after the opening of the market last season. Mr. Bevan says there is a movement on foot to induce the shipping of Malaga fruit to Canada via Liverpool instead of via direct fruit steamer as heretofore. The trade are of the opinion that they will be able to get their goods more promptly and in better condition by the proposed route, by which fruit can be sent at any time during the season. Another reason for the proposed change is that the fruit growers in Spain regularly take advantage of the direct boat to bull the market. They wait until about a week before the boat is scheduled to sail and then hold back supplies in the hope of obtaining higher prices. They know only too well how sensitive the market is there and that a difference of even 15 or 20 thousand boxes is liable to turn things upside down.

According to Mr. Bevan the production of Valencia shelled almonds and Jordan almonds in Spain has increased enormously during the last five years. He estimates the crop of the former at 250,000 boxes and thinks the output of Jordan almonds will reach fully 100,000 boxes.

AMONG THE BOARDS OF TRADE.

THE Stratford Board of Trade have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Wm. Preston; vice-president, C. McIlhargy; secretary, James Steele; council, D. M. Ferguson, Thomas Ballantyne, jun., E. T. Dufton, W. J. Mooney, Joseph Orr, G. H. Douglas, C. McIlhargy, J. D. McCrimmon, Wm. Maynard, I. W. Steinhoff, Mayor Ferguson and Jos. Meyers; auditor, George Kay.

At the regular monthly meeting of the St. John Board of Trade on May 2 the principal order of business was the question of securing better harbor facilities for next year's Winter business. Correspondence was also read from the secretary of the Toronto Board of Trade including a resolution of protest passed by that board against the Act of Parliament recently passed in British Columbia taxing commercial travelers from the other provinces for doing business in British Columbia. It was resolved that a strong protest against the Act be drawn up and forwarded to the Toronto Board of Trade.

INQUIRIES FOR CANADIAN TRADE.

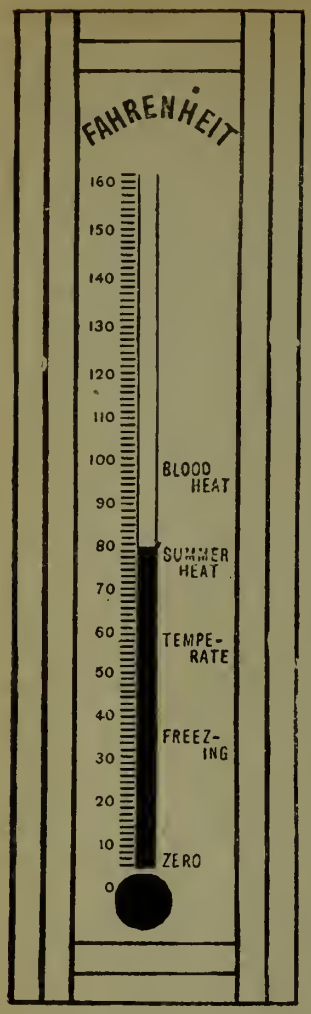
THE following inquiries concerning Canadian trade have been received at the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa:

643. A London provision merchant has asked to be placed in communication with Canadian firms exporting cheese, butter, eggs, bacon, etc.

644. A Copenhagen firm desire to get into direct business connection with reliable Canadian packers of fresh apples in barrels for export.

649. An old-established firm of importers, possessing a connection in the paper trade, wishes to secure the United Kingdom agency of a first-class Canadian manufacturer of news paper on reels or in reams.

648. A Hamburg firm would like to represent a few of the large produce exporters from Canada, and will also act as buying agents in Germany. The firm also gives the Norddeutsche Bank in Hamburg as a reference, in addition to Bradstreet and Dun.



657. A Japanese importing and exporting house wishes to have correspondence, with samples and quotations, from Canadian exporters of pulp, dried fish-manure and leaf-tobacco (low grade). They would also invite correspondence with dealers in Japanese goods with the view of exporting to Canada. Samples of fish-manure should not be less than three pounds.

658. A Japanese importing firm wishes to be put in communication with Canadian exporters of fish-manure (dried) with the view to importing it into Japan. Send samples (not less than 3 lbs.) and state price.

659. A London firm having a house in the Argentine Republic asks to be placed in communication with Canadian manufacturers and shippers wishing to develop trade in that market.

660. A manufacturer of Scotch whisky seeks the services of a responsible Canadian firm to act as agents in British Columbia.

The names of firms making these inquiries may be had from the superintendent of commercial agencies, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, provided the number of the inquiry is mentioned in application.

YOU CAN'T FOOL THE COOK

Brantford Prepared Corn Starch

won its first success in the kitchens of practical housewives. The recipes printed on the boxes were not the conventionally absurd kind, compiled as if for royal households or millionaires' palaces, but were of the common-sense kind. They "worked" and at once became widely popular, popularizing at the same time the "Brantford" brand of corn starch.

Ground slowly, without overheating, bolted through silk to microscopic fineness, free from grit or grain and with the delicate aroma and delicious natural flavor of bottom-land corn retained, was quickly recognized as very different from and superior to other brands. Good advertising lent a finishing touch to success.

BRANTFORD PREPARED CORN STARCH

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Groceries.

Montreal, May 11th, 1905.

THE grocery jobbing trade report business generally as being fairly satisfactory. No heavy ordering is being done by country buyers, but comparatively with last year many dealers report a slight improvement. Opening of navigation has had a good effect, and now that most lines are running it is expected that business will improve. No changes of any importance are noted. Sugars are in fair demand; the foreign markets have lately shown an improvement in beets. Teas are on the quiet side, and local buying has been small. Canned goods about as usual. Future orders for salmon are being placed, as well as canned goods, generally at open prices for the latter. It is announced that the hatchet has been buried between the canners' combine and the independent canneries, and prices will not be so open as during the past few seasons. Molasses quiet and no change in last quotations. Spices show an improved trade, and coffees are firm. In foreign dried fruits currants continue to show firmness, as well as stronger prices in sultanas. Fish market is improving and good for the season. Season for dore opens on the 15th inst., and this will bring more business, as these fish are looked for and obtain good sale. Flour market unchanged and apparently unaffected by the recent advance in Manitoba Spring wheat. Business, however, is showing an improvement. Feed also is in good demand. Evaporated apples are held firmly by those fortunate to have any supplies. The provision market is strong on account of short supplies. Butter is holding high, and eggs also are firm. Cheese quiet but looking somewhat better. The report that one of the largest paper-bag dealers in the east had cut prices is confirmed, and the manufacturers generally have not allowed this one firm to make inroads in their business, and have met prices to hold their trade. It is reported that a large Toronto house had also cut prices, but confirmation of this report could not be secured here.

SUGAR.

Busines continues quiet. Orders from the country are only about as usual at this season of the year, and there does not seem to be any inclination on the part of the trade to stock up for Summer requirements. This is no doubt due to the uncertainty of the foreign beet and raw sugar market, although latest advices are that beets are higher. The reduction noted last week has not in any way stimulated trade, business on the whole being only normal.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Trade during the week has been very quiet. There has been no change reported in quotations from the Island. Some of the better flavour New Orleans molasses have been substituted for Barbadoes at lesser prices, as the latter are still selling at 38c. per gallon in puncheons, while the New Orleans has been going out at 35c. in barrels. Trade in corn syrup is on the quiet side, with prices unchanged. This quietness is no doubt due to the fact that new maple syrups have received attention at the hands of the trade.

TEA.

The tea situation is on the quiet side. Business on the whole is not active. Ceylon blacks are somewhat firmer in London. Several cables last week for offers on various lines were turned back, showing that the feeling in London is a strong one. Indians are rather slow of sale. There has been some inquiry for China greens, principally gunpowders, both from Chicago and other points over the line. The market for China blacks is practically bare locally. There have been several important orders sent forward for import, for new crop teas, and it looks as though these blacks would find a good market this season. There is not very much change in Japans. Teas from 17c. to 20c. have been easier, but lower grades have shown some firming up during the week.

CANNED GOODS

Trade is about as usual. No changes in prices to report. Tomatoes are scarce, and jobbers have found it necessary to import more American tomatoes, which have been laid down here at prices ranging from $1.17 1-2 to $1.20. It is understood that this season there will be no difference in price between outside canners' quotations and the Canada Canners' prices. In salmon futures are quoted on basis of $5.00 f.o.b. coast, for sockeyes, $3.75 to $4.00 for cohoes, and $2.50 to $2.75 for humpback. It is also stated that during the coming season canners are trying to introduce the half-size tin of sockeye, but it is just a question whether this small size will take to retail at 10c for half-pound tin, consumers naturally preferring to pay that price for full-size pink salmon. However, the experiment remains to be tried.

In canned fruits we learn that the canners are disposing of the balance of last year's stocks, not with any concession in price, however, but in order to clean up room for the coming season.

Fish.

An interview with the leading fish dealers shows a better condition in the trade, in fact it is claimed that business is good for the season. Fresh fish is arriving in large quantities, particularly halibut and haddock. The new stock is of the very finest sort and meeting with ready demand. In general the demand is good on account of low prices. Season for dore opens on the fifteenth instant. We quote:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

In foreign dried fruits, sultanas show a firmness. Prices have been marked up since our last report from 6d to 1s., according to quality. Currants also continue to show firmness, though prices have not advanced beyond last limits. Almonds are slightly weaker, both in the shell and shelled almonds. but as this is a slack season for consumption this is only what might have been expected. Peanuts: the crop is not entirely exhausted in France for anything of shipping quality. Advices from London state that stocks of Hallowee dates are almost entirely exhausted; what few remain on hand of fair quality are firmly held. Khadrawees of fair quality are offered more freely. and we notice some importations of this grade of fruit.

HOPS.

Hop situation is brisk. Jobbers are anxious to sign contracts with holders for from one to three years' supplies in advance. This is occasioned by the little amount of unsold stock which is available in Canada and the States, at present not much above 17,000 bales. Besides dealers hold their stock in view of getting better prices. It is expected that the local prices will shortly go up. At present, however, they are the same.

EVAPORATED APPLES.

The trade is dull and demand is small. The syndicate controls the situation, and owing to the scarcity of goods business remains very slow. Quotations for evaporated apples: 7 to 7 1-2 cents. Dried apples quiet and still form at 3 to 3 1-2 cents.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

FLOUR.

The rise in Manitoba Spring wheat, which at first had little effect on the local trade, has helped to increase the demand, and dealers feel satisfied that it will not drop but gradually become stronger. In general, business shows a greater activity. and prices are firm and unchanged, and likely to be so for a while. Nothing of note to report besides.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

During the week a reduction of 10c per 100 lbs has been made by the Montreal mills in the price of standard B and Rangoon rice. This is not particularly important, as it means less than 1-4c per pound. A seasonable demand continues for rice at prices quoted below. We quote as follows:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

A firmer feeling in prunes is noted this week, light stocks being held and certain sizes, particularly 90-100's, scarce and in some cases unobtainable. Figs are pretty well out of the market, the only kind remaining being Elemes. Currants continue firm, as well as raisins. In both of these lines, however, trade at this season of the year is never a very important factor. An interesting item in regard to Malaga raisins will be found on another page of this paper. DRIED AND CURED FISH.

A brisk trade is reported in codfish, particularly package goods. The trade are of the opinion that under ordinary conditions a good demand will continue until the beginning of midsummer weather. The season for salmon trout is now over, and quotations have been withdrawn. We quote the following prices:

Country Produce.

EGGS.

The egg situation has firmed up considerably since last week and prices are ½c. higher. Fresh eggs continue to arrive in good volume. Nearly all the wholesale houses are busy with their pickling operations. We quote the following prices:

New laid eggs, per doz		0 14½

BEANS.

An easier feeling is noted in beans for the week and as a result prices have dropped 5c. all round. Lima beans are said to be a little firmer. Our quotations are as follows:

Grain, Flour and Breakfast Foods.

GRAIN.

Business in wheat is quiet and without special feature for the week excepting a drop in Manitoba wheat Northern No. 1 and No. 2 of 1c., and in Northern No. 3 of ½c. Red and white wheat are each down 1c. per bushel and oats ½c. Reports from the country are favorable, except in the districts of Hastings and Delhi, Ont., where the growing grain is said to be in bad shape. Indications in Manitoba are also good, the recent rain and snowstorms being just what the wheat requires in the early Spring. We quote the following prices:

Hides, Tallow, Skins and Wool.

The wholesale trade report a fairly active demand for hides this week, so much so that the market is cleaned up for the moment. The tanners seem to have loosened up all of a sudden and travelers report that it is difficult to secure more than from two to four hides in a single place. Farmers, too, are holding on for higher prices. The Chicago market, which always has more or less influence on local prices, continues very high with no inclination to drop. TRADE CONDITIONS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Vancouver, May 4, 1905

FOLLOWING the system which has been determined upon in the Provincial Fruit Growers' Association, various local fruit shippers' organizations are being formed in the districts of the Fraser River. This week's Provincial Gazette contains notice of the incorporation of the Hammond Fruit Growers' Union, Limited, to carry on business as specially provided under Sec. 15 of the Farmers' Institutes and Co-operative Act. The incorporators are all local men, and most of them are also interested in the recently organized Creamery and Fruit Canning Co., which has built a creamery and started making butter from Maple Ridge milk this season.

Hammond, like several other points on the Fraser, has the advanatage of river navigation to bring all sorts of produce from the farms and orchards of the district and of the railway to ship to the big market of the Northwest. There are a number of other local fruit shippers' associations being formed this year.

At the New Westminster market recently remark was caused by the receipt of a shipment of 20 boxes of seedless apples from Mr. Jas. Brown, of Hope, a station on the main line of the C.P.R., not far from the old town of Yale. The fruit, Mr. Brown says, was grown on a tree which he planted 15 or 20 years ago. It came with a lot of other trees from the east, and though the owner has ordered many trees from the same place at different times since, he has never had another "seedless" apple. The fruit always commands a high figure. Evidently Luther Burbank, the "fruit wizard" of California, has not a monopoly of seedless varieties.

LAST MINUTE PROVISION MARKET.

Montreal, Thursday, May 11, 12.30 p.m.

BUTTER—Market easing off slightly. Finest creamery hovers still around 19½ to 19¾c.; finest townships 19 to 19½c. Dairy scarce yet. Fine quoted 17 to 18c. Receipts increasing.

EGGS—Scarce and market higher. Nothing under 15c. sold to-day. Country prices firmer, 13½ to 14c. f.o.b.

CHEESE—Easier market. Ontario white sold at 10c. to-day.

PROVISIONS—No change. Prices well maintained on all lines. Abattoir fresh-killed, $9.75 to $10, with fair demand.

Irrigation is every day being given wider attention in the interior districts of the province, and with excellent results. At Kamloops the irrigation canal which was put in last year has been completed and perfected now, so that the 12,000 or 15,000 inches of water available at the source of supply can be transmitted to the lands close to Kamloops in the valley of the Thompson River.

In the Okanagan district large ranches are being subdivided and put under irrigation systems, and in southeast Kootenay great strides are being made in the same direction. East of the mountains, in Southern Alberta, near Lethbridge, there are now hundreds of miles of laterals and ditches carrying water on to land which otherwise would be practically arid.

In connection with the irrigation of land the setting out of fruit trees is going on in B.C. in all sections at a rapid pace. Taking the inspections of the stock coming in from foreign points, except Europe and the totals inspected and passed through the Dominion Government fumigation station in the past season it was over three-quarters of a million. As Ontario nurseries and plantations ship large quantities west, and these are in addition to the quantity named above, it is easy to see what an enormous expansion fruit raising is bound to have. Fancy over a million trees set out in one year! These will begin to bear within five or six years, in this country of early maturity, and as the planting of trees is not likely to lessen, the production is bound to be something enormous in a few years' time.

The market in the Northwest and Manitoba is continually expanding, and hitherto British Columbia has not been able to supply any great portion of the demand, but in the next five years, even given a steady development on the prairies, there will be a quantity for shipment which will be astonishing.

Yesterday, May 3, the first scow started down the Yukon River for Dawson, loaded with merchandise. The river has not altogether broken up, but from Lake Lebarge down to Dawson it is expected the ice will go out at any time. There are thousands of tons of freight at White Horse, awaiting opening of navigation.

The Brackman—Ker Milling Co., are about to erect a new wharf and grain elevator on the river front at New Westminster, where they already have a mill for making oatmeal and other cereals. The city council of New Westminster is leasing them two water front lots, owned by the corporation.

Butter stocks are beginning to show appreciable increase from local sources. Most of the creameries are turning out a good quantity and considerable dairy make is finding its way to market. Supplies from east are also beginning to arrive more freely. Prices are unchanged. From 27 to 30c. will cover the range.

Eggs are nearly all local supply, and since Easter the price has dropped slightly. Jobbing, local fresh can be bought for 23c.

In staple groceries no marked fluctuations can be noted. The trade is quiet, though there is a good season opening, especially in view of the coming cannery season. North coast canneries are active now as the season opens there earlier. Large quantities of supplies have been shipped north and every steamer is loaded to the limit.

DISTURBANCE IN PAPER BAGS.

During the past few weeks the Montreal trade have had an interesting situation presented in the cutting that has been going on in paper bags by one of the large eastern manufacturers. It is also to be noted that the other manufacturers have been meeting this break in order to protect their customers.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. W. Ellison, Penville, was in Toronto this week calling upon the wholesale grocery trade.

Mr. Rolley, representing a prominent fruit exporting house of Denia, Spain, was in Toronto this week calling upon the trade.

Mr. George E. Maybee, of the Metropolitan Soap Co., Toronto, is calling upon the jobbing and manufacturing trade of Montreal this week.

Mr. W. W. Brown, of Markdale, has secured a position as traveling salesman for the McLauchlan & Sons Co., wholesale grocers, Owen Sound.

Mr. P. C. Larkin, Toronto, passed through Montreal on his way from the Eastern States, where he had paid a visit to the Salada Tea Company's branches.

Mr. A. N. Reay, Canadian manager of the Force Food Co., was in Montreal this week on his way through Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Reay honored The Grocer offices with a call.

Jack Gregg was encountered by The Grocer in Ottawa last week in the interests of Surprise Soap. The city certainly looks as if he had been there with the goods.

Mr. H. Labelle, of the Royal Assurance Co., Major J. Peltier and Mr. Armand Chaput, of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie, Montreal, left on Thursday, May 11, for the Club Chapleau. They will enjoy ten days' trout fishing.

Mr. H. A. Allan, who for fourteen years was traveling in Eastern Ontario for Taylor, Scott & Co., Toronto, has joined the traveling staff of Stevens, Hepner & Co., Port Elgin, Ontario, manufacturers of Keystone brand of brooms, brushes and whisks. Mr. Allan is well known to the trade, and his many friends and customers will be pleased to learn that he is devoting his energies to his old specialties.

Mr. A. H. Stevens, of Stevens, Hepner & Co., Port Elgin, Ontario, was a caller on the Montreal and Ottawa trade during the past week. In conversation with The Grocer Mr. Stevens said that their business during the past few years had developed to such an extent that it has become necessary for their company to still further add to their extensive plant. Keystone brand brushes, brooms and whisks are controlled and manufactured by Stevens, Hepner & Co. Mr. Stevens stated that another traveler had to be added to their staff lately.

Mr. John Fullerton, of Rowat & Co., Glasgow, returned to Montreal this week from a tour of the Dominion in the interests of his company. Mr. Fullerton, who has traveled the Canadian continent annually for some years past, reports great improvement, and was particularly impressed with the growth of Winnipeg and its future possibilities. The tide of immigration is of a high character, and the influx of well-to-do American farmers from the Western States adds quickly to the material wealth and prosperity of the great Northwest. Mr. Fullerton reports business is good, and says general prosperity does not appear to be of a boom character. After remaining a few days in Montreal Mr. Fullerton left for St. John, N.B., and Halifax, sailing by the new turbiner Virginian from the latter port.

READJUSTING WESTERN BUSINESS

JAMES TURNER & CO., of Hamilton, have completed a readjustment of their Western Canadian business which should meet with the approval of their customers in that country. They carry stocks at Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver, and in order that their many customers in the west may draw upon these stocks without the lengthy delay involved in ordering direct from the Hamilton house James Turner & Co. are arranging to have their travelers establish headquarters as near as possible to the centre of the territories in which they are operating, so that they will be available by mail or wire at any time at such headquarters. In the event of their traveling representatives being out on the road the arrangement is such that there will not be a delay of more than a day or two in the forwarding of mail.

They have also made some interesting changes in their western traveling staff. Mr. Vila, who formerly traveled from Winnipeg to Victoria, and latterly in Alberta and the East Kootenay district, has been taken into the house and will supervise the firm's western business. Mr. Vila's route has been divided up between W. B. Grant, who will cover the territory on the main line of the C.P.R. from Assiniboia west of Swift Current, points on the Crow's Nest Railway, in Alberta and British Columbia, South-east Kootenay, Slocan Trail, Trail Creek and boundary districts; J. E. Fife, lately of Winnipeg, takes charge of all points on the Calgary and Edmonton Railway from McLeod to Edmonton and points on the main line in Alberta from Gleichen to British Columbia and the Okanagan Valley.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Davis' Fly Felts which are being offered to the trade this week are attractive and ready sellers. They take but little space on a grocer's shelf and are guaranteed effective. An assured profit of $10 on an investment of $6 is something out of the ordinary for the grocery trade.

W. H. Millman & Sons, Toronto, are in receipt of a car Witch Hazel soap.

S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal, are offering fine values in corriander, whole and ground.

The A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Toronto, report the arrival of another car of Apitezo and that sales of "The Iron Food" are increasing with every shipment.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, have invoices covering a carload of Crosse & Blackwell's pickles, sauces, marmalade, vinegar, etc., which is expected here next week. It will pay you to look up your list and send in your order at once.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, are quoting low figures for Muscovado raw sugar, fine, grainy sample.

The F. J. Castle Co., Ottawa, report increased sales of their "Golden Blend" Ceylon tea in 5-lb. caddies. The convenient size of this line is making it popular with the grocery trade.

W. H. Millman & Sons, Toronto, have received another consignment of two cars raw sugar from the Barbadoes Government.

The F. J. Castle Co., Ottawa, have just received a consignment of Castle brand California evaporated prunes, sizes 40 to 50, down, which they are offering at special prices.

American pack tomatoes "U-Auto-Eta" brand, which are claimed finest pack, are in store with the F. J. Castle Co., Ottawa, another carload having been received this week. The name is tempting enough to buy, aside from the quality of the goods.

Genuine fancy Barbadoes molasses in half barrels is in stock with the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto.

W. H. Millman & Co., Toronto, have booked several orders for Old Homestead canned goods, 1905 pack.

The Dawson Commission Co., Toronto, report the arrival of 5 cars California oranges during the week.

Buyers of canned pineapple should communicate with H. P. Eckardt & Co., Toronto.

H. P. Eckardt & Co., Toronto, are offering canned beets at an interesting price.

FORGING AHEAD

Gradually but steadily the merits of Canadian-made goods are being recognized by merchants, and this is as it should be. In the Blueing line Canada produces in BLUEOL the "never-streak" blue, the finest and best in the world.

TRINIDAD MARKET NEWS.

UNDER date of April 19, Gordon, Grant & Co., Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, report that there have been no landings of Newfoundland cured fish for some time, and that this description is meeting with inquiry. The majority of sugar estates have finished grinding, only the plantations which made a late start being still at work. The crop is estimated to be at least 30 per cent. short, which will largely counterbalance any benefit from the higher prices now being paid. The comparatively small output of both Muscovado and Vacuum Pan molasses has been all bought up, and there will be no more available until the autumn.

It would appear as if the cocoa crop is even worse than was anticipated. From most districts reports indicate that pickings will soon be over and until the trees recover during the rainy season there is little more to be expected.

LAID UP WITH PNEUMONIA.

Mr. W. F. Fielding, representative of S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal, in Eastern Ontario, has been laid up since last Friday, May 5, at the Montreal General Hospital with a sevcre attack of pneumonia. Mr. Fielding was obliged to take to the hospital, but the latest report is that an improvement has set in and it is expected that he will be out in a few weeks.

FOR USE AT RIDEAU HALL.

As an evidence of the increasing favor "made in Canada" food products are finding among the consuming public of Canada and foreign countries, the following interesting episode is reported by a prominent Toronto retail grocer. Our newly-appointed Governor-General paid a visit to the said grocer's establishment on the occasion of his first visit to Toronto, and was so taken with a sample of Shirriff's marmalade he saw that he ordered a case sent to Rideau Hall, Ottawa, for family use.

CEREAL COMPANIES ABOLISH PREMIUMS.

As a result of a conference with the officers of the National Retail Grocers' Association, eight of the largest cereal companies in the United States have signed an agreement to discontinue the giving of premiums, coupons, tag schemes and free deals of every kind and nature in selling their goods, not later than June 1, 1905.

The concerns entering into this agreement are: Battle Creek Breakfast Food Co. (Egg-O-See), Cream of Oats Co., American Cereal Co., Natural Food Co., Genesee Pure Food Co., the H.-O. Co., Great Western Cereal Co. and Malta-Vita Pure Food Co.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

THE London Grocers' Association will run their annual excursion to Niagara Falls this year on July 19th.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John. N.B., Mav 9, 1905.

BUSINESS is fairly active. A further decline in sugar during the past week, making 20 cents off from the highest point, does not help the situation. Prices are still much above last year. The situation is, however, still considered a strong one. There has been a further cargo of Porto Rico molasses received. This line attracts much interest. Prices so far have been quite firmly held, Barbadoes ruling high. In rice prices are, in the local market, rather higher, but rice is still cheap. There is quite a range in quality. Spices are unchanged. They are perhaps hardly as high in the original markets. Cream of tartar has ruled even for some time. Prices are not high. One particularly hopeful feature in business here is the improved situation in lumber, which is our most important product.

Oil.

In burning oil prices are still held at the very low figure quoted last week. The city trade are being supplied by the tank wagons at fifteen cents. Even at this price, however, the volume of business cannot be maintained. The longer day is a competition that cannot be overcome. Paint oils sell freely, while held quite firm. Linseeds are still low. Turpentine is quite high. There is a large business in lubricating oils at this season. Newfoundland non-freezing codliver oil, for medical purposes, is much lower than last year.

Salt.

In Liverpool coarse salt market is well supplied, with demand but fair. In both this line and factory-filled, prices are unchanged. Further supplies are expected about the middle of the month. Salt can always be bought to advantage while landing. In Canadian fine salt there is improved demand. Dairy and cheese salt in barrels are now in active demand.

Canned Goods.

There is a fair business. Stock of tomatoes is light and prices rather higher. There are quite a few American tomatoes here. They give good satisfaction; better than the American corn. This is, however, now being sold, but there is still quite a good stock of Canadian held. Peas are unchanged. Other vegetables are in good supply. Fruits have but a fair sale. There are ample stocks. Oysters are unchanged. Salmon is unchanged, with fair supplies held. Lobsters are very high, and few are sold.

Green Fruit.

A large business is being done. Bananas are the chief feature. One retailer offered three dozen for twenty-five cents. For best stock, however, prices are quite well maintained. Oranges are rather scarce. Prices are rather higher. In Californias, which are about the only line offered, small fruit is hard to get. Lemons are low. Apples show small business. Some native rhubarb is now being offered. Strawberries are lower, with quality just fair. Tomatoes are seen.

Dried Fruit.

Business is quiet. Seeded raisins are low. There is a fair sale. Other grades are firmer, but have little call. In prunes there is a fair business. Small sizes rather hard to get, though a fair stock is held here. The outlook for the Fall is for a light crop running to large sizes. The result will be rather higher prices with small fruit scarce. Apricots and peaches are too high for business. Dates are held firm. Figs have no sale. Currants are low. Evaporated apples are held firm, but have little sale. The Bermuda onions received have not been very satisfactory Egyptians are good and low.

Sugar.

Again prices are slightly lower, i.e., all twenty cents. While there is a full stock held, dealers are confident. The decline will affect the sale of the foreign sugar. This is the most important line in grocery business, and the outlook is watched with interest. Sales are reported somewhat slow.

Molasses.

The second cargo of Porto Rico has been received. There is also quite a quantity of old held. In this last prices are being shaded. Outside of two or three who are importers dealers are not holding large stocks. In spite of the high price quite a large quantity of new Barbadoes has gone into consumption, prices being well below Porto Rico. Stock of this grade is not large.

Flour, Feed and Seed.

While there is no change in flour, the market is hardly as firm. Feed is firmly held at full prices. Oats are still held at rather high figures. Oatmeal is a very large stock; prices are still high. Beans are rather dull.

Fish.

Gaspereaux are still in light supply. It is yet early for shad. A few salmon have been offered. Dry codfish are still very high. Supply is light. Pollock are very scarce, and there is little demand. Smoked herring are low. Pickled are a very light stock. It is years since the market was so poorly supplied.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, May 11th, 1905.

A SLIGHT decline in the volume of business has been reported by most wholesale houses since Easter week, but the general outlook is considered satisfactory. The snowstorm last week, although somewhat out of season, is generally regarded as a disguised blessing for the crops were in urgent need of moisture and the snow is considered better than rain. Western Canada is directly dependent upon the crop for the prosperity of her business men and the snowfall is probably worth millions to the country.

Sugar is still the most interesting item in the list. On Friday of last week there was another general decline of 10 cents, reducing the Winnipeg price to $6.10 for Montreal granulated in barrels. The outlook in sugar is uncertain, but lower prices are generally expected. In canned goods the only item of interest is the arrival of new supplies of canned pineapples, quotations for which are given below. New spices will arrive soon and some declines may be expected to take place then. "Crown Brand" syrups have been reduced. Prunes continue very firm and advances are expected. Many kinds of fish are now off the market, and since Lent trade has been less active. There is a strong demand for white fish and scarcely any on the market. Fresh supplies of Lake Winnipeg white fish are expected within a fortnight. Rolled oats and cornmeal have both been advanced.

Sugar.

A further reduction in sugar was announced on Friday of last week, too late to be recorded in The Grocer of May 5. At time of writing sugar is on a basis of $6.10 for Montreal granulated in barrels. Further reductions are expected in some quarters, but it is dangerous to predict what will be the outcome. Merchants are buying only for immediate requirements as is usually the case on a falling market. Subject to possible corrections in our "Last Minute Manitoba Markets," we quote as follows:

BIG CHANGE IN C.P.R.

A strong rumor is prevalent in well-informed circles that the C.P.R. are contemplating radical changes in the system of operating their western lines, namely, the handing over the work of the maintenance of ways department to private contractors. At the present time the maintenance of 6,000 miles of western lines entails an annual expenditure of $4,000,000, and if the contractors are able to see their way clear to do the work at a satisfactory figure it is thought that the C.P.R. will accept the best bid.

CORISTINE BUILDING

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

DULLNESS still rules in freight for ocean tonnage. The prospects for improvement are good and there is every chance that a stiffening of rates will set in almost immediately. The volume of new business transacted is not great even this, the second, week of ocean navigation for the season from Montreal. Shippers say that the sharp decline in the price of wheat and corn on this side of the water was not responded to very freely in the Old Country and to between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 bushels.

The early shipment of American corn and oats by the St. Lawrence route has been the cause of the increase. Last season at this time there was no American grain coming this way and none was booked for some time afterwards.

The first fruit boat has been unloaded and her cargo is to be sold on the docks. A number of American buyers have arrived in this city on the strength of the sale.

The different progressive railways are now putting on ice refrigerator cars to meet the demands of the large dairy produce trade which will set in at once. The C.P.R. and the Great Northern Railway have issued circulars to show just what territory will be covered and the days that the cars will be on the road. The I.C.R. and the G.T.R. have also announced their service.

To all shippers of dairy produce especial advice may be given to pay strict attention to these circulars and to follow the advice given by the different companies as all the arrangements noted therein will be kept to the very letter of the law. Last year a number of shippers lost considerable quantities of cheese and butter during hot weather just because they had failed to make sufficient note of the instructions given by the railway company. For instance, take the following lines: "Should any butter shipments be shut out owing to want of room in the iced cars, the shippers thereof must be advised to protect their property by returning it to cold storage until another iced car can be furnished." Further, this circular goes on to say: "Should they refuse to do so, they must be notified that the butter will remain at the station entirely at the risk of damage by weather, and the butter must be placed in a clean, dry part of the freight house."

Thus it may be seen readily that the railway companies protect themselves and shippers should pay great attention to the details insisted upon by the transportation authorities.

These rates are for general information only, and are subject to change at any time without notice; it is therefore important that all contracts must be reported by wire and confirmation obtained before closing with shippers, and unless specifically stated to be prompt shipment, or shipped within ten days after date of contract from the west.

The above rates are exchanged on basis of $4.80 to £1 Stg., excepting that when freight is prepaid, the ocean proportion of the through rate must be collected on basis of $4.86 to the pound sterling.

If freight is offered other than specified above, on which steamship connections are accustomed to quote a weight or measurement rate at their option, prompt replies will be facilitated by giving, when applying for rate, the relative weight and measurement of the merchandise.

It is understood that when reporting Sack Flour engagements, a carload is considered 28,000 lbs.

It is also important that shipper's name be given for every engagement made.

* Rates quoted in cents are per 100 lbs. † Per 2240 lbs, No Primage via Montreal.

Steamship men believe in a firm market and space for all ports except Liverpool and Glasgow is booked for May. Some engagements have been made for June and the future looks well. There is another way of looking at the season's business so far. For instance, it is more than was done last year at the corresponding period. The grain engagements for the season so far amount to between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 bushels.

Quality

We make quality the first consideration in every line we sell you—we take no chances on goods we do not know to be thoroughly correct.

Prices

After quality, we consider prices. Some of our lines may cost you a trifle more than competing lines—the difference is due to extra quality and in the end it will pay you to pay the difference just as it pays us. Our prices are "right" on all lines and we invite comparisons.

Shipments

We are careful in our shipping department to see that goods go out promptly and when wanted, in good order; properly packed, checked and addressed. When complaints are made we go into them carefully and promptly.

Accommodating

We like to oblige our customers; it's a pleasure to us to supply information about goods whether it leads to a sale or not—we want you to feel that we are working in your interests as well as our own. You may not be one of our customers but we would like to know you and you to know us.

THE Thamesville Canning Factory has been leased for a term of years by four business gentlemen of Thamesville—C. A. Watts, D. J. Davies, H. J. Obeay and G. A. Fraser—and will be run under the name of the Thames Canning Factory. They have their acreage nearly completed, and everything well under way to start canning for the coming season. They will can corn and tomatoes, and expect to put up a brand that will equal anything on the market.

Luther Burbank, of Santa Rosa, California, has succeeded in producing from a potato vine a luscious white, delightfully-palatable fruit that makes excellent preserves, and which he has called "pomato." The new fruit is smaller than a potato, and its meat is white. Its flavor is that of a fruit rather than a vegetable.

The apple shipments for the past season from Atlantic ports were 2,381,014 barrels. Of the number 666,354 were shipped from Boston, 636,047 from New York, 304,175 from Portland, 367,681 from Montreal, 354,275 from Halifax, 19,874 from St. John, 8,500 from Wolfville, N.S., and 24,108 from Annapolis. The shipments last season were: 3,462,759, and in 1903: 2,461,933 barrels.

The growing of citrus fruits on a commercial scale in Northern and Central California, while comparatively a new enterprise, is becoming each year of greater importance, and the output is rapidly increasing. Fortunately for the growers in that section of the State, their fruit ripens nearly two months earlier than that raised in Southern California, so that the marketing of the two crops is for the greater part done at different times, and they do not come into competition with one another.

Ontario Markets.

GREEN FRUITS.

Toronto, May 11, 1905.

NOTWITHSTANDING the cool weather the trade report a very satisfactory week's business in green fruits. Bananas have been literally slaughtered on this market during the past few days. One day last week there were no less than 15 cars on track, all of which were disposed of in good time. One member of the trade reports that he has never seen so many bananas disposed of on the Toronto market in such a short time. The steamer Jacona's cargo, which was sold in Montreal on Friday of this week attracted a large number of Toronto wholesale fruit men. Fuller details of the sale will be given next week.

Pineapples are 50c. easier in price than they were a week ago, and California navel oranges are selling at from $3 to $4.25 a box.

The price of strawberries fluctuates from day to day. At the close of the market, however, quotations were from 14 to 18c. The Chicago strike has seriously interfered with the arrival of stuff from California, particularly new cherries, very few of which have arrived on this market so far this season. Our quotations are as follows:

Bahama grape fruit	....	5 00
Havana pines per case	3 00	3 50

VEGETABLES.

A steadily-increasing volume of trade is reported in green vegetables, the only new arrival for the week being out-door rhubarb, which is quoted at 40c. per dozen bunches. Potatoes are slightly easier in price. Florida celery is down to $2.50 to $3 per case. Southern rhubarb is out of the market. Florida tomatoes are 50c. easier than a week ago. New carrots are 25c., waxed beans 50c., and Charleston cabbage 25c. easier than last week. Florida cucumbers have arrived on this market and are selling at $2.75 to $3 per hamper. We quote the following prices:

Greenhouse lettuce, per dozen bunches	0 25	0 30

Quebec Markets.

GREEN FRUITS.

A tour of the fruit market shows a little quietness in the trade, although some lines, such as oranges, are selling well and meeting with a good demand. Dealers expect business to develop shortly and have good prospects for this season's trade. Among the steamers newly arrived the Jacona has a large cargo of fruits, consisting of 15,000 boxes of Messina lemons, 13,000 boxes Messina oranges, 2,500 half boxes Messina oranges, 200 half boxes Messina lemons, 2,000 boxes Catania oranges, 10,000 boxes Sorrento oranges and 1,500 boxes Sorrento lemons, which will be sold by auction on Friday, the 12th inst. Oranges are expected to bring a fair price on account of good demand. Also 2 cars of pineapples will be sold this week at from 50 to 75c. per crate cheaper, according to opinion of dealers. We quote:

Bananas		1 50
Cocoanuts, per bag of 100		3 50
Pineapples, 24 to case		3 50
" 30 to case		3 00

VEGETABLES.

Trade is good and steadily gaining in activity. Demand is gradually increasing and is fair in all lines on account of low prices. Early vegetables are selling freely at prices quoted and a still better business is expected for the following weeks. Florida celery is coming in good quantities and selling well. There are also arrivals of potatoes and Florida tomatoes. The new stock is in fine condition and meeting with good demand. We note a fall in prices:

Florida tomatoes, crate	3 00	3 50

FREIGHT CONDITIONS ABROAD.

MR. H. D. ANNABLE, general freight agent for the C.P.R. in London, Eng., who was in Montreal a few days ago, says that Canadian trade in Great Britain is dull at present. The lumber market is dull, and in other respects as well very little business is being done. On the eontrary, the merehants of Britain are reaehing out to the colonies and the steel manufaeturers, for example, are doing now what they never did before—sending travelers to Canada. In that way a great deal of business is being done between merehants in Canada and the manufaeturers in Sheffield direct.

Mr. Annable is of the opinion that this eondition will beeome inereasingly apparent as the years go on, and the population of Canada becomes larger. It is a good sign, he thinks, at the present time, however, showing, as it does, that the English merehants are awaking to the necessity of adopting new methods. "England is not as backward as some people out here would have you believe," he remarked.

The merehants over there are now hustling for all they are worth. Possibly it may be true that in the past they have succeeded in spite of their methods rather than because of them, and may be said so again, but that will not be for long. The British merchant will remain in the vanguard.

CONDITION OF GROWING FRUIT CROPS

CORRESPONDENTS of The Grocer report as follows on the growing fruit crops throughout the Province of Ontario:

E. E. Adams, Leamington.

Peach trees here have stood the Winter very well, but the fruit buds are largely killed out. While the Crawford class are completely cleaned out, many of the more hardy varieties are showing a good quantity of fruit, and I should say, judging from what few peach trees we have here in bearing, that we will have 20 per cent. to perhaps 25 per cent. of a crop. Plums promise a good crop. I have not examined pears as yet. Cherries will be a good crop.

Strawberries will give a far better crop than last season, from the fact that during the Winter of 1903-04 a large quantity of the plants were killed out by frost. Many growers had almost none, while from last Spring's plantings, which have now come through the past Winter in good shape, I fully expect to see a nice crop. I am not sure that we will have a larger apple crop than last season, as we had a good crop then. A little later on more perfect information can be given.

I may say that the tomato crop for shipping to grocers or others throughout Ontario promises to be about normal from the present outlook. The crop of early cabbage will be much larger from the fact of larger plantings which are now in the ground. Wax beans, green peas, green corn, musk melons, cucumbers also will be in larger supply than formerly. This business is assuming large proportions here and paying well. My own sales from vegetables alone, all grown on my own farm, amounted to $2,000 last year, and I purchased nearly $3,000 worth from my neighbors to supply the trade. There are several growers here whose sales run from $1,000 to $3,000 in a season. Peaches have been somewhat of a "disaster" to many growers here, for we no sooner get an orchard in bearing than extreme frosts come and clean them out. I have lost over 5,000 trees in the last 7 years.

J. Depew, Southend.

Strawberries and other fine fruits look very promising at the preeent time for a good crop. Peaches, plums and pears also promise well. It is too early to give any close information in regard to the apple crop, but as far as I can judge they show a good average crop. The acreage of strawberries will be larger than last year.

This report covers the County of Welland and extends to Niagara-on-the Lake.

L. Wolverton, Grimsby.

The past Winter has been favorable for a good fruit crop. The peach trees are in excellent condition and are full of fruit buds. So are the cherry trees, even tender varieties of English sweet cherries being well laden with fruit buds. Pears look well, especially Duchess and Bartlett. Apples promise a fair crop. Not, perhaps, a very heavy crop of Baldwins, but a good crop of Spys may be expected. Strawberries promise well.

E. L. Jemmett, Beamsville.

The prospects for fruit, generally speaking, are very good at present. Peach trees have stood this last Winter all right, but at least 10 per cent. were killed the Winter before; this, together with the large acreage destroyed by scale and frost in other districts, would indicate that peaches will be good property for several years.

Strawberries will be much more plentiful here than last year; but not an extra large crop, and the canners are already offering a good price for them. Raspberries promise well, but owing to the canners' demand, will be about the same price as last year. Plums are likely to be cheaper than last year. There are not many apples grown here.

Milton Backus, Chatham.

Strawberries are just coming into bloom and have come through the Winter in fine shape. Pears promise a full crop. The Alexander and other early peaches promise a light crop, early Crawfords a medium crop, and Elbertas and Crosbys a full crop. Snowapples are a failure; Spies a full crop, also Baldwins and greenings promise a medium crop. Most other varieties will yield medium crops. It is a little early to give a comprehensive report as vegetation has made but little progress during the last three weeks.

C. H. Crysdale, Oshawa.

Fruit prospects up to date in this section are all that could be desired. There is, however, yet danger of a late frost and, therefore, for a week or so the prospects cannot be definitely estimated.

J. C. Smith, Burlington.

Peaches wintered well and promise a full crop. Plums, pears and apples also wintered well and promise an abundant bloom. Strawberries stood the cold weather well, but owing to the very dry Fall of 1904 did not make as many vines as usual. Therefore, I hardly look for as good a crop as last season. Raspberries and blackberries promise an average yield.

Jas. Hiscott, Virgil.

Peach trees, where cared for, have wintered fairly well. Many orchards have disappeared through the scale aad lack of care. Apples look well, yet, on account of the abundant crop of last season, one can scarcely look for more than a quarter crop this year. Strawberries promise well.

B.C. Correspondent.

A correspondent in British Columbia writes that it is too early to make forecasts of the fruit crop. So far, however, the prospects are much better than the average at this time of the year. The fine weather of late has had a splendid effect on the orchard bloom and the fruit is already setting. Everything now depends upon the early May weather.

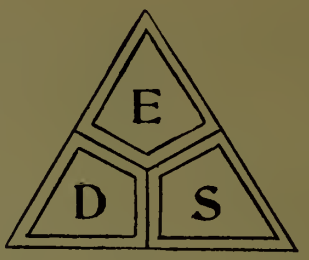
S. M. Culp, Beamsville.

It is a little early yet to know what the fruit will be like; the buds are just opening, and from appearances everything has stood the Winter well and prospects are good at present for a fruit crop.

I do not know yet what the apple crop will be like; re strawberries, I have been making inquiries to find out if there is as large an acreage bearing this year as usual and have not received the information yet.



Mr. Titterington, St. Catharines.

The small fruit crop promises to be better this Summer than it has been for a number of years past. One reason for this is that fruit growers have realized that to get the best results they must use every means to endeavor to overcome the scale pest. All the up-to-date growers have adopted the spraying method which, while it is an expensive and tedious process, not only increases the yield, but greatly improves the quality of the fruit as a whole. This season's crop will probably convince growers that the time and expense incurred in spraying is a good investment.

PREPARING FOR NEXT YEAR.

The trade of St. John, N.B., are beginning to prepare for next Winter's export business, and at present it looks as if at least one new wharf would be built. A movement is reported to be on foot, on the part of the contractors for the West India steamers, to have St. John cut out as a port of call. The feeling in St. John is that the Government will not consider the proposition seriously because of the large trade interests involved and the fact that the port of St. John is excellently situated for import and export business. The St. John Board of Trade have taken a strong stand on the question.

Grain Prospects.

CORRESPONDENTS throughout the grain-growing sections of Ontario report that the season is distinctly backward. The lack of moisture is a serious consideration in most localities, notwithstanding the fact that wheat and clover came through the Winter in good condition. With rain and sunshine from the present time onward there will be a much better Fall wheat crop than was harvested last year, when large areas were ploughed up because of Winter-killing. Reports from Manitoba and the Territories are generally cheerful, the tone of the weekly railway crop reports just issued being more favorable than was looked for. Seeding has been practically completed, only a small percentage remaining to be done. Some points still report dry weather, and the sudden cold snap has retarded growth in Manitoba, though not to any great extent. Parts of Assiniboia and Manitoba have suffered badly from heavy winds drifting the seed on dry soil, and it is estimated that 10 per cent. of this must be re-sown. The acreage already seeded shows considerable gains over the same period last year, the open Fall having enabled farmers to do a larger amount of plowing than usual.

World's Wheat Crop.

STATISTICS of the world's wheat production for 1904, according to Bradstreet's, show a decrease of 68,129,000 bushels, or 2.1 per cent., as compared with 1903, which was the record year. With the exception of 1903 no other recent year shows a yield above 3,000,000,000 bushels excepting 1902, which yielded 3,148,404,000 bushels. The following is a detailed statement:

Tobaccos, Cigars, and Smokers' Accessories

A DEPARTMENT FOR RETAIL MERCHANTS.

Good Chance for an Ad.

HAVE you ever thought of the most attractive spot in a cigar store for an ad? Nearly all the experts have exhausted the opportunities, but recently a new one occurred. It is the little lamp where the light is kept burning to ignite the oil-covered torches. As a rule the lamp is red and this glass is blank, and it is amazing why the American Tobacco Co. or some other equally enterprising concern does not get up some nice lamps, say of the Moorish type, with letters burned in the glass so that the light, however faint, would show off the name. Have two or three or a dozen different kinds of globes and change them frequently. This would draw attention and could not escape the most casual observer. Grocers who wish to be first in the field with a novelty can make a hit by suggesting this idea to travelers and make it mutually profitable.

Boldness in Cigar Ads.

"The best cigar for five cents in all Canada," is the striking card that appears from day to day in a well-known city cigar retail shop. It has really been a surprise to the dealer himself to find the number of people who have called just to ask if it is a fact that he has the best cigar in all Canada. The credulous public do not believe everything that is put in the windows, but it is the nerve of the man who puts it there that inspires the benefits of advertising which lie in just such acts as these. The caller is interested by the cleverness of the man behind the counter and it is like all other business propositions—to get a hearing is the main chance.

Then this is just a hint. Think of the manifold ideas there are to be evolved from this one: War pictures in a window as adopted by Mr. Michaels of Montreal, and the latest theories of the Japanese-Russian war.

Get up a vote for the most popular fireman and give a good prize; it will pay well. Then if you do not believe in the prize business. get up a nice hand-painted card, showing a man looking very comfortable and cosily smoking one of your specials, put the name on it and put your name prominently on the box of tobacco lying on the table which may be painted on the card.

To get your name known is to draw business to that name, and all your personality will be carried with you provided you should move from one place to another.

Big Grocer's Tobacco Department.

The howlers regarding grocers handling cigars and tobaccos should subside after they learn of the well-known firm Fraser, Viger & Co., of Montreal, making such strides in their tobacco department. Here is a firm acknowledged to be a leader in the Dominion, and surely it should serve as a model for the smaller houses everywhere. The firm have made an elaborate extension of their department of cigars, cigarettes and tobaccos. The department has been assigned special quarters in the rear of the warehouse, in the Nordheimer building, and it will now be conducted under the management of Mr. Charles P. Macklaier, a connoisseur in catering to the smoker's pleasure.

The new quarters have been fitted up in an attractive style, and the department will carry a complete line of smokers' supplies, with special attention to the higher grades of tobaccos, cigars and cigarettes. The firm is sole agent in Canada for the smoking mixtures of the London manufacturers, Carreras, whose Craven mixture was made famous by Barrie, in "My Lady Nicotine," under the name of "Arcadia." It is also sole agent for Carreras and Marcianus cigarettes, Craven mixture cigarettes, the Marcian cigarettes, and the Savory cigarettes.

In cigars, the department carries complete lines of imported goods, ranging in prices from $7 to $28 per hundred, and including such world famous brands as Murias' "Presidentes," Manuel Garcia's "Invincibles," Villar & Villar's "Colonels," Henry Clay's "Perfectos," and Eden's "Deliciosos." In addition to complete lines of these manufacturers, the department also carries cigars from many such houses as Upmann, Diaz y Garcia, and Bock y Ca.

The present extension of this department is, it is understood, an initial step towards a still further extension of the business in this direction.

gave the firm opportunity to decorate their windows with flowers and curtains, also pictures of horsey character. The interior is fitted up in a style never before seen in Canada. The walls are all solid marble and interlaced with mirrors. Fresh cut flowers were disposed throughout on the counters and cabinets, while solid glass partitions right up to the ceiling divide show rooms, where may be seen the choicest products of the tobacco leaf. At the rear is a magnificent lounging room fitted with leather couches and fine easy chairs. The location of the new place is in the old stand made famous on St. James street by Hymans, and is just at the head of St. John street, handy to the brokers, lawyers and wealthy smokers and about-town spenders, as well as being a convenient rendezvous for contractors and politicians. "The best business man is the one who learns wisdom from his own mistakes."

If you have made the mistake of not keeping

Paterson's Camp Coffee Essence

Learn wisdom—and learn it as soon as possible—you may have a call for Paterson's any time, as it is a fast seller, and then it looks so bad to be "just out."

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT

A GOOD FOOD IN STORE

The best foods you can have in your store are

Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit and Triscuit

These products are the standard wheat foods of today and the most popular. They sell easily and are steadily demanded. They are marketed in a straightforward manner, with no premium, gift or other schemes to create bother and expense for you. ¶ This year they will be more heavily advertised than ever before. Be ready for the demand which they will bring to bear upon you.

"GANG WARILY"

With many patent preparations it is necessary when the off season arrives to "gang warily." They are boomed for a season and then drop out. This is one of Nature's Laws, that everything that is not of use disappears.

MATHIEU'S SYRUP
Of Tar and Cod Liver Oil

has always been a ready, steady seller. It has been a force on the market through many seasons. There is no off season where it is concerned People get the cough habit even in summer; they are apt to drop into your store for a bottle of Mathieu's Syrup.

Don't be out of stock. They will naturally infer you are not abreast of the times. The sale is sure, the profit worth having.

No doubt your customers often speak to you about their aches and pains, Neuralgia, Headaches, etc. The best thing to alleviate these things is

MATHIEU'S NERVINE POWDERS

You can always safely recommend them. In fact they will sell themselves if displayed somewhere.

The "Thistle" Brand Fish

The fact that for twenty years we have sold the "Thistle" Brand of Canned Haddies, Kippered Herrings, etc., is pretty good evidence of the high standard of quality of the goods. By high quality we mean, first, the very best fish put up in the very cleanest way; second, the preservation of the rich, delicate, natural flavor by prompt action after the fish are caught.

There has never been any attempt by the owners of the "Thistle" Brand to produce their goods as cheap goods—quality has been their watchword first, last and always. They have never pretended to compete on the basis of price and they never will. The "Thistle" Brand is to be the best by every test and regardless of expense.

The Manager of the company is unsurpassed as a fish-curer, as his father was before him. The buyers of the "Thistle" Brand can be absolutely sure of perfection. It is the standard from which the quality of all other brands is judged.

Made in Canada

These words are the key to the success that every true Canadian heartily desires for this fair Canada of ours!

Why should we buy goods of any description that are made in a foreign country? The making of foreign goods does not give employment to our artisans. It does not retain money in this country.

Why use Foreign Salt? We have CANADIAN SALT that is superior to any foreign salt that is made.

Why not help build up Canada by using

Canadian Salt

and thereby employ Canadian labor, Canadian works, and Canadian capital?

Demand of your wholesale grocer Canadian Salt, and if he does not keep it write to us for prices and samples.

BOOKS FOR BUSINESS MEN . . . . . .

Manufacturing Cost

This book is a new departure in the way of a book on "cost accounting." In it you find treated the principles of the science instead of a description of what some one else has done. Other people's systems do not interest you unless you can apply them to your own uses, hence only those which can be applied to your own needs are touched upon.

Pamphlet about it sent on request.

Handsomely Bound in Cloth $3.00, CARRIAGE PREPAID

Thorne's Twentieth Century Book-Keeping and Business Practice

GROCERS, ATTENTION!

What is your most valuable asset? Is it not your list of customers? What is most necessary to insure the success of your business? Is it not public confidence? By using THE TOLEDO SCALE which INVITES every CUSTOMER TO SEE THAT YOU GIVE THEM JUST WHAT THEY ASK FOR, you gain PUBLIC CONFIDENCE, thereby ADDING TO YOUR MOST VALUABLE ASSET, your list of Customers, and the great point is that you accomplish this without having to give down or over weight. No springs, no poises to shift, and no weights to lift on and off; the goods weigh themselves, absolutely correct, and do it instantly.

A postal will prove the foregoing. Think and act.

He furnishes money with which to buy and he keeps his agents thoroughly posted at all times as to market values; write him for full particulars.

They Cost Something, Of Course.

But enough Allison Coupon Books to last a year won't cost as much as the amount you will lose by the careiessness of your clerks in forgetting to "charge up" numerous small purchases; and disputed pass-book entries, where you have to allow your customer's kick, or lose him.

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

for $10, give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book, charge him with $10, and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for ten cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all. And so on for all his purchases up to limit of the book. NO PASS BOOK. NO WRITING. NO TIME LOST. NO KICKING. There are other Coupon Books, of course, but why not have the best? BRADSTREET'S
Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000. Offices throughout the Civilized World
Executive Offices: Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, New York City, U.S.A.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants, for the merchants. In procuring, verifying, and promulgating information no effort is spared, and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claim as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world.

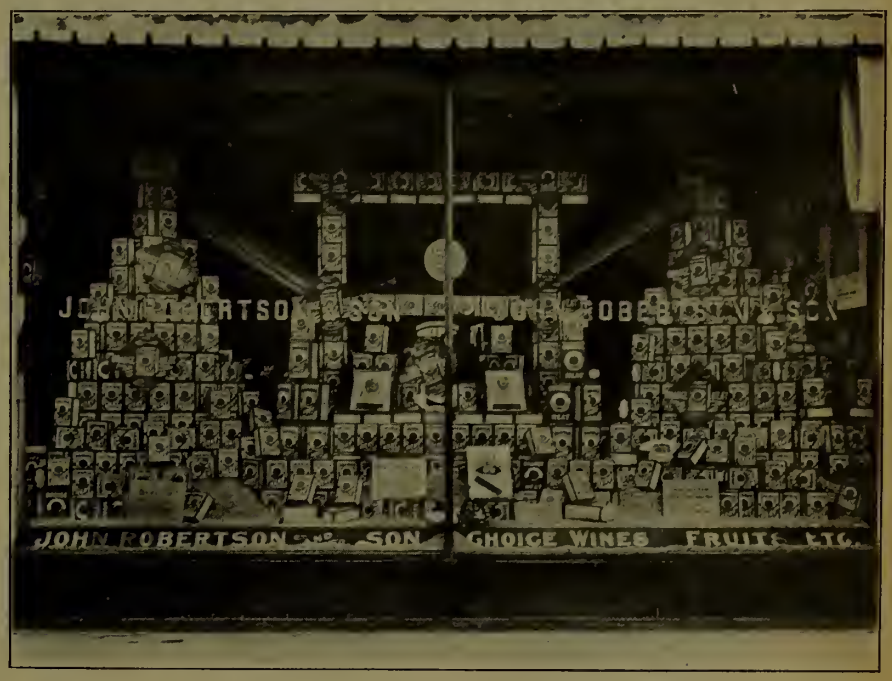
Window and Interior Displays

Timely Hints and Suggestions

How to Make An Interior Attractive.

THE wide awake grocer is always on the lookout for new ideas that will enable him to further cement the feeling of good fellowship between himself and his customers. In the first place he must convert them to the idea that his grocery is the only one in the town. In order to bring this about he will take every care to have the interior as neat and attractive as possible, the service prompt, and new features from time to time not only to brighten up the place but to lend additional interest to shopping and give an impetus to business, which is apt to get into a rut when the old routine is adhered to year in and year out without variation.



CARRY CUT FLOWERS.

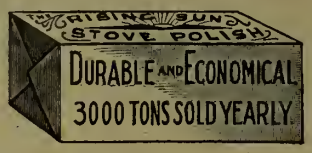
One feature that has been successfully worked out by many grocers is the stocking of cut flowers. If anything will attract a crowd to a grocery store it is a display of cut flowers. Once a customer has been secured for even half a dozen carnations, it rests entirely with a salesman whether her purchases are to be increased or not. City grocers are unanimous in saying there is a nice margin of profit in cut flowers, and that they more than pay for themselves in brightening up the store and attracting additional trade.

The present season is just the time for featuring potted plants, such as ferns, geraniums, coleus, etc., and young annual seedlings, such as pansies, asters and verbenas. If there is not a florist near by, then all the more reason for cultivating this trade. Most householders send to the city seedsman and florist for their Spring supplies of seeds and flowering plants. Ninety per cent. of such householders could be easily induced to patronize their local grocer, if he only made a point of keeping in stock a few of the plants and flower seeds they require. It may be contended that flower seeds are carried now by most grocers. Yes, and every gardener will tell you that notwithstanding this fact he finds it convenient to make up a little assorted order every season for the city florist.

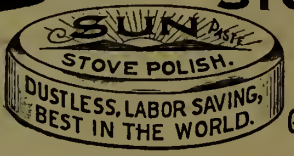
Grocers who have gone into the flower business have been able, almost without exception, to build up a large and increasing trade, not only in cut flowers, but seeds, plants and bulbs. One grocer in particular, when he first started a flower counter, carried but a few flowers secured from wholesale florists. Trade began to increase and he engaged a bright girl to look after this part of the trade. The girl became interested in her work and studied up very carefully on the subject. At her suggestion a line of seeds, bulbs and plants was added. She spent a part of each day calling on various customers and suggesting that they beautify their homes by planting small gardens. She was so well read on the subject that she could suggest the proper laying out of the garden, select the seeds and plants and instruct the customer on the caring for them. Naturally she sold them the necessary seeds, etc., as well as such fertilizers and spraying preparations as would need be used. She became so skilled in this work that her services were in great demand, and her sales ran into a considerable figure, making it an exceedingly profitable investment for the grocer. What this grocer accomplished is among the possibilities to any member of the trade who will take the trouble to start things going.

Spring is the season par excellence for the grocer to freshen up his store. The paint and varnish pot and paperhanger have been doing good work during the last few weeks. Many grocers have already taken the initiative in introducing uniformity of dress among their clerks, realizing that the motley array of clerks' costumes seen in many stores is anything but conducive to a neat and businesslike appearance. Not only this, but the average customer is very sensitive to an untidy clerk, and as quickly appreciates a neatly dressed and spick and span looking salesman. In many grocery establishments the clerks wear black sateen coats. This introduces the desired uniformity and is economical as far as laundry bills are concerned. Others prefer white duck jackets, on the ground that they impart an air of cleanliness to an establishment, and are less sombre than dark-colored garments. It seems rather odd to speak of a salesman as of decorative value in a store, but a half dozen or dozen clerks wearing freshly laundried white coats are nothing less. One up-to-date Toronto grocer requires his female clerks to dress uniformly in black; and provides his male employes with white jackets, which are sent to the laundry sufficiently often to keep them immaculately clean. The impression one gets in going into such a store is excellent, to say the least, and the grocer who cares to cultivate the sympathetic attitude among his customers will make no mistake in following such a lead.

Window Display by John Robertson & Son, Montreal.



A Tea Window.



A unique window display was made recently by Ledingham & Corlett, general merchants, Williamsford, Ont. The floor of their large grocery window being neatly carpeted, a china tea set was placed on a small table in centre of window. Large samples of the various teas carried by the firm were displayed in glass and china dishes. A steaming kettle on a small oil stove stood near the table. A large card, with "Try our special blends of black and green teas," completed a most effective tea window.

This Week's Illustration.

The breakfast foods and cereals in package form which have firmly established themselves in public favor within the last few years, provide excellent material for window displays. As a rule the packages are gaily colored and can be easily built up into a variety of shapes, such as pyramids, castles, etc. They are most effective when used as one-line displays, and by the exercise of a little care can be arranged to make a successful appeal to anyone passing the store. In this illustration the general effect is enhanced by a liberal sprinkling of price and advertisement cards through the window.

Among the Boards of Trade

THE Halifax Board of Trade is urging the Federal Government to give a more frequent steamship service between Canada and the West Indies in order that Canadian goods can compete on an equal footing with those going via United States ports.

The second quarterly meeting of the King's County, N.S., Board of Trade was held in Canning on April 26, with representatives present from Berwick, Lakeville, Cambridge, Centreville, Kentville, Wolfville and Pereaux. The chief items of interest were addresses by J. W. Chute on "Mutual Fire Insurance," and R. E. Harris on "A Recent Trip to England."

At the annual meeting of the Brampton Board of Trade on May 10 the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, J. H. Boulter, re-elected; vice-president, T. W. Duggan; secretary-treasurer, W. C. Young; council, G. L. Williams, James Golding, E. S. Anderson, T. Thauburn, J. L. Stork, R. H. Pringle, G. W. Crawford, C. A. Irvine. The president called attention to the fact that certain desirable important firms were in correspondence with the Mayor, with a view to locating here. He impressed upon the Board of Trade the necessity of their laying down some clearly defined and energetic policy as to their attitude in the matter of prospective industries for this town. It was moved by Dr. Roberts, and seconded by Dr. Sharpe, and carried without dissent that: "It is expedient and advisable in the interest of Brampton, subject to the approval of the executive committee of the Board of Trade, to grant a free site and other material assistance to manufacturers proposing to locate in Brampton."

The Welland Board of Trade have organized and elected the following officers: President, D. Ross; vice-president, G. C. Brown; secretary, J. McCaw; treasurer, Jas. O'Neal; council, G. W. Sutherland, O. H. Garner, W. H. Crowther, J. H. Crow, Louis Blake Duff, J. Goodwin, J. J. Sidey, J. H. Burgar.

Four or five propositions from factories wishing to locate there have been received, a deal with one of which is nearly closed.

FEDERATED MERCHANTS MEET.

A MEETING of the Federated Retail Merchants of Montreal was held on May 10 at 88 St. Denis street, G. Thompson officiating as chairman.

A letter from Sir Wilfrid Laurier was read advising the Montreal retail trade that the House had not yet been able to consider the trading stamp question. Messrs. Daoust, Lemire, Watson, Rouleau, Lariviere and Lamoureux were appointed a committee to interview Mr. Gervais, M.P., further, on this subject.

Mr. Gervais has promised that in case the effort to crush the Traders' Advertising Co. is not successful he will endeavor to pass legislation in the Quebec Legislature imposing a tax on all merchants using trading stamps. Mr. Lariviere suggested that the press be asked to exert their influence to abolish trading stamps, and a proposal to this effect was adopted by the meeting.

The Mount Royal Assurance Co. have offered a rebate of 30 per cent. to all members belonging to societies affiliated with the federation. Mr. Lariviere said that the Montreal-Canada Insurance Co. would probably make similar offers within a short time. Many merchants have already taken advantage of this offer.

The secretary, J. A. Beaudry, announced that the druggists and hardware dealers would shortly unite with the federation.

OIL STORAGE.

MUCH attention has been given the question of safe oil and gasoline storage of late, the result of a serious loss of life in the Northwest.

A merchant was obliged to go down in the basement soon after dusk, to get a can of oil, and in some way upset his lantern. The flames caught up a small stream of oil that had leaked out of an old tank, and before the merchant could extinguish the flames his clothes were ablaze and the tank ignited. In the catastrophe which followed, the unfortunate man was burned to death, and his store destroyed.

Only a few days previous, a representative of a tank manufacturing firm called upon this merchant and endeavored to convince him of the disadvantages of his method of handling oil, and the advantages which a good substantial self-measuring oil outfit would offer. His reason for not buying was that there was not much profit in oil, and he did not feel he could afford a new tank. Upon a return visit, shortly after the fire, this salesman had little trouble in placing his outfits in the stores of the other merchants in the town referred to.

In its endeavor to place a perfect self-measuring oil outfit upon the market to overcome this danger of fire, the firm of S. F. Bowser & Co. have made a careful study of the question, and have now perfected an outfit which meets all the requirements of handling oil in a safe, convenient and economical manner. Not only is it absolutely safe, but convenient, durable and in all respects satisfactory. This outfit merits the careful attention of all merchants who desire to insure the safety of their stores and the lives of themselves and clerks.

MANUFACTURING PICKLES.

Purnell, Webb & Co., malt vinegar brewers, Redcliff street, Bristol, England, recently added a pickle and sauce factory to their manufacturing business. "Purnell's pure malt vinegar" is favorably known to the British trade, and will serve as an excellent recommendation for "P.W. sauce" and "Purnell's pure pickles," which this firm are placing on the market.

BARBADOES MOLASSES.

Since last week there has been no change in quotations from the island, but buyers have been ready to take what small quantities planters have been willing to offer at 21½c. for wine gallon first cost, puncheon included, or equal to about 35c. landed gauge. The latest cables indicate that the crop is just about finished, it being now estimated that there are only the equivalent of 1,500 punchcons remaining unsold, and these are held by planters who are not disposed to sell at present prices.

The SS. Naparima has arrived in port with the first shipment of this season's stock to reach Montreal. The whole of the consignment is addressed to D. Rattray & Sons, which firm have also another steamer, the SS. Yoruba, about leaving Barbadoes with molasses for Quebec, Montreal and western points.

Up to the present but few Montreal firms have placed any orders, and it is expected that as the crop draws to a close there will be keen competition to secure the necessary requirements for the Montreal market.

ABOUT THE FRUIT CROP.

CORRESPONDENTS of The Grocer continue to report on the growing fruit crops of Canada as follows:

Lequime Brothers & Co., Kelowna, B.C.

All indications point to a large crop of all fruits. The trees have all wintered well, and the show of blossom is larger than ever before.

T. A. Sharpe, Agassiz.

Peaches are not commercially grown in the Lower Fraser, but as the Winter was a very mild one the few trees that are grown promise a fair crop. Strawberries were injured in some places by a late frost, and the result may be a lighter crop in consequence. Plums, apples, pears and cherries at this date promise a full crop.

M. C. Lawler, Whitby.

Apples, pears, plums and cherries will be a full crop in this locality and all small fruits seem to be in good shape, although the latter are hardly forward enough as yet to speak with precision.

Farmers' Exchange, Armstrong, B.C.

All fruit trees in this section have wintered well, and are at present in full bloom. The apple crop will be larger on account of the increased acreage of bearing trees. In small fruits, such as strawberries, raspberries, the yield will be larger than last year, as the season so far has been more favorable.

Biggs Fruit & Produce Co., Burlington.

The outlook is all that can be desired. Everything, of course, depends on the weather, but if that is favorable the crop should be a large and fine one. This applies to all fruits, both large and small. Mr. A. Biggs is the inventor of a new apple box for the export trade, for which he has applied for a patent. The box has been tested and used for two years, giving excellent satisfaction. It is made specially for the high-grade apple trade.

Fresh and Cured Fish

OPENING PRICE FOR SALMON.

THE question of the price to be paid for sockeyes on the Fraser River this season has already begun to agitate the minds of white and Japanese fishermen in British Columbia. The former have taken no steps in the matter as yet, although the latter have gone so far as to ask the Fraser River Canners' Association to name their scale.

It is unlikely that any announcement will be made till the latter part of May. A record run is expected during the coming season. Over thirty canneries will be operated on the Fraser, and during the height of the season will be kept busy to their full capacity if the fish appear in the large numbers expected.

On the Columbia River the run of Spring salmon is so light and the demand so great that, according to special advices from Astoria, there has been much breaking of rates on the part of the canners.

There has been little, if any, improvement in the run of fish on the lower river. Catches are still light, although more salmon have been packed already than were put last year by May 1. The quality of the fish being taken is excellent, which in large measure accounts for the general demand.

While the catch on the lower river is small, it is larger upstream, the reason given for this being that in the deeper water at the mouth of the river the stream is clear and the fish are swimming very low, thus escaping the nets. Farther upstream, where the depth is less and the nets reach closer to the bottom, the catches are better.

W. J. GUEST FISH CO.

W. J. Guest, fish dealer, Winnipeg, has disposed of his retail establishment to Innis and Co., who will continue business at the old stand. Mr. Guest will devote all his attention now to his wholesale trade, and the business will be carried on under the name of the W. J. Guest Fish Co. A warehouse will be built this Summer.

NEW SALMON HATCHERY.

Final arrangements for the erection of a twenty-million-egg salmon hatchery at McTavish Creek, Okewano Lake, Rivers Inlet, are being made by F. H. Cunningham, superintendent of fish culture for the Dominion. The construction work will be pushed as rapidly as possible in order that hatching operations may be commenced before the end of the present season.

In British Columbia to-day there are three large hatcheries in full operation under the control of the Dominion Government, in addition to one at Seton Lake under the direction of the Provincial authorities. The Federal Government has under construction a large hatchery on Birkenhead River, Pemberton Meadows, and contemplate the erection of two large establishments, on the upper Skeena and at Alberni, which will be undertaken as soon as suitable sites are decided upon.

APPLYING TO GOVERNMENT.

The town of North Sydney, C.B., is asking the Dominion Government to assist in the establishment of a cold-storage bait plant at that port similar to the one at Canso. The enforcement of the Newfoundland Bait Act is sending numbers of Gloucester and French fishing vessels to North Sydney for supplies, and the erection of a cold-storage plant there is expected to build up an immense business.

ANOTHER INDUSTRY FOR B.C.

Another fishing and trading company has been organized to enter the fish trade of Northern British Columbia, with headquarters at Hartley Bay. All kinds of fish will be smoked and salted, and oil will be manufactured.

FISH GOSSIP.

Last year's salmon business in Alaska was worth $3,000,000 more than the United States paid for the whole territory.

The lobster factory at Abbott's Harbor, Yarmouth, owned by G. Shand, was destroyed by fire last week. Loss estimated at $5,000, including $2,000 worth of canned lobsters.

J. J. Cowie, the Scottish fishing expert, who conducted a series of demonstrations in herring curing at Canso, N.S., last year, is en route to Canada to continue similar experiments this year in the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia.

IMPRESSIONS OF CANADA.

THE Toronto offices of The Grocer were favored this week with a call from Mr. E. Spencer Wyatt, colonial manager of Crosse & Blackwell, London, Eng, who is visiting Canada in the interests of his firm.

Mr. Wyatt said Crosse & Blackwell are getting a fair share of Canadian trade, and are planning to get more. They are thoroughly alive to the wonderful industrial future in store for Canada, and it would be a wonder if they didn't turn the possibilities to good account.

When asked what were his first impressions of Canada, Mr. Wyatt said: "What I noticed as soon as I landed in Montreal was the flood of immigrants pouring into Canada from Europe. I was disappointed to see so many foreigners and so few Britishers. These people will probably become naturalized in time, but it is a question whether they will make the best kind of citizens. They may disarrange conditions of labor for the simple reason that they will underbid the Canadian laborer every time they get a chance. I wouldn't be surprised if there were "rocks ahead" for Canada in this matter of immigration.

"Englishmen who contemplate doing business in Canada should come out and see the country. In fact it is a necessity if they expect to get any adequate idea of the Canadian market. What I have seen so far has been a veritable eye-opener. In the first place it is difficult for one who has spent his life in the 'tight little island' to appreciate what a big place Canada is. At home we measure distances by hundreds of miles; here business men think nothing of paying regular visits to clients living a thousand miles away. What delighted me especially was the Niagara fruit district, which I should call the garden of Canada.

"I experienced one disappointment since I came out. I had read some very pretty romances about the Canadian homestead. The real thing, however, is entirely different from any preconception of it. I can appreciate now what the hardships of the Canadian pioneers must have been."

Mr. Wyatt left on Wednesday, May 17, for Winnipeg and the west. He expects to return to England about July 1.

A GOOD MOVE.

A move in the right direction has recently been made by E. W. Gillett Co., of Toronto, in placing an order for gasoline business rigs to be used by them for advertising purposes throughout the Dominion, and for delivering their goods to the grocery trade in Toronto. Motors for business purposes are being largely used in England, as well as other European countries. In the large U.S. cities to-day they are almost as common as wagons drawn by horses. The express companies in most of the American cities have adopted the use of the horseless vehicle to a very great extent.

From actual tests it has been found that one business motor wagon will deliver as many goods in a day as can be delivered by twelve teams of horses. It will not be surprising to find that other large concerns will gradually fall into line.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., May 17, 1905.

While there is a fair volume of business the general feeling is not the best. With sugar a half cent lower than the price ruling the first of the year, and flour off twenty cents, even though the latter was not perhaps unexpected, it is not possible there should be that snap there would be if there was a firmer feling in these staples. The more so when the trade are carrying a large stock of sugar. They have not yet, however, lost confidence in this line. Of course pork products are rather higher, but except in lard there is light business. It has been decided to increase the wharfage accommodation, so that the largest of the new steamers will find our facilities for the Winter export and import business of Canada equal to the increased demand.

There is much indignation over a report that the West India steamers would use Halifax exclusively, but considering that this was originally a St. John service only, and that a very large business is done here, it is not believed the Government will allow this unfair discrimination. It is said, even by some supporters of the Government, that this is one of the outcomes of our electing Opposition members, but the people generally are slow to believe such an imputation against the honesty of the Government.

Oil.

The very low prices in burning oil still rule. There is a good business for the season. Lubricating oils are quite active. Paint oils have a good demand. Price of linseed is still low, with turpentine at quite full figures. Market is firm. Cod oil is very quiet.

Canned Goods.

While there is little change in corn and tomatoes, increased quantities of American are received. Prices there are firmer. There are plenty of peas. Fruits have a fair sale at even prices. Salmon is unchanged. Lobsters are high. Meats begin to move more freely. In the retail stores quite a little American goods are seen. In domestic fish, canners are beginning to pack haddies. There have been large sales made ahead. New clams are freely offered.

Dried Fruit.

Business is quiet. Seeded raisins keep low. Loose show better value. Prunes have a fair sale. The outlook for Fall is for higher prices, particularly in small sizes. There are few apricots and peaches here; dealers will not pay the price. Currants are still low. Evaporated apples are very dull. The outlook for peels, particularly citron, is for higher prices. Dates are higher. In onions, Egyptians are now low. Quality this year but fair. Valencias are now quoted.

Sugar.

There has been another decline this week. The market has dropped off thirty cents quite quickly. The cream is certainly gone. Stocks, as a rule, are large. Dealers are not discouraged, and still look to make a good profit on their holdings. The decline affects the sale of foreign sugar.

Molasses.

There is much interest in this line as to the outcome. Barbadoes is firm at full prices. In Porto Rico new is freely offered. There is still considerable old held. Quite full prices asked.

Fish.

It is the same old story, high prices and light stocks. While this is not the season of demand, still much of the demand there is, is unfilled. Dry and pickled fish are very scarce. There is a full supply of smoked herrings, price low. In fresh fish a fair catch of gaspereaux, but shad are very scarce.

Flour, Feed and Seed.

The drop of twenty cents in flour has affected the sale. Manitobas have the chief demand; the more so when the price is as close as now to Ontarios. Oats and oatmeal keep quite firm. Cornmeal is unchanged. Beans are firmer but dull. Peas and barley are scarce and high. Feed holds at full figures. In seed the season is about over. The business has been perhaps a little disappointing. Clovers are very high.

DAIRY PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

and Cold Storage News.

THE BACON SITUATION.

LOCAL packers report large receipts of hogs for the week, a decided improvement being noted in this regard over the last few weeks. The price of bacon on the other side of the line shows considerable increase, and as a result importations from that quarter noted a week ago have fallen off, until practically nothing whatever is coming forward at the present time. The price of hogs continues about on last week's level, viz., $6.85 to $7.

The English market has registered a decline owing to the proximity of the Whitsuntide season, and the price of export bacon now ranges about 54 to 57 shillings. English houses are pressing the sale of Danish bacon, which has interfered considerably with the sale of the Canadian product. Trade over there will in all probability continue light until after May 24.

WILL NOT REMOVE CATTLE EMBARGO.

The President of the British Board of Agriculture has taken a decided stand on the cattle embargo question, and given specific instructions that as long as he occupies his present position there will be no change in the existing regulations barring Canadian stock cattle from the markets of Great Britain.

Notwithstanding this decision, the British embargo upon Canadian cattle is claiming increasing attention in Great Britain. The Balfour Government has been forced into the admission that the embargo is maintained, not for its ostensible purpose of safeguarding British herds from disease, but solely in the interests of British cattle raisers. The Liberal leader. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, has pledged himself to remove the embargo when a Liberal Government takes office. Meanwhile, the unwisdom of continuing it is being impressed more and more upon the British public at large.

The matter was discussed at the recent annual dinner of the York Butchers' Association, when the opinion was expressed that the supply of sound, wholesome food for the people was a national question. The principal difficulty of the English farmer at the present time was the high price of store stock, and there were only two ways of meeting it. Either British breeders must breed more than they did now, or they must bring in store cattle from some other country. They were largely dependent upon Ireland for their store cattle, and it seemed reasonable that Canada should ask to be put on an even footing. Since the imposition of the embargo nine years ago it was estimated that the consumers of Great Britain had lost $25,000,000 by the exclusion of Canadian live cattle.

RUSSIAN BUTTER EXPORTS.

It appears according to a recent issue of the Board of Trade Journal, that Russian exports of butter to Great Britain and Denmark have been falling off of late. The reason for this as given by the Board of Trade Journal is that Germany is coming forward as a large consumer of Russian butter. On the other hand, the imports into Great Britain from Russia have also been reduced owing to increased colonial receipts. Higher prices in the German markets have also had an influence on the situation; the average having been considerably higher in 1904 than in the two previous years, while in Denmark the price has appreciably fallen. In any case, Russia is actively engaged in developing this export trade with Germany.

Members of the trade in Canada may be interested in the following extracts from the Board of Trade Journal :

"Three years ago, with only 40,523 metric cwts., Russia stood third as a butter exporter to Germany, while in 1904, with 118,242, she occupied the first place. During the same period the export of Russian butter correspondingly decreased to Great Britain (17 per cent.), and to Denmark (9 per cent.) The increase in the Russian export to Germany is partly due, too, to the now direct despatch of this product from Russia, and not, as formerly, via Denmark."

The following table shows the quantity of butter exported from Russia to the countries named :

To.	1902. Metric cwt.	1903. Metric cwt.	1904. Metric cwt.
Germany....	40,523	76,536	118,242
Great Britain.	248,966	246,038	205,596
Denmark	141,486	127,516	.....

NEW FIRM.

A big business known as the Thos. Smyth Co., Limited, with capital of $125,000, commenced operations at St. John's Newfoundland, last week. The firm will deal in wholesale provisions, and will be managed by Mr. T. Smyth, who has already achieved such success in this line. Mr. Alan Doodridge will be the secretary of the company. Mr. T. T. Cartwright, who has had such long experience in the tea line, will also be one of the company, and will be able to give the benefit of his experience to the handling of teas, which it is proposed to do on an extensive scale.

DAIRY AND PROVISION NEWS.

According to reports from St. John, N.B., New Brunswick dairymen are looking forward to a prosperous season. Already three factories have opened; two have sold their output on West Indian account, and others will follow shortly.

The Oak Point Cheese & Butter Co., Ste. Anne's, Man., began to operate on May 8.

LOW RATE ON BUTTER.

The Australian butter makers have concluded a contract with steamboat lines for a freight rate on butter three-eighths of a penny a pound instead of three-quarters, as at present. Last season's output was twelve thousand tons, the freight on which amounted to £84,000.

SENDING POULTRY TO GREAT BRITAIN.

An experiment in the importation into England of poultry from the colonies has been successfully accomplished by the Government of Queensland. The poultry was collected in Queensland by agents specially employed by the Government and shipped under adequate conditions of refrigeration. The entire consignment has been disposed of in the British market at prices yielding a satisfactory return to the producers in Queensland.

OFFICERS APPOINTED.

The new officers of the Brockville Dairymen's Board of Trade are as follows: President, W. Stafford Lyn; first vice-president, M. K. Everts, Smith's Falls; second vice-president, E. M. Bracken, Seelev's Bay; secretary-treasurer, C. J. Gilroy, Glen Buell; auditors, J. Bissell, R. J. Jelly, Brockville; salesman, A. D. McDougall, Brockville.

COMPANIES INCORPORATED.

J. Rattray & Co., Limited, Montreal, have been incorporated with share capital of $100,000, to carry on a wholesale tobacco and cigar business. Provisional directors: C. N. Marshall and J. M. W. Seers, of Montreal, and E. A. Badenach, of Toronto.

The Walter M. Lowney Co., of Canada Limited, Montreal, have been incorporated with share capital of $250,000, to carry on a confectionery business. Provisional directors: G. W. MacDougall, L. Macfarlane, A. Swindlehurst, G. S. Papineau-Couture, and W. J. Henderson, all of Montreal.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Toronto.

Provisions—The regular Summer demand for smoked meats is now beginning and prices tend to additional firmness, particularly in rolled bacon and large shoulder hams, in both of which there has been an advance of half a cent. Large shipments are being sent to Upper Lake ports and an active demand is reported throughout the city and country trade. The price of hogs remains practically unchanged from last week, viz., $6.85 to $7. We quote the following:

Provisions—Owing to small receipts of hogs packers have to pay for what they want. Market is very firm and unchanged from last report. Dressed hog market is strong, and $9.75 to $10 per 100 is best that can be secured. Fresh-killed abattoir are nearly 2 1-2c. per lb. higher than same time last year. Good demand for hams and bacon. Lard is high in consequence of the scarcity of live hogs.

Eggs—Market is firm. Receipts light and local trade can absorb what is arriving. Outside points are still drawing on Montreal for supplies. Farmers are holding out for firm prices, and 14c. at country points is what buyers report having to pay. Fresh-gathered selling at 15c. wholesale lots. Pickling has been suspended as prices are too high to warrant doing much now.

Cheese—Cheese market is somewhat unsettled this week. Easier prices are looked forward to, though at present 9 7-8 to 10 1-8c. are ruling prices for finest Ontarios. Quality of goods is fair. Shipments are going forward better, though not so heavily as last year at this time. Exports during last week from this port were 26,268 boxes, as against 33,574 previous week. Quebec cheese among local houses is steady at 9 5-8 to 9 7-8c.

Butter—Market is tending somewhat easier, though the looked for decline has not taken place. Townships creamery sold at 18 3-4c., though 18 1-2c. was most generally paid. Receipts are commencing to come in heavier, and shipments to outside points are not heavy, so with larger receipts local market is commencing to fill up. Quality is not particularly good, as usual with first grass and part grass makes.

Beef and Pork—The price of beef and pork continues firm. American beef is quoted here at $15 to $16, and Canadian at $13. Pork, American fat back, $19 to $20; mess, $18.50; Prince Edward Island, $16.50; hams, 12 1-2 to 13c., roll bacon 10 to 11c., and side bacon 14c. Lard is scarce and high, offering in pails at 10 1-2c. At an underwriter' sale here this week of general cargo salved from the steamer Amelia, which ran ashore on the eastern coast, the goods brought high prices considering their damaged condition. American plate beef fetched $16 per barrel, pork $14, flour from $2 to $3.50 and lard in pails 9 1-2c. All these goods had been under water for several days.

Butter and Eggs—The supply of eggs is equal to the demand. Receipts from points in the province and P.E. Island are fairly good. This is the most favorable season for pickling, and this will tend to keep the market steady for some time. Nova Scotia stock is quoted at 15 cents. and P.E. Island at 14c. These are wholesale figures. The butter market continues strong, and prices are well maintained. The demand is good, and the market is not overstocked. The quantity available for export is limited. Dealers expect that prices will become easier as soon as the pasture improves. Choice creamery in boxes is quoted at 23 cents, dairy at 22c., and rolls and tubs at 21c. There is a scarcity of choice butter in small tubs for family use.

Cheese—Cheese is becoming scarce, and prices are firm. September is quoted at 12 1-2 to 13c. There are no fodders to speak of as yet on this market.

Your Store is Judged

by the quality of the goods you sell. Low prices are a temporary help, but high quality builds up permanent trade. Remember what a famous philosopher once said, "You can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

When you sell Windsor Salt (pure, white, dry, crystaline), you are establishing confidence in he quality of all the other goods you sell. You are building up permanent trade with Windsor Salt—establishing a reputation for high quality. "Your store is judged by the quality of the goods you sell."

PRICES FOR PRODUCE.

IN a circular letter addressed to the western trade by the secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, attention is directed to the ruinous competition of country merchants in the prices paid for farm produce such as butter and eggs. The subject is timely for something should be done at once to remedy what is a very unsatisfactory state of affairs.

Probably there are few among the general public who would credit the statement that many town and country merchants are so foolish as to pay more to the farmers for butter and eggs than they in turn can collect from the big produce houses to whom they must sell. Yet every merchant knows that this is being done all the time, the payment being made in goods at regular prices. In explanation of this policy each merchant blames his rivals who are paying these ruinously high prices and force him to do the same or lose trade.

This policy is foolish and unjust, not only to the merchant himself, but also to his cash customer. In all fairness and justice, the merchant who pays cash for his goods should be given any favors that are going. If discounts are to be allowed at all, he should receive the benefit of them. But the fact is that he is slighted. The farmer's wife brings to the store her butter and eggs to exchange for goods and she is allowed perhaps a cent more per pound for her butter and a cent more per dozen for her eggs than the regular market price. The merchant runs the risk of loss on this produce and has all the expense of handling it and yet, strange to say, he seems to prefer it to cash. By paying a cent per dozen too much for eggs he allows a very substantial discount, and if his customer buys sugar or salt or some such staple on which there is little or no profit, the transaction may mean an actual loss. Moreover, customers are often allowed credit for months and payment is finally accepted in produce at more than the market value. The cash customer is probably given no discount but the long credit customer is allowed several months' time and then given the equivalent of a substantial discount. Since he does not know he is being paid too much for his produce, the merchant has not even the somewhat doubtful reward of his gratitude. Many merchants doing a large business are struggling under this handicap, making little profit and receiving no sympathy from a public which would not believe that any men would conduct business by such methods.

What is the explanation of this state of affairs which prevails not only in the West, but in all parts of Canada? Ask any merchant and he will reply that he knows the policy is foolish, but he has to do the same as his rivals. Perhaps he can come to an agreement with his rivals in the same town, but some merchant in a neighboring town is causing the trouble. Ask merchant No. 2, and he will probably blame merchant No. 1.

In almost all cases this could be remedied if only merchants could come together and understand each other. The association idea is designed to remedy this condition and we are glad that the western association intend dealing with it. The movement should command the hearty support of every merchant who is handicapped by these conditions but can do nothing himself. The association can do what one merchant cannot do.

THE TREND OF IMMIGRATION.

ACCORDING to the Western Chronicle, of Kentville, N.S., the movement of farmers and sons of farmers to the Great West is beginning to assume alarming proportions in the Maritime Provinces, particularly Nova Scotia. The comparative failure of the Nova Scotia crops last year, and the boom in the Northwest have resulted in an exodus of "blue-noses" within the past few months which, if continued, is going to place the east in a serious predicament. The farms down by the sea must be tilled, and the Atlantic fisheries manned, and the only condition under which this is possible is that the requisite number of fishermen and agricultural laborers is forthcoming. It looks as if the history of western immigration might be repeated in Eastern Canada in the near future, only, instead of the tide being from the Maritime Provinces westward, the settlers will come from beyond the seas. Let us hope that the eastern provinces may be more successful in solving the immigration problem than the States to the south of us, where they have laborers and to spare, but of such a class as to emperil at times the peace of the nation.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS' TAX IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

THE policy which has been adopted in British Columbia of restricting interprovincial trade by means of a tax on commercial travelers has been carried to its logical conclusion by the Town of New Westminster. According to the Trades' License By-law all travelers taking orders for clothes to be made outside the city must pay a license of $50, and hereafter this regulation will be strictly enforced. The representative of a Vancouver house was the first to suffer and was summoned to appear in the police court for his neglect to pay the amount specified. He had to promise to pay the license before the charge was withdrawn.

We may be uncharitable in our view, but it looks like a particularly timely example of Nemesis that a British Columbia house should be compelled to swallow the medicine which it has itself been forcing the wholesalers of the other provinces to drink. The unfairness and selfishness of the western province in its commercial tax legislation has been already condemned. The citizens of the province will now have a chance to see what their disintegrating policy will eventually lead to. The picture of every town in the province erecting a prohibitive protective wall around itself and closing off commerce from all its neighboring towns is decidedly mediaval. Its tendency is directly opposed to the unity and strength of the country as a whole. Such local prosperity as may be developed under the New Westminster system is got at the expense of the townspeople themselves. It is the consumer who pays.

GOOD BUYING.

GOOD buying is no less important than good selling. The profit on a year's business often represents the margin made by taking advantage of the best market for each individual purchase. By skillful buying the selling price can be made so attractive that a quick turnover of stock is assured. Good merchandising does not consist in making big sales from a big stock, but in making big sales from as small a stock as will permit of giving efficient service. There is no good purpose subserved in doing a big business, if the merchant has to have so much money tied up in his stock that his profits, great as they may be, just pay interest on his investment.

If the markets are carefully watched and the demands of his trade systematically studied, a retailer should be able to get the best results out of a fair investment. The trade paper will keep him posted on the one and his daily experience should provide him with the facts on the other.

There are two extremes to be guarded against in buying. The one is overstocking. By this a man is prevented from keeping his stock as well assorted as he should in those lines which prove most popular. He has laid in such a large and varied supply that he cannot afford to encourage the sale of what customers really want, for it would mean the shelving of his present stock. Full advantage cannot be taken of the passing fancies of the people and the stock continues to grow. The other thing to be guarded against is the living from hand to mouth, which is just as disastrous to good retailing. There are times when a staple is manifestly low in price. The acute merchant will seize that time to lay in a future supply, whether his present wants require it or not.

It is by watching these things, buying when the market is advantageous and keeping the stock within fair bounds, that successful business is accomplished. Competition is too keen to allow the old free-and-easy methods of buying and selling to continue. The man who can buy for a fraction less than his rival and whose yearly sales are in a proper proportion to his investment, is the one who will survive.

OUT NEXT WEEK.

WITHIN the past decade retail grocers and general merchants throughout Canada have learned to appreciate our aim to make The Canadian Grocer, and particularly its special Spring and Fall numbers, an epitome of all that is of interest or of service to the grocery trade in its widest sense.

This year trade conditions in Canada are almost unique, in so far as foreign nations are beginning to realize that instead of being a land of ice and snow Canada is likely to become before many years one of the greatest manufacturing countries in the world, and on this account they are wasting no time in establishing themselves in the Canadian market. On the other hand, Canada's industrial development during the past year is almost without precedent in history. Two new provinces have been carved out of the Great West, and the western population is increasing at such a rapid rate that within five or ten years that country will probably be as thickly settled as the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. The foreign trade of Canada has shown a satisfactory increase particularly with the West Indies, and Canadian exporters are making an organized effort to establish themselves in the markets of Mexico and Japan.

On the whole, next week's issue of The Canadian Grocer will serve as a valuable compendium of up-to-date information concerning the grocery, cereal, provision, fish, crockery, confectionery and fruit trades of Canada, and as a barometer of our position in the world's export markets.

DROP IN SUGAR.

IT has become a maxim of commercial speculation that undue inflation of the market value of an article is sure to be followed sooner or later by a reaction just as far or farther in the oposite direction. Six months ago witnessed an unprecedented advance in Canadian refined sugar, and during the past month there has been a decline of 30c., two drops of 10c. each being recorded since last week's issue of The Grocer. At the moment the market appears to be in the hands of speculators, and until this feature is eradicated it will be difficult to forecast the future of the market.

CANADA'S GROWING TIME.

FROM all parts of Canada reports of building operations on a large scale are being received — big hotels, manufacturing establishments, business blocks, all being included in the lists of permits issued.

In Toronto building permits issued by the city architect for the four months, January to April, represent an expenditure of $2,084,914 in new houses, warerooms and factories. In April the amount was $896,196 for 365 buildings, compared with $492,432 for 236 buildings in April, 1904. During the first ten days in May permits were issued for buildings valued at upwards of $400,000, this including 90 dwellings, costing approximately $250,000, and two large warehouses, one for the Massey-Harris Co., to cost $125,000, and one for Brereton & Manning, to cost $25,000.

In Winnipeg, so far this year, 730 building permits have been issued.

covering 980 buildings, to cost $6,010,800 compared with 520, aggregating $2,403,350 last year.

In Montreal similar activity exists, as during the month of April 158 permits were issued for buildings, valued at $658,001, as compared with 111 permits, representing an outlay of $438,243, for April, 1904. Ninety-one permits were also issued for alterations, valued at $98,347, as compared with 84 permits, representing a value of $67,595, for 1904. The first week in May also shows permits issued for about $180,000 worth of new structures.

Vancouver also makes a good showing, $180,000 being the value of the permits issued in April, about $100,000 of this being for dwellings valued at $3,000 or under, and indicating that there is a big demand for houses.

Statistics cannot be secured from all the towns and cities, but enough has been written to show that the growth is substantial, as in every city the growing population find it difficult to secure roofs to cover their heads. This is Canada's growing time, and while land-speculating booms may over-reach themselves in Fort William, Port Arthur, or Winnipeg, there is little possibility of more houses being built than there are people to fill them. Canada will see a wonderful development during the next quarter of a century in both the older industrial districts and the newer sections to be opened up by the new railway systems.

All this is an index to greater things. The increase in population means larger consumption of manufactured articles. It is an index as well to an industrial expansion, and is only a part of a broader development that Canada is bound to see within the next few years. Villages are becoming towns in a short time, and many places where forest or prairie exist at the present, a few years hence will find active commercial and manufacturing centres.

ANNUAL MEETING.

AT the annual meeting of the Ontario Wholesale Grocers' Guild, held on Tuesday, May 16, in the Board of Trade Building, Toronto, there was a large and representative attendance.

Among other interesting questions discussed was that of the Ontario retail trade not receiving a sufficient margin of profit on many lines of proprietary goods. It was the unanimous opinion of the meeting that the trade should insist upon the manufacturer allowing the retailer a fair margin of profit. For instance, the manufacturer turns out an article which he decides should retail at 10c per dozen, whereas the retailer should get at least 20c. if he is to make any profit. At the present time the retail trade are suffering a real grievance, owing to the fact that they are forced to handle certain staple package foods and other lines in which the retail price is named, and the margin of profit wholly out of proportion to the expense of handling these goods.

In view of the rapidly increasing number of package foodstuffs now being put on the market, it is interesting to note an opinion expressed at the meeting, namely, that the average retailer was making a mistake in handling too big an assortment of articles of a similar nature. In order to buy to advantage he was obliged to take at least five cases, which meant that he very often found himself overstocked.

G. H. BRISTOL
Re-elected President Ontario Wholesale Grocers' Guild.

Reports presented showed that the year had been a fairly profitable one for wholesale houses. It was commonly remarked that the price of sugar would continue to go down, this calculation being based on the prospect of a bumper beet crop this Fall.

As usual, the 500 travelers in the employ of members of the guild will receive two weeks' holidays, from July 29 to August 12.

Geo. H. Bristol was re-elected president, the other officers being: First vice-president, T. B. Escott, London; second vice-president, W. G. Craig, Kingston; auditor, A. G. Osborne. Messrs. J. F. Eby and Thomas Kinnear, Toronto; H. C. Beckett, Hamilton, and T. B. Escott, London, were appointed a price committee to arrange standards that will prove alike satisfactory to the wholesaler and the retailer.

CHAT WITH A RAISIN GROWER.

MR. F. W. ROWLEY, of F. W. Rowley & Co., London, England, and Denia and Valencia, Spain, who is spending a few weeks in Canada, was met by a representative of The Grocer in Toronto this week.

Naturally the conversation was directed to the coming season's raisin crop in Denia, and Mr. Rowley stated that the yield this year would probably reach from 20,000 to 25,000 tons, and would be ready for shipment about the last of August or first of September. From present indications prices would be moderate.

The whole country within a radius of twenty miles of Denia is devoted to the cultivation of the raisin grape exclusively, the fruit-growing district extending thirty miles inland and north to the City of Valencia. It is interesting to know that the Denia raisin is treated altogether by hand. The difference between the Denia and Malaga raisin is that the latter is entirely sun-dried, while the former is a lye raisin —in other words, Denia fruit is placed in a liquid solution and dried afterwards in the sun.

Mr. Rowley's firm is also interested in the culture of almonds. Valencia almonds are not so large in size as the variety shipped from Alicante Province, but the trade is growing every year. The shipping facilities of Denia, moreover, are unsurpassed. Valencia and Denia onions are also claiming increased attention in the markets of Canada and the United States.

Mr. Rowley is anxious to see a bigger trade developed between Great Britain and Canada, particularly in canned goods. What the English market requires is goods of fine appearance and first-class quality, and Canadian canners are in a position to supply them. True, the higher-class trade are prejudiced in favor of bottled goods, but there is an enormous sale for tinned fruits and vegetables among the middle and poorer classes. Canada ought in time to capture this trade.

A Good Profit and a Good Article

is that kind of a combination for the dealer.

When a stock of this well known brand of Laundry Starch is put in, the grocer feels that he is not taking any long chances. It is distinctly a case of "backing the favorite." He knows it will "move"—and quickly; no bargain sales from tubs at the season's end, of miscellaneous nondescripts. What a satisfaction it is to sell a Starch that you know from trial in your own home to be the "real thing."

Attractive packages, heavy advertising, everything, in fact, that could be done to help the grocer has been and will be done continuously.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Groceries.

THE conditions of trade among the jobbers is reported as fairly satisfactory, and while the volume is not greater than last year this time, the outlook for good trade during the next few weeks is bright. The decline in sugar which has taken place during the past few weeks has drawn considerable attention to this article. A further decline of 10c. per 100 lbs. was made by the refineries on Tuesday, and it is surmised that lower figures will yet be quoted. The raw sugar market is easy, and the heavy receipts of Scotch and Russian sugars have had an effect on the trade. It is reported that one large importer of Scotch sugar is anxious to get out before a further drop is instituted. At present prices it looks as if refiners were not coining money any too fast, as purchases of beet must have been made at higher prices than are ruling now. As the fruit season is not many months off, the uncertain situation of sugar is causing some uneasiness and uncertainty. Usually at this time contracts are pretty well in for season's requirements. Teas on the local market are flat and little turning over. London is reported as having turned down some fairly large offers on local buyers. Ceylon greens and blacks, as well as Chinas, are firm but still at prices at which teas are being offered it would seem that it was good buying to buy now. Samples of April pickings Japans are in the hands of certain houses and show value in draw and style. Molasses is firm, and as the Barbadoes shipments are all well closed out it is not expected that any serious changes downward will occur. Syrups are in somewhat less demand this week. Canned goods trade about as usual. Foreign dried fruits quiet, and with the exception of currants little new obtainable. As to currants, we publish in another column an extract from the New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin the position of the Greek situation on this subject, which will be found interesting. Coffees, rice and spices are unchanged and featureless. Fish trade is getting better. Brook trout are arriving and selling well. In maple products, beans and evaporated apples there are no new features to chronicle, business being about as last week. The provision market is strong. Live hogs are scarce, and dressed hogs in sympathy very firm. Buying is of a hand to mouth character. Eggs are holding up well in price, country dealers holding out and getting 14c. Pickling on account of this has been suspended. Butter has shown a slight weakening during the past few days, receipts being somewhat better. Cheese situation is unsettled. Easier prices are looked forward to.

SUGAR.

A drop of 10c. per 100 lbs. was made on Tuesday by refiners. This is undoubtedly due to the weaker feeling noticeable in raw, also the arrival of Scotch granulated, of which one importer here is said to be loaded up with. It is thought by some dealers that prices are likely to ease off still further, though this view is not shared by direct importers.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

No change. Situation firm, and the statistical position would indicate that there is not much likelihood of a decline in the near future. Newfoundland is short this year and bought freely all it could get hold of. Only a fair amount of business is doing in the local trade. Corn syrups reported quiet during the week.

TEA.

Trade in the street is quiet, in fact as one broker expressed it as flat as a pancake. Cables to hand from London make China greens and blacks firm. London also firm for Ceylon, both green and black. Several large offers have been turned down on local buyers. Some demand for gunpowders, pingsueys, etc. No change in Japans and little business going.

Cable from Jardine, Matheson & Co., from Yokohama, May 13th, says: "Settlements to-day are 13,000 piculs, as against 43,000 piculs on May 16th last year. Supplies are coming in slowly, the lowest price paid so far being 39 1-2 yen, which is equivalent to 25 1-3c. if overland quotations are unchanged."

Fish.

An interview with prominent fish merchants shows the business good and demand for fish of all kinds steadily increasing. There are fairly large arrivals of lake trout and white fish of fine quality which meet with ready demand. Season for dore opened on the 15th instant, but dealers do not think there will be any arrivals of it before the end of the week. Prices are firm and yet unchanged. Brook trout are in good demand, and fair quantities are arriving from the Laurentian Lakes. Haddock and cod also in good demand. Fresh and boiled lobster trade is good and active. Fair demand for smoked fish haddies, kippers and bloaters.

Foreign Dried Fruits.

Business is on the quiet side. No changes reported by brokers and importers. The rise in price of currants in Greece a few weeks ago is so far maintained. Market is firm, and the proposed arrangement by the Greek deputies for a betterment of the currant industry is being actively looked after. So many attempts have been made during the past few years in this direction without success that no strong hopes are built on this present movement turning out satisfactorily. No changes in raisins or nuts. News scarce, and what little there is of no great interest on the moment.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Groceries.

Toronto, May 18, 1905.

GROCERY trade for May shows considerable improvement over the same period a year ago. The quietness which was so noticeable a week ago is slowly giving place to more lively business. The traveling representatives of the different wholesale firms are unanimous in their opinion that things are beginning to look up in the country, and that the farmers are beginning to enter the market again as buyers of foodstuff.

The Grocer heard the opinion expressed during the week that the price of foodstuffs had about reached the upper limit. During the past year farmers and growers of produce generally have been getting an abnormally high price for everything, and it is only a question of a few months until prices begin to readjust themselves. The particular tradesmen in question hazarded the opinion that we would shortly see cheaper prices for all kinds of produce. The event of the week has been two declines of 10c. each in the price of Canadian refined sugar—one coming into effect just after Grocer went to press last week; the other on May 16. The refined situation seems to have resolved itself into a reaction following the phenomenal jump of last fall, and present indications point to a fluctuating market until the speculative element is eradicated.

Canned goods, teas and rice, and Valencia raisins are all moving very freely. A scarcity of molasses on spot is reported, as well as a firm market. In the provision markets the chief topic of interest is the recent arrival of new cheese, which is meeting with ready sales.

CANNED GOODS.

A steady demand continues for canned tomatoes, corn and peas. The special feature of this week's canned vegetable market is the frequent inquiries for large lots of tomatoes. The Canadian trade prefer domestic to American packed, and do not hesitate to pay 10c. per dozen more for Canadian goods. Canned pumpkin is in active request. Canned fruits are also moving very freely in all varieties. Our quotations are as follows :

SUGAR.

Since last week's issue there have been two declines of 10c. in the price of Canadian refined, one effective on Friday, May 12, the other on May 16. The market seems to be in the hands of speculators at the moment. The Canadian market is influenced directly by Europe and until the price of beets there gets down to a steady basis and the speculative feature is obliterated the course of the market is bound to be uncertain. The recent decline is undoubtedly a reaction from the phenomenal jumps of last Fall, and may be the tendency will, as is usually the case, be towards exaggeration. We quote the following:

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

A strong advance is reported in molasses, as well as a scarcity of supplies on spot, particularly of medium syrups. Maple syrup in barrels is out of the market. It is more or less difficult to give exact quotations on New Orleans molasses at the present time, owing to the fact that American exporters are dubious about the Canadian market on account of the new test regulations. COFFEES.

The coffee business has been a little on the quiet side this week, and the wholesale trade are inclined to hold back purchases on account of the very firm position of the speculative market in Rio coffee. The market is in such a peculiar condition that, were it not for the duty, coffee could be bought in New York for ½ to ¾c. less than in Brazil. It is believed that the United States have got nearly all their coffee in sight, and on account of Europe drawing upon American supplies it is expected that the supply of visible coffee in the States will shortly show a further decrease, thus tending to give additional firmness to the market. We quote the following prices :

TEAS.

A good demand for teas of all descriptions is reported by the wholesale trade during the week, an interesting feature of the tea market being the sale to American dealers of large quantities of tea by the wholesale trade. There seems to be a growing demand in the United States for teas that are difficult to obtain there.

Little interest is being taken in new crop Japan tea, the demand for early tea being extremely limited. Prices in Japans, after opening higher, have reached about the level of last year at this date. Nothing will be known as to the general character or value of Japan teas suited to this market until about the end of next month, and buyers do not seem at all anxious to get advance information. In Ceylons the most flavory teas of the season were recently marketed in London, and the quality is now rapidly falling off. Importers require flavory teas to carry them over the Summer season, and are buying freely as a matter of necessity. The new crop of Indian tea is about a fortnight later than last year, owing to continued cold weather, which is reported to have caused considerable damage. The first auction will be held about the first week in June, whereas last year the Calcutta market opened the third week in May. We quote the following prices:

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Good business is reported in tapioca and rice during the week. This is the season when the rice trade begins to assume its largest proportions, and several large shipments have already arrived on the Canadian market. Advices from the south report a firm market in rice. We quote as follows :

Foreign Dried Fruits.

A good demand is noted for selected Valencia raisins on account of the exceptionally favorable prices ruling at the present time. There is also a brisk demand for prunes. Currants remain steady, and several attempts on the part of buyers to operate below actual quotations from Patras have failed. Some business, however, is being done from day to day at firm prices, which show an advance of ¼c. from the prices ruling three weeks ago. We quote the following prices :

FOREIGN NUTS.

Further advances are reported in the peanut market during the week. Japanese peanuts are arriving on this market, and although the quality is not quite up to the standard of the Virginia article, an additional advantage is secured owing to the fact that the size of the Japanese nut is midway between the Virginia jumbos and selected. Supplies of cocoanuts are plentiful enough, although no improvement in the demand is expected until the midsummer season begins.

Country Produce.

EGGS.

Eggs are arriving freely enough on the local market, although on account of dealers in the country holding for high prices the trade have been forced to advance quotations ½c. since last week.

The report is current that very few eggs will be exported this season on account of the exceptionally high price; but though it is somewhat early to prognosticate on the export trade for the Fall of 1905, it is practically certain that some eggs will be sent to Great Britain, even if it has to be done at a very close margin to the shipper. We quote the following prices :

Fish.

Supplies of fresh lake fish are arriving freely on this market, and an active demand is noted for all varieties. Fresh halibut is down to 9c. this week. Trout is 1c. easier. Cod steak ½c. lower. White fish 1c. lower than a week ago. Ciscoes are out of the market, and shrimps a scarce article. We quote the following prices :

Grain, Flour and Breakfast Foods.

GRAIN.

Owing to speculation an advance of 1½c. is recorded this week in Manitoba wheat, northern No. 1 and No. 2. No. 3 northern is ½c. higher than last week. Red and white wheat are each down to $1, and oats are quoted ½c. below last week's level. The export of Manitoba wheat, which was beginning to look very promising last week, shows signs of falling off as a result of higher values ruling locally. We quote the following prices :

Hides, Tallow, Skins and Wool.

Conditions on this market remain practically unaltered from last week, with the exception of an advance of ¼c. in prices for country flat hides. The Chicago market continues high. although further advances are not expected. The local market is practically cleaned up on hides, which goes to show that the tanners have been getting busy. Receipts of unwashed wool show a considerable increase for the week. We quote the following prices :

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, May 15, 1905.

BUSINESS in the wholesale grocery trade is looking up, and with fine weather and good roads dealers anticipate a good season. Collections are only fair. In the farming districts money is particularly scarce, due principally to the large amount of money paid out for hay during the Winter months. In the County of Antigonish alone $125,000 is said to have gone out for hay the past Winter, and the shortage of fodder has been a serious drawback to the farmers. There is, however, considerable improvement both in trade and collections over last week. Reports from the various sections of the province are most favorable.

Sugar.

The refined sugar market is easier, and there has been a further decline of 10c. per hundred pounds made by the Halifax refineries during the past week. The temporary demoralization of the sugar market appears to be about over, and raw sugars are again strong and showing a slight advance. According to cable advices received here from Cuba, the receipts during the past week have been three thousand tons less than the previous week.

Molasses.

The molasses market remains unchanged, and none is looked for at present. In view of the fact that there is not enough molasses in Barbadoes to fill the requirements of Montreal, the price of that article is not likely to decline further. Porto Rico is firm, with prices steady. The prices quoted here follow : Barbadoes, 40 to 42c.; choice Porto Rico, 38 to 40c.: extra choice Porto Rico, 40 to 42c.; fancy Trinidad, 42 to 44c.; choice Trinidad, 35 to 36c.

Fish.

The demand for salt codfish, and other cured ground fish, is light, and prices unchanged. Considerable fresh fish received here last week were sold for curing, as the market for fresh fish has been dull. The shipments of live lobsters from Nova Scotia to the American market are heavy. Last week two thousand crates of live lobsters were shipped from Yarmouth to Boston. The prices are good. There is still a certain amount of last season's catch of codfish held here, but the dealers do not show any anxiety regarding the possibility of difficulty in disposing of the same.

DROP IN SUGAR.

Winnipeg, May 18.—Prices of sugar have been reduced ten cents all round.

THE CURRANT SITUATION.

FOR some years past the Greek Chamber of Deputies has tried to introduce legislation favorable to currant growers, and a number of bills were introduced to this end, although nothing definite has so far resulted.

Lately, according to report of the New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, further action was attempted to improve the conditions of the industry.

The cause of the sharp rise of 1s. in the price of currants in Greece about two and a half weeks ago, and which was conjectured here in the absence of specific information to be due to impending action by the Greek Chamber of Deputies favorable to the interests of currant growers, was explained in letters received from prominent shippers in Patras. From these advices not one but several incentives to the sudden advance were furnished by schemes, all having as their object the betterment of the Greek currant industry. These various schemes all depend for success upon legislative action, and it would appear that bills have been introduced into the Greek Parliament, with the view of securing such action.

One measure is considered to have a particularly good chance of passing, because it was introduced by M. Pesmagioglu, manager of the Bank of Athens, and a member of the Greek legislative body. The object of this bill, however, is not mentioned, or only vaguely referred to in the letters of advice as intended to benefit the growers. One of the letters received speaks of a grand scheme, which is planned by a syndicate with a capital of $500,000, and in furtherance of which legislation by the Greek Chamber is sought. This may be the same project which is referred to by another writer as a plan to ensure the coming currant crop below a certain fixed price, though in this case an individual, and not a syndicate, is mentioned as the promoter of the scheme. As related, this letter is in the nature of insurance, the insurer proposing to buy all currants that may be offered below a certain price at any period of the season, provided a law is enacted under the terms of which he can collect a certain premium on every ton of currants produced.

While, as stated, these plans have had the effect of causing an advance in prices in the primary market, and the prospect that some one of them will eventually succeed to the advantage of the industry keeps that market on an apparently firm basis, the opinion held in the trade here is that so long as they remain "in the air" they are likely to have no pronounced effect upon this market. As soon, however, as there is furnished a definite working basis by the adoption of one or another of the projects under consideration the consuming markets will, no doubt, immediately respond to the improved trade conditions thus produced.

Canadian brokers do not place much confidence in any action of the Deputies and of the Greek Bank being successful, and would feel more assured of success if the United English Syndicate had manifested interest in the movement. As it is, past actions of the Greeks themselves have not warranted strong belief in any remedial movement being successfully put through.

NEW BROKERAGE FIRM.

Mr. Wallace Anderson and Mr. Crawford W. Powis, both brokers, well and favorably known throughout the grocery trade of Toronto and Ontario, have formed a partnership under the firm name of Anderson, Powis & Co. The new firm will carry on a general business as manufacturers' agents and brokers, dealing in cereals, canned goods, dried fruits, etc.

Mr. Anderson has represented the Acadia Sugar Refinery in Toronto for upwards of twelve years, and is looked upon as one of the most popular and estimable brokers on the street. Mr. Powis' business experience dates from 1896, when he first became associated with the late George Lightbound. A year and a half ago he went into business on his own account. The Grocer wishes Anderson, Powis & Co. every success in their new undertaking.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

ON May 4 the Montreal Retail Grocers Association met at their new hall at 88 St. Denis street. The new place affords all the necessary conveniences for the purpose, and the grocers seem to be delighted with it.

At nine o'clock the president, P. Daoust, opened the meeting. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary and unanimously adopted, after which P. Bruneau, treasurer, made a satisfactory report. The association has on hand the sum of $286.50. These funds, according to suggestions made at a former meeting, will be transferred from the City and District Savings Bank to a commercial institution, namely, the Provincial Bank of Canada.

The question of the annual picnic was brought up and freely discussed, certain members being desirous of taking an outing to Cornwall or St. Hilaire, while others strongly opposed going out of the city, being in favor of Parc Delorimier, or other local grounds. On motion of J. A. Beaudry it was decided to call a special meeting on May 11 to decide this question. Committees were appointed to arrange preliminaries and the organization of the picnic.

A special meeting of the association was held on May 11 to consider the plans for this year's picnic. The president, Mr. Daoust, reported his visit to Cornwall, and the generous offer of that town as compared with other places. The majority finally decided in favor of Cornwall, and that the organization of the picnic be left in the hands of the members of the association. The secretary was instructed to write to the Ottawa Grocers' Association to cooperate with the Montreal society at Cornwall. The meeting was enthusiastic, and there is little doubt but that this year's outing will be a grand success in every way.

The Ottawa grocers have decided to hold their annual picnic this year at Cornwall, in conjunction with the retail grocers of Montreal. The date will be announced later.

The grocers' section of the Ottawa Retail Merchants' Association have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, F. W. Forde; vice-president, H. W. Booth; treasurer, C. J. Provost; secretary, A. C. Ellis; executive committee, H. Scott, A. L. Pinard, C. B. McLean, P. Lamoureux, W. York, N. S. Schwerdfager.

The Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association has decided to hold its annual picnic on Wednesday, July 19. The grocers will close their stores on Wednesday afternoons during June, July and August.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held on Monday evening, May 15, at the new rooms of the association in the Temple Building. A large attendance of leading members was noticed and an eager interest taken by everyone present in the deliberations of the evening, which included among other things several important amendments to the constitution. The annual excursion was thoroughly discussed, and in view of the success of last year's trip to Buffalo it was unanimously decided to give members of the trade and their friends an opportunity to have a good time over again this year. The executive have under consideration a number of interesting features, among them an automobile ride in Buffalo, which will go to make this year's excursion ahead of any in the history of the association. The date of the excursion will be announced in next week's issue of The Grocer.

A customer who always pays cash for her purchases gave the following reason for preferring to trade with a merchant who uses a National Cash Register:

"I trade with Mr. Hardy because mistakes are seldom made in handling cash purchases. When I make a purchase a National Cash Register shows me the amount I have paid for the article and I know it is correct.

"If I hand a clerk a dollar to pay for a 25-cent purchase, he goes to the cash register in order to make change. A bell rings and an indicator shows that the amount of my purchase was 25 cents. Mr. Hardy and his clerks handle all cash sales in the same way. I am never overcharged. It is a pleasure to trade with a merchant who uses a complete system."

With a National Cash Register in your store you are equipped to handle the business of your customers to their perfect satisfaction.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. F. M. Moffatt, of Gunns Limited, Toronto, is in Montreal this week.

Mr. J. Priestly, of Cleveland, Ohio, spent a few days in Toronto this week.

Mr. A. Kirkpatrick, of Lefroy, was in Toronto this week calling upon the wholesale trade.

Mr. F. B. Mason, eastern representative of J. D. Bradshaw, Toronto, is in Montreal this week.

Mr. W. Ince, jr., of Perkins, Ince & Co., Toronto, sails for Canada from London, England on May 19.

Mr. D. Becker, of D. Becker & Son, general merchants, New Hamburg Ont., was on a business trip to Montreal this week.

Mr. R. Willcock, representing Henri Jonas & Co., Montreal, was a caller on the trade in Ottawa during the past week. Business is reported good.

Mr. Alfred Meyer de Barral, of Evariste, Dupont & Cie, wine manufacturers, Bordeaux, France, is paying his annual visit to Canada.

Mr. W. Martin, formerly in the grocery business at Dovercourt road and Queen street, Toronto, and latterly travelling representative for the Vienna Yeast Co., Buffalo, is dead.

Among Montreal salesmen met by The Grocer this week in Quebec City was Mr. Wm. F. Clough, representing Wm. H. Dunn, Montreal and Toronto. Mr. Clough wore the happy smile that meant "orders."

Mr. F. D. Cockburn, eastern representative of Comfort Soap, was met in Ottawa by The Grocer last week. Comfort Soap is in strong evidence, and Mr. Cockburn reported that business had been especially good on this trip.

Mr. H. R. Huntington, accountant for the Ontario Sugar Co., Berlin, has severed his connection with that firm and will shortly assume the position of secretary of the Trites-Wood Co., a large mercantile firm at Fernie, B.C.

Mr. J. M. Hughes, of the Bailey Broom Co., Kingston, Ontario, was a caller upon the Montreal trade during the past week. He represents his firm in the Province of Quebec, and reported to The Grocer that business was opening up well this Spring.

Mr. F. W. Rowley, of F. W. Rowley & Co., 6 and 7 Cross Lane, Eastcheap, London, E.C., and Denia, Spain, spent a few days among the Montreal wholesale grocery trade this week, making his commercial headquarters with Watt, Scott & Goodacre.

Mr. C. Currie, inspector of agencies for D. S. Perrin & Co., of London, is in Winnipeg this week. It is stated that this firm will build a large warehouse in Winnipeg and possibly do some manufacturing there, but nothing has been decided definitely as yet.

Mr. Arch. Snowdon, of Snowdon, Forbes & Co., Montreal, has returned from a two months' trip through Manitoba and the Territories. Business in "Bee" brand goods is reported as excellent, and the future outlook for trade in the Great West is considered bright by Mr. Snowdon, in fact he is very optimistic in his views on the trade situation.

Mr. J. Lister Nichols, who has been making a tour of New Brunswick during the past four months for E. W. Gillett & Co., Toronto, passed through Montreal on his way to headquarters last Tuesday. The east, as stated to The Grocer by Mr. Nichols, is awakening to the fact that Canadian manufacturers of baking powders are rapidly displacing those of the United States, and with the exception of one or two brands their products are becoming rarer and rarer every year.

Mr. J. L. Watt, of J. L. Watt & Scott, Toronto, accompanied by Mr. F. C. Bevan, of F. C. Bevan & Co., of Malaga, Spain; and Mr. F. W. Rowley, of F. W. Rowley & Co., London, England, and Denia, Spain, spent a few days last week at the Caledon Mountain Trout Club, Inglewood. They report fair trout fishing and an excellent outing.

Mr. W. H. Hamilton, Peterboro, Ontario, was a visitor to Montreal during the past week. To The Grocer Mr. Hamilton stated that business in his town was satisfactory and the many new manufacturing industries that had located there were making it one of Canada's best centres. Several Toronto wholesale grocery firms had opened up branches in Peterboro, and the local trade was in consequence in a good buying position.

Mr. G. D. Sinclair, Toronto, representative of E. W. Gillett Co., was a caller at the Montreal offices of The Grocer on Monday of this week. Mr. Sinclair has been making a tour through the Eastern Townships in company with Mr. Walter J. Elliott, Quebec representative, and both gentlemen have been busy on a special advertising campaign in that district. Mr. Sinclair, who is an experienced grocer, though still a young man, is thoroughly enthusiastic over his work. He reports his own particular territory in the City of Toronto as being in good shape and growing rapidly. He mentioned to The Grocer that E. W. Gillett Co. were placing a number of gasoline motors at the disposal of the traveling staff, a feature that will facilitate rapid work and prompt delivery of orders.

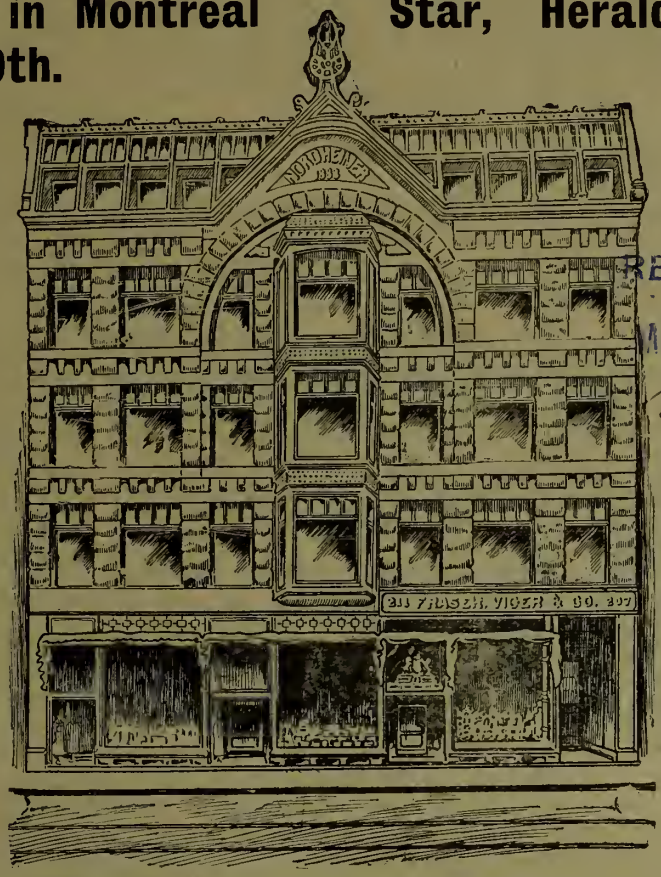
Mr. Howard W. Symington, of W. Symington & Co., Bowden Steam Mills, Market Harborough, England, was a caller at the Montreal offices of The Grocer on Friday, May 12th. Mr. Symington is paying a short pleasure trip to Canada, combined with a preliminary business prospecting tour, the latter with a view of placing his company's well-known English pea flour, pea soups and other proprietary articles on the Canadian market. Symington & Co.'s products have for over three-quarters of a century enjoyed the patronage and confidence of the public in Great Britain, as well as in most of the colonies. Mr. Symington annually pays a visit to one or the other of the countries with which connections have been established, and though on his first Canadian trip he will only be able to take in the larger eastern centres, such as Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Hamilton, he hopes next year to make a complete canvas of the Dominion. Mr. Symington was pleased to say to The Grocer that his first impressions of Canada were favorable, in fact in comparison with other lands he has had the privilege of visiting he was proud of England's greatest Dominion.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

S. H. Ewing & Son, Montreal, have received samples of April pickings Japans at about 31 to 32c. laid down. These teas are very attractive and excellent liquor.

White & Co., Toronto, are in the fresh fish business quite extensively, receiving daily large consignments from the upper lakes.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, report they have been unable to meet the demand for their "Old Oaken Bucket" prepared mustard. The first two shipments were cleared out immediately upon arrival. They expect to fill all back orders this coming week.



On account of the large number of repeat orders the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, are bringing on another shipment of "Ocean" brand Pacific lobsters. They have purchased the balance of this season's pack. You will do well to get your order in early—quantity limited.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, are offering some special snaps in canned salmon this week.

A shipment of pitted dates, in packages, has arrived for H. P. Eckardt & Co.

Buyers of Eleme figs should communicate with H. P. Eckardt & Co., who are sellers at low prices.

TRADE CONDITIONS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Vancouver, B.C., May 11, 1905.

TRADE with Australia, and necessary steps to be taken to improve it, have been receiving attention from the business men of the coast cities recently. At the last monthly meeting of the Vancouver board the subject was discussed at length, and last week the Victoria Board of Trade also took the matter up. Crystallizing their discussion, the board passed a resolution favoring the appointment of a special commissioner by the Dominion Government to secure reciprocal trade relations with the commonwealth similar to those already established with New Zealand. Other Canadian boards of trade are to be asked to co-operate in urging this on the Dominion Government.

Preparations for a run of salmon this year, which will keep up the allegory of a "fat" year every fourth season, are well ahead. On Puget Sound the canners of Washington State are pinning their faith to the old belief of the fourth year, which in the past has been pretty well proven. Discouraged by three years of the leanest kind of picking, British Columbia canners are somewhat dubious. They are, however, making fairly extensive preparations, and especially in the north great activity is displayed. The shipment of supplies for the canneries and for employes has engaged northern coasting steamers for some time, and the trade is not all over yet. The northern run begins earlier than that on the Fraser.

On the Fraser River, the preparations are not so far forward, as the sockeye run does not ordinarily begin till well on in July, though if there is to be a big run it usually comes earlier. The run of Spring salmon is light on the Fraser this year, despite many statements to the contrary. The proof is that the fish have never been plentiful in the market, and the price has been high this Spring. On Vancouver Island there will be several traps this year, the new departure having been instituted last season by J. H. Todd & Sons, and Capt. Munsie. Now that the way has been shown, and traps proven successful, others are, of course, following in the lead. One proposed trap location, at Clover Point, opposite Victoria City, has been refused by the Provincial Government, which owns the foreshore and will not grant a lease for trap purposes, the site not having been one of those put up for competition by the Provincial Government, which also holds that its nearness to the city is against it. The fact that a trap license is held from the Dominion Government does not ensure the permission to use it, if the location proposed is not assented to, or leased, by the Provincial Government. B. J. Short, the canneryman, is the unlucky possessor of the trap license, which he proposed to use at Clover Point. He had made all arrangements to go ahead with driving piles and constructing the traps, but was notified by the provincial authorities that he had no right to do so.

Two canneries for Vancouver Island, both at Esquimalt, near the City of Victoria, are the result of the establishment of traps off the south of the island.

The beginning of a new era in fruit preserving business is marked by the very large extension which the Empress Mfg. Co., of Vancouver, is now making to its factory. This company, formerly known as the B. C. Fruit Canning & Coffee Co., has under construction an additional building 100 feet long, covering two lots frontage, and two storeys high. It will double the floor space of the premises.

A healthy tone is noted in all lines of trade this season, as there is constant and satisfactory development industrially in every direction. This tendency is being strongly marked in trade up the coast. There are so many people going to various northern British Columbia points, both coast and interior, that a large increase in trade to those points has been the result. From the interior of the province trade is coming very regularly, owing to steady improvement in mining, lumbering and agriculture. The latter industry is receiving the impetus long predicted for it, and wherever there is arable land it is being looked up, and many sales to settlers are reported.

Market conditions show few important changes. The advent of the favorite strawberry in large quantities from California has been one of the features of the fruit market for the past week, and some straggling lots of local grown have also been seen. The latter are, however, small, and the fruit lacks the lusciousness of fully matured and well ripened berries. Warmer weather is necessary before the local crop will begin to ripen in any quantity. The prices for the better class of strawberries received so far are high, $3 to $3.75 being the range. The California cherries have also been arriving in limited quantities for the past week. They are selling at $2.25 and $2.50 for the ten pound crate.

Oranges move rather slower now, though the supply is still plentiful and quality good. Price ranges from $2.25 for seedlings to $3, and $3.25 for choice navels, Mediterranean sweets and bloods. Apples are going out fast. Local stock is poor now, and Washington importations little better. They sell at $1.25 to $1.75 per box. The few Tasmanians is stock from last Australian steamer brought considerably better prices, though comparison of the price, $3 per box, is not fair, as the boxes are larger.

Ripe tomatoes, Mexican importation via California, are fairly good in quality, at high prices, $4.50 per crate being the quotation. California crop tomatoes will soon be plentiful. Rhubarb is beginning to come in more freely, and prices for local are down to 3½c per lb., which will prevent more California grown coming in.

In vegetables the potato market is quiet, prices being still high—$28 per ton for choice stock. California new potatoes are more plentiful, but the price is still high—5c. per lb. Green peas, imported from California, are quoted at 12c. per lb. Beans at 4c. All small green vegetables, in bunches, are local, and selling at low prices now. Celery is all Californian, and $1.10 per dozen heads.

The produce market remains about as last week. Prices for butter, locally produced, are firm, though quantities are increasing. Demand is active, and supplies from outside sources still small. Ontario creamery is represented in small proportion in the market.

Local eggs pretty nearly fill local demands now, and the price, 25c., is easy. Cured meats, about three-quarters of the stock of which in this market is from U. S. packing houses, show slight decrease, amounting to about ½c. all round. Hams are quoted 14 to 15c., and breakfast bacon 15 and 16c.

Flour quotations on this market were shaded from 10 to 20c per barrel this week. Hungarian brands are quoted now at $6.30, and strong bakers at $6.10 per bbl. Okanagan flour is quoted at $6.20 for Hungarian, and $5.80 for the Three Star second grade.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, May 18th, 1905.

GENERAL grocery business shows considerable activity this week and all the jobbing houses are busy. Collections are still reported slow, however, and there is considerable grumbling on that score.

Apparently sugar is on the downward grade at last for there is still another decline to report this week. A general decline of 10 cents has been announced and, at time of writing, sugar is on a $6 basis in Winnipeg for Montreal granulated. Reports from California still indicate a marked shortage in the prune crop and a local advance is sure to be made very soon. Prunes are a "good buy" at present and the merchant who stocks up at present prices should make money in the deal. The smaller sizes will be particularly scarce. Coffee is firmer and, although sales are being made still at the old figures, an advance of about ¼c. on green Rios would be justified by the condition of the market. A further decline in "Crown Brand" syrups is announced this week. "Gold Dust" washing powder has been advanced and new quotations will be found below. "Banner" and "Quail" oats have also been advanced.

Sugar.

Interest still centres in the sugar market and, as is usually the case when values are declining, merchants are buying sparingly and only for present requirements of their trade. Lower prices are expected now. We quote:

Later reports from California confirm what was said in these columns two weeks ago. Prunes will be a short crop and a local advance may be expected at any time. The smaller sizes will be particularly scarce. There is no doubt that a local advance will be made soon and merchants may save money by buying now. Apricots are a good crop and prices for July and August delivery are opening low. We quote:

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

THE first fruit auction of the season was held at the warehouse of the Montreal Fruit Exchange, Mountain street, on Friday, May 12, when the entire cargo of the Jacona, consisting of 18,000 boxes oranges and 13,000 boxes lemons passed under the hammer of W. M. Kearns, auctioneer. In all, 879 lines were knocked down in six hours or an average of 3 1-2 lines a minute. Buying was brisk and good prices were realized, though the fruit taken as a whole was not of an exceptionally good character. This brisk bidding was due to the fact that the orange and lemon crop of Italy is very short this year and dealers were anxious to secure their season's supplies. The fact, also, that the Escalona, due this week, carries only a stock of 5,000 cases (4,000 oranges and 1,000 lemons), lent additional zest to the buying. Prices realized ranged about as follows: Messina lemons, from $1 to $2.30; Maiori lemons, from $2.25 to $2.35, and Sorrento lemons from $1 to $3.10 per box, and some sales of fruit out of condition were made at as low as 75c. per box. Messina oranges sold at $2.40 to $2.65 per box, and at $1.10 to $1.80 per half box. Fancy ovals in boxes brought from $2.15 to $2.90, and in half boxes $1.60. Catania blood oranges sold at $1.60 to $1.80 per half box, and one line of fancy stock in boxes, put up in cartons, sold at $4.50 to $5 per box. This is the highest oranges ever realized here at the Spring auction sales. Sorrento oranges in boxes, sold at from $2 to $2.90, and in half boxes at $1 to $1.85.

Among the buyers present were: Ryerson Bros., Brantford; A. Mountjoy, London; H. Thorpe, of McWilliam & Everist, Toronto; M. P. Clemes, of Clemes Brothers, Toronto; C. Husband, Toronto; W. B. Stringer, of W. B. Stringer & Co., Toronto; G. T. Wolfe, of the T. Eaton Co., Toronto; F. White, of White & Co., Toronto; R. Vance, Toronto; H. Dawson, of the Dawson Commission Co., Toronto; Wall & Goppe, Windsor; J. T. Wood, St. Lin; G. S. Steele, London; M. Mulholland, Toronto; J. H. C. Carpenter, representing the Distributors Co., Winona; S. Sansone, of Calalano & Sansone, London; E. Butterfield, Boston, and E. Andrews, jr., New York.

Hart & Tuckwell, Montreal, to whom the cargo was practically consigned, stated to The Grocer that prices realized were good and, in consideration of the situation of the Messina crop this year buyers were not paying too much for the goods.

The fact that such good prices were realized in the Montreal sale is a direct contradiction to the statement of New York fruit importers that this market was an unsafe and unsatisfactory one for shippers. Better prices were obtained than is possible on the New York market. It is certainly cheaper to ship to Montreal as the duty is less and freight charges no higher than to New York, and the bugaboo that is being raised by American fruit dealers against the Canadian port will not deter Italian shippers from using the Montreal channel in future.

The Oshawa Canning Co., have let the contract for their new building, which will replace the one recently destroyed by fire.

British Columbia's apple exhibit at the Colonial Fruit Exhibition, London, Eng., has impressed some of the large importers there so favorably that they have expressed a desire to establish regular trade with British Columbia provided favorable freight rates and cold storage accommodation can be secured.

It is reported that Ontario capitalists will shortly establish a large cold-storage plant at St. John, N.B., principally for the storage of apples for shipment to the old country. These shipments are now made mostly through American ports, but experiments through St. John last year proved so satisfactory that shipments via St. John will become a regular feature in future.

Canadian fruit exporters have registered a complaint against the inadequate facilities provided by the railways for transporting perishable fruit in Summer and Fall from inland points to the seaboard and to home markets in Winter. They claim that the freezing of apples during the last two or three Winter seasons caused serious losses to exporters and in many cases wiped out the profits of the entire season, besides bringing Canadian fruit into bad repute in the markets of Great Britain.

Ontario Markets.

GREEN FRUITS.

Toronto, May 17, 1905.

THE season for preserving pines has arrived, and is inducing an active demand for this class of fruit, which is slightly firmer than last week on account of scarcity. The local banana situation shows considerable improvement, surplus stocks having been pretty well cleaned up, with supplies arriving in about sufficient volume to meet the growing consumptive demand.

The North Carolina strawberry season is closing after one of the most disastrous years in its history. Owing to excessive rains and a shortage of cars, the farmers have lost no less than $500,000, and it is a question whether this will fall most heavily upon the railroads or the growers. Locally, strawberries are arriving in very unsatisfactory condition, being much inferior to arrivals at this date last season.

Full particulars of the Montreal fruit sale are given elsewhere in this issue. Cranberries and sweet potatoes are out of the market. Our quotations are as follows :

VEGETABLES.

Beyond a brisk demand for green vegetables there are no special features in this week's markets. Outdoor stuff is beginning to arrive freely, and is displacing imported stock. Cabbage is scarce and reported to be advancing in price. Egyptian onions are down 50c. Florida celery is out of the market. Hothouse cucumbers are 50c., and Florida tomatoes 25c. cheaper than last week. Outdoor rhubarb is quoted from 15 to 20c. below last week's prices. Spinach is down 30c. Domestic asparagus has taken the place of imported stuff. Egg plants and kale are out of the market. We quote the following prices :

GREEN FRUITS.

According to opinion of fruit dealers the trade is still improving and demand in all lines is fair and steady. At the auction last week were sold some 31,000 boxes of oranges and lemons at high prices, particularly oranges. Extra fine lemons found ready buyers at from $2 to $2.50. Others were also swept at $1.75 to $2. Bananas are scarce and meet with good demand at high prices. Strawberries are arriving in fairly large quantities and selling well. Dealers are looking for an easier market in a few days. Other steamers are also expected at the end of the week with small cargoes of fruits.

VEGETABLES.

The vegetable trade is said to be fair but not as brisk as last week. The demand in general is good and dealers are hopeful for a good business this season. Little new goods are arriving but cabbages and Florida celery. The latter in fairly large quantities is meeting with but a small demand. Hot-house cucumbers are out of the market and loose

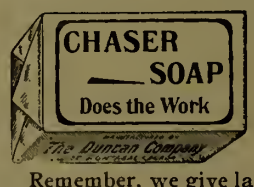
Dealers are very busy. Bananas are plentiful and low. Oranges are rather easier. Californias are chiefly sold. Lemons, with the warmer weather, are firmer. Pines now arriving show improved quality. In cucumbers, tomatoes and rhubarb lower prices rule. Native rhubarb is now offered. In strawberries quality being received is but fair. Apples are dull.

NEW GROCERY FIRM.



The G. E. Barbour Co., Limited, St. John, N.B., have taken over the business of G. E. Barbour, wholesale grocer, of the same place. They have also made arrangements to buy out the Maritime Spice & Coffee Co., Limited. The G. E. Barbour Co. will continue as wholesale grocers, spice and coffee grinders, manufacturers of grocers' specialties, package goods, flavoring extracts, etc.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

WITH twenty-four ocean steamships in the port and more coming all the time, it would appear that Montreal is a busy place at this time. Smaller river and lake craft are plying their trade with great energy, and the whole season is now on with what is called in the street a "vengeance."

Ocean tonnage has improved very much and the freight rates generally have stiffened notably. Grain is coming in more freely and dairy produce is arriving in large quantities. The iced service of the different railways has proven a great boon during this the first week of really warm weather.

Shippers of dairy produce are very optimistic and things look well for a large export trade.

The boats for South Africa are loading here, and there is likely to be a great awakening in trade over there. Large Canadian manufacturers are to be noticed on the list of shippers and the American sellers are not going to have everything their own way this season.

From ports in South Africa it is learned that Canadian commission houses have opened in the different centres and this is something new, so that instead of the British merchants in South Africa having to depend upon Peabody of New York, Cape Town, etc., they can get their products from Canadian houses.

Lake and rail freights from Chicago to Buffalo have declined a quarter of a cent, and it is reported that engagements amounting to 3,000,000 bushels have been made at as low a rate as one cent.

From Chicago to Montreal, grain has been engaged at 4 cents and oats at three and a half cents per bushel. From Fort William through to Montreal the rates have been made at 6 cents, including insurance. Bristol grain space has been engaged at 4½d and Glasgow is quoted at 9d to 1s.

NINETY THOUSAND MEN WANTED.

The Canadian Grocer is indebted to W. A. MacKinnon, Canadian Commercial Agent at Bristol, England, for the following clipping from the Western Daily Press:

"The following announcement in a recent issue of The Canadian Grocer relative to Manitoba, would indicate that there is a good and desirable opening in 'the prairie province' for those who are willing and able to work: Manitoba is calling for 90,000 men, and the request is urgent. This is the intimation given by the Government Immigration Agent of the province, who is in the closest touch with existing circumstances. Here are chances and possibilities and prospects for men crowded in the uncongenial environment of the cities to secure work that is conducive to mental and bodily vigor. There is little excuse for idleness with such a call at hand, and it is hoped that it may reach the ears of those ready to listen, and be answered by many whose condition will be bettered, and who will have cause to be thankful for the change.'"

These rates are for general information only, and are subject to change at any time without notice; it is therefore important that all contracts must be reported by wire and confirmation obtained before closing with shippers, and unless specifically stated to be prompt shipment, or shipped within ten days after date of contract from the west.

The above rates are exchanged on basis of $4.80 to £1 Stg., excepting that when freight is prepaid, the ocean proportion of the through rate must be collected on basis of $4.86 to the pound sterling.

If freight is offered other than specified above, on which steamship connections are accustomed to quote a weight or measurement rate at their option, prompt replies will be facilitated by giving, when applying for rate, the relative weight and measurement of the merchandise.

It is understood that when reporting Sack Flour engagements, a carload is considered 28,000 lbs.

It is also important that shipper's name be given for every engagement made.

BIG CHOCOLATE INDUSTRY FOR CANADA.

THE Walter M. Lowney Co., of Boston, Mass., one of the largest and best-known chocolate and bon-bon manufacturers in America, are about to erect a factory in Montreal. Mr. Lowney, while in Montreal this week, stated to The Grocer that a Canadian company incorporated by letters patent at Ottawa had been formed with capital stock of $250,000, and a large plot of land at 165-171 William street, had been secured; plans were ready and building operations would be commenced this week.

The main building will be 100x60 feet and six storeys high and a complete chocolate, cocoa and bon-bon plant will be installed. There will also be a large boiler house, engine room and refrigerator plant. Besides these buildings, space is provided for the erection of a paper-box factory. It is expected that the factory will be completed and in operation by September 1 next.

Mr. Lowney also stated that his company had for years done a considerable trade in Canada from the Boston works, but that, in order to give the Canadian public their high-grade goods at United States prices, it was felt that a factory would have to be erected at some Canadian point. After looking over the various centres, Montreal was selected as being most suitable from every point of view.

The Canadian branch in Montreal, which has been in charge of Mr. E. M. Littler, who has been most enthusiastic in pushing the merits of Lowney's goods among the Canadian trade, has shown that Canadians are appreciative of high-grade chocolates, cocoas and bon-bons. By the erection of the Montreal factory the duties and other charges that have largely restricted the proper development of the Canadian trade, will be overcome and the popular prices obtaining in the States will prevail here. Pushed with the energy that has made Lowney's a household word south of the line, the new Canadian industry will undoubtedly meet with success.

GRAIN PROSPECTS.

ACCORDING to W. Whyte, assistant president of the C.P.R., there are good prospects for a record crop in the Canadian West this year. A good start has been made in seeding, and the amount of moisture was never better. An acreage of 4,500,000 under cultivation with a probable yield of twenty bushels to the acre will give a total of about 90,000,000 bushels.

Moose Jaw correspondents report that the prospects in the Territories were never better at this time of the year. The crop went in under most favorable conditions, rain came at just the right time, and in many places, the wheat is up. A few warm days will see all the fields green.

The United States Government crop report for May on Winter wheat has been issued and makes a very favorable showing, suggesting a crop of about 460,706,000 bush. against an actual yield of 332,000,000 bush. a year ago. An improvement is shown over conditions existing a month ago, although 1,432,000 acres have been ploughed up, and as a result the indicated crop shows a reduction of about 20,000,000 bush. compared with the estimates based on the Government figures issued in April.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

The Toronto Globe of May 13 reproduces an interesting market report dated Toronto, May 14, 1855, which reads as follows:

> There was a large attendance of purchasers this morning. Wheat came in very plentifully and prices reached as high as 11s. 7d per bush., but the majority of sales were much at prices ranging between 11s. 2d and 11s. 4d per bush. Oats have declined, and few transactions took place at over 4s. per bush.

BREAD MAKING AMONG THE BOERS.

EVERY district in the Transvaal has its mill or mills, the proprietors of which do a good business, says a correspondent in the London Miller. When a Boer wishes to have a load of mealies ground he takes them over in his wagon and outspans until they are done. Time is not of the first importance here, and it sometimes happens that a man who arrives at the mill in the morning, expecting to return home at night, is kept waiting for two or three days before he can get his wants attended to. The Boers make their own bread. They bake it in the large outside ovens, which are a feature of every homestead. These ovens are made of the clay taken from the ant hills. A fire is made in the centre, and the front of the oven blocked up with a stone wrapped up in sacking. When the inside has reached a sufficient temperature the fire is raked out, the bread put inside, and the entrance again closed up. By the time the inside of the oven is cold the bread is baked. The Boer bakes once a week. The loaves are of substantial proportion. Mealie meal is used, "Kaffir beer" being used in place of yeast. The bread is appetizing enough when fresh, but it reaches the consistency of a stone before the week is out; but the Boer is blessed with good teeth, and he never complains. When the "old man" is going away on a transport trip several of these loaves are prepared. These are packed away in the wagon "box." Before a quarter of the journey is completed they will be uneatable by ordinary means, so they will be broken up—at times with the chopper—and soaked in hot coffee.

EXPORTS TO GREAT BRITAIN.

Following are the values of exports of Canadian foodstuffs to Great Britain for the month of April: Wheat, £30,890; wheat flour, £41,081; peas, £32,545; bacon, £98,682; hams, £17,540; butter, £850; cheese, £89.175; cattle, £96,371.

WANT MANITOBA WHEAT.

J. S. Larke, Canadian Commercial Agent to Australasia, reports a demand for No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat for seed, but says that so far all efforts to secure it have failed.

CANADIAN CEREALS IN AUSTRALIA.

D. H. Ross, Canadian Commercial Agent in Australasia, reports that large shipments of Canadian breakfast foods are coming forward to Melbourne, Adelaide and other Australian ports. Local agents seem to have taken hold of these goods with considerable energy and an increased trade is looked for.

FLOUR AND CEREAL NEWS.

A flour and feed store is being erected at Riding Mountain, Man.

A flour mill and elevator will shortly be erected in Ninga, Man.

W. B. Brown & Co., flour and grain dealers, Toronto, are opening a branch in Winnipeg.

The Nova Scotia Milling Co. have taken over the business carried on by the late D. Gunn.

It is estimated among Montreal grain men that during the month of May between two and a half and three million bushels of grain will be shipped from that port.

A new enterprise has been organized at St. Mary's, N.B., known as the Enterprise Bottling Co. for the manufacture of high-class aerated beverages.

TOBACCO TO ALASKA.

TOBACCO manufacturers are now having grave apprehensions concerning the incoming crop. It is generally conceded that planters have relied more upon sugar than upon tobacco to make money this year, and, as a consequence, a slight scarcity of good raw leaf is anticipated. At any rate, prices will go higher, owing to the constantly increasing demand for consumption. The new crop will not be available until December, and competition has been very keen. Manufacturers must face the question of a deterioration in quality or a loss in profit unless needs have been anticipated a full year.

In this connection Mr. McManus, of the Sherbrooke Cigar Co., in conversation with a Grocer representative, while freely explaining the situation, incidentally mentioned their happy foresight in buying stock last year for the ensuing two years. "This means," said he "that the stock of the "Royal Sport" and "Hogen Mogen" will, as heretofore, be of first quality."

TOBACCO IN ALASKA.

What is probably the largest shipment of tobacco ever made to Alaska is that made last week by the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Co., of Richmond, Va., to Nome. It consisted of two solid carloads, one of Lucky Strike and the other of Westover, 48,000 pounds in all, and valued at about $30,000. One of the carloads will be sent from Nome to the interior for distribution.

HOGSHEAD LEAF.

Reports from the Virginia tobacco sections indicate that the exodus of the negro laborers from the tobacco fields to the West may cause an appreciable falling off in the 1905 crop. Practically all the crop of last year is now in the markets and a few weeks more will see the end of the 1904 season. Sales have been pretty strong on all markets.

The sales on the Danville market last week exceeded those of sone weeks previous, those on Tuesday last amounting to eight hundred thousand pounds. Wagon circuit tobacco comprises the major portion of the offerings. The prices on this market remain practically the same, the demand for all grades with the exception of the medium, being strong. A number of sales in package tobacco, including wrappers, scraps and cutters took place last week. A movement to give the buyers a respite from work during two weeks in July is on foot among the loose leaf markets, and is commanding favor at the hands of the tobacconists, and it is thought the market will be closed down for that period in case the other markets will do likewise.

Practically little business was transacted on the Richmond market last week, the high winds and cool weather preventing the supply from the barns being brought in. The prices obtained and the quality of the offerings were not notable.

Oh, 'tis well enough
A whiff or a puff
From the heart of a pipe to get;
And a dainty maid
Or a budding blade
May toy with the cigarette;
But a man, when the time
Of a glorious prime
Dawns forth like a morning star,
Wants the dark-brown bloom
And the sweet perfume
That go with a good cigar.

—Norris Bull.

NOTES OF THE TRADE.

The United States Government is conducting a secret investigation into the affairs of the American Tobacco Co., in response to charges made under the anti-trust law.

A fire broke out in the cigar factory of P. Sherlock, Ingersoll, last week. It occurred while the factory was in operation, and so was promptly detected. It was stopped before much damage was done and the insurance will cover the loss.

Charles H. Sprieser, of F. Miraudie & Co., wholesale tobacco merchants, of New York and Havana, is making a tour of Western Canada. Mr. Sprieser reports a healthy business in Winnipeg and the west, in spite of the increased price of tobacco. He mentions Winnipeg particularly for the energy and push of its merchants.

Owing to the exceptional demand for "Royal Sport" and "Hogen Mogen" cigars, the Sherbrooke Cigar Co. have been obliged to increase their representatives. Mr. J. B. Gauthier leaves next week for the Far West, and Mr. C. L. Gilmore for the Maritime Provinces. Both may be depended upon to "push" the lines of their firm.

The Cigarmakers' Union of Hamilton had a lively discussion recently with reference to the way the cigar industry has been affected this year by the action of the License Department of Ontario. It was stated that in that city the manufacturers have sold 2,000,000 less cigars this year than in the same months last year. It was said that the only cause for the slump in the trade was the uncertainty in which the hotel men have been kept since the Provincial elections. The uneasiness has been added to by remarks of the License Commissioners. A committee was appointed by the union to draft a letter of protest for the press, and to lay the matter before the various unions of the city.

A Continuous Course

SATISFACTION SATISFACTION

A continuous course of satisfaction has been meted out to the Pebble and Pharaoh Cigars. We never asked anybody to be satisfied with them. We merely asked them to try the cigars. We knew the cigars themselves would do the rest. And they are doing it. You can talk as you like, but for their respective prices, the Pebble and Pharaoh Cigars are unsurpassed. One manufacturer thought he could make a Pharaoh Cigar—that is, one as good as a Pharaoh—make it and sell it for five, lopping off, as he called it, our "extravagant profit," but his Pharaoh Cigar turned out to be a Fairy Cigar. The make lasted one month and then passed in with the unreliables. We know the virtues and shortcomings of cigars as well as the next maker, so when we recommend Pebble and Pharaoh Cigars and stake our name on the recommendation—what is it a sign of? It is a sign that either we know our business or our name is of no value. Well, we state that-our-name-is-of-value. And we guess we know our business.

Letters to Tom, the Grocer.—No. IX.

HAMILTON, May 19, 1905

Dear Tom:

Have you planned your program for next month's business? No? Too bad, Tom. Why, you're not much better than the day-laborer. Don't you see how the big department stores are doing? They know a long time beforehand what they will boom in June, what in July, what in August. And they get ready weeks ahead. Something worth thinking about, Tom.

We're very glad to hear you say that since you began urging smokers who didn't use T. & B. (10-cent size) you have found these men come back for it. It's the same story we hear from every place.

Yours truly,

GREATEST COFFEE-DRINKING NATION.

ACCORDING to statistics collected during the last ten years and published on April 21 by the Department of Commerce and Labor, the United States stands first among the nations of the world in the consumption of coffee, England first in the consumption of tea, Russia first in the consumption of whiskey and other distilled spirits, France first in the consumption of wine, and Germany first in the consumption of beer.

Of coffee the world's consumption is approximately 2,250,000,000 lbs. In this the United States holds the first place, with a total consumption in 1904 of 961,000,000 lbs.; Germany second, with 397,000,000 lbs., and France third, with 168,000,000 lbs.

Statistics of beer consumption are available for only eight countries, with a total of 5,753,000,000 gallons annually. Germany had a total consumption of 1,783,000,000 gallons; the United Kingdom, 1,501,000,000; the United States, 1,194,000,000; Austria, 492,000,000; France, 289,000,000; Hungary, 38,333,000 and Italy, 6,750,000.

Consumption of whiskey, brandy and other distilled spirits for which statistics are available amounted to 687,000,000 gallons; that for Russia being set down at 171,000,000 gallons; Germany, 124,333,000, and the United States, 121,000,000.

Wine consumption amounts to 3,090,000,000 gallons annually, principally in the Latin countries.

Per capita consumption of various beverages in the principal countries presents some sharp contrasts. Thus, in the per capita consumption of tea the United States is credited with only 1.34 lbs., against six lbs. for the United Kingdom.

In the per capita consumption of coffee the relative rank of the countries is: United States, 11.75 lbs.; Germany, 6.65 lbs.; France, 4.29 lbs.

AN IMPORTANT ITEM IN BUSINESS.

The last census five years ago showed the population of the United States to be 76,303,000. What the population is now is a matter not of enumeration but of estimate, but the statisticians get at the matter pretty closely, says the Wall Street Journal. The April statement of the circulation of money in the United States estimates the population on April 1, 1905, to be 82,910,000. There has thus been in the last five years an increase in population of 6,607,000, an average increase each year of 1,320,000. One-half of this increase, or, to be more definite, 3,255,000, represents the immigration since 1900. Putting the increase of population in the form of percentage, it appears that there has been a gain in five years amounting to 8.7 per cent. There is every reason to believe that before the next census is taken, in 1910, the United States will have a population of 90,000,000. Sufficient account is not taken of the increased population when estimates are made of the business outlook. Every addition to the population adds so much to the consumptive demand upon our productive industries. If it be estimated that the average amount needed by every person to maintain life is $200, then the increase of 1,320,000 in the population every year means an increase in the consumptive demand of $264,000,000. This fact sufficiently explains the enormous vitality displayed by that country, its power of recuperation and the growing pressure upon its producing energies.

Does It Pay To Waste Time?

Carrying goods that do not sell readily is wasting time. Does it pay? Some Tobaccos sell more readily than others, for reasons best known to the buyers. These reasons do not come to these buyers by chance. They are part of their logic and you may be sure they represent conclusions drawn from premises. You can help more buyers to reach these conclusions by arranging conspicuously those Tobaccos which you have absolute proof are made by honest methods.

HOW LONG?

How long will you continue to keep in stock those injurious, impure, acid vinegars? Are the people asking for them? Have you told them there is something better — something called CIDER VINEGAR? Cider Vinegar is made from pure fruit—apples. It is to be seen in our

that has no equal for excellence anywhere. GOLDEN RUSSET VINEGAR is the product of years of study and the application of the finest manufacturing processes. GOLDEN RUSSET VINEGAR is to be had in three strengths: XXX, 84 grains; XX, 72 grains; and X, 60 grains, at prices proportionate to the strength.

Earn More

Earn more money by buying goods of standard value—doubt less when choosing. Think more of quality than price. How about those dusty, dirty, fly-specked packages up there on the shelf? What did it, quality or price? "Doubt Less and Earn More."

Sell Goods of Known Quality

Fry's Cocoa and Chocolate

As standard as sugar, salt, coffee or tea. Of known quality always. Purest, Richest, Strongest. Made by the largest manufacturers in the whole world.

Castile Soap "Shell" Brand

Containing 67 per cent. of pure oil as against 60 per cent. in ordinary brands. Packed and shipped in cases and boxes in bars of 1 pound each and upwards. Pressed Cakes in boxes also. "Earn More" by selling it.

Cox's Gelatine

Has stood the test of time and has won out on intrinsic merit. Always strictly pure. Always does exactly the work cut out for it. "The Gelatine of Quality."

the teas of

JAPAN

Despite all the strenuous efforts that have been made by imitators, and in the face of the vast amount of money that has been expended to disparage Japan Teas in the taste of the consumer, JAPAN TEAS are stronger and more firmly planted in Canada than ever.

The reason is plain—

THE VINEGAR QUESTION

Are you perfectly satisfied with the vinegar you are selling? Are your customers perfectly satisfied with it or do they simply grin and bear with it?

The Best Vinegar for Grocers to handle is one that Has flavor as well as acidity.

Has strength without containing injurious chemicals.
Preserves without injuring fruits and vegetables.
Yields a good profit for handling.
Brings a customer back for more.

In other words, it should be a natural pure fruit juice vinegar. Such a vinegar,

AN ABSOLUTELY PURE CIDER VINEGAR

made from apple juice and apple juice only, is being manufactured by the undersigned by processes which maintain its apple flavor while preserving its strength and quality indefinitely. It is known as

WILSON'S GOLDEN RUSSET CIDER VINEGAR

This vinegar has been thoroughly tested for table and pickling uses with absolute satisfaction and where once tried has not failed to displace the so-called white wine article. The makers are prepared to ship in any quantity to any point in Canada, direct to the retailer.

Prices and circular sent upon application. Drop us a card for fuller information.

Continuous Growth of the Continuous Ledger System

This has been clearly demonstrated in the growth of our business. That you may appreciate to some extent our facilities for turning out high-grade work within the shortest possible time, we herewith present a view of the home of The Crain Continuous Ledger. We have more than doubled our capacity during the past year. This marvelous growth could not be attained unless we had the goods to back it up.

WE MANUFACTURE ALL LOOSE-LEAF SYSTEMS

The cut herein shown is of our Monthly Account System, which is being so universally adopted by the retail trade that it is useless to go into any lengthy detail. Write us for further information.

If you are anticipating any changes in your office-work and would like to be up-to-date, we can assist you.

Butchers, Merchants and Hide Buyers

Should write to CARROLL S. PAGE, Hyde Park, Vt., U.S.A., who wishes to purchase their Hides, Calfskins, Sheep Pelts, Tallow and Bones. He pays spot cash. He pays the freights. He pays full market values. He wishes to arrange with some one in every village, where he has no agent, to sell Poultry Supplies and to pick up for him Hides, Calfskins, Sheep Pelts, and Bones. He furnishes money with which to buy and he keeps his agents thoroughly posted at all times as to market values; write him for full particulars.

A Two Cent Mistake

Don't amount to much in any business, but the striking point is that a clerk is just as liable to make a mistake of $2.00 as he is of two cents, and a few mistakes like this would pay for enough of Allison's Coupon Books to last a year or more. With these books mistakes are impossible.

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

for $10, give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book, charge him with $10, and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for ten cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all. And so on for all his purchases up to limit of the book. NO PASS BOOK. NO WRITING. NO TIME LOST. NO KICKING. There are other Coupon Books, of course, but why not have the best? Let us send you a free sample.

In this paper cost 2 cents per word first insertion, 1 cent per word subsequent insertions. Contractions count as one word, but five figures (such as $1,000) may pass as one word. Cash remittance to cover cost must in all cases accompany orders, otherwise we cannot insert the advertisement. When replies come in our care 5 cents additional must be included for forwarding same. Many large business deals have been brought about through advertisements of 20 or 30 words. Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000. Offices throughout the Civilized World

Executive Offices: Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, New York City, U.S.A.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants, for the merchants. In procuring, verifying, and promulgating information no effort is spared, and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claim as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world.

Subscriptions are based on the service furnished, and are available only by reputable wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing concerns, and by responsible and worthy financial, fiduciary and business corporations. Specific terms may be obtained by addressing the Company at any of its offices. Correspondence invited.

GROCERS, Read This Letter:

Schyan, Lac Duval, P.Q., March 27th, 1905.

Dear Sir,—

I send you herewith the price of two pounds of "CHINESE STARCH" 20 cents, and 32 cents in stamps for postage.

Yours very truly, ALBERT VALLEE.

This man paid 54 cents (20 cents for 2 packages of Chinese Starch, 32 cents for postage, and 2 cents for his letter) for 2 packages "CHINESE STARCH."

This speaks strongly as to how thoroughly "CHINESE STARCH" is appreciated by those who use it.

GROCERS: "CHINESE STARCH" is the BEST LAUNDRY STARCH in Canada, and pays you largest profits. WRITE FOR PARTICULARS.

"The Memory of Quality Remains"

"The satisfied customer is the best advertisement." A generality, you say—may be—nevertheless the vital truth remains, that the Grocer who gets the particular, exclusive trade is the Grocer who sells the goods that guarantee satisfaction—S. H. & A. S. EWING'S Delicious COFFEES and High-Grade SPICES have helped make satisfied customers for discriminating Grocers in increasing numbers for over half a century. Does it pay to handle inferior or questionable goods? Some merchants say: "Oh, I'm handling such and such a line of Coffees or Spices. They are good enough and suit my trade." Perhaps they do—but did it ever strike you that with a better class of goods you might largely increase yonr trade with the best classes of particular people? Remember, you are not experimenting when you place an order with the old reliable house.

From Mr. MILTON L. HERSEY, M.A.Sc. (McGill) City and Provincial Analyst, Chemist to C.P.R.

146 St. James St. Montreal, Feb. 28th, 1905

I hereby certify that on the 23rd inst I personally inspected the operation of your process of manufacturing Mokara, and found it CLEAN AND VERY SATISFACTORY.

I have tested and analyzed a sample of Mokara and find it to be a NOURISHING and PALATABLE Coffee Substitute, entirely free from Caffeine. (Signed),

MILTON L. HERSEY,
City and Provincial Analyst.

From Dr. J. T. DONALD, Official Analyst to the Dominion Government.

112 St. Francois-Xavier St. Montreal, 24 February 1905

The sample of Mokara submitted on the 15th inst. has been examined. I find this is a cereal product which has been so treated that a large percentage of the same has been rendered soluble. It contains none of the alkaloid Caffeine. Hot water extracts from the Mokara over half its weight. This extract consists largely of carbo-hydrates with a fair proportion of proteids. It thus yields a beverage which is pleasant to the taste, and, at the same time, soothing and nutritious. (Signed) J. T. DONALD

Comparative Analysis of Mokara and Coffee by Dr. J. T. DONALD Montreal, 18 February 1905

Enclosed certificate of analysis of the sample of Mokara. I herewith repeat the analysis of your Mokara and besides it give you the analysis of a sample of Messrs.....'s Coffee so that you may see how they compare.

	MOKARA	COFFEE
Water	2.58	3.64
Fat	3.12	9.88
Water Extract	56.19	25.98
Ash	3.40	3.10
Fibres, etc.	34.71	57.40

Of course you understand that Mokara contains no Caffeine whilst coffee does. This is a vital difference between the two.

(Signed) J. T. DONALD

CANADA'S EXPORT TRADE IN FOOD PRODUCTS

FIFTY per cent. of the exports of Canada are food products. Of this fifty per cent., half is made up of wheat, flour and cheese. Of the balance, the important items are fish, bacon and hams, fruits and butter. For many years to come these are the products on which Canada's greatness is to depend.

To-day is the time of opportunity. New markets are opening up. Old markets are expanding. There is a call for the best that Canada can produce. To grasp the opportunity offered to-day is to make the country vigorous now and healthy and prosperous in the years which are to come. Energy is needed to secure the new markets. Honest methods and genuine goods are needed to retain them.

A glance at the table of Canada's exports of food products for the two ten-year periods from 1884 to 1894 and from 1894 to 1904 will be instructive. The totals are full of encouragement to those who are striving to build up the export trade. The increase of fifty per cent. during the first decade has been increased itself almost three-fold.

There has been a magnificent growth in the export of provisions. The item of cheese has more than trebled since 1884. Bacon and hams have expanded from $793,802 twenty years ago to over $13,000,000 in 1904. Canned and preserved meats have advanced during the same period from $160,212 to $2,343,031.

Wheat and flour have exhibited a steady and most satisfactory increase. While the exports from year to year have fluctuated considerably, the general trend has been ever forward. Wheat has increased from $812,923 in 1884 to over $13,000,000 in 1904 and flour from $1,025,995 to $6,129,226 over the same period.

Some items, it is true, show decreases, but this is frequently due to the fact that 1904 was an off-year in such lines or that the years with which 1904 stands contrasted showed an abnormal production. A table, which would exhibit the exportation for each year would soon prove that the increase has been very general.

Great Britain.

Turning to Canadian exports by countries, Great Britain naturally claims precedence in the list. Trade in the various lines already mentioned is found to be in a healthy, though not an especially progressive, state. The exports of breadstuffs during the past five years may be gathered from the following table:

1900	$27,246,612
1901	26,177,846
1902	31,352,825
1903	34,137,137
1904	26,567,480

It will be noticed that the exportation increased up to 1903, but that in 1904 it dropped nearly $8,000,000. This falling-off was due almost entirely to a decrease in the exportation of wheat of over $9,000,000. On the other hand, Canadian exports of flour to Great Britain have been quite satisfactory, increasing by regular increments from $1,665,708 in 1900 to $3,568,430 in 1904. The exportation of oatmeal has also shown an appreciable growth.

The trade in provisions, like that in breadstuffs, has maintained its level and has even gone forward in several lines. The following table will show the growth:

1900	$40,594,876
1901	39,347,555
1902	40,915,956
1903	49,701,230
1904	45,322,750

Considering 1903 as an abnormal year, it is apparent that there has been a growth since 1900. Cheese has increased from $20,437,936 to $24,138,291, and canned meats from $236,792 to $2,299,963. These are the principal items of growth.

The exportation of fruits has mounted up from $2,697,364 in 1900 to well over $4,000,000 in 1904. Fish, on the other hand, has fallen off from $3,534,585 to $2,630,879 during the same period, though during the interval it rose one year to over five million dollars.

British Africa.

During 1904, trade with Africa has continued to expand, and there has been a highly satisfactory increase in the various lines of food products. Breadstuffs have advanced according to the following table:

1901	53,234
1902	698,473
1903	837,079
1904	855,533

The main item of increase has been flour, which shows a development from $131,559 in 1900 to $632,348 in 1904. A similar growth is apparent in provisions. The total in 1900 was $68,503. In 1904 the figures stood at $410,058.

British West Indies.

Exeellent growth is to be noted in the export trade to the sister colonies in the West Indies. The following table shows the advanee in the two important items of breadstuffs and provisions:

	Breadstuffs	Provisions
1900	$266,879	$79,476
1901	366,634	86,227
1902	397,641	100,784
1903	426,239	179,361
1904	462,359	196,448

Under the head of breadstuffs, it is pleasant to find again that the main growth has been in flour. During the five years the export of flour has jumped from $42,686 to $204,201. Under provisions, butter is the leading export, inereasing in value from $53,657 in 1900 to $127,790 in 1904. The exportation of fish has as usual been large, but it maintains normal proportions at about $900,000 value.

The same state of affairs exists in British Guiana, where both breadstuffs and provisions have been imported in inereasing quantities. The former shows an inerease from $35,252 in 1900 to $177,386 in 1904 and the latter an inerease from $4,895 to $9,959 over the same period.

Japan.

Canada is mueh interested in opening up eommereial relations with Japan, partieularly in the item of flour. Prior to 1904 there was almost no trade in this article, the year before there being only a value of $2,167 sent to Japan. In 1904, however, over $140,000 worth of Canadian flour went to Japan. As this country imported nearly $5,000,000 worth of flour in 1903, it is apparent that Canada oeeupies but a small eorner of the field. Of other artieles Japan imported in 1904, $98,783 in fish and $7,687 in provisions from Canada.

United States.

Despite a high tariff, the United States takes a eonsiderable quantity of food products from Canada. Of breadstuffs, she took in 1904 over $870,000 worth, as eompared with $448,000 in 1900. Of fish, she took $4,187,765, as compared with $3,659,638 in 1900. Of fruits her importations totalled $325,582 in 1901, while provisions made an item of $128,-852. Her importations of vegetables totalled $934,081.

Newfoundland.

The sister colony of Newfoundland is largely dependent on Canada for her food supply in the artieles of grain, flour and provisions, just as Canada is dependent on Newfoundland for much of her fish. The following table gives the trade in breadstuffs and provisions during the past five years:

	Breadstuffs	Provisions
1900	$944,247	$140,152
1901	992,779	120,160
1902	945,536	158,864
1903	997,145	188,936
1904	1,113,187	226,708

Canada also exports food produets to a great many other eountries, but in sueh small quantities as not to be worth partieular eonsideration.

ST. JOHN AS A SHIPPING PORT.

UP to 1897 the Dominion Government granted subsidies to steamers carrying Canadian produets from Portland, Maine, but in that year patriotie sentiment, whieh has its periodical bursts in the Maritime Provinces, appealed to the Dominion Government, whieh deeided that in future subsidies should be granted only to mail steamers earrying Canadian produets from Canadian ports. In the year 1897 a small subsidy was granted to the Beaver Line steamers. The exneriment, inaugurated almost with fear and trembling, beeame a sueeess from the start. During that Winter there were fifty-seven trans-Atlantie sailings from the port, earrying away 4,838,768 dollars worth of goods, including not only Canadian produets and live stock, but eattle, dressed meats, grain and provisions from Chieago, flour from Minneapolis, cotton from the south, and other eargo from the United States sourees, while more or less of the inward eargo was destined for points in the Western States.

This fact is very signifieant, establishing beyond dispute the favorable situation of St. John, with its railway and steamship eonneetions, as a competing port for the trade of a territory embraeing not only Canada, but a large seetion of the United States.

In the Winter season 1898-9 there were sixty-one sailings from the port, earrying 7,176,246 dollars worth of exports. This, it will be seen, was an inerease of four sailings and nearly three million dollars of exports over the preceding season. The following season showed an increase of about three millions of dollars in the value of exports through the port and of three more steamship sailings.

The business of the port has increased by leaps and bounds, the exports for the season 1903-4 amounting in value to over sixteen millions of dollars, or an inerease over the first season's business of $11,685,507.

The season just closed slows a slight decrease in value of exports over the preceding year, but at the same time gives an increase in the net tonnage out of the port of 11,044 tons.

The deerease in the value of exports last Winter is accounted for by the shortage in the wheat erops of the Canadian and Ameriean West, the Ameriean millers buying up our wheat to fill their orders.

The decrease in wheat shipments through this port last season was 1,981,380 bushels.

The following is a statement of the exports for the season just closed.

TWO NEW PROVINCES

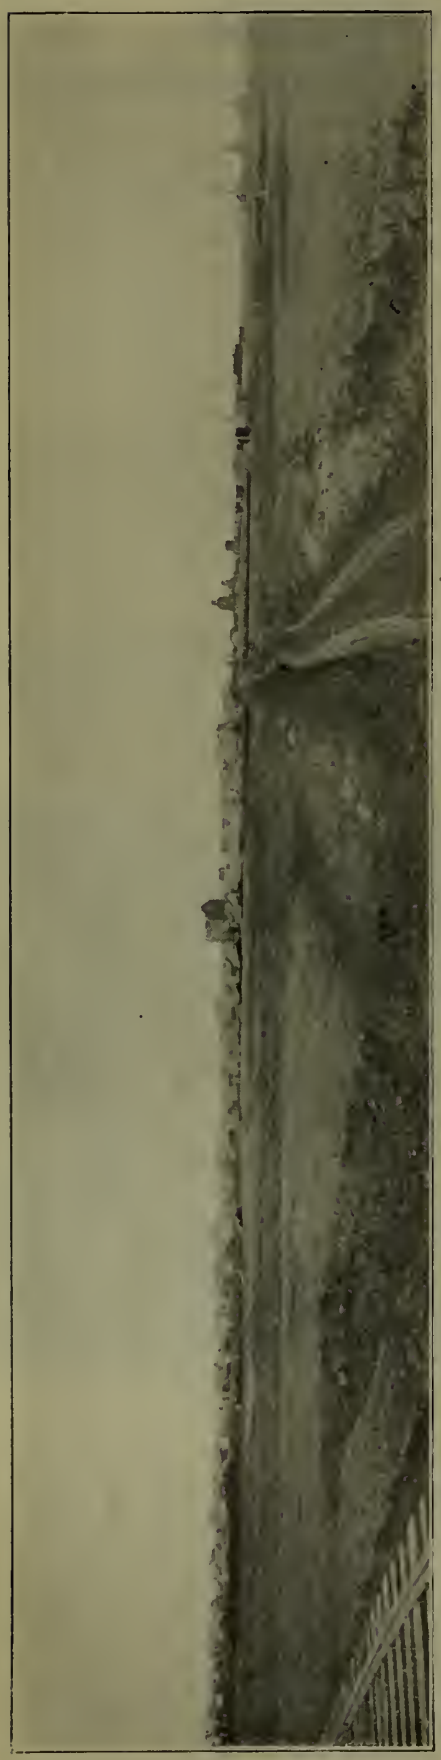
DURING the last two years attention has been directed to the rapid growth of the Canadian Northwest by two important bills before the Dominion Parliament. These were the bill providing assistance to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co., and the bill providing for the autonomy of two new provinces to be carved out of the vast western expanse, hitherto known vaguely as "The Territories." An excellent advertisement of the development of the country has been afforded by these bills. Each has provoked no little controversy. A general election was fought mainly on the Grand Trunk Pacific Bill and the alternative of Government ownership of the road; and all the world knew, by reason of the sound thereof, that Canada proposed building a second transcontinental railway. The obvious inference as to the development of the country which made this railway necessary was drawn the world over. It was not so well known even in Canada that the Canadian Northern interests were already at work constructing a second transcontinental railway, and that the G.T.P. is in reality the third. The incident serves to show the value of political controversy as an advertisement of national progress.

Canadians appreciate the value of the advertisement which the formation of two new provinces must afford us in foreign countries and in other parts of the Empire. The mere fact that in order to secure the proper administration and government of the Northwest it is necessary to divide a part of it into the two vast provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta is sufficient evidence of the growth of the Canadian West. Hitherto the Province of Manitoba has been, with many people, synonymous with Western Canada. Now its Government and people protest that in comparison with the two vast provinces about to be created it is as a mere "postage stamp" on the map of Canada. Without expressing any opinion as to the rights or wrongs of Manitoba in this regard, it may be pertinent to remark that the vigorous agitation of the aggressive Premier Roblin and his associates in the Provincial Government has served to emphasize the fact that the Province of Manitoba, as at present constituted, is a very small part, indeed, of the great wheat-growing country.

Similarly, while the party and sectarian strife which has been precipitated by the educational clauses of the Autonomy Bill is in itself very much to be regretted, it has at least had the good effect of attracting wide attention to the fact that two new provinces are being created. And that in itself is a goad effect, whatever may be the different opinions held as to the wisdom of the educational clauses of the bill.

Publicity Welcomed.

Publicity, however obtained, is welcomed in Western Canada because it is believed that the country needs only to be known to be appreciated abroad. For decades Canada has been unknown and her possibilities unappreciated chiefly because she has been overshadowed by her prosperous neighbor to the south. "America" has been the Mecca of the hopes and ambitions of those living in the Old World who were anxious to better their fortunes in the New; and for too long "America" has meant only the United States. "To him that hath shall be given," and our prosperous Uncle Sam continued to attract more immigrants and more capital to the undeveloped West simply because the tide of emigration and capital had set towards the United States long before the Dominion Confederation was formed and the Canadian prairies rendered accessible by the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway. But when the vacant lands in the United States were filled and free homesteads were no longer to be had, attention was at last directed to the great Canadian West.



Wheat Production.

The wonder is that so long time was required to direct attention to Western Canada. More than three-fourths of North America's total hard wheat area lies north of the international boundary line. Moreover, the soil is more productive than in the United States. In Manitoba the average yield is much in excess of that of any state in the Union. Only in the highly-fertilized farms of Great Britain, where the cost of artificial fertilizers for a single season is equal to the entire cost of the land in Manitoba and the Territories, is the yield exceeded. Crop reports have been compiled by the Government of Manitoba for twenty-two years, and these show the average yield of wheat during that period to be 20½ bushels per acre. Comparisons are interesting. The average in Ontario is 15½ bushels, in the Dakotas, 13, in Minnesota 14½, in Iowa and Nebraska between 11 and 12. Manitoba's average constitutes a record amongst the wheat-growing sections of the American continent.

Regina, Capital of new province of Saskatchewan.

Figures are not available as to the productivity of the new provinces for so long a period as it is only since 1898 that official and accurate returns have been compiled by the Government of the Northwest Territories. The returns obtained since that date have been as accurate as it is possible to get them, as every thresher has been required by law to return to the Department of Agriculture a complete statement of the grain he has threshed. These returns show an average yield of almost 20 bushels per acre—19.88 to be exact.

It is not surprising, therefore, that American farmers are selling their farms and moving across the international boundary line where free homesteads can be obtained from the Government and where the land is more productive.

The Wheat Belt.

Only a very small portion of the Canadian West has yet been cultivated, and the greater part of the vacant land suitable for the purpose lies in the two new provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta. Out of a total of 400,000,000 acres suitable for wheat cultivation, not more than 80,000,000 acres have been taken up. That is, four-fifths of the Great West remains unappropriated. Making a liberal deduction for lands which are water covered or for any reason unsuited for settlers to go in and raise crops immediately, there remain more than 250,000,000 acres of the best wheat-growing land in the world waiting for the settler. At a rate of yield less than one-half the average of Manitoba for twenty years back, this now uncultivated area would produce one-fifth more than all the wheat grown throughout the whole world each year at present. The average annual wheat crop of the world is about 2,750,000,000 bushels. Of this the United States produces a little less than one-fifth and Minnesota and the Dakotas one-eighteenth of the whole. The annual quota of these great wheat-raising states will appear insignificant by comparison in a very few years when the area under cultivation in Manitoba and the new provinces to be created is immensely larger than at present, and wheat from Western Canada is pouring in vast volume into the world's markets.

Business Possibilities.

Now all this is of interest and importance to the business man, the manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer, as well as to the farmer and intending settler. The vast possibilities of the western country are attracting new settlers by the thousand. According to J. Obed Smith, the energetic and capable Dominion Immigration Commissioner in Winnipeg, 119,000 declared settlers came to Western Canada last year and took up land. This year, the numbers coming promise to be much greater, and the majority are men with some capital to start operations. Plainly the present influx of settlers is only a beginning and the next decade will see a development greater than any in the past.

It must occur to every business man that the growth of the Canadian West means the creation of an immense new market for manufactured goods of all kinds. A new population has everything to buy, and in the West it very soon has money to pay its bills. The West has always money to spend and the average Westerner is lavish in the spending. His contempt for a dollar surprises the frugal Easterner at first, but the surprise soon wears away and the Easterner who settles in the West is soon as prodigal as his neighbor. The West is made up of good customers.

Hence, eastern manufacturers are running their factories overtime to provide for the ever-increasing wants of the West and eastern jobbing houses are busy filling orders. Hence, also, the growth of distributing centres in the West. Manufacturers are yet few in number, but the jobbing houses in the West—their name is legion. Winnipeg is the distributing centre for the West and at present has almost a monopoly. But her supremacy will not always be unchallenged. Fort William, with its Grand Trunk Pacific terminals and its advantageous position on the lakes, aims at being not only a shipping point, but the distributing centre for heavy goods in the West. At present many Winnipeg wholesale firms maintain warehouses in Fort William and ship from that town direct to their customers. West of Winnipeg, Brandon has some claims as a distributing centre. It is to be expected that the two capitals of the new provinces will also be important as points for distribution of manufactured goods.

Winnipeg's Growth.

Some idea of the future of Regina and Edmonton may be gathered from the history of Winnipeg. The new capitals are still comparatively small towns, but there is no reason to doubt their rapid growth as distributing centres. Thirty years ago Winnipeg was a very small village; to-day it is a city of 90,000 to 100,000 inhabitants, and it is only on the threshold of its greatness. The West has room for millions of settlers on its fertile prairies and no one doubts now that they are coming in a few years. To supply their wants, large distributing centres must spring up and not only the towns mentioned, but many others must develop enormously. The business man who stakes his future upon the growth of the West cannot well make a mistake.

BRITISH COLUMBIA FRUIT EXPORTS

BY the kindness of Commissioner R. M. Palmer, of the Freight Rates Branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, The Canadian Grocer is in a position to give fairly accurate totals of the shipments of fresh fruits from the Province of British Columbia during the season of 1904. The figures are largely compiled from the returns of the transportation companies.

For purposes of comparison, the express and freight shipments are separated, and the figures for 1903 are given as well. They are as follows:

	1904. Tons.	Lbs.	1903. Tons.	Lbs.
Express shipments	864	523	676	325
Freight shipments	2,151	..	1,868	..
Total	3,015	523	2,544	325

Increase of 1904 over 1903, 481 tons, 198 lbs.

Asked as to the apportionment of this fruit as to locality from whence it was shipped, Mr. Palmer hazarded the opinion that about two-thirds of it was shipped from the Okanagan district and the remainder from other portions of the province, principally the lower Fraser valley and the part of Vancouver Island close to the City of Victoria.

Fruit Exhibit, Nelson, B.C., Agricultural Fair, 1904.

Included in the shipments were apples, plums, pears, peaches, cherries, strawberries, blackberries and other small fruits. The shipments of peaches were in all about ten tons, the first shipments in any quantity from the Province of British Columbia. All these peaches were grown at Peachland on Okanagan Lake.

Supplies Manitoba and Territories.

The wholesale firms now handling B. C. fruit are pretty well in possession of the field, especially in the Northwest Territories, and year by year the question of supply more nearly approaches a satisfactory solution, so that the time is not far distant when all the northern varieties of fruit consumed in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, especially fruit of the more perishable kinds, will be grown in British Columbia.

Difficult as it is in some ways, and always rather expensive, to gain a foothold and make a commencement in the fruit-growing business in British Columbia, the returns are sufficiently attractive to make it interesting to those whose inclinations lead them to look in that direction for an occupation. And, in many parts of the province it is possible to secure a plot of land with close railway facilities, which shall not cost a small fortune to buy or prepare for production. In this line, the growing of small fruits in the lower mainland and on the portions of Vancouver Island close to the City of Victoria offers a very favorable field, not only because there is a considerable local market in the coast cities, but the service on the main line of the C.P.R. is becoming yearly more favorable for the shipping of small fruits to the rapidly-expanding market of the Canadian Northwest.

Rivals California Packing.

A Tempting Proposition.

For those who seek the drier climate of the Okanagan district, and are in position to pay the higher prices which fruit lands in that favored section command, the field is most tempting. There is absolutely no more ideal climate on the "green footstool" than that of the Okanagan district. The conditions are perfect for the growing of all northern varieties of fruit, and the marketing of the product is becoming an easier proposition each season, better facilities being provided as the trade expands.

Some instances by way of illustration are worth noting. From figures which are capable of being verified, it was ascertained recently that one man at Hatzic, a little place along the C.P.R. main line, 30 miles from Vancouver in the Fraser valley, shipped from his little place of not over eleven acres, a total of $4,000 worth of small fruits in 1904. Taking into account that he had some garden ground, and room for his house and out-buildings, as well probably as some orchard, there were not more than seven acres in all under small fruits from which this total was shipped. Two or at most three Chinamen or other cheap laborers in the short season would represent the principal part of his outlay for production and marketing, and as he lives close to the railway it was a very simple matter to ship all the fruit by express to the Northwest, where a ready market exists. Many similar instances can be cited, and all to show that the lower mainland, and those portions of Vancouver Island in touch with daily transportation service, are most favorably adapted for the industry of small fruit raising.

One instance, perhaps, may be quoted from the Okanagan district, and it is by no means an isolated case. On one ranch in the Summerland district, on Okanagan Lake, from tree fruits the returns in 1904 were between $500 and $600 per acre. Noting that this is for tree fruits, on which there is perhaps a minimum cost for annual production, though the initial cost is greater and the length of time for returns to begin to come in longer, this is a very favorable showing, one, in fact, which it would be hard to improve upon. In the very near future there will be a vastly-increased orchard production in the Okanagan, but the demand for fruits such as are supplied from that district is so great in the Northwest and Manitoba that there is no possible chance of the supply becoming excessive, or, indeed, becoming adequate to the active demands.

Several of the larger fruit growers of British Columbia are looking to Great Britain as a market for their products and, although a regular demand can scarcely be said to have been created as yet, the outlook is promising in view of the exceptionally fine appearance and excellent keeping qualities of British Columbia fruit.

A Market for B.C. Fruit.

In connection with the subject of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories as a market for British Columbia fruit, G. W. Hunt, the manager of the Ottawa Fruit and Produce Exchange of Winnipeg, has made the following interesting statement:

"It was recently reported that the manager of a large fruit ranch in British Columbia had gone to England to arrange for a market for his fruit. This is peculiar, to say the least, when you realize the fact that California, with a handicap of both freight and an excessive duty, is doing as much business in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories as it is. Last year shipments into Manitoba amounted to over 150 cars of fruit, and the consumption of British Columbia fruit would amount to about 10 per cent. of it. There is no question at all about British Columbia fruit being equal to anything that is grown on the continent. Manitoba and the Northwest, moreover, will take all the surplus fruit British Columbia can produce for many years to come, and take it at a paying price. But, in order to do this, the growers must do their part and put up the fruit in the proper shape. Take, for instance, strawberries. When they reach Winnipeg, the boxes very often are not full owing to package and careless packing. To overcome this to a large degree, the Dominion Express Co. are willing to put on a through fruit car from Vancouver to Winnipeg, if growers there will give them sufficient encouragement, by loading, say, 300 to 400 crates of berries daily, or every second day if they cannot load daily.

What British Columbia Can Produce in Strawberries.

Characteristic British Columbia Apple Exhibit.

"It is a known fact that California practically controls the Winnipeg market until the Oregon fruit comes in. Their haul is so much shorter and their rate so much less that they control the market as soon as their fruit ripens. There is no market to-day in the world that presents such bright prospects for the British Columbia growers as Winnipeg and the Northwest Territories. It will take a year or two to establish that market properly, but once it is established, California need have no license to go in there to sell its fruit at any time. The difference in the fruit is so marked in favor of British Columbia that it would be impossible to interfere with the sale there. But, as already stated, it is impossible to pick up that market and use it without the assistance of the growers, and they must be willing to introduce the fruit and probably take less money for it than they could get in other places for the time being, but any money they may spend in this direction would be more than repaid in the course of a year or two."

A TRIP TO THE WEST INDIES

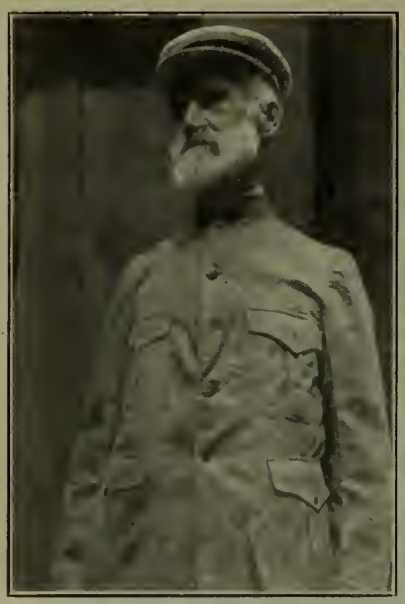
Written specially for THE CANADIAN GROCER by John Cameron, one of the traveling representatives of the MacLean Trade Newspapers, on his return from an extended trip to the West Indies and British Guiana.

EIGHT thousand miles in three months, either on ship, with the Union Jack floating at the mast-head, or on British soil—this is the itinerary of my trip to the West Indies undertaken in January, 1905, and extending into the middle of April. If anyone were to ask me what impression I carried away from Bermuda and the string of islands extending away down to the coast of South America, I would have to say it was that Canada has hardly discovered these tropical regions as yet, and that it will be a red-letter day for Canadian manufacturers and exporters when they come to see the possibilities of closer international trade with the West Indies. That they are slowly getting their eyes open is seen from the Dominion Blue Book, which shows in the last five years an increase in exports to the Islands of $1,698,957. According to Government returns our southern neighbors are also doing their part, their exports to Canada during the same time showing an increase of $2,985,575, mostly in raw sugar. West Indian planters have benefited directly from the imposition of the surtax against Germany, which has practically prohibited the importation of German raw beet sugar into Canada.

Friendly to Canada.

Wherever I went I was struck with the friendly attitude of business men towards Canada. Other things being equal they would rather trade with us than with the United States; in some of the Islands, notably Barbadoes, Jamaica and Trinidad, the merchants went so far as to express a wish to see a confederation of the two countries. The only reason Canada has not already captured a bigger slice of West Indian trade is because Canadian exporters have not gone out and hustled for it. The trade down there complain that our manufacturers are diffident in catering to their wants. On the other hand an American manufacturer sends down his traveling representative and finds out that the trade like a commodity put up in a certain kind of package. He is careful to fill the order exactly, instead of suggesting something else as the Canadian is apt to do. For instance, the West Indian trade prefer flour put up in barrels with round hoops, and the Canadian persists in sending barrels with flat hoops. This is only one of many examples of the ultra-conservatism of Canadians. Yet, in spite of all this, I found the merchants anxious to trade with Canada.

Harbour Street, Kingston, Jamaica



Freight Rates.

Another drawback is the lack of frequent communication and the difficulty of obtaining equitable freight rates. A number of smaller dealers in Trinidad complained that unless they ordered a large cargo of goods they had to pay heavy freight charges. Large dealers were in a position to order on a big scale and obtain a low rate, which meant a saving of fully twenty per cent. thus placing the small dealer at a serious disadvantage. These difficulties will be adjusted as trade with the Islands grows.

A trip to Bermuda via the Pickford & Black steamers is to be heartily recommended to Canadian tourists. The accommodation is all that can be desired and the cuisine equal to that on any of the European liners.

The officials are kind and considerate at all times and never tire of looking after the comfort of their guests. On the down trip we had a rough time of it; for two days the waves rose mountains high, washing away everything movable on deck. In fact, the captain of our boat, the Dahome, remarked that he had never experienced worse weather on the southern passage.

A snap shot at Mr. Cameron as he appeared in Demerara.

The Island of Bermuda.

Bermuda, 780 miles from Halifax, and one of the most picturesque of the West Indies, is comprised of no less than 365 islands joined together by bridges, the whole being about twenty-five miles long and averaging from three to four miles in width. The houses of the inhabitants are mostly built of white stone quarried on the Island of Bermuda proper. The roofs of their stores and dwellings are also painted white. Soft green cedar-clad hills, sloping gently down to the sea, throw into relief and make the loveliest background imaginable for the pretty white villas. The roads throughout the Island are good; no northern blizzards penetrate, and ice and snow are things unknown. The average temperature from November to April is between sixty and seventy, and in Summer the thermometer seldom registers more than ninety in the shade. Wells are few on account of the coral formation, and the water supply for all purposes is rain water, caught in big tanks lined with cement. Practically every house has one of these unique cisterns.

The chief products are arrowroot, onions, potatoes and Easter lilies. I landed in Bermuda in the height of the onion season and had the interesting experience of witnessing an onion harvest. They told me that this year's crop was away below the average on account of blight. Of a total production of 350,000 cases Canada took about 1,000 and the United States between 200,000 and 300,000. The culture of lily bulbs belongs peculiarly to Bermuda, and a very beautiful sight it is to drive through acres and acres of bloom which exhale a fragrance so exquisite that words utterly fail to describe it. Upwards of 7,000,000 bulbs are grown in Bermuda every year.

Shortly after my arrival in the Island I called upon a prominent business man resident in the City of Hamilton. I received a most cordial welcome and, to my great surprise was addressed by name. For some time the tradesman would not satisfy my curiosity. Finally he confided in me that he had been reading a recent issue of The Canadian Grocer in which he had seen my photograph and an editorial note saying I was en route to the West Indies.

An Interesting Experiment.

In the Island of Antigua, 985 miles from Bermuda, an interesting experiment has just been completed, namely, the erection of a new sugar factory to take the place of 12 old-fashioned and out-of-date sugar refineries. The refiners say that with modern machinery the West Indies can produce cane sugar far more cheaply than beet sugar can be produced in Europe. All the by-products are utilized; the whole of the fuel, for instance, being supplied by the cane after it has passed through the machinery and the sugar extracted. In an up-to-date factory the cane is conveyed direct to the furnace and is so dry that it burns readily. In the old-fashioned factories it had to be placed in the sun to dry before being utilized as fuel. A modern factory will extract about 70 per cent. of the sugar as against 50 per cent. under old conditions. Since the removal of the bounties on European beet sugar capitalists have been encouraged to put their money into new and modern sugar factories in the West Indies.

After Antigua the next point of interest is St. Lucia, a charming island, containing 248 square miles, and a harbor which they say is a second Gibralter. Our steamer was unable to land here and those who wished to see the island simply hailed native boats manned by coolies who row passengers ashore and back for the small sum of forty cents a head.

Barbadoes.

Barbadoes, 191 miles from St. Lucia, is a thriving island known principally for the production of molasses and raw sugar. It may surprise Canadians to know that the value of goods imported yearly by the Island of Barbadoes alone is nearly $1,000,000. Canada's share of this, as of the trade of all the other islands, is surprisingly small, the bulk of it being in the hands of Great Britain and the United States.

Trinidad.

Trinidad is one of the most important of the West Indies as far as trade is concerned. Its exports and imports last year totalled $11,073,326 and $12,295,390 respectively, the former being principally cocoa, raw sugar, asphalt and cocoanuts, and the latter flour, raw cocoa, hardware, rice, timber, leather and fish.

I arrived at Port-of-Spain, the capital of Trinidad, in the height of the carnival, an annual holiday season lasting for two days. During this time business operations are entirely suspended, the streets are thronged with revellers dressed in the most fantastic costumes, and everything and everybody is given over to fun-making. Bands play from morning till night and the people dance and frolic like mad. I thought to myself, if they could only have heard the melodious sound of the bag-pipes it would have put the finishing touches on their carnival. I attended one of the masked balls in which colored people and coolies mostly participate. Again and again in the course of the evening one or other of the dusky beauties would step up to me and try to persuade me to dance. The Highland Fling was a thing unknown to them all, however, which was, perhaps, the only reason why I succeeded in resisting temptation.

Never shall I forget my experience in landing from the steamer, amid a scrambling of Portuguese, natives and Indians, all eager to give me a hand with my luggage. A pleasant ride on the electric cars brought me to a pleasant hotel, and I was soon tucked into a comfortable bed beneath a huge canopy of musquito netting, carefully adjusted by some kind soul who did not wish to see me eaten alive. In regard to hotel accommodation I may say that I found it very good throughout the Islands and generally reasonable in price.

well laid out to the sweep of the sea breezes; tropical plants, some of startling brilliancy and strange shapes, are in abundance everywhere. One of Georgetown's distinct charms is its trees; they are endless in number; they surround the houses; they grace the squares, they line the streets in rows and rows, so that the town looks as if it were built in a forest. Another attraction is the canals which run through many of the streets. I was much struck to notice a water lily floating on one of these canals with leaves so large and strong that it is a current saying that a baby can be set

They return to their homes about 10 o'clock for breakfast, again at 1 o'clock for luncheon, and shut up shop at 5 in the afternoon.

British Guiana.

British Guiana is said to be one of the richest of the West Indian colonies, and bears more of the character of an old plantation than any of the others. The great sugar estates are mainly owned by London capitalists and the trade is mostly with Great Britain. For 1904 the exports were $8,500,000 and the imports $7,000,000. Molasses and raw sugar constitute fully one-quarter of the total exports.

Georgetown, Demerara, is truly a tropical city; its streets are broad and upon one without fear of breaking the leaf.

There are several markets in Georgetown, the largest being the Starock, standing in the busiest part of Water street. There, among people of all nationalities, one can wonder and admire not only the native products, but many of the native industries. The fruit stalls are always attractive, stocked as they are with great bunches of crimson bananas, yellow oranges, pineapples, guavas, sapodillas, etc.

On account of the excessive heat of the sun it is impossible for them to make much of a feature of their window displays. True they nearly always have something on show in their store fronts, but they pay very little attention to window dressing as an art.

I met business men of all nationalities; for instance, one of the most enterprising merchants I ran across in Georgetown was a Chinaman. A fair share of the grocers and fruit men are negroes—and nice places they have, too—almost without exception. The finest departmental store in Georgetown, Smith Bros. (Scotch), covers a whole block. Most of the dry goods merchants deal in England. Rylands' do a large trade all through the Islands. When canvassing the dry goods houses I would turn over the leaves of The Dry Goods Review and point out Rynalds' advertisement. They seemed pleased to know that Canadian merchants were also regular patrons of this prominent English firm. While in the Islands I met several representatives of Old Country dry goods houses. What delighted me most of all, however, was to run into one of Archie Campbell's travelers from Toronto.

Unfortunately very few of our manufacturers send their representatives to the West Indies regularly to drum up trade. It is a wonder, too, when you consider how favorable sentiment is towards Canada, that they are not paying closer attention to this market. One Canadian firm that is working up a nice trade in the Islands is the Irving Umbrella Co., of Montreal. This is an exception, however, and not the rule. The greater percentage of the trade who do not deal in England patronize the New York market exclusively and, I think, the time has come for manufacturers in Canada to make a united effort to change this condition of affairs if they wish to win a position of supremacy in the West Indian market, which even the trade there are willing to offer and, in fact, are offering at the present time.

A PIONEER IN CANADIAN TRADE.

THE firm of Musson Wainwright & Co., importers and dealers in wines and malt liquors, oilmen's stores and Canadian products, Hamilton, Bermuda, dates its existence from 1881, when Mr. Wainwright, senior partner of the company, first established himself in business in the Island of Bermuda, after having been associated with a large business house in Berbice, British Guiana, for over eighteen years. Nearly a quarter of a century of subsequent perseverance and patient endeavor have been rewarded in the building up of a large and successful business, of which the firm are justly proud. Besides their wine and liquor business, Musson Wainwright & Co. enjoy the distinction of being one of the largest importers of Canadian products in the West Indies; in fact Mr. Wainwright considers himself the father of Canadian trade in Bermuda.

In their produce department Musson Wainwright & Co. make a special feature of Manitoba and Ontario flour, oats, bran, hay, Canadian creamery butter and cheese, smoked meats and canned goods. During 1904 the volume of Canadian produce handled by them was as follows: 1,500 bbls. Ontario and Manitoba flour; 3,100 bags bran; 18,500 bush. oats; 11,600 lbs. creamery butter; 26,700 lbs. cheese; 15,100 lbs. smoked hams; and 500 lbs. smoked bacon. Their supplies of butter and cheese are drawn principally from Halifax, Montreal and Toronto.

Their warehouse, situated at 62 and 63 Front street, Hamilton, Bermuda, is a credit to the business section of the city, and one of the most commodious and attractive in the West Indies. At the present time Musson Wainwright & Co. are anxious to open correspondence with a Canadian creamery, with a view to establishing a direct agency in Bermuda.

THE WESTERN CANADA MARKET

ACCORDING to C.P.R. officials, an average of 1,000 immigrants per day have arrived in Winnipeg since the opening of the present season. The majority of these came from the British Isles and had sufficient money in pocket to take up land for themselves at once in some part of the boundless West. Figures as to the influx by other routes are not available at the moment, but the numbers are as large and perhaps larger, for there is a steady movement of population to Canada from the United States. The American wheat fields are all appropriated now, and, moreover, are not so productive; hence the movement towards Canada of shrewd American farmers and farmers' sons. The Seattle Daily News describes the condition of the American farmer. It says he is probably farming 100 acres of land in Minnesota, which yields him from 16 to 20 bushels of wheat to the acre. The land is becoming poor from exhaustion, but he can sell it readily at $40 an acre. He investigates and finds that in Northern Manitoba or the Territories he can get a homestead of Government land for nothing, or with the price of his hundred acres he can buy 400 acres of better land, equally close to school, church, and railway, and capable of producing 20 to 30 bushels to the acre.

In view of such conditions it is not surprising that during the four years ending December 31, 1904, the immigration to Canada from the United States is given as 153,092 people. Nor is it surprising that during that same period 132,131 people came to Canada as immigrants from Great Britain. The movement is gathering strength and impetus as a rolling snowball gathers snow on its course down a steep hillside. The immigration from Great Britain and the United States during this year, 1905, promises to be much greater than in any previous years. And the movement is only commencing. In another decade the population of Canada west of the Great Lakes may be as large as the present population of the Eastern provinces.

Now what is the significance of this state of affairs to the Canadian manufacturer of specialties and proprietary goods which are sold in the grocery store? What is the significance of this movement of population to the British and American manufacturers of these goods?

An Immense Market.

Obviously, the Canadian West with its rapidly-growing population offers an immense market to the manufacturers who succeed in capturing its trade. It is a large market now—a market with a tremendous buying power, and the manufacturers and wholesale merchants who obtain a sure foothold now should be able to retain a predominant position in the Western Canadian market ten years hence, when its buying capacity is much greater than it is at present.

The class of people coming to the Northwest is a consideration of importance to the manufacturer who is studying the possibilities of this market. The Englishman who comes to Western Canada and takes up land may change in very many respects, but he is still an Englishman, with an Englishman's attachment to the class of goods to which he was accustomed "at home." He will buy those goods if he can obtain them in Canada, and, moreover, as in a year or two his buying capacity will be much greater than it was in England, he is prepared to buy much more liberally than he ever did before. The same statement applies with equal force to the American settler. He will naturally seek the class of goods which he has been accustomed to buy. Hence it is that in the race for trade in the newer part of Canada the American and British manufacturers possess over all other competitors in that they already have a buying public acquainted with their goods and favorably disposed towards them.

The English manufacturer of certain brands of sauces and condiments of various kinds already has in Western Canada a large constituency of possible customers who know the merits of these goods and will buy them if they are given an opportunity. The American manufacturer of many well-known brands of goods which are sold extensively in the United States has a similar buying constituency of his own made secure by an intelligent, well-posed towards his goods.

Opportunity.

Opportunity is knocking at the door of the British and American manufacturers. Some are taking the best advantage of the opportunity afforded them not to gain, but to maintain, a foothold among the buying public of the Canadian West. That position may be made secure by an intelligent well-directed effort.

The Only Way.

The Canadian market can be secured and held for these manufacturers only through competent representatives on the ground who are well acquainted with trade conditions here. The first thing necessary is to secure competent agents in Canada, and this may seem a difficult matter for an English manufacturer many thousand miles distant from the Canadian West. But the possibilities are so great and the market so important that a British manufacturer would be well repaid if he were to visit Canada himself and inquire into conditions here. The Canadian Grocer has offices in the important trade centres, and it has a wide connection among manufacturers' agents. Hence it is often able to put visiting merchants in touch with reliable agents with established connections, who are quite competent to handle additional agencies. Visiting merchants and manufacturers would do well to consult with The Canadian Grocer at any of its offices, for it is quite probable that there is listed in those offices the name of some agent who would be prepared to represent them. A personal visit is always advisable, as it brings the merchant in personal touch with his agents and the market which he desires to serve, but The Grocer is often able to suggest agents to a manufacturer who can arrange his representation by correspondence. The service which this paper renders is absolutely free of charge.

There is opportunity for British and American manufacturers very greatly to extend their connections and trade in Western Canada. It rests with themselves to grasp the opportunity.

DEPARTMENT OF ADVERTISING SUGGESTION AND CRITICISM

Edited by Our Ad. Expert, TORONTO.

NOTE—Herein are discussed the principles and practice of advertising. Subscribers are invited to send our Expert specimens of their newspaper and other advertising, for the purpose of review in this department. Address care of Department of Advertising, THE CANADIAN GROCER.

BRANDED GOODS

BRANDED goods are capturing the trade. "Capturing," mark you, is the word used—a word which suggests warfare—with victory now on one side, now on the other. This warfare is waged between manufacturers and jobbers, jobbers and retailers, retailers and consumers. At times all four classes are mixed up in one grand strife. In the never-ending struggle for the nimble sixpence, all classes engaged in the marketing of merchandise are animated by the thought of their individual profits, and any tax imposed by one class on the other is resented, and any attempt to collect is met with refusal to pay; or if payment is made it is under compulsion.

Theoretically men are democrats : one man is as good as another; no man has more rights than another; coercive methods are resented. In matters of commerce the democrat is instinctively a free trader. He becomes a tax-levier, a protectionist, only when he acquires mastery over a portion of his fellows. And so out of one class grows the other, and the ranks of the tax-leviers are being unceasingly recruited from those who hate taxation with a bitter hatred,—truly a remarkable process. It is the animal in man that makes him forsake democracy; that makes a freetrader become a protectionist, a tax-levier. It is an animal tendency to exercise dominion, to assume leadership. Equality of strength, of mind, of genius, of courage, does not exist in any given number of men or beasts. It is only among the weak that the belief in equality is fondly cherished.

The acquirement of strength is always accompanied with ambition—ambition for lordship. This truth is exemplified strikingly in the world of commerce. Take breakfast foods, by way of illustration. Time was, not very long ago, when oatmeal and wheatmeal in their various forms were unbranded and indistinguishable one from another. No one miller's product could command a higher price than another's. By and by a miller, who believed that his output was superior and consequently worth a premium, levied the tax. His action was resented, for profits were interfered with. His customers bought elsewhere, —a poorer grade, but at a lower price. It looked bad for the bold miller. But the court of last resort—the consumer—came to his rescue, and by complaints and demands the retailer found himself compelled to supply the better meal, and the bold miller's tax imposition was vindicated and paid. Self-protection led this miller in the course of time to brand or trade mark his product, and eventually to put it in a package so that there could be no substitution.

This same history has been enacted in uncounted instances, in every department of trade, and the evolution of the bulk or brandless article into a trade-marked and distinguishable one is going on to-day with a rapidity greater than in any former period of time.

Some lines, through merit, age and advertising, have an unquestioned place in every grocer's store. Others, perhaps equally meritorious, but newer and less known, are fighting for their existence. Some survive; some grow weary and cease the struggle, while others are slain outright. But new competitors are constantly appearing to dispute the ground with their formidable rivals. There is no hope of success apart from advertising, though there are some manufacturers who shut their eyes to this fact, and hope, without reason, to expel the firmly lodged occupants of the field.

All this has its bearing on the retail trade. The retailer naturally prefers to sell bulk goods because his profits are thereby greater; but the drift is steadily and surely in the direction of the branded article. Recently there was offered to the grocery trade rice in packages, but the packers found so little encouragement that they have withdrawn from the Canadian market. It would be the same if another line, now sold in bulk, were offered in package form — sugar, say, or Valencia raisins.

Many lines that are to be had in packages—spices are an illustration—have a very indifferent sale, just because they have not been popularized. The public ask for Oxford Blue, Keen's Mustard, or Royal Yeast without a thought of the makers or the brand. So successfully have the proprietors of these lines marketed them that the public cannot think of the name of the article by itself, but associate with it a descriptive word without intention. Indeed it is possible to conceive of substitutions being made without offense or danger. Take the word "Kodak." That is a proprietary name, applicable to only one make of cameras. Yet it has become in common speech the equivalent of the term hand-camera, and fails to suggest a particular company's product. Yet it may be said the success that has attended other makers of cameras is due very largely in the first instance to the impulse of the Kodak advertising.

The retailer resists, naturally and wisely, the coercion of advertising, but there comes a time when to surrender is the command of prudence. When the various competitors for his and the public favor are engaged in a conflict of uncertain issue, he can safely withhold his support from any or all of them; but when from amid the smoke of battle there emerges a sure conqueror, it is time for the retailer, for his pocket's sake, to cry, "All hail !" and to stock the winning brand.

A STORY OF SUCCESS.

STORIES of success are always interesting, and so all progressive grocers will read the following experience with enjoyment. When I received, some weeks ago, Mr. Partington's first letter and samples of his store paper, I felt that my readers would like to know more about this unusual form of advertising, and accordingly I wrote for more particulars. The reply is an interesting document.

Sending by this mail a few copies of our advertising medium, the "K. C. Guide." We print and edit it ourselves, and distribute it to every house. We have a plant where we do the work. What is your opinion of this way of advertising ? It is issued weekly. You are at liberty to use any of the contents.

The King Cash Stores,
O. Partington.

Rat Portage, Ont., March 6, 1905.

I am reproducing a group of copies of "The King Cash Guide." This store paper has a page 6x9¼, and is printed on a primrose stock. The feature that makes it specially interesting is its comments on local matters—fresh, original, well written. It is not to be wondered at that every issue is looked for eagerly, and that an oversight in delivery is promptly brought to the notice of the publishers. A store paper of such interest and attractiveness surely gets in its work as an advertising medium in very thorough fashion.

Letter II.

Good Adv. Department
Canadian Grocer :

Replying to yours of 18th instant, would say that the "King Cash Guide," upon which you comment so favorably, was conceived after a long course of advertising in the local papers. It has now been in existence for over two years, and has yet to meet its equal as a store advertiser.

Our town has a population of about 5,000. It is the centre of the lumber industry for the Lake of the Woods District, while the neighboring town of Keewatin is the home of the celebrated "Five Roses" flour.

For many years we tried advertising in the local papers, but for many reasons we had to conclude that such advertising was not bringing the returns that are justified by the cost of such advertising. In the first place, speaking now from the standpoint of an inhabitant of a small town situated as we are in touch with the large commercial news centres of Canada, a person buys a newspaper solely for the "news," and not for the advertisements, so that a paper whose methods of placing the news before the public are attractive is a good advertising medium, and it is upon this point that small local papers fall down. Generally they are advertising sheets only, of which the local advertisers bear the brunt of the cost, and in which local ads are sandwiched in with "plate" patent medicine ads. to such an extent that the local advertisers get but a small proportion of the available space, while the news (?) is confined to the "scissors and paste" variety that has generally reached us some days before by the newspapers from Toronto or Winnipeg.

Our first year's experience of advertising in local papers cost us $660 for space alone, besides which we found it necessary to issue additional dodgers on special occasions, perhaps two or three times per month. Besides this our ordinary printing had to be accounted for. Altogether the cost was about $750 per year, and we could not see any results that were traceable to, or proportionate to, this expenditure.

We have invested in our printing plant $400; one member of the firm is a practical printer, and the cost of all our advertising and additional printing now figures as follows : Wages, $30; interest on plant, $2.66; wear and tear of plant, (10 per cent.) $3.33; rent print shop, $5; expense delivery, $4—total, $44.99. In figuring wages it is the time of the member engaged who does the printing; from which you will see that it means a saving of about $210 per year, whilst our experience has been that the "Guide" is eagerly looked for, and if not delivered promptly to our citizens we get inquiries as to the reason why ? In the editorials we touch only subjects that are going the rounds locally, and find that it creates a great interest in the paper and, naturally, in the stores; which, after all, is the main object of advertising. We send it to all the adjacent villages. We have tried all kinds of means. The mimeograph gave us the first idea of doing our own printing, but we found it too tedious for the number that we found it necessary to print. We, therefore, find it economical, at least in our town, but have no means of comparing cost of newspaper ad. space in other towns. We find the manufacturers and agents of lines that we handle very willing to help us with

Martin's Store

of my boot and shoe stock. I pride myself that I handle as good and as durable a line of boots as you can find anywhere—men's, women's, children s. I've weeded out every line with a weak point until I can almost guarantee every boot in the house. And what's better, I'm pleasing my patrons—selling more boots all the time. There are two reasons: Good article; reasonable price. Always aim to go competitors just a little bit better, and if a shoe "busts up" all out of reason I replace it. Try always to do what's right with customers.

Same with Shaker Flannels. Same with Prints. Same also with Hosiery. Same again with Underwear. Always trying to be on top. Don't always manage it, of course, otherwise the Poor House would be filled with bankrupt merchants. Martin would be doing it all.

When you have Produce that you want to trade out hitch up and slip over to Myrtle Station and give me a trial or two. Judge by results. They count. Give me a fair chance. I'll give you good prices for butter, eggs, poultry, and you'll get the best quality I can give in everything, same as if you paid cold cash. I cater to the C.P.R. dining cars and sell tons of produce besides to C.P.R. employes. This enables me to give top prices. Last season I handled over two thousand chickens—nearly twice as many as the year before. They were all brought to the store. Next season there will be still more brought here. Reason: Martin gives good, decent prices for good stuff. Don't believe me. I'm prejudiced. Try me. Bring me a bunch of chickens weighing 1½ or 2 lbs. apiece in June, July, August, and get your little forty or forty-five cents a pair for 'em. Then you'll believe in Martin. And remember this :

I Sell only for Cash and I've only one price for all alike—big customers and little ones. I make all prices as low as I can and tell the truth. I give money back if anything I sell is unsatisfactory.

I sell everything and won't "sell" you. Meet me face to face.

MARTIN, - Myrtle Station

cuts, etc., of their goods, and think that others situated, as you say, remotely from printing centres, would find the idea work out to their advantage.

The town circulation of our local paper is only about 300, whereas we publish about 800 of the "Guide," which is delivered to every house.

The press we use is a 11x9 No. 2 Gordon, by Chandler & Price, of Cleveland, and we use it for all our printing. This letterhead is a sample of our work.

As to the efficacy of this form of advertising, we might say that a Swedish man who arrived in our town about a year ago, and who has since learned to speak very good English, said a few days ago that he had learned all his English from a Grammer and the "King Cash Guide." We are proud of it, and would not be without it. We were hardly ever able to trace results from our newspaper advertising, whilst results are easily traceable to the "Guide."

Yours truly,
King Cash.

A Merchant's Message.

I TRUST I am not unkind to W. L. Martin, of Myrtle Station, Ont., in presenting his work so prominently in this department. I must blame Mr. Martin himself for leading me into temptation. His correspondence shows him to be a good counsellor, and so I am taking liberties with a recent letter I received from him. Mr. Martin has a facility of speech, combined with broad experience, that makes what he writes good reading.

"A writer may be quite master of his subject and yet may not be able to present it advantageously for want of sympathy with his audience."

"I clip these words from your article on 'the ad-writer' in Grocer, Feb. 3. You've hit the nail with a sledge-hammer. Unless you're in sympathy with your audience they won't be in sympathy with you. Another thing. Unless they feel that you're 'sincere' they won't be in sympathy with you. If they've no faith that you'll back up your newspaper professions with good, square business in the store, you're talking to empty benches.

"Now, there are different kinds of audiences. Out here in the country I have one kind, and in Toronto you've another. Yours is the kind that sees something to its fancy, rushes in, orders it, planks down its money, and is gone, perhaps forever. Not even 'good-morning.' Mine is the kind that likes you to be sociable in the store. You get to know every customer more or less.

"It is time, as you say, that one's ads. should represent one's goods, not one's self—as a general rule. Have known of exceptions. They are far between. Tom Murray, of Chicago, is one. R. J. Devlin, the fur man, of Ottawa, is another. They can afford to be humorous. They were born with it in them, and it comes out naturally—in the store, and sometimes—only sometimes—in their advertisements. But they are real humorists. They never overdo it. I question if any advertiser in Canada gets as large a proportion of results from his ads. as R. J. Devlin. Five inches single column is his limit. But everybody reads what Devlin has to say. His ads. are so well known to Ottawans as Eaton's are to Torontonians—and better, because he only advertises one thing at once, and as a man is better liked. These are two men who dare to let their ads. represent themselves occasionally. In one way their ads. are representative of themselves, always. They are chuck full of business, always to the point, and their stores are the same. Devlin's and Murray's ads., however, are rather 'witty' than 'humorous.' Not one in ten thousand could dare to be funny in his ads. He'd make an ass of himself. That's the vernacular of it. Wit is a thing never to be despised anywhere. An ad. to amount to anything, to stand out in relief from commonplace among pages of generalities, has just got to have some wit about it. An ad., either short or long, little or big, with a bit of dash and fire and wit about it leaves an impression on the mind. It does on mine. I believe it does on others.

"Tell you the way I look at it. In a general way all the world loves a leader. Same in business as in other things. They like to be on the winning side—the side that's putting up a good fight. 'Laugh and the world laughs with you.' It's good business. Keep up a good front. Keep it up in your windows, in your ads., in yourself. It breeds confidence. Confidence breeds business. When the butter begins to run you shove it into the refrigerator. When business begins to run and looks flabby, try it on yourself. Get into the refrigerator. stiffen up your backbone, freshen yourself up. Come out and grab hold of the duster and the broom. Give things a stir up. Give everybody a job. Throw off your coat. Snap your fingers a bit. It gives crispness to things. Dive under the counter and haul things out. Let the hands see you mean business. Have the window pulled out and freshened. Change things around. Push forward that underwear and stick some clean price tickets on it. Then sit down while your blood's circulating and write your ad. Don't be afraid of it. Give vent to your feelings. Talk the same sort of talk as you would to a customer across the counter. Use the same sort of language. He'll recognize the hand and say, 'That's Jones all over; that man's a terror for business; he must be doing well; he wouldn't be so chirpy if he wasn't.' If that ad. doesn't bring many sales it has done some good. It's left another impression that you're doing well, and people like to deal with that sort of a man. They know that to be a square dealer, and at the same time successful, you must be a 'live' man. A man may be a bit sleepily inclined himself, and he may have been born with a long face, yet he likes to deal with somebody who's wide awake with a cheery manner. It cheers him up. I've customers who'd never smile again if they were with the smileless kind. Yet a cheery word or two works wonders, and a bit of gentle badinage will even provoke a spark of wit or repartee.

"I've one old couple who are sad, sad. They've pretty good reason to be. Old age upon them and none too much of this world's goods. He has the palsy very badly. I always try to put myself forward to serve them. Help them out of the buggy and help them back again. They've always a sad story to tell. I try and cheer them up, and generally send them away laughing and jolly. They like Martin. It has come back to me. That's one kind of advertising.

"I'm sending you two or three more samples of my ads. I don't want you to use 'em, but you may if you wish. I've tried writing my ads. in two ways, first person and second person. I find the first person style does most business. The style—off-handed, free, chatty—seems to take with my sort of customers. The other evening a rival merchant was reading one of these ads. aloud in his store for the amusement of the 'evening callers' who frequent country stores. That's another kind of advertising. Isn't it?

"By the way, I've adopted the phrase, 'I sell everything, and won't sell you,' as a sort of catch phrase. Going to use it on everything in future. What do you think of it for a general store?

"Yours very truly,

THE FISHERIES OF CANADA

THE fisheries of Canada are among the most valuable of its natural resources and extend over an area which in all probability is not equalled by any country in the world. The eastern seacoast of the Maritime Provinces from the Bay of Fundy to the Straits of Belle Isle covers a distance of 5,000 miles, while the western seacoast of British Columbia is reckoned at 7,180 miles, more than double that of Great Britain and Ireland. The total value of fish caught and fish products prepared in Canada during the year 1903 aggregated $23,101,878. With one exception, in 1901, when the phenomenal catch of salmon in British Columbia swelled the total value beyond $25.000,000, this is the largest aggregate on record. It exceeds the amount of the previous year by over $1,000,000, and has been achieved without abnormal yields in any of the provinces, but rather a general increase in all parts of the Dominion.

Yield of the Fisheries in 1903.

The following are the latest fisheries statistics obtainable:

Cod, $3,778,430; haddock, $586,806; hake, $260,828; pollock, $250,592; halibut, $631,563; salmon, $3,521,158; trout, $728,153; whitefish, $883,832; smelts, $480,804; herring, $1,998,950; sardines, $509,021; pike, $202,913; pickerel, $577,283; mackerel, $1,644,319; sturgeon, $199,286; lobsters, $3,625,382; oysters, $178,785; clams, $175,026; coarse and mixed, $609,958; bait, 448,182; other fish, $1,211,407. Total fish, $23,101,878.

To this total Nova Scotia contributed $7,841,602, British Columbia $4,748,365, New Brunswick $4,186,800, Quebec, $2,211,792, Ontario $1,535,144, Manitoba and Northwest Territories $1,478,665, Prince Edward Island $1,099,510; an increase over last year in every province except British Columbia, where the fluctuation of the salmon industry caused a shortage of over half a million dollars as compared with the previous season's yield. The most important increase is noticed in Nova Scotia, nearly half a million dollars, which is mostly ascribed to large takes of mackerel. New Brunswick also shows an increased yield of over a quarter of a million dollars. The inland waters of the Western Territories and Manitoba show no sign of depletion, no less than 11,293,000 lbs. of whitefish being reported from the large lakes of the West. Salmon, which held the first place on the commercial list for the whole Dominion in 1902, has fallen to third rank, being slightly superseded by cod and lobsters. While the shortage in the salmon pack of British Columbia has caused a deficit of over $800,000, the lobster industry of the east, both preserved and shipping alive, shows a surplus value of nearly half a million dollars over the preceding yield. The most important fluctuation is in mackerel, which more than doubled the yield of the previous year. There is in addition an increase of over a quarter of a million in herring, not including the $100,000 surplus in the sardine industry.

The lobster canning plants of Canada in 1903 were valued at $1,378,197, comprising all the equipment of the 714 canneries dispersed on the seacoast of the Maritime Provinces. Nova Scotia had 242 such canning establishments, New Brunswick 199, Prince Edward Island 190, and Quebec only 83. Over 14,000 persons found employment in this lobster-packing industry which placed on the market over ten millions and a half 1-lb. cans besides a larger quantity of this crustacean disposed of alive or in a fresh state, both aggregating the handsome value of $3,625,000. The The salmon industry of British Columbia during 1903 consisted of seventy-five canneries valued at $1,312,500, gave employment to over 17,000 persons, and placed on the market nearly 23,000,000 cans of salmon, exclusive of the 10,000,000 lbs., otherwise disposed of fresh, salted or smoked. The whole catch of this valuable fish aggregated nearly $3,000,000.

Export and Import Trade.

The commercial history of the Canadian fisheries has been one of steady development. During the last fifteen years the value of fish exported to foreign countries has increased over $2,000,000, aggregating for the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1904, $10,275,603. Canada's largest export markets are undoubtedly Great Britain and the United States, although Canadian exporters have for years had a practical monopoly of the West Indies and British Guiana. Among other countries in which Canadian fish products are well and favorably known are Brazil, Germany, Hayti, Italy, Portugal, U.S. of Colombia, St. Pierre, Australasia, France and Norway and Sweden. The newest market is Japan, where owing to the present war there has been a very large market for canned salmon. The cheaper kinds of salmon have been forwarded from points on the Pacific coast to Japan in enormous quantities, during the past two years, and although this abnormal demand can hardly be expected to keep up, yet there can be little doubt but that Canada may work up a profitable permanent fish trade with Japan if our exporters will only take pains to study the requirements of the Japanese market.

Canada's yearly importations of fish show an increase of $471,584 in the last five years, reaching in 1904 the total of $1,433,562. During the last five years the increase has been comparatively small, going to show that the home consumptive demand is being supplied more and more by the domestic fisheries.

One of the outstanding features of the fisheries of the Dominion within the last decade has been the experiment of fishing and packing herring according to Scottish methods, successfully tried in 1904. The result has been to prove that the schools of herring in our Atlantic waters, if properly handled, cleaned, cured and barrelled, are equal, if not superior, to the Norwegian, Scotch and Dutch herring which have such high repute in the markets of the world. Within the past few months shipments of considerable size have been made to New York as well as to European markets, and are reported to be of the very finest quality, much superior to the hitherto put up and shipped by Canadian herring curers. There is practically an unlimited demand for pickled herring of the standard of the best European cured fish. The United States cannot obtain more than a fraction of these herring which are required, while Russia, Germany, and many European countries, not to mention the colonies, Australia, New Zealand, the Straits Settlements, etc., besides our own increasing Canadian needs, all afford a field for the development of a most desirable and remunerative trade. From Stettin, Dantzic, Konigsberg, and other continental centres, inquiries have already come, and if, in the ensuing season, a more extended experiment can be carried out with anything like adequate success, our fishing population will have a stimulus to equal or rival the Scottish curers, which has hitherto been apparently wanting.

Cold Storage Scheme.

Up to the end of 1904 the total number of fishermen's bait freezers carried on under the Government cold storage scheme was twenty-nine with two new ones actually under construction and proposals for three or four more under consideration. It is not to be expected that the full advantages offered by local bait freezers will be seen until the scheme has been in operation for years, but already in many localities the fishing population regard the facilities afforded for the storage of bait in the Government aided cold storage establishments as of vital importance. The needs of the great deep sea fishing fleets cannot be adequately met by these small freezers. Hence the building of a freezer of large capacity at Canso, N.S., one of the principal centres resorted to by the "bankers" and vessels of the great fishing fleets. This large freezer was ready for occupation early in 1905, and if it realizes anticipations, it will probably be the precursor of a series of large bait cold storage institutions at important centres in the Maritime Provinces.

Dog-Fish Reduction Works.

Another feature of the Maritime fisheries during 1904 was the erection of large reduction works at Canso, N. S., where valuable products can be manufactured from fish waste and dog-fish, which at the present time are considered a detriment to the cod and other fisheries on the Atlantic coast. Two other plants have been obtained by the Government, and reduction works will be erected this year at points north of Canso and in Western Nova Scotia. The use of dog-fish as food has long been recognized in Norway, the Channel Islands, the Hebrides, etc., where they find a ready market. Recently, three or four enterprising lobster packers in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island have successfully put up canned dog-fish, which in that prescrved form are pronounced "superior to salmon."

A NEW WHALING ENTERPRISE.

THERE is in course of construction on Sechart Channel, Barclay Sound, Vancouver Island, a factory which, when completed, will be the only one of its kind in operation in America. The plant will be used for making commercial products from the carcasses of whales which are to be caught in the sound near by. Every portion of the whale will be utilized. First the oil will be taken from the big fish; then fertilizer will be made from the meat and the coarser bone substances, and finally the best part of the bone will be shipped to England as whalebone, where it brings £2,757 sterling per ton, or nearly $14,000. The oil, too, is a very valuable product, being used very extensively in various manufactures, where it is almost indispensable for softening jute and in tanning. The meat and bone when ground up make a very fine fertilizer, and finds a ready market. The plant will be owned by Captain S. Balcom, who has his headquarters and residence in Victoria. He will employ one steamer to take the whales, the Norwegian boat Orion. No long cruises will be necessary, as one can stand on the wharf at the factory in Sechart Channel and see the whales spouting at almost any time of the year. Every cruise of the boat lasts until four whales have been killed. Two of these are towed alongside, two behind, and the trip is made back to the factory, where the whale is put through a process that leaves little of him except the spout.

INQUIRIES FROM JAPAN.

INQUIRIES have been received by the Canadian Commercial Agent in Yokohama, Japan, from Japanese merchants desirous of importing dried fish manure. Judging from the great quantity of fertilizer which Japan requires for agricultural purposes, Canadian manufacturers of fish-manure may find a lucrative trade in the export of that article. Apart from a large amount of fish-manure, principally the product of the sardine and herring fisheries, that is made in Japan, she is importing a large quantity of the various fertilizers from foreign countries. And as the demand is steadily increasing with the improvement in agriculture and the increase of cultivated land, it is advisable that Canadians should direct their attention to this trade. All fertilizers are free from the import duty. Intending exporters are referred to the following Japanese firms: Nosawa & Co., 24 Water street Yokohama; M. Furuya & Co., 5 Motohamacho Itchome, Yokohama.

Window and Interior Displays

Timely Hints and Suggestions

THIS WEEK'S ILLUSTRATION.

READERS of The Grocer will be glad to learn that the trade throughout Canada and the British Empire are showing increasing interest in the department of window display and interior decoration, which has long been a regular feature of the MacLean trade newspapers. Only a few weeks ago C. H. Thrupp & Co., provision and general merchants, of Johannesburg, South Africa, favored The Grocer with a photograph of their store front, which is easily one of the finest in the far-off republic.

It is evidently a holiday display, and is characteristically British in appearance. One misses the less conventional, if more artistic, style of window dressing in vogue in Canada and the United States. At the same time he cannot help being agreeably impressed by the massed effect of toys, bonbons, etc. In this instance the holiday idea has been worked out very successfully, and one can readily understand how effective it might prove in bringing about the desired end, namely, a free and ready exchange of children's pin money.

The English method of window dressing cannot be recommended to the average retailer for the reason that the utmost care has to be taken in filling a window not to overdo it, and thus spoil what might otherwise have a good impression on the passer-by.

The illustration shows what may be accomplished for a grocery interior in the way of elegant appointments. The striking features are the polished hardwood counters with glass facing and rich display shelves. It goes without saying that the most exacting of housewives will heave a sigh of satisfaction directly she steps inside such a spacious and luxurious store. Nothing remains for her to do but to swear allegiance to its proprietor in less time than it takes to tell the tale. Not only this, but she must bring along her "set," that they too may have the opportunity of patronizing the "finest grocery in town."

In larger towns and cities of Canada there has been a veritable transformation in the better class of grocery store during the last fifteen years. The time was when appearances counted for nothing, and the sole ambition of the grocer was to turn over his stock into second hands with the least possible delay. Canned goods, cereals, tobacco, tea, fish and provisions were literally thrown together on the shelves, under the counters, or in the storerooms at the rear of the store. Owing to the keenness of competition, it became imperative that the grocer should look about him for ways and means of holding old customers and attracting new ones. In other words, besides stocking "good goods" he had to go his fellow tradesman one better in making his store a place of beauty.

Then followed the silent salesman, than which, perhaps, nothing has done more to make a store interior and display of grocery staples attractive. In the accompanying illustration it is hardly necessary to more than refer to the effectiveness of the confectionery display.

The primitive boxes and barrels which formerly served as receptacles for granulated sugar, flour, etc., and were a constant source of annoyance on account of their awkwardness and monumental ugliness, have given place to labelled bins of assorted sizes that fit into the wall so neatly as to seem an indispensable part of the interior fittings. Even the bright vari-colored canister and caddy, formerly with their touch of oriental color, are slowly disappearing.

Whose name is guarantee of quality.

Instead of pine shelves, on which tin cans, glass jars and pasteboard packages were heaped indiscriminately, we have handsome polished hardwood shelves divided off into compartments, and tastefully arranged with package goods.

From the cash drawer, with its proverbial gong, has evolved that convenient time-saving contrivance, the cash register, and hardly second in interest is the new-fangled computing scale, which has become an ornament of which any grocer may well be proud, when he compares it with the grimy little pair of scales which he used thirty years ago.

It will not be imagined for a moment that every grocer is in a position to install elaborate polished counters, silent salesmen, pillared shelves, and all the rest of it in his store. At the same time it is something towards which every one in the trade should aspire in an age when appearances count for much.

PROPER USE OF STORE WINDOWS.

ONE writer has said that advertising is the work by which we recognize the progressive business man; not merely the cold type advertisement, but the advertisement of a store filled with merchandise well selected, well bought and well displayed. As a matter of fact the printed ad. wins only so far as it brings customers to the door. There they may halt and turn away, if the appearance of the store window is not inviting.

A window either repels or attracts. Which it does rests entirely with the merchant. For instance, there are windows which in Summer seem to be devoted exclusively to fly-paper demonstrations, and in Winter to the exhibition of theatrical posters. Some merchants use their windows for storing surplus stock, and there are a few who dare to obscure their store fronts by piles of boxes and barrels on the outside.

It goes without saying that no amount of newspaper advertising can overcome the repellant influence of such store fronts.

Whether or not a store window is an effective selling agent depends upon the display made in it. Some windows don't cost one-tenth as much as others and yet are a thousand times more effective.

What constitutes the difference? Is it novelty? Attractiveness of design? Uniqueness of arrangement? Is it the merchandise? Is it the appeal to curiosity? It is any or all of these—and yet it is none of them.

The selling power of the window depends upon what it suggests to the onlooker. It must tell a story that will take the mind of the observer across the threshold. It must create a desire that the inside of the store alone can gratify. It should be a magnet that halts the passerby and ultimately pulls him to the counter.

Through the force of suggestion it must appeal to the gazer's imagination, reason or emotion. It must recall an old want or inspire a new one; and it must leave the impression that the want can best be satisfied just behind the window.

One of the commonest errors in window dressing is overdoing it. Too many different kinds of goods in the display overwhelm the onlooker. Too much decoration distracts him. No one can well listen attentively to two persons talking, still less to a crowd.

The success of a window display, that is, its business-pulling success, depends entirely upon the amount and quality of the suggestion. If a display can be fixed up that will tell at a glance the right kind of a story, the merchant will have a window that will put dollars into the money drawer.

THE LATEST HELPER.

IN one of the biggest stores in Ottawa the representative of The Canadian Grocer recently saw the Stewart tea packer at work. This tea packer is the recent invention of an Ottawa man, and so far that city has had a monopoly of it; but arrangements have been made to bring it to the attention of the trade generally. The thoroughly practical character of the machine strikes the observer as soon as he sees it at work. Simple, inexpensive, light, and operated even by inexperienced hands, it is adapted for use in any store where anybody from the proprietor to the message boy has any spare time.

No matter how great a dealer's trade may be in the standard package brands, there is always room for extension of his business by putting up a tea suited to his own customers and with his own label. With the Stewart tea packer this can be done by any person in the trade and at less cost than that due to the waste of tea when sold by the counter weigh scale method. Subscribers of The Grocer may be supplied with full particulars on application to W. G. Stewart, 273-275 Banks street, Ottawa.

PAPER HOUSE EXPANDS.

A FORCIBLE illustration of a prosperous business and a constantly-increasing clientele is furnished by the recent addition to the plant of the Quebec Paper Bag Co., Quebec, of two storeys 35x70. This is the second recent expansion, two flats, 20x40, having been added last Winter.

Established by Arthur Bolduc twelve years ago, this factory, from one of small dimensions and limited output, mostly paper bags, has grown into a concern manufacturing everything a general storekeeper needs in the way of paper, bags and accessories. Four years ago Chas. D. Darveau became a partner, and his progressive business methods have been instrumental in pushing this firm to the front. Two years ago a finely-equipped and orderly-arranged printing plant was installed.

THE CULTURE OF TOBACCO IN CUBA

JUST how the world-famous "Havana leaf" is produced is a matter of curiosity, if not of live interest, to every member of the grocery and tobacco trades of Canada who has not the opportunity of paying a personal visit to the country of growth. A representative of The Grocer recently had the pleasure of an interview with Mr. J. M. Fortier, the well-known tobacco manufacturer of Montreal, who is a regular visitor to Cuba, and is reproducing some of the facts for the information of its readers.

The tobacco plantations of Cuba are located for the most part in the Province of Pinar del Rio. Very little of the product of the fertile valley of Vuelta Abajo ever sees Canada, for the simple reason that it is principally used in the manufacture of clear Havana goods of the highest grade. Near this territory are the Partidos, Santa Clara, and Monigua Pogua districts, where the bulk of the ten thousand bales are grown that are exported to the Dominion of Canada every year.

A Branch of Farming.

Tobacco growing is really a branch of farming in Cuba and Cuban tobacco farmers remind one very much of wealthy Canadian growers of agricultural products. The industry in Cuba may be said to rank in a position similar to that of the British navy in the eyes of the world,—it is in the lead by about two centuries of development. Canadian growers have still much to learn from the Cuban planter in the matter of cultivation. Even in that tropical country, where cold weather is a thing unknown, hundreds and hundreds of acres are regularly covered with cheese cloth to protect the treasured weed from rain and wind storms. The average farmer cultivates about eighty or ninety acres in one place. The soil is ideal for the cultivation of the seed, it being brick-red in color and a rich oily loam replete with nourishment brought about by many years of fertilization. Most of the planters are Spanish, and it may be said that this nationality has practically a monopoly of tobacco growing in the Island. They understand the secret of successful tobacco culture as none of the other planters do. It is as Mr. Fortier says: "One farmer will make more out of his land than another because he understands his business better than his neighbor, and the culture of tobacco is just like anything else. Experience teaches many tricks and secrets." Planters like Luis Markes and Adolphe

Street Scene in Havana—The figure in the centre of the group is that of Mr. J. M. Fortier of Montreal

Muller & Co. are experts; they know every stage in the growth of the tobacco plant and naturally enough are favored by buyers the world over.

The Season of Growth.

The seed is planted early in the Fall, about September, and so rapidly do the plants mature that they are ready for cutting by the middle of December or January at the latest. Every month the leaves are cut according to the growth. The Cubans are a very superstitious people. For instance, they are governed by the different stages of the moon in picking the leaf. If cut during the waning of the moon they think the leaf will not be of as high a quality as if it is cut when the moon is young. They also have an idea that fish caught after the moon is full will not be good, and lumber cut during a similar period will not be durable or satisfactory.

The planters tend the growing crops with scrupulous care and watch the different grades as jealously as a parent watches a child. The harvesting of tobacco extends over a period of many months, in fact, until the crop is exhausted. Some thrifty planters, however, manage to get two crops a year off the same ground.

Curing Process.

The process of curing is very complicated and important. The leaves are much like the Canadian leaves in shape and color, but the unfailing fragrance of

All First-Class Grocers

Handle

It's a Trade Bringer.

Cuban tobacco is due entirely to the richness of the soil and the extreme care taken in cultivation. The leaves are selected and graded and then hung. Some are dried slowly and others are moistened advisedly; but no one except the Spaniards who are trained at the business know just how the curing proper is accomplished. Tobacco is a peculiar plant in this way, that if it happens to be placed near onions, for instance, it will absorb the aroma. Much Canadian tobacco is stored in the midst of other plants and its flavor marred by the assimilation of foreign odors.

Raw leaf is packed in bales containing about eighty karats. A karat in tobacco parlance means all the way from a half pound to a pound and a half. There are from thirty to fifty leaves in a hand of tobacco and four hands make what is called a karat. When it is remembered that only about ten thousand of these bales are shipped to Canada every year it is easy to see that the Cuban tobacco trade is not enormous.

In Canada it is claimed that the tobacco growing industry is merely in its infancy. That it is a most profitable way of using land may be illustrated by the fact that on one acre of land in Cuba may be grown from fifteen hundred to two thousand pounds of tobacco. The leaf sells at ten cents per pound, and the average return from a tobacco plantation is two hundred dollars per acre. What other kind of produce will bring such a revenue?

The Cubans have an enormous cigar trade. Their warranty stamp system guarantees every box of cigars made in Cuba, and if a smoker wishes to be sure of a Cuban cigar he must ask to see the warranty stamp on the box, which is official and reads "made in Cuba."

Sorting Tobacco in Cuba.

CANADIAN TOBACCO TRADE.

CONTINUED expansion has been the feature of the tobacco business of Canada during the last five years. Each year has shown an increase over the preceding twelve months in the volume of trade turned over. It will be noticed that last year every class of tobacco and manufacture of tobacco was greater in value than it was in 1903. An increase in imports of nearly half a million dollars in value shows a great buoyancy and prosperity in the business.

This, however, is merely looking at it from the standpoint of the imports. As a matter of fact, native-grown tobacco is each year assuming greater proportions. The amount of exports of the class of goods specified in the tables for 1904 is practically double what it was in 1903. In 1903 the total exports of tobacco, raw and manufactured, amounted to $326,782 in value. In 1904 this amount grew to $644,605. No other industry in Canada can show such a phenomenal growth as this.

Tobacco growing in Canada, while it is of comparatively recent development, is increasing in profitableness. Under scientific instruction the planting, harvesting and curing have made rapid strides. Finer qualities of leaf are being cultivated, and under intelligent culture this will undoubtedly make a profitable crop for the farmer. It is impossible to give statistics of the actual amount of tobacco grown in Canada at the present time because so much is grown by the farmers in Quebec for personal consumption. However, in Western Ontario, where tobacco is grown for manufacture, it has been shown that good profit can be made out of a crop.

In smokers' accessories, such as pipes, pipe mounts, cigar and cigarette holders, smokers' sets and tobacco pouches, the imports have more than doubled in five years. The business in these lines totaled $444,747 in 1904. These form an important part of a tobacconist's stock and should grow even more rapidly during the coming years. Altogether the tobacco trade is in a particularly healthy condition.

A CANADIAN POTTERY

READERS of The Grocer, and particularly members of the trade who make a specialty of their china and crockery departments, will be interested in knowing that the Province of Ontario possesses one of the largest and most up-to-date potteries on the American continent. In fact R. Campbell's Sons' Rockingham or brown storeware as manufactured in Hamilton has long since won a continental and even world-wide reputation, and it is no unusual thing to hear buyers to-day asking the question whether some new-fangled line of pottery is "as good as Campbells.' "

This industry dates from 1852, when Mr. Robert Campbell, the father of the present proprietors, began the manufacture of earthen crocks and flower pots. The business soon grew to considerable proportions and the firm gradually enlarged their sphere of operations to include the making of Rockingham and white-lined ware, fire-bricks, etc. Mr. Robert Campbell died in 1898 and the business was taken over by his three sons, John D., Robert Wesley and Colin C. Since then the two former have died, leaving Colin C. sole proprietor, who is continuing the business under the style of R. Campbell's Sons. In conversation with The Grocer representative, Mr. Campbell stated that he had been actively engaged in the manufacture of pottery for upwards of twenty-eight years. "I have worked at every branch of the trade," said he, "and for years took my place at the bench as an ordinary workman, receiving the same wages. My father's idea was that his sons should know the pottery business thoroughly and that the best and only way of realizing this end was to start them at the bottom and let them work their own way up. Like a number of other successful Canadian business men, he came to Canada with the proverbial shilling, and by sheer perseverance and ingenuity laid the foundations for the business as it exists to-day. For years all the work was done by hand, and we employed no help outside the family. At the present time we have forty-five workmen employed twelve months in the year; we make regular shipments of our goods to points as far west as Vancouver. Right here it may interest you to know that Canadian Rockingham ware has practically a monopoly of the Canadian market. The only thing that keeps us from exporting our Rockingham and white-lined ware to the United States is a prohibitive import duty of sixty per cent. We could compete with the American trade if this were cut down to thirty per cent. for the simple reason that our goods are acknowledged by the wholesale as well as the retail trade the country over to be in the very front rank in quality, which in the long run is what counts most. For instance, Timothy Eaton has carried our yellow-stone ware for over forty years."

Where the Clay Comes From.

The process of manufacture from the time the clay reaches the pottery until the final glaze is applied and the finished bowl, teapot or cuspidor ready for packing, is as interesting as it is unique. The raw material comes from New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and is of two sorts, broadly speaking, brown and white. No variety of clay is good by itself; in fact, there is a mixture of four different clays from three different states in the ordinary brown stone teapot. This clay is first washed, plunged and run through a silk sieve, after which it passes into the hands of the moulders, and the interesting work begins.

The writer in going the rounds of the Hamilton pottery with Mr. Campbell was prompted by curiosity to ask for the "potter's wheel," but to his great astonishment was informed that this was a relic of the past. Machinery and electric power, simply guided by the hand of man, have entirely changed the old order of things. The clay is filled into plaster-paris casts or moulds of the desired shape and the whole placed on a revolving jigger or jolly which can be so adjusted that it hollows and pares the clay to the exact shape and size required.

The Process of Moulding.

This process can be easily followed with the aid of the accompanying illustrations. Separate moulds are used for the cover and body of a bowl, and one each for the spout, handle and body of a teapot. The different parts of a teapot are later cemented together with water. Bowl and teapot lids are turned on a kind of lathe in order to get the exact size and curvature of the knob or handle. For the benefit of those of our readers who have never visited a pottery we may mention that a teapot passes through no less than fifteen hands before it is complete. The preliminary process of manufacturing a bowl is reminiscent of that wonderful art of which men know so little, we refer to pie-making. The workman kneads his clay, flattens it with a huge pestle to the desired size and then presses it into a mould, cutting off the rough edges with a sharp knife in genuine culinary fashion.

After the moulds have been left long enough to dry, plaster-paris casts are removed, and the half-finished article sponged and scraped to remove rough edges. The color of the clay at this stage is light grey. It is now ready for firing after being packed in fire-clay boxes.

Firing in the Kilns.

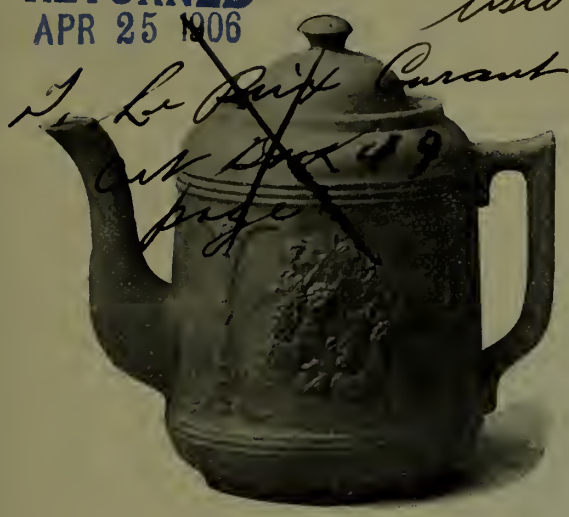
This process occupies twenty-four hours, the clay being subjected to a constant temperature of 3,300 degrees. It is difficult to realize what this high degree of heat means until you are told that an average eight furnace kiln consumes no less than twelve tons of hard coal in twenty-four hours. Every compartment in a kiln has a separate furnace from which the heat is transmitted through the medium of air flues. No one needs to be told how that the opening to each compartment is walled up after the clay-boxes or saggers are placed and before the fires are lighted. It is a notable fact that the clay is subject to considerable shrinkage from firing and drying, which makes it more or less of a problem to get the right shapes and sizes. The percentage of spoilage from the time the clay is put in the kiln is about five per cent. This represents straight loss as seconds cannot be utilized to advantage in the manufacture of this kind of pottery, and the clay will not stand a second thorough firing.

Glazing.

After the first burning follows the glazing process. This is nothing more than an application of pure liquid glass or flint glass in its fluid state to the pottery which is now said to be in a biscuit state. The mottled effect seen in some ware is produced by the use of two colors of glaze. After glazing the biscuit is fired a second time and comes out of the kiln ready for cleaning and assorting. In Rockingham, yellow and mottled stoneware one cannot help noticing three little marks on the bottom of every piece. The reason for this is that owing to the intense heat of the kiln and the tendency of biscuits to adhere to one another and to the bottom of the clay-boxes, each one is supported on three little stilts.

In a pottery the size of R. Campbell's Sons the weekly output is, roughly, three hundred dozen teapots and thirty dozen bed-pans, besides many hundreds of bowls, crocks, cuspidors, etc., of all sizes. This firm also manufacture stove fire-bricks on a large scale, having at the present time contracts for supplying practically every foundry in Canada.

CROCKERY AND CHINA IMPORTS.



IMPORTATIONS of earthenware during the past year shows some interesting features. The gross imports have increased steadily for the past five years, but the sources of these goods have altered considerably. Great Britain continues to supply more than half of the total amount and her exports to Canada in 1904 were twenty-five per cent. greater than in 1903. In spite of the surtax, Germany increased her exports to Canada. However, the amount Canada received from Germany is much smaller than might be expected considering the advanced position the latter

THE above wares, made by Campbell of Hamilton, have been before the Canadian public for over FIFTY years, and are acknowledged by all dealers to be the best ware of its kind made. country has taken in pottery. For instance, the United States has increased her imports from Germany far more than from any other country. There is a reason for Canadian diffidence about buying German ware besides the disadvantage at which the surtax places it. There is a sentimental feeling in this country that Germany is antagonistic to Great Britain and dealers throughout the country have shown this in increasing their purchases of English ware at the expense of German goods.

Japanese Jardiniere and Jardiniere Stands.

An interesting development in Canadian trade is the importation of plain earthenware and the subsequent tinting and gilding of it by Canadian crockery houses. This class of work, which was at first somewhat crude, has so advanced that foreign designs are reproduced with the utmost fidelity. Difficulties which were formerly found in the firing have been successfully overcome. The introduction of this work marks a distinct advance in Canadian pottery.

The imitative Japs have entered the field of crockery and china ware and bid fair to carry off a big share of the business during the present year. Importations from Japan have been steadily increasing, but their activities along this line have never been exhibited to the extent that they have this year. As an example of what is being done in developing new business the case of a Canadian firm may be mentioned. This firm sent over to Japan a sample porcelain door knob such as they had been buying in Germany. The Japanese submitted a price much below the European figure and a sample order of half a million was sent in. The goods were in every respect the equal of the sample which had been sent over and, in fact, could not be distinguished from the German article.

The Japanese are essentially imitators. German and, more particularly, Bavarian china have been copied by them with great skill, and a great quantity of this class of goods is being exported to this country at the present time. An objectionable feature of Japanese business is the variableness of the price. A repeat order will frequently be filled only at a considerable advance on the original price. This is no doubt the result of imperfect methods of estimating the cost of manufacture and will be rectified as soon as business becomes more organized.

In vases and jardinieres of Chinese and Japanese design there is a large variety. Of jardinieres and pedestals one firm alone is showing over fifty lines. The vases are peculiarly characteristic and such as to appeal to popular fancy at the present time. In the same class of goods are incense pots which suggest eastern temples and which will be most suitable for the decoration of dens. Earthenware fern dishes and other verandah decorations are found in typical Japanese patterns.

Among the novelties which come from Japan are bronzes. The figures which are produced in this metal are exceedingly artistic and lovers of the antique can have their wishes satisfied with originals of the ninth century. Some examples of vessels and vases, with the sacred lotus, are exquisitely wrought in fine hand carving and filigree work. Bronzes have become decidedly popular in this country and it may be said safely that Japanese ware will be in a forward position in the season's sales.

Lamps for the coming season are in larger and bolder designs. For the past two or three years the tendency has been towards small flowers and delicate colors. This has given way to more pronounced effects in color and pattern. In spite of objections to deep bowls, the latter will be the correct thing. They present a much handsomer appearance than the shallower bowl can possibly do.

In glassware there is a strong run on cut glass patterns. The results which have been accomplished in pressed glass are wonderfully near the originals. This class of goods in cheap and moderate prices will be a feature of the season's trade.

LOCATING IN CANADA.

Sharp competition in Canadian territory between English pottery manufacturers and the Trenton Potteries Co., of Trenton, N.J., has resulted in the purchase by the latter of the "Sandy" McDowell pottery at St. Johns, Que.

The St. Johns industry was a formidable competitor of English manufacturers some years ago, but was closed down recently. It is not thought that the Federal Government will enforce the Alien Labor laws against the new comers, who are increasing their operating staff in St. John by the importation of fifty expert workmen from New Jersey.

TOILET SOAPS

Lever Brothers Limited offer to the trade three excellent brands of toilet soap, all of which have proved to be good sellers.

They are compounded wholly from vegetable bases, are absolutely free from animal fats and astonishingly fine in perfume.

Shrewd dealers know that the name LEVER on any Soap product is a guarantee of all that's good in soap-making.

There is no reason why a first-class grocer should not handle a reliable line of toilet soaps. Many have held aloof from doing so because they felt that no domestic soap at a moderate price could compete in quality with imported goods.

CORAL

BRITISH COMMERCIAL AGENTS FOR CANADA.

IN respect to trade matters, Great Britain is less favorably situated in her colonies than her foreign competitors. Take the situation in Canada for example. The United States, France, Germany, to say nothing of the smaller countries, have each their consuls in the different trade centres of the Dominion. This is particularly true of the representatives of the United States, Great Britain's greatest competitor on this market.

Many of these consuls are business men and all of them are on the watch for opportunities to extend the trade of their respective countries. No body of commercial travelers could be more so.

The United States Department of Trade and Commerce issues a daily bulletin containing reports from the consular service the world over. And how large a place Canada occupies in the eye of that service may be gathered from the fact that there is probably not an issue of that bulletin that does not contain a report of some kind dealing with trade matters in Canada.

The British Government, on the other hand, has no such agencies gathering information for dissemination among the business men of that country. This is all supplementary to the large number of travelers representing United States firms who are regularly covering Canada from ocean to ocean.

British sentiment is strong in Canada; but sentiment does not count much in business. Business is business here as well as elsewhere.

Canada is perfectly aware that in Great Britain there is a strong sentiment in favor of this country; but we are not relying on this quality alone in matters of business. Neither do we depend upon what commercial travelers can do. The Government of this country supplements all this by sending to the Mother Country a corps of commercial agents to spy out the land and to suggest through the Department of Trade and Commerce how exporters in Canada can best enlarge their trade in the British Isles. In Great Britain we have half a dozen such agents. In Australia we have two, in South Africa one, and in the West Indies six.

Through the preferential tariff Canada has officially done a great deal to encourage British trade in Canada. It now devolves upon the British Government, by the appointment of commercial agents in Canada, to officially do something to assist the exporters of Great Britain to develop their trade with the Dominion.

HAVE COME TO STAY.

TRUSTS, combinations, agreements, or whatever we choose to call commercial organizations, have come to stay — at least until some other system of business development appears to take their place. They are born of to-day's economical conditions.

With manufacturers, merchants and working-men's organizations as the order of the day, those who do not organize are handicapped in the struggle for business or bread. Those who do not organize feel the necessity for it; and those who are struggling in single misery are falling into line with the various armies of consolidation.

It is folly to gnash one's teeth in anger because of such things, or to endeavor to stem the tide of consolidation. The causes which are producing these effects are no more irrepressible than the march of the indomitable Japs.

Those who are forming themselves into consolidations are not philanthropists. They are looking out for themselves; but it does not necessarily follow that these organizations are evil. Economically they can do a great deal of good; but they can also do a great deal of harm. They undoubtedly do a great deal of harm in some instances. The remedy, however, is not to kill them, but to so regulate them so that their opportunities for doing harm will be reduced to a minimum, without their being crippled in the good they may do.

A PRECARIOUS CONDITION.

IT is to be hoped that the Dominion Government will, at an early date, give serious consideration to the precarious condition of the stoneware industry in Canada. While it does not rank as one of Canada's leading industries, a considerable amount of capital has been invested in the different potteries, which employ a goodly number of workers, and it is only just to the enterprising firms that have endeavored to build up an industry in the face of very adverse conditions that their case should be fairly and impartially considered by the authorities at Ottawa. The facts regarding the stoneware trade are these:

The centre of the American stoneware industry is in Ohio. The potteries there stand on the clay, and very often a bed of coal overlies the clay. It is easy to appreciate the advantage these conditions confer on the American. Put into figures it works out as follows: The cost to the American of the raw material is 85c a ton, as against $5 to the Canadian, a difference of over 400 per cent. Coal costs the American (when he has to buy it) $1.25, as against from $4 to $5 in Canada.

The railways have conspired to still further handicap the Canadian manufacturer by giving his American competitor a rate better by almost a half. The G.T.R., for example, will take stoneware from Buffalo to any point in Canada for the same rate as from, say, Brantford. to the same point. When it is remembered that the G.T.R. have to pay the American road a proportion of that charge for conveying the goods to the point of transfer, the discrimination against the Canadian companies is obvious.

Taking all the facts together, the result is that while the Americans sell their goods wholesale at the kiln for 4c. a gallon, the actual cost of manufacture to the Canadian companies is 6c. a gallon, and they sell it direct to the dealer for 8c. Out of this gross profit of 2c. a gallon, or 25 per cent., has to be deduct the cost of selling, which averages 20 per cent., thus leaving a balance of 5 per cent. to cover office expenses, etc., and provide a profit. ...

Under the former Government the manufacturers had a protection of 3c. a gallon specific duty. The present Government took that off and substituted for it a duty of 30 per cent. ad valorem. While this may seem an adequate duty, it really amounts to very little in the way of protection in view of the exceptional conditions under which the industry is carried on.

The consumer has received no benefit from the lower duty, as he pays the same price for his pottery to-day as he did then, and is not likely to reap any advantage from the extinction of the Canadian potteries. The experience of the State of New York is a striking example. The Ohio potteries, having formed a powerful combine, attacked the New York market, and succeeded in putting about 40 potteries in that state out of business by underselling them. Having effected their object, they raised the price 100 per cent., and are still advancing it. What happened in New York may equally well happen in Canada.

YOUNG MEN REMAINING IN CANADA.

HERETOFORE when the Spring exodus of engineering graduates from our Canadian universities was at hand it meant, with the large majority, their leaving Canada and taking up positions in the United States. In this way we were losing the greater part of a stock that, remaining, would be a dominant factor in building up the nation, particularly in a country in which the engineering possibilities were as ample and varied as in this. Seeing no immediate prospects here, and being offered inducements by our southern neighbors, the young engineer, following the line of least resistance, accepted what was offered, thinking, perhaps, to return some day, but in nine cases out of ten ultimately becoming a part of the republic.

This is equally true of young men in other walks of life. Thus Canada has been rearing vigorous, brainy sons, educating them in her public and high schools and colleges after a system unsurpassed by any in the world, while Uncle Sam, keen and astute. has reached out and reaped the benefit. This is well shown in the number of high-class positions now occupied by Canadians in his domain. The cause lay not only in the fact that there were openings there for young men of this country such as could not be hoped for here, but also that the true worth and hardihood of the Canadian young man was fully appreciated in the United States, while at home such was not the case. It was the same old story of the prophet being not without honor save in his own country.

A change has been taking place slowly but effectively, and more noticeable this year than heretofore, with new-fledged engineers, at least. The young man is not seeking scope for his energy and ambition elsewhere but finding and realizing prospects before unavailable. He is beginning to feel that in this country his chances are better, his outlook brighter and his ultimate hopes for success of far greater measure than in other countries. Without feeling the thrill of the patriot when swearing loyalty to his native land, although possibly some few may be thus influenced, he finds the time has come when he can remain at home and take a position at least satisfactory for the present and offering all things for the future.

So great has been the industrial development both in the mechanical and electrical trades, railroad and other construction, that the demand for mechanical, electrical, civil and mining engineers, has been greater than the supply. The construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific has called for a large force of engineers for various positions and later a permanent corps of divisional engineers will be needed. The prairie division of the G.T.P. requires men at present, many positions being still open. The growth of the country is absorbing the class of young men who formerly left our confines, and this in itself, apart from any feature of expansion and development connected therewith, should be a gratifying feature to Canadians.

TWENTIETH CENTURY FOR CANADA.

THE outlook for Canadian trade, taken as a whole, was never brighter than it is at the present time. Work is plentiful and wages are good, a condition which applies to the cities and large towns no less than to the rural districts throughout the country. That confidence is felt in the industrial outlook is amply shown by the new industries that are starting into life almost every day. The ceaseless tide of immigration that is flowing into Manitoba and the Northwest Provinces has opened up a field for manufacturers that would seem to be almost inexhaustible. Last year the influx of settlers was phenomenal. This year it promises to eclipse all previous records, owing in great measure to the progressive policy adopted by the Dominion Government in establishing capable, zealous and responsible agents in the large cities of Great Britain and Europe. The misfortune under which Canada has labored in the past has been lack of knowledge in the older countries of the inducements she has to offer to the settler. Her climate has been traduced, her resources doubted, and her civilization minimized. But now, thanks to persistent and intelligent advertising, the clouds of misconception have been rolled away, and Canada stands forth, if not as a land flowing with milk and honey, at all events as the country par excellence for the ambitious, intelligent and industrious workers in the old lands, who find their energies "cribb'd, cabin'd and confined," by the excessive burdens of European civilization.

If Canada has substantial attractions for the settler, not less are the inducements she has to offer to the manufacturer, and this fact is beginning to be recognized. American capital, especially, is being employed to build factories and establish trade in the Dominion, and traveling representatives of American concerns are as common in Canada as pebbles on the sea shore. While we cherish no hostility towards our American neighbors, we feel that it would be mutually advantageous to Canada and the motherland were British capital to take a more prominent part in the industrial development of the premier British colony. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been guilty of a prophecy, but it is a prophecy of which the seeds of fulfilment have already taken root. He said: "The nineteenth century was the century of the United States. The twentieth century will be the century of Canada."

RETURNING DRAFTS.

ONE of the most annoying experiences of the jobbing trade, and one for which there is in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred no valid excuse, is that of returned drafts from the retail dealer. In making this statement it is not intended to infer that the retail merchants when returning drafts to the jobber do so with the intention of declining payment of the account. An experience extending over twenty-five years in direct dealings between the wholesaler and the retailer has led to the conclusion that the one great fault in these cases is want of reflection on the part of the receiver, and the consideration that is due to the shipper, as well as to himself.

One of the largest wholesale grocers in Canada in discussing this question lately stated that he had made it a rule of his house, based on sad financial losses sustained through this habit of customers returning drafts for paltry excuses, to immediately demand settlement, allow the claim, and close the account in his books for all time. He instanced the case of one of his customers whose monthly account ran from $700 to $1,000, but who invariably allowed drafts to come back for some trivial excuse, such as a broken box of raisins, damaged in transit, leakage of vinegar or molasses, shipment delayed through storms or railway freight blockade, etc., all things for which the shipper could in no way be held responsible. The merchant referred to gave as his last excuse for returning the jobber's draft short delivery of a box of Valencia raisins in a lot of a hundred boxes and general groceries, the fault of the railway company, as investigation by tracer showed when the missing box was finally located and delivered to consignee. The entire amount of the bill was in the neighbourhood of $500. The proper thing for the dealer to have done would have been to accept the jobber's draft and make claim on him or the railway company, instead of sending back the draft. As the jobber wrote his customer when closing the account, "surely when we have the confidence to trust you with a monthly credit of $700 to $1,000, you should have had sufficient confidence in our house and its reputation for straightforward dealing to accept the draft and report your claim in the proper way, etc."

This case is only by way of illustrating the point we desire to make, namely, that not enough serious thought is given to this matter of returning drafts by the retailer. If there is any fault with the goods, if they are not up to sample, if there has been an overcharge or other reasonable excuse for expressing dissatisfaction, the customer should promptly notify the jobber, who will straighten out the difficulty, as no jobber is anxious to lose a customer in these days of keen competition. But to leave matters in abeyance until the jobber makes a draft and then return the draft, subjects the jobber to unnecessary and unwarranted expense for exchange charges, besides creating extra work for the accounting department.

A feature of serious consequence to merchants with a penchant for returning drafts for some trivial reason is one they should reflect upon. No class of business men like to deal with customers given to returning drafts, and no banking institution counts the account of any merchant who is continually sending back drafts; it naturally leads to the suspicion that something is wrong. It will be in the interest of every retailer to avoid in every way possible the returning of drafts. If for any reason it is found that it will not be convenient to meet the draft on presentation, an explanation in time to the jobber will in every reasonable case receive consideration, but to say nothing and merely send it back is not fair to the jobber and can only reflect injuriously upon the financial position of the merchant. Don't return a draft unless for the most powerful and justifiable reasons.

THE ONE PRICE SYSTEM.

SOME merchants continue to mark their goods in character instead of in plain figures. This is a relic of old-time business methods which no modern dealer should tolerate in his store. It recalls the days when every price was tentative and liable to such reduction as the persistency of the buyer would make necessary. There can be only one reason for using unintelligible symbols to indicate the selling price and that is because the one price does not hold for all. Where the retailer himself virtually admits this, it is not to be wondered at that the customer should insist on getting the best price, which he assumes, and rightly, is not the one first mentioned. Even then the buyer always suspects that somebody else is getting a better figure and dissatisfaction is sure to follow.

The profits of the store are affected disastrously by such a system. Salesmen and customers alike are spoiled. The customer, having once received a reduction, feels that he is entitled to one on every purchase. The salesman, having seen the price once cut, becomes ever more ready to respond to the solicitations of the buyer. To effect a sale almost any reduction will be made, and it will be impossible to get a higher price again.

Apart from these considerations, the work of the salesman is made needlessly difficult. Where all goods are marked in plain figures and one price holds, a clerk can handle far more customers than under the other system. He can show the goods and explain the merits of them, but he is freed from the trouble of haggling over the price. Anybody who is familiar with retail trade will recognize that far more time is spent in discussing the price, if there is a possibility of paring it down, than in considering the quality of the article. A modern storekeeper cannot afford to have his own and his clerks' time spent in this unprofitable manner. The public, too, is better satisfied to deal with a store which has absolutely one price. The value of the goods may then be fairly judged.

Hideyoshi very often gave vessels to his captains when he wished to reward them for distinguished services, and these were afterwards preserved as valuable heirlooms in the houses of the captains.

As might have been expected, the tea ceremony attained great popularity on the advent of the Tokugawa-Regency, and during the period of peace lasting for about three centuries which prevailed under that regime.

Curing Process.

Only two kinds of tea were in use till the time of the Tokuhawa, namely, the pounded tea and pan-fired tea. It was not till 1738 that a new mode of curing tea was invented by a manufacturer of Yamashiro named Sannozo-Nagatani. This mode, called at that time "green-curing," consisted in first steaming the leaves, rolling them, and then drying them at a fire, in such a way as to preserve the natural green hue of the leaves. This system of curing, a forerunner of the present Uji system, was received with favor throughout the tea-producing districts. The Gyokuro tea, a modified form of the "green-cured" tea, was first manufactured at Uji in 1835.

It will thus be seen that the original mode of curing tea leaves consisted in steaming them, then pounding, and finally rolling them into balls, after which the pan-firing process came into vogue. Next we have the powdered tea method, and then the Uji "green-curing," and lastly the Gyokuro-tea style. The black tea is the latest innovation, dating only about 27 years back.

(The Grocer is indebted to the foregoing history of Japan tea to Mr. Shaw T. Nishimura, of the Japan Central Tea Traders' Association, Montreal. Mr. Nishimura is at present in Japan looking after the interests of the various tea planters' associations represented by him in Canada, and very kindly consented to secure the most accurate information on this subject for The Canadian Grocer. He also sent on a number of interesting photographs, a few of which are reproduced in this article.)

INCREASED FACILITIES.

The Rolla L. Crain Co., Limited, one of the pioneer firms in Canada, manufacturing loose-leaf accounting systems, have lately added to their plant five new presses, besides a number of labor-saving bindery machines. This increase places this progressive firm in the front row of manufacturers of these systems. Their trade has so extended that this step became an absolute necessity.

NEW WOODENWARE PLANT AT OWEN SOUND.

WHOLESALE dealers, retailers and users of woodenware generally, will be pleased to learn that a completely equipped factory for the manufacture of pails, tubs, and woodenware of every description, has been erected, and is now under full operation in the enterprising town of Owen Sound.

A year ago Keenan Bros., who for some years have been associated with Owen Sound as well-known and progressive lumber dealers and manufacturers, purchased the plant of the Parkhill Basket Co. Recognizing the superiority of its location, and other advantages incidental to the successful pursuit of the manufacture of woodenware, they at once made extensive alterations and additions to plant, consisting mainly in the erection of tower and horizontal dry kilns, dry kiln machinery, a large and commodious warehouse, and the most modern and improved machinery known for this purpose.

With these advantages and the assistance of skilled workmen in every department, their assurance of success has been fully realized; and, although the factory has been in operation but a few weeks, yet the quality of the output is excellent, being unsurpassed by any Canadian makers.

A portion of plant has been appropriated for the manufacture of veneer peach and grape baskets in standard sizes, splint market baskets and baskets of various styles and sizes demanded by meat packers.

The new company have been capitalized at $100,000 as the Keenan Woodenware Manufacturing Co., Limited. It should be a source of interest and gratification to the Canadian trade generally to know that an independent Canadian firm, backed by energy and capital, are successfully endeavoring to supply their requirements with goods so excellent in finish and durability. The different lines placed on the market so far have met with unqualified approval, and speak for the new firm a very bright future.

A Canadian Chocolate and Cocoa Industry

NO more conclusive proof of the growing importance of the chocolate and cocoa industry in Canada is required than a visit to the fine new plant which the Cowan Co. have erected on Stirling road, just off Dundas street, Toronto.

The dimensions of the buildings are 60x205 feet, 60x125 feet, and 60x60 feet, the main structure being four storeys high and the two wings three each. Light buff brick and cut stone have been used exclusively in the building, and on the whole have produced an effect imposing and substantial in the extreme. For manufacturing purposes the situation is unsurpassed in the city; the main line of the G.T.R. and C.P.R. skirt one side of the factory and the Northern branch of the G.T.R. the other. The company have purchased a large block of land which will be utilized for building purposes when the growth of the business requires it.

Excellent Lighting.

The most striking feature of the new factory is its substantial appearance and excellent lighting. A great deal of new machinery is being installed, in addition to the firm's present mechanical equipment. A year ago Mr. Cowan visited England, France and Germany in search of new ideas in the manufacture of cocoa and chocolate. While there he purchased a number of the most approved mixing, rolling and refining machines. These are being set up by expert workmen and when complete will give the Cowan Co. a manufacturing plant second to none on the continent in point of equipment.

The business offices are situated in the front on the ground floor and are as spacious and elegantly appointed as any the writer has ever seen. Shipping, receiving and cooling rooms are also located on this floor.

On the upper floors are located the stock, packing, labeling, and employes' recreation rooms and a new cocoa roasting plant. To meet the requirements of the fire insurance companies, Mr. Cowan has built a special fireproof room for the cocoa roaster. Fireproof automatic doors also separate each department in the building. The stock-rooms are three in number and so arranged that by moving supplies from room to room, those in charge of stock are enabled to send every pound of the manufactured product into consumption while it is fresh. The store-rooms are a sight to behold, with piles and piles of bags filled with raw cocoa from the West Indies, Caracas, Ceylon, Bahia and Africa, and other countries, representing in value many thousands of dollars.

The Cowan Co. are to be specially commended for the consideration shown in fitting up spacious and inviting recreation and lunch rooms for their female employes. Suitable quarters are also provided for the men in another part of the building in addition to spacious toilet and cloak rooms. Another innovation is a laundry, which will save the trouble and expense of sending out the white linen uniforms of employes.

Making Cocoa.

The process of manufacture from the raw bean to the finished cocoa powder or milk chocolate is as interesting as it is odd. The bean is first roasted in a revolving cylinder and then cracked and ground; then it goes through the different milling, mixing and refining processes understood only by the manufacturers themselves.

MR. J. W. COWAN

The material for cream chocolate is finally put in moulds. If there is to be a sugar filling the chocolate coating is applied and the moulds placed in cooling rooms, where they are subjected to a temperature of from forty to fifty-five degrees for a period lasting from fifteen minutes, in the case of chocolate bars, to two hours, in the case of the large ten-pound confectioners' cakes. The ordinary process of wrapping, labelling and packing finished, the milk chocolate is ready to be placed on the market.

It may interest readers of The Grocer to know that cocoa, when it is pure, contains no foreign constituent. "You can't improve on the flavor of absolutely pure cocoa by addition," said Mr. Cowan, "any more than you can improve refined gold."

An interesting feature of this up-to-date chocolate and cocoa manufacturing plant is its sugar-milling machinery. At the present time the Cowan Co. have three sugar mills and are installing a fourth.

From the very first the history of the Cowan business has been one of steady growth. Owing to the increasing demands of trade the location of their plant has had to be changed no less than four times, namely, from Temperance to 52 Front street east; in 1885-6 to Mincing Lane, just off Wellington street, and in 1887 to 468 King street west, and finally to their new factory off Dundas street on Stirling road, where from 75 to 100 workmen will be employed 12 months in the year in the manufacture of cocoa and chocolate, including confectioners' chocolate, chocolate bars, etc. The manufacture of milk chocolate on a large scale was begun about a year and a half ago, and at the present time Cowan's milk chocolate medallions, croquettes, cakes, sticks, etc., are acknowledged to be equal to anything on the Canadian market. A great deal of the imported machinery in the new factory will be used in the manufacture of milk chocolate, thus placing this industry in a unique position among Canadian manufacturing industries.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

IMPORTS of confectionery vary greatly from year to year. In 1900 the value of imports from all countries totaled $243,170. The next year it rose to $320,956. In 1902 it dropped to $275,626. A further drop occurred in 1903 to $244,445. In 1904 it rose again to $273,399. It is interesting to note the sources of this candy supply. Great Britain, in spite of the blue ruin agitators of that country who have been prophesying disaster to their candy business, has continued to increase its exports to Canada. In the five years for which statistics are given, England has increased her Canadian business from a total of $67,048 in 1900 to $129,594 in 1904. During the same time the imports from the United States dropped from a total of $167,580 in 1900 and $228,290 in 1901 to $126,697 in 1904. These figures are very significant. They show a great shifting of the business as far as Canada is concerned. It is not to be supposed that the great falling off in the amount received from the United States is attributable to the increased buying from Great Britain. It rather shows an increase in local manufacture of high-grade confectionery. With Canadian manufacturers making the high quality of goods which they are now doing, the incentive to buying United States confectionery disappears.

The imports from other countries are so far unimportant in quantity. France has shown a steady increase in her exports to this country. While they bulked up only to $9,643 in 1904, they were only $5,010 in 1900. It is possible that in higher-grade candies France may develop an extensive trade with Canada. Our imports from Switzerland, which were practically nothing heretofore, took a sudden jump last year to fifteen hundred dollars.

In 1904 this had risen to $37,481, or an increase of seventy-five per cent. With Canada's growing facilities for manufacturing biscuits and her increased home consumption of them, the prospects for this industry are exceptionally favorable.

Cutting Sugar Cane in Jamaica.

SUGAR AND MOLASSES TRADE.

ONE of the most striking features of the Canadian sugar trade during 1904 has been an increase in importations of raw sugar from the British West Indies and British Guiana, amounting in all to $4,368,979; this induced directly by the Canadian preferential tariff and the German surtax, which practically bars German beet sugar from the Canadian market.

In 1903 Canada imported German beet sugar to the value of $3,116,741; during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, importations from this source dwindled to $368,717. By far the greater part of Canada's supply of raw sugar comes from the British West Indies and British Guiana, the figures for 1904 being $3,854,903 and $2,180,342, respectively. Other countries contributed as follows: Dutch East Indies, $445,438; Peru, $279,394; Great Britain, $242,293;

Exports of biscuits have increased to such an extent as to promise a big trade in this line of goods. More than 50,000 lbs. of an increase in 1904 over the total of 1903 is an encouraging figure. In value, too, there has been a steady advance during the last five years. In 1900 the value of the exports was $21,477. United States, $231,518; Belgium, $523,585; British East Indies, $211,171; Austria-Hungry, $127,340; Russia, $43,305; Holland, $11,836; France, $520; China, $282; Hong Kong, $1,211; American West Indies and other countries, $149; total, $8,522,004. These figures do not include grape sugar, glucose, etc.

Beet Sugar Industry.

An industry which is attracting a great deal of attention in the Province of Ontario and the Territory of Alberta just now is the culture of sugar beets. While the industry is as yet largely in the experimental stage, and two out of the four beet sugar factories in Ontario have been forced to close down because of undesirable location, limited acreage, and other local conditions, the past two years have demonstrated the permanence of sugar beet culture in Canada. A certain amount of prejudice has had to be overcome—a condition of affairs peculiar to the introduction of any new undertaking. In spite of all these drawbacks the Ontario Sugar Co., and the Wallaceburg Sugar Co., both pioneers of the sugar beet industry, have succeeded in placing the industry on a sound financial basis in Ontario, and the factory at Raymond is doing excellent work along similar lines for Alberta.

The Ontario factories report an acreage of beets this year about fifty per cent. greater than in any previous year, and it is only a question of solving the initial difficulties of labor and raw material when the beet sugar industry will assume very large proportions in several sections of Canada, where natural conditions are unusually favorable for the cultivation of the sugar beet.

One of the chief difficulties Canadian manufacturers of beet sugar have had to face in connection with the lack of raw material seems likely to see a solution in the near future. In order to keep their factories going a sufficient number of months in the year to make it profitable, the Wallaceburg Sugar Co. are importing raw cane sugar from the West Indies and refining it in their beet sugar plant. The results so far have been satisfactory and the experiment will be repeated on a much larger scale during the coming season.

NOVA SCOTIA AND ITS ADVANTAGES

By M. G. DeWolfe, Ex-President Maritime Board of Trade, Kentville, N.S.

IT seems to me that someone from this part of the Dominion should have interest enough in the special Spring and Export Number of The Canadian Grocer to add a little to your columns. Nova Scotia is too valuable a province to let go unnoticed in an edition that has such a wide circulation.

It may be rather a bold assertion, but Nova Scotia has everything to offer that is needed to make prosperous and happy homes. The only drawback is population, and, although I may be out of order in thinking that The Grocer should not be only an Export Number but an Import one as well, I would like to see it work along the lines of inducing an importation of persons to settle in this fair province.

MR. M. G. DEWOLFE
Kentville, N.S.

The trend is westward, but there are as good and better chances for all classes to settle here, and the time has arrived when this fact must be made known, and it can be largely done through the influence of such mediums as The Canadian Grocer.

It is not farmers and laborers alone that are needed, but men of moderate means in all lines; it may be there are too many persons in trade, but that is the only calling that is so situated.

One good sign of the times is that there are no idle men or women in Nova Scotia; loafers are unknown, and there are no poor,—such as we know as poor in other lands. Strangers arriving in this province will not be isolated as they are in the boundless lands of the Northwest; nor will they miss the comforts that are so lacking in a new country.

I understand the general manager of the MacLean Trade Newspapers expects to be with the Manufacturers' Association in their trip to Great Britain in June, and I trust he will preach the gospel of Canada as the one place for those to come to who are looking for new homes; and that Nova Scotia will find a warm advocate in his work. Two years ago the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire made us a visit, and their impressions of this section of Nova Scotia were such as made us all feel proud; and we want thousands of others to come in and share this goodly heritage.

This province has twenty-five Boards of Trade, all of them only too well pleased to give full information to intending settlers, and I trust that many will decide to come and prosper, and never regret it.

SHOULD TRAVELERS BE TAXED?

Communications on this much-debated subject continue to pour in from members of the trade all over Canada. During the week The Grocer had an interview with Mr. C. Ryan, of the Wilson, Lytle, Badgerow Co., Toronto, who expressed himself in no uncertain terms on the recent action of the British Columbia Legislature in imposing a tax on commercial travelers from other provinces.

"The strange thing is," said he, "that Eastern Canada should have been heavily taxed for years to open up the Pacific Province, and only to be discriminated against now by the trade there. It is hardly necessary to more than mention the inequality of the tax, and the loss it will occasion the transportation companies, hotels, etc. As for the retail trade themselves, they will sooner or later realize that the new legislation is neither more nor less than a modern application of the old 'robbing Peter to pay Paul' principle. It is but the thin edge of the wedge leading to western monopoly and it is the retailer and consumer who will have to pay the price."

Armour Limited, Toronto

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE CANNING IN CANADA

THE history of this important Canadian industry dates from 1876, when the late B. R. Nelles started a factory in Grimsby, the garden district of Ontario, for canning domestic fruit and vegetables. Previous to this time the requirements of the Canadian consuming public had been supplied by packers in the United States and England. The story of the industry subsequently, may be summed up in a very few words. Importations have been reduced to a minimum, and the number and the output of the fruit and vegetable canneries in Canada increased until at the present time some fifty odd plants supply by far the greater share of the requirements of the domestic market and in addition have worked up a substantial and increasing volume of trade with the countries of Europe and Asia. Fruit and vegetable canning is confined practically to the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec. In Ontario there are about forty-six of these canneries, of which some thirty-six represent a combination known as the Canadian Canners Limited. Quebec has two; there are one or two in New Brunswick, two in Nova Scotia, one or two small packing houses in British Columbia and up to the last year one in Prince Edward Island. During the present season to date no less than five new canning companies have been successfully launched, going to show the facilities Canada affords for the successful development of the canned fruit and vegetable business on a big scale. From the canning of vegetables and fruits, including peas, corn, tomatoes, strawberries and raspberries, to supply the trade of Ontario and Quebec the scope of the industry has been widened to include the packing of every vegetable and fruit produced in Canada, as well as the manufacture of catsups, sauces, jams and marmalades, and latterly vegetable and meat soups and canned fowl. The canning of beef and meats generally is also beginning to assume very large proportions in Canada, although it is not with this particular branch of the canned goods trade that this article is concerned. A market has been created for Canadian canned fruits and vegetables from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

In Foreign Markets.

Canadian packers have succeeded in firmly establishing themselves in the British market, several of the larger canners having at the present time permanent branches in the leading commercial centres of the United Kingdom, each in charge of experienced men who keep the Canadian trade posted as to the market conditions abroad. A successful business connection has been worked up with the West Indies, and organized efforts have been or will shortly be made to create a regular demand for Canadian canned goods in Japan, China and Mexico. Until very recently Canadian canners had a profitable trade in fruit pulp with Australia; the Australian fruit grower, however, has taken it into his head a year or two ago to go into business on his own account, with the result that he has effectively shut out Canada, not only from the Australian market, but from the markets of Great Britain to which Australia supplies practically all the fruit pulp used, except in poor fruit seasons. Only last year Canadian packers tried the experiment of sending fruit pulp to Great Britain, but discovered they could not compete with Australia. Canadian canned goods have also met with considerable success in South Africa, and according to those in close touch with trade conditions there the Canadian canners are entirely to blame because they have not secured a lion's share of the trade. Circumstances are all in their favor, namely, preferential duty and a prejudice in favor of Canadian goods; all they need to do is to send over representatives to push Canadian goods persistently; instead of doing this, they have allowed an enormous business to drift into the hands of American canners and will find it more or less difficult to win back what they have lost.

A Unique Position.

The position of the industry in Canada promises to become a unique one within the next ten years or so. By that time they will probably have as large a population in the Great West as the whole of Canada has to-day. An enormous market will be created for Canadian canners to supply.

Canada can grow almost unlimited quantities of fruits and vegetables, and the only reason why the fruit-growing industry has not assumed much larger proportions than it has is because the requisite market has not been forthcoming up to the present. With the colonization of the West all this will be changed, and it is even surmised in canned goods circles that the establishment of vegetable canneries in Manitoba and the Territories is among the possibilities of a few years. At the present time Canadian canners are experiencing no difficulty from American competition in the West, strange as it may seem. The disadvantage of heavy freight charges is amply compensated for by the stiff tariff on goods of American manufacture. About the only complaint domestic packers have to make is that very large quantities of dried prunes, peaches and plums are brought into Canada every year, and on account of their inferior quality are sold at a ridiculously low figure, to the detriment of the fruit-growing and fruit-packing industries of this country.

Export Trade.

Canada's export trade in canned fruits and vegetables dates from 1890, when we began to send canned apples to Great Britain. Since then there has been a steady growth and from an average of 2,000 cases a year in the early nineties we are now exporting from 350,000 to 400,000 yearly, mostly apples. Owing to excessively large apple crops in Great Britain and on the continent during the past three years, however, the fruit end of the Canadian export business has shown considerable falling off. Canadian canned fruits, especially peaches and raspberries, are slowly but surely establishing themselves firmly in the favor of the British consumer.

For quality and flavor there is nothing on the British market that can surpass the Canadian product. On account of the nature of Canadian fruit it does not present as attractive an appearance, perhaps, as the Californian product, and it is largely on this account that California is such a formidable competitor of Canada in the British market. The Plant of Old Homestead Canning Co., Picton, Ont.

English trade put a premium on appearance and until Canadians can convert them to the idea that quality counts for more than appearance, they are face to face with an insurmountable difficulty. The Californian packer has this advantage over the Canadian, that he was firmly established in Great Britain years before the Canadian packer entered the field.

The British trade, moreover, are prejudiced in favor of bottled goods, and, as a matter of fact, most packers of fruit in the United Kingdom use the bottle or glass jar package exclusively. They seem, until recently, to have been possessed with the notion that fruit and vegetables in tins are injurious. Among the great masses the demand is for cheap and medium-priced canned goods, no matter whether the package is a glass bottle or tin case, and it is this trade that is going to be most profitable to the Canadian exporter.

Requirements of Trade.

The American exporters, in their zeal to give the British consumer what he wants, have hit upon the scheme of sending over fruit in bulk and repacking it in England after the English style. Unfortunately the soft nature of Canadian fruits precludes this possibility. In order to retain its solidity the fruit would have to be picked green. This would mean sacrificing the delicious flavor which is, perhaps, what commends it most to the British consumer.

Canadians have to compete principally with French and Italian packers for the canned vegetable trade of Great Britain. The United States formerly enjoyed a monopoly of this trade, but have gradually been supplanted by Italian canners who are able to put goods of fair quality on the British market at rock bottom prices on account of cheap labor.

Fifteen years of experience in the export business have taught the Canadian trade many useful lessons. They have learned that Great Britain requires a different article from the domestic trade, although the fundamental requirements for both are "good goods." For instance, the domestic trade require principally standard sizes, namely, 2's and 3's. The British Columbia and British trade prefer 2½-lb. packages, this demand having been created in the first place by Californian packers. In the matter of package it has been found desirable to use better tinplate than has been the custom in years past. Canadian canners are also making a feature of fancy embossed labels, both for domestic and export trade, realizing the superior worth of a bright, attractive package as a seller.

OLD HOMESTEAD FACTORY.

A LATE and very creditable addition to Canada's canning industries is the Old Homestead Canning Co., of Picton, Ontario, a cut of whose fine concrete factory is published herewith. The factory is located on a slight sandy elevation and is built entirely of concrete blocks re-enforced with steel. The main building is 200x50 feet and three storeys high, with a boiler house wing 35x45 feet and a cooking room 20x60 feet. The latter contains 18 cookers with a capacity of 1,130 two-pound cans or 700 three-pound cans each. The main building contains a complete plant for handling fruit and vegetables of the latest design.

The site for the factory was purchased on April 15, 1904, and on the 16th of June the first strawberries were packed, which speaks volumes for the executive ability of the manager.

The company set out with the idea of putting up goods of first-class quality and left nothing to be desired even of the labels, which are very rich. As a result they report a very successful first season. In fact, the foundations are already laid for an addition to the factory 100x36 feet and a new three-storey storehouse 200x65 feet, and the machinery is already on the premises for duplicating the present plant.

The Old Homestead Co. pride themselves on the marked cleanliness that pervades their factory. Every day the refuse is carted away, and as the drainage is good no unpleasant odors are generated.

The shipping facilities are excellent, with a private switch and water communication via the Richelieu and Hepburn lines that call regularly at Picton during the season of navigation.

Situated as the factory is right on the spot, the fruits and vegetables of the neighborhood are delivered the day picked, and canned immediately, so that the flavor and freshness is retained. To provide, however, for over supplies at the height of the season, a refrigerator plant is capable of taking care of any surplus.

Manager A. H. Baker and Assistant Manager L. A. Wright are busy supervising the improvements, and confidently predict greater success this year than last. Contracts have been let with the farmers for over 2,000 acres of fruits and vegetables, and in less than a month the campaign will be on again.

It has been rumored that the Old Homestead Co. had been absorbed by the Canadian Canners, Limited. This rumor is authoritatively denied.

Special Notice to the Trade

The Quaker is now out for the coming season soliciting your orders for "Quaker" canned goods. As usual we have added largely to the plant and we are also handling the pack this year of two additional factories, the goods in these two factories being packed under our own supervision. With this increase we expect, even with the most ordinary crop, to be able to do something this year that we have never done in the five years since we started, i.e., fill our orders in full. Our aim from the start has been to pack high-class goods and make the "Quaker" Brand of Canned Goods the Standard from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We have already succeeded in doing this, and now that we are in this position our further aim is to hold it. With this object increased modern machinery has been placed in the factory and increased care will be taken in packing the goods, all with the determination of holding the high opinion which we now hold with the great consuming public of the Dominion. Next week we will in the "Grocer" give a list of the wholesale trade throughout the Dominion, handling "Quaker" Canned Goods.

THE QUESTION OF PAY

ONE of the most serious problems that confronts the store manager to-day is that of keeping his clerks interested in their work. The spectacle of listless, inattentive, discourteous and inactive salespeople is so universal as to cause comment whenever a store, and especially a city department store, is mentioned. It is the desire of every store superintendent, and also of every department manager, to arouse enthusiasm among the salespeople, but an entirely satisfactory method of doing this has never been devised.

No Satisfactory Solution.

Paying salaries based on the amount of actual sales is not altogether satisfactory.

Placing the salespeople on commission undoubtedly results in greater activity on the part of the clerks, but this in turn results in some abuses that tend to demoralize and arouse antagonism among the salespeople.

Tried Commissions.

A southern merchant who has tried the commission plan is entirely satisfied with it.

Proved Entirely Satisfactory.

The change to a commission basis was made more than a year ago, and has proven eminently satisfactory in every respect. No disadvantages have been discovered, and many advantages have resulted, an important one being an increase of 25 per cent. in the volume of business.

Clerks Earned More.

It is claimed that the clerks find no fault with the present basis of pay. The listless, inactive clerks quit of their own accord, and the ambitious, successful ones remained. On the commission basis they are earning more than they would be if they were paid a salary, one clerk being known to have earned $21 in one day, this, of course, being an exceptional instance. The average earnings are $9 to $18 a week by the women and $10 to $20 by the men.

The Commissions Paid.

The commission paid is 6 per cent. to women and 7 1-2 per cent. to men. This applies to all sales in all departments. No guarantee whatever is given. The salespeople themselves thus assume the entire risk for the amount of their earnings.

Men Paid More.

Just why the women are paid a smaller commission than the men is not stated, but is presumably because of the fact that the responsibility of stock-keeping, opening and unpacking goods and the incidental functions of the business would naturally devolve upon the men, and the time and attention given to this work would naturally need to be compensated for.

Some Common Objections.

It has been our invariable observation that when clerks are paid a commission on their sales they at once make extra efforts to sell goods, and they become more attentive and more accommodating to the customers.

Customers Not Urged.

The clerks are not permitted to become insistent in endeavoring to effect a sale, their functions being limited to showing the merchandise that the customer desires, making every possible effort to find what the customer wants, and, while doing so, to show every possible courtesy and attention.

A Fault in the System.

In this the American department store system is unquestionably at fault. The freedom allowed to customers is a most agreeable feature of the American method, but the resulting evil that it creates, that of causing inattention and quite frequently discourtesy on the part of the clerks, more than overcomes the advantage.

Regular Auction Methods.

On the other hand, in those city stores where clerks are paid on commission, the activity of the salespeople is undoubtedly increased, but their conduct and deportment is anything but pleasant or agreeable to one entering a store. A Chicago store in particular is notorious for the manner in which the clerks "pull in" the customers, and thousands of women could not be induced to enter those establishments, because they believe it would be as much as their life is worth to do so.

Arouses Unfriendly Competition.

In all stores where the clerks work on a commission basis, the system gives rise to a fierce competition which makes the clerks rob each other of good customers, and makes them hurry through one customer who is buying a small bill of goods, in order to catch some new customer whom they know is good for a large bill. This condition, as we well know, is not conducive to a stable, satisfactory business.

Salary and Commission.

A system which we favor is one in which a moderate fixed salary is paid the salespeople, and then an extra inducement is given in the form of a commission on sales in order to induce extra effort and attention on their part. We know a store in Texas that is to-day employing this system with excellent results. The girls are paid from $5 to $10 a week salary, and in addition to this a commission of 2 per cent on their gross sales. The men are paid from $8 to $15 a week, with a commission of 2 per cent. on their gross sales.

Works Well in All Seasons.

By this method they are assured of a steady income through dull as well as busy seasons, yet during the busy seasons they are able to earn more than their normal salary if they exert themselves. We all know that a store can afford to pay an increase in salary when there is an increase in sales.

Must Assure Steady Income.

We also know that efficient, reliable and dependable salespeople are developed only after careful training, and that to keep a good salesperson in one's employ, he or she must be assured of a steady income that will enable him to live in comfort. On the whole, we do not favor the purely commission basis, because we rarely find that it results satisfactorily. A moderate salary, with the addition of a low commission on gross sales, has given better results all around. — Drygoodsman and General Merchant.

DOUBLING OUR CAPACITY

Just one year ago we began the erection of our new factory at Picton, and the packing of "Old Homestead" Brand Canned Goods.

We chose Picton because it is in the centre of the finest fruit and vegetable district in Canada, and we chose the name "Old Homestead" Brand because it seemed to embody those ideas of quality and reliability we were determined our goods should stand for.

We believed there was a field for an independent factory that observed every nicety of cleanliness, that used only the highest-grade fruits and vegetables, and that employed the most approved processes.

WE WERE RIGHT

Our goods, with their superior quality, attractive name, and richly embossed labels, caught the favor of the trade at once.

So great was the demand for "Old Homestead" Brand canned goods, and so thoroughly pleased have the trade expressed themselves, that we are erecting an immense steel and concrete addition in which to instal a duplicate of our present plant.

We have 2,000 acres contracted for this season, and the greater part of our prospective pack has already been sold.

RETAIL MAIL ORDER HOUSES

LOCKING the stable after the steed is stolen is no more short-sighted than waiting till mail-order houses are firmly established before making a fight on them. It is not necessary for these establishments to reach their full growth, to prove their pernicious influence. It only requires a glance at the conditions subsisting in the country districts of the United States, surrounding the big mail order centres, to see the disastrous effects on business, and consequently on land and property values, caused by these enemies of retail trade. Nor is it necessary to go across the line to see these results. Already in Canada the roots of this business are firmly fixed and stagnation in trade and depreciation in values are ever its concomitants.

The time has come for a fair consideration of the question. It would be a sign of the most egregious folly to close one's eyes any longer to the importance of this feature of modern business. It has already done great harm to legitimate retail trade. It will in the future do far more. If there is any opposition to be raised, it should be raised now.

Mail-Order Business Unfair.

A consideration of the question will show: first, that the mail-order business is unfair; second, that it is in the end disastrous to those who use it; third, that it may be successfully combatted.

It is unfair. All possible advantage is taken of the fact that the article to be sold is not seen by the buyer till after it is bought. The merchant doing business over his counter cannot exaggerate. He may put forth the merits of his goods, their high quality and fair price, but his statements will be weighed by a discerning public and in the last instance the goods will be sold on their own merits. They will be compared with other goods of other dealers and they must stand that comparison. This is fair buying and selling. How different is the case of the mail-order houses? Their sales are made on their own extravagant descriptions. A little cut, which can show nothing of the quality of the article, and a fulsome laudation of the quality and price, these are the evidences on which the customer buys. When people have such difficulty in judging the good from the bad when they have the two in their hands, it is not to be expected that they will choose right when they have nothing but a printed description to go by. The folly of such a thing is patent to anyone who thinks of the differences which exist even in staples. On paper the difference in a coarse and fine piece of linen cannot be distinguished. If they are not shown, the same adjectives can be used to describe one as the other. It is unnecessary to mention which the mail-order house would send if an order were sent in. This is just illustrative of the general unfairness, the wrong principle, at the base of a mail-order business.

But it is not allowed to rest there. To the unfairness of the principle has been added deception in the details. We shall not go into many particulars here, —they are too well known to retail merchants throughout the country,—but a single instance will illustrate the point. A well-known standard article will be shown on a page of the mail-order catalogue. A few lines of description are subjoined and the price will be about one quarter less than the regular price. On the opposite page will be a fine cut of a similar article of an unknown make and beneath it is given a glowing description showing its superiority over anything else of the kind ever offered. The first page, with a reduction of the price which everybody knows, inspires the reader with confidence. But, he will say, if this is a bargain, how much more must the one opposite be a bargain, which is shown to be superior to the standard one in every respect. So the unknown make is sold at a big profit. The other article would have made no profit for the mail-order house and was not intended to be sold. It is a game of deception pure and simple.

Ruins the Towns.

The mail-order business, moreover, is disastrous in a much wider sense than that which has just been mentioned. It kills the prosperity of the towns by driving out the business men who make prospcrity possible. There is just one thing which can ensure good, healthy retail business, and that is local support. Without this business there can be no market; the chief taxpayers disappear, the employers of labor require no help, and public works and schools fall into decadence, because those who formerly paid the taxes to support them do so no longer. As a direct consesequence the farmers' lands decrease in value and their produce no longer brings the prices it did when there was an active market. These are not imaginary evils. They can be traced in many parts of Ontario at the present time. They are the natural and necessary results of the patronage of a catalogue house.

With a few of the evils of this class of business before us, the third question, the possibility of successfully fighting it, presses for settlement. Mail-order houses can be successfully competed with. This has been proved conclusively by many merchants throughout the country. It requires, however, the most energetic action on the part of the retailer. He has to take the bull by the horns and fight on the aggressive.

How to Compete Successfully.

The method in which this may be done varies with local conditions. In one place where the farmers were much given to buying from catalogue houses, the proprietor of a general store had this sign hung up prominently:

"We do not pay any cash on butter. We pay 2c. per dozen less for eggs in cash than in trade, and when a customer wants part cash we figure all the eggs at cash price."

The store pays the top price for both butter and eggs in trade, which leaves the farmers no room for complaint, and when they see how much they will lose by taking cash instead of trade they invariably take trade. This is a scheme which ensures home trading and is to be commended.

A method which appeals more strongly to most men is that of education. To convert people from the mail-order habit by convincing them that they can actually buy more cheaply at home is difficult, yet it is the only satisfactory way. Where possible it can be done by a comparison of the home and catalogue goods. Mail-order houses are not in business for their health. The merchant can be assured that they make a good big profit on what they sell. Otherwise how could they keep up their big plants in the cities, and spend the enormous sums they do on catalogues and advertising? With this knowledge, a local dealer can attack them on their own ground by giving better prices and qualities. Keen, progressive merchandising is necessary because his contest is with merchants who seize every vantage point.

Every merchant is naturally entitled to the trade which surrounds his place of business. He is right on the spot with his goods; his expenses are usually low,

The Governor General of Canada Testifies to the Superior Quality of Canadian Fruits and Vegetables such as Packed by the "Canadian Canners, Limited."

In the course of an address on Canada delivered at the Toronto Club on April 28th, 1905, the Governor General of Canada, Earl Grey, spoke in part as follows :—

"The laws of nature have decreed that the country which exists nearest the northern limit of "production has been blessed with an inherent virtue which enables it to produce the best fruits, "the hardest cereals, and the finest and most strenuous men that can be found on the earth. It is a "well established fact that Canadian-grown apples nearest the limit of production are finer in quality, "better in flavor, and last longer than those grown further south."

In his address Earl Grey has simply emphasized a well known and generally conceded fact, viz., that Canada produces fruits and vegetables whose quality is not equalled elsewhere in the world.

The Governor General might have said, and truthfully,—

"If you want to secure the best canned fruits and vegetables, packed by the finest (most ex- "pert) and most strenuous men that can be found on the earth, buy 'CANADA FIRST,' 'LITTLE "CHIEF,' 'LOG CABIN,' 'HORSESHOE,' 'AUTO' brands of Canned Goods."

Why? Because,

1st. The fruits and vegetables packed under the brands above mentioned are Canadian grown, and are of the highest degree of excellence.

2nd. They are grown in the immediate neighborhood of factories.

3rd. Are picked only when best suited for table use.

4th. Are packed the same day as picked.

5th. Are subject to rigid inspection and highest sanitary conditions.

6th. Canada's most skilled artists and most expert lithographers have been busy for months preparing a new series of artistic and beautifully embossed labels for these popular brands of canned goods. The seal of the Canadian Canners, Limited, will appear on these labels as a guarantee of quality of contents.

Remember the best are always the cheapest, and the well known guaranteed brands are the easiest sold and give the best satisfaction to the consumer.

BUY the BEST.

and he has the important advantage of being able to become personally acquainted with his possible customers. Under these circumstances it would seem that all he needs to hold this trade is to offer as great inducements as the mail-order house. But this is not all. As we have pointed out above, the seeming inducements of the catalogue are not real inducements in many cases, but fakes and shams. The retail merchant must be prepared to prove this, and the best and most satisfactory way to do it is by consistently giving good quality for a fair price. Good buying and good selling are alike requisite in accomplishing this end, but the competition of the present day is demanding these more and more, if commercial existence is to be maintained at all.

Credit System.

The credit system, which is necessary in many parts of the country, should be the means of keeping business at home. It has frequently been much abused by people buying the necessaries from the local store on time, only to use the cash, when it came in, to buy from the catalogue houses. It would be a waste of time to argue with such a one on the injustice of his conduct. Arguments based on fairness or justice would not be understood by him. But he might be made to understand the inexpediency of his course. If he was out of work temporarily or if there was a crop failure, would the mail-order house carry him for a month, or six months, or a year? Not at all. Their business is done on an absolutely cash basis. The money has to be paid before the goods are seen; that is the principle of their sales. It is in such contingencies that the local merchant is called on for credit, but it is a bad time to ask for time. Points such as these should be used where this competition is felt. Expediency may accomplish what justice cannot effect.

Local conditions must govern the course which should be taken in opposing mail-order houses in any particular place. The important thing is to take some active steps against them. They are a menace to retail merchants and as such must be watched and combatted consistently and vigorously.

THE FAIRBANK PLAN.

The attention of grocers and grocery clerks is directed to Fairbank's new plan, which is on an entirely different basis from the usual system of coupons. A study of it will convince participants of its merit. The N. K. Fairbank Co., Montreal, will be pleased to mail a catalogue to every merchant or clerk desiring to avail himself of this valuable system. Reference to this notice in The Grocer will bring a prompt reply.

TRADE HELPS

There are just a few things in a grocery store that help to sell other things, and one of them is the FRANKFORD CANNED GOODS, which are always of the highest and best quality. The town of Frankford is situated in the Trent Valley, celebrated for growing the finest flavored Fruits and Vegetables in the world. It is no exaggeration to say that there is not a spot on the continent so splendidly adapted for the perfect growth of Fruits and Vegetables. Recognizing that it was an ideal spot for a canning factory, one year ago the Frankford Canning Co. erected a plant and factory in this locality No expense has been spared in procuring the most experienced and practical men for the packing and management of the business, so as to insure perfection in the class of goods we place before the public. Our Processor has had a practical experience of 25 years, and when 25 years is spent in one business it is sure to give one a very thorough knowledge of that business, and as our Processor has been superintendent and manager for some of the largest packers in the United States and Canada we can truthfully say of our goods they eclipse all others as to quality, quantity and purity Any grocer can demonstrate the truth of these statements to the fullest extent and it is to both his own and his customers' benefit that he should demonstrate it.

Co-operation Among Canadian Apple Growers

Written specially for The Grocer by A. McNeill, Chief of the Fruit Division, Ottawa.

THE movement among the apple growers in certain portions of Canada towards co-operative packing and selling must not be confused with the formation of ordinary stock companies for the buying and selling of fruit in the open market. The co-operative movement is not in any sense of the nature of a trust that proposes to monopolize the sale of apples. Even the most sanguine of those interested expect no more in the near future than an improvement in the methods of packing and selling that will prevent the decrease, if not the total extinction, of apple growing on many Canadian farms. So far the movement is confined almost exclusively to Southern and Western Ontario. These sections have been practically abandoned by the ordinary apple operators who deal in storing stock. The crop is abundant and usually of an excellent quality, but owing to the warmer climate and earlier season cannot be handled for the same markets nor by methods quite profitable for the northern apples. There are at least three objects aimed at:

First—To pick and pack different varieties at proper seasons by the most economical methods.

Second—To concentrate the comparatively small quantities of each grower into long lines uniformly (and honestly) marked and packed.

Third—To secure the best intelligence among the growers to market the product, bringing, if possible, the buyer and seller together so that there may be little or no possible ground for dispute as to price, grade, packing or condition of fruit.

It will thus be seen that there is no attempt to supplant any efficient existing business method, but rather to substitute something where ordinary methods have proved a gross failure.

Modern commercial orchards have only two or three varieties at the most, except for local markets; the older orchards are not small, but comprise from six to many varieties. If these many varieties are picked only once or twice during the season there will be such a loss in fruit absolutely unfit for packing at time of picking as is difficult to estimate, to say nothing of the comparatively poor condition of much that is accepted. The saving under this head by co-operative methods amounts to a large percentage of the total receipts at present.

The gathering of large quantities of fruit of the same variety and of uniform grade and marking will appeal to the Old Country merchant. He wishes to deal in a staple product which he can duplicate. It is hoped that by co-operation there may be enough of one grade gathered at two or three convenient places in Canada to induce English buyers to buy direct. As long as buyers are asked to travel long distances at a great expenditure of time and money to secure small lots of many grades of apples it must be expected that the margin between the price to the grower and the price to the consumer will be very great. The conditions, however, will be very different if buyer and seller can meet and conclude a bargain before the fruit is out of the hands of the producers. The seller will not be obliged to take the irrevocable step of moving his fruit from the storehouse till he has the assurance of a definite market. On the other hand the buyer is under no obligation to buy unless the grade, price and other conditions suit him. It is true that there will still remain many exigencies of transportation, weather and market for which an allowance will always have to be made. But the merchant being on the spot is the man to deal with these. Hence the wisdom of the leaders in the co-operative movement who have determined to send no fruit on consignment. If these associations can offer five or ten or twenty thousand barrels of a single brand at one place, it is not too much to ask a merchant from London, Liverpool or Glasgow to come where buyer and seller will be on an equal footing. Many Canadian dry goods merchants visit England and Scotland yearly to make purchases where the goods are produced and it is the intention, if possible, to extend this good business principle to the Canadian apple trade. This movement will appeal to the merchants who wish to build up a permanent business on principles that are economical to the producer and convenient for the middle man. It is presumed that the firms already in the trade will fall in with the movement as it means more and better fruit that can be handled with less risk and, therefore, with more regular, if smaller, percentage of profit.

THE CANADIAN FRUIT MARKET.

APPLES have been and, as far as can be seen, will continue to be Canada's principal export in the department of fruit. The amount and value of the exportation of apples will always be dependent in a measure on the crop conditions, though by the adoption of improved methods of cultivation and the planting of new orchards, a steady growth in the size of the apple crop may be counted on.

A glance at the following table will show the increase in the exportation of apples during the past five years:

1900	$2,578,233
1901	1,482,927
1902	1,566,808
1903	2,758,724
1904	4,590,793

The great bulk of these apples were shipped each year to Great Britain. The other countries which imported small quantities from Canada were the United States, Belgium, France, Germany and Newfoundland.

Canada exports small quantities of blackberries, gooseberries, raspberries, strawberries and fruit pulp, but her main hold on the foreign markets will be through her canned fruits, of which she is exporting a fair quantity. The figures for the past five years are:

1900	$329,405
1901	181,438
1902	142,972
1903	402,186
1904	358,942

Imports of Green Fruits.

Referring to imports, the most important item is naturally "oranges, lemons and limes." Of these Canada imported a value of $1,221,256 in 1904. In 1900 the importation was only $913,235, and there has been a steady growth during the interval. The importation of bananas has increased from $519,342 to $809,684 during the same period. Of other fruits the following table will show the importation:

	1900.	1904
Blackberries, etc.	$93,595	$107,379
Cherries	10,746	16,014
Cranberries	42,254	54,715
Grapes	55,551	79,752
Guavas, etc.	1,906	9,638
Peaches	52,497	58,005
Pineapples	59,443	133,145
Plums	39,123	49,379
Wild Berries	789	1,066
Other Fruits	62,005	62,537

The great bulk of these fruits are imported from or through the United States. A value of $17,585 in bananas and $29,365 in oranges, lemons, etc. is imported direct from the British West Indies. A value of $27,663 in grapes and $103,133 in oranges, lemons, etc., comes from Great Britain. Italy sends $343,616 in oranges and lemons, and Japan $15,620 in the same line. From Spain come small shipments of grapes and oranges.

Vegetable Exports.

Potatoes form the bulk of Canada's shipments of vegetables to foreign countries. In 1904 a value of $1,179,481 was shipped as compared with $330,309 in 1900. Of this total the following countries received the larger shares:

MR. A. MCNEILL
Chief of Fruit Division, Ottawa.

United States	$749,881
Great Britain	1,689
British Guiana	32,108
British W. Indies	75,393
Newfoundland	20,028
Cuba	288,750

Other vegetables exported are tomatoes, corn and beans in cans or packages, and turnips. Of the former Canada shipped $167,020 in 1904, as compared with $18,101 in 1900. Of the latter her shipments amounted to $28,157 in 1904. The principal receiving countries are the United States, the West Indies and Newfoundland.

Vegetable Imports.

The imports of vegetables total about $700,110, distributed as follows:

Melons	$10,370	$21,494
Potatoes	69,073	78,578
Potatoes (sweet)	14,352	20,351
Tomatoes (fresh)	26,194	103,763
Tomatoes and corn (cans)	99,893	131,750
Others	193,267	344,174
	$413,149	$700,110

As in the case of fruits, the bulk of these vegetables are imported from the United States.

A COMPARISON OF NOVA SCOTIA AND ONTARIO APPLES.

By R. A. Bennett, Winnipeg.

THROUGHOUT Western Canada today, and as a matter of fact for the last few years, you hear arguments galore on the respective merits of fruits grown in Ontario and Nova Scotia.

Any comparison between the two provinces as far as fruit production is concerned must necessarily be confined to apples, for, although I have eaten grapes grown in the province by the sea which were the equal of any I ever tasted from Ontario, and have also seen peaches growing in a very promising manner, still I fancy all Nova Scotians will agree with me when I state that the apple crop is far and away the most important fruit crop grown there.

Annapolis Valley.

Throughout the Annapolis Valley on every side you see an endless stretch of fruit orchards which, in the Spring of the year, defy description, being a mass of blossom, and one of the most beautiful scenes you could gaze upon. These trees are no mean part of the backbone of the province and are regarded and pointed out to tourists with the utmost pride. Very few touring Americans would consider leaving Nova Scotia without seeing the "valley in fruit time." Of late years, at most of the principal railway stations, foreign merchants have established offices for the purpose of buying the crops. The Niagara Peninsula of Ontario presents much the same scene, but not by any means on so large a scale.

Gravenstein Variety.

Of the varieties of apples grown in Nova Scotia, mention can only be made of a very few of the principal ones. Of these, probably the leading apple is the Gravenstein, which is not grown anywhere else as it is in Nova Scotia. It is of a beautiful delicate color, firm but very juicy, and has a peculiar scent which can be detected at a distance.

Indeed, a barrel of these apples will fill a room with their peculiar odor. The Gravenstein as grown in Ontario is by no means the equal of the Nova Scotia product in delicacy of color or of flavor. As a rule, I think the size is about the same. Another favorite of the Valley is the Bishop pippin, which is grown in large quantities, and as a Winter and cooking apple, ranks very high. It is a fair-sized apple, some samples are very large and of good color, but many are spotted on the skin. This in no way interferes with the quality of the apple, it being only outside. I have heard many authorities express their opinion that spotting is due to the action of the sea air. I may say that I have noticed these spots on nearly all varieties of Nova Scotia apples in a greater or less degree but have not inquired deeply into the cause.

The russet in its several varieties is seen in Nova Scotia in great profusion. It grows to a large size and as a keeping apple is probably as good a variety as can be found anywhere.

King of Tompkins.

In the several other varieties considered as staple Winter apples, the two provinces appear to be evenly matched, with the exception of the King of Tompkins. This apple is grown larger and of somewhat better flavor in Nova Scotia. Judging from the samples of XXX apples which are sent from Ontario year by year, there is a marked improvement in quality and size, which is most noticeable in such stock as Northern Spy, King of Tompkins, and in fact nearly all the varieties generally stored for Winter sale, with the single exception of the russet, which does not appear to gain much in size, although the quality is passable. This apple (either golden or nonpareil) is by no means the equal of the Annapolis Valley product.

Cooper Market.

A noticeable Ontario production last year was the "Cooper Market." This gave good satisfaction, being of a nice fresh color, firm and rather juicy, and wintered well. It has also good cooking qualities. The King of Tompkins from Ontario is a very fine apple and the equal of the Nova Scotia product in color, firmness and cooking qualities; but the latter province produces it in much larger size and, I believe, somewhat tastier, although there is not much difference.

Northern Spy.

The favorite apple from Ontario in the West is, by long odds, the "Northern Spy." This variety is too well known to require more than mention; suffice it to say that in this line the two provinces are on a fairly equal footing.

To give an unbiased opinion, I firmly believe that, comparing all varieties of Summer and early Autumn apples, Nova Scotia is far and away ahead of Ontario, but in the varieties of Winter or cooking apples, they are more nearly equal.

GREEN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Green Fruits.

Toronto, May 26, 1905.

A BRISK business is reported in all kinds of green fruits for the week under review, especially oranges and pines, both of which are slightly firmer owing to increased demand. A firmer market is reported in lemons. Bananas are selling freely, large bunches per crate being quoted as high as from $1.50 to $3. North Carolina strawberries are out of the market and their place has been taken by Baltimore stock which arrived on the market for the first time May 22.

The price of straws this week is up 2c., the reason being that we are practically between the seasons for North Carolina and Baltimore stock and there has been a scarcity of supplies on the local market. Our quotations are:

Bahama grape fruit, per box		5 00
California grape fruit, per box		3 00
Havana pines per case	3 00	4 00
California navel oranges, per box	3 25	4 50
Oranges, Mediterranean sweets, per box	3 50	4 00

Red bananas, per bunch	2 00	2 25
Apples, Winter varieties	2 50	5 00
Baltimore strawberries, per quart	0 16	0 17

Vegetables.

Domestic green vegetables are slowly taking the place of imported stuff, Baltimore radishes and imported asparagus having been replaced by domestic produce, which is quoted as follows: Asparagus, per doz. bunches, 75c.; new radishes, per doz. bunches, 20c. Charlestown cabbage has been replaced by Baltimore stock, which is quoted at $1.75 to $2. Bermuda potatoes are down $1 and Florida tomatoes are 25c. firmer than last week

Vegetables.

Dealers report a fine condition of business. Trade is said to be pretty good and continually and steadily growing. Demand in general is fair. There is little new stock arriving but Egyptian onions which are of fine quality. Prices remain firm, but are expected, however, to become easier when more new stock arrives in larger quantities.

DOWN BY THE SOUNDING SEA

The Summer Charms of Eastern Canada, too Little Known to Many of Us.

THE famous New York journalist's advice on the subject of going west may be, and it is regrettable to obscrve has been, followed too literally and too unreservedly by the vast majority of Canadians. When we migrate we set out toward the setting sun; when we determine on a holiday trip to see the country, our steps turn in the same all-compelling direction, the path of Cartier, of La Salle, of Verandrye.

As a consequence, there are few of us so poor but can boast of having bestridden the agile bronco on his native plains, or at least of having brother, aunt or cousin-in-law dwelling on those fecund and far-flung prairies of our western heritage, whose boast is No. 1 hard wheat and Napoleonic statesmen.

Far be it from the gentle scribe to disparage the mighty West or to discourage the roving spirit of our race as inherited from their Viking progenitors. Quite the contrary!

Why Not Go East?

But is it beside the point to urge that in our going up and down in the land and walking to and fro upon it, we neglcct our no less mighty east, the cradle of our nation, the scene of her early and often bloody struggles, and to-day uniting the attractions of historic and literary interests with the most entrancing physical charm?

Our eastern provinces have been disgraccfully neglected by the great bulk of Canadians. From Quebec to Halifax their rivers, streams, mountains, lakes and woodlands echo through the Summer months with the ubiquitous voice of the tourist, but the speech of the north is not distinguishable. The nasal twang of Connecticut, the "ruhly" stately intonation of Beacon street, the r-less dialect affected by the denizens of Manhatten Borough, afflict one's ears on every side, with but occasional relief in the languidly liquid voice that comes from beyond the Mason and Dixon line "foh suah."

American Invasion in East.

Thcre is an American invasion in Eastcrn Canada as in the Wcst. It begins in June and continues with increasing virulence until the Winter sets in. It has been more alarming every Summer for some years. Season after season they return bringing their friends to enjoy the luxury of an Eastern Canada Summer.

What do they find so attractive? What is the secret of the charm that brings north these southern visitors every Summer as surely as the April sunshine brings the wild flowers or the vernal warmth the bird of passage?

Taking Quebec.

If you would know, let us spy out the land in a rapid survey that may be made more leisurely and more exhaustively anon. Let us take Quebec as our starting point. To misquote the gallant Wolfe, I would rather take Quebec, any month in the year, than write this article.

Crossing over to Levis, having already secure our berths, let us retire peacefully to rest in the solid comfort of an Intercolonial sleeper. But fail not to leave up your blind, for if day breaks fine you are to be awakened by the glory of the most splendid sunrise it has ever been your lot to witness. The noble St. Lawrence stretches before your dazzled eyes one glitter of liquid gold, while, their gauntness masked with a halo of purple mist, lurk the grim Laurentians beyond the further shore.

Corner in Capt. C. O. Allen's Orchard in September, Kentville, N.S.

The Metapedia.

But one glory must give place to another, and while you have been snatching behind drawn blind another hour's sleep, your train has left the shores of thc great river and struck out boldly for the inland. Rising again on your elbow to view the landscape o'er you find you are just entering the famous valley of the Metapedia, the queen of salmon rivers and a paradise of scenery. On your one hand, so near you can almost touch it from the car window, rises the precipitous rock to an appalling height, clothed with a ragged growth of spruce clinging, one can scarce conceive how, to their rocky base; almost as close on the other bank is a stream, here but a few yards wide, clear as crystal, hurling itself down in yeasty haste through the uncompromising bed of rocks that impede its progress. Immediately beyond rises a green slope, swelling in the distance into great billowy hills, green as the proverbial bay tree, and crowned miles off with dark masses of evergreens, while here and there, by the water's edge or half hidden behind the shelter of a clump of trees, nestle the cottage of the fisherman or shepherd.

As the river bends and turns, the valley contracts or opens up, now stern and forbidding, now serene and inviting, with the little Metapedia ever beautiful, ever sparkling, ever gathering in volume, picking its way down, despite all obstacles, to join the Restigouche, itself a noted salmon river.

Pursuing its serpentine way, the railroad keeps close to the bank of the Restigouche, whose broad waters well serve to float down the great lumber barges from the milling villages on its upper reaches.

Baie de Chaleurs.

Now you are approaching the Baie de Chalcurs, and as its blue waters grow upon you in the distance, your mind travels back to that hot July day some four centuries ago when a certain mariner of St. Malo, Jacques Cartier by name, hove to under those same dark mountains of Gaspe which, sixty miles off in the hazy distance, seem so absurdly near.

Skirting the southern shore of the "bay of heat" you at length wheel round toward the south, amazed at the number and beauty of the streams you cross, all noted for their salmon and rejoicing in such euphonious names as Nepisiguit, Tabusintac and Miramichi.

Mr. Jos. Kinsman and his famous old Gravenstein.
This tree, from which 27 barrels of fruit have been picked in one season, is over 100 years old and is still bearing well.

Beyond the latter river you traverse some 60 miles of country, where the terrible destruction wrought by the forest fire is altogether too evident. The young spruce and a low, bushy shrub have striven as effectively as may be to retrieve the natural beauty of the forest, and once in the year at least turn desolation into entrancing loveliness when the first chill of September has tinted the waste one glorious purple.

The City of The Bore.

At Moncton you first come face to face with the Fundy tidal streams and mud flats. Here is seen the famous "bore" of the Petitcodiac River. At low tide the Petitcodiac is a mile and a half of greasy, red mud with a few inches of muddy, red water doing service for the river, while an incongruous line of schooners adorn the muddy flats with no apparent prospect of ever getting off. At high tide the Petitcodiac is a mighty river forty feet deep and a mile and a half wide. The change takes place in the marvellously short time of six hours. The bore occurs twice every day and is the advance guard of the incoming tide, hurling itself up the stream, under the most favorable circumstances, six feet high at its crest and with a speed of 10 miles an hour.

The Garden of The Gulf.

From Moncton an hour's ride will see you at Point du Chene, where you embark for the island of Prince Edward, or as the Islanders love to call it, "The Garden of the Gulf." Nor is the expression ill applied. Of red sandstone formation, the soil is strikingly fertile. Oats, hay and potatoes are the principal agricultural products, while the lobster and oyster fisheries are the source of no inconsiderable revenue.

The Island boasts of the most crooked railway on earth. It is narrow gauge, and was built on the principle of following the longest line between any two points. Every Islander can explain to you the political reason for this phenomenon, but it is beyond the grasp of the mere outsider.

Picturesque Old Pictou.

Leaving the beautiful Hillsborough Bay for the mainland again, you enjoy a sail rarely equalled across the strait to the interesting old town of Pictou. The palmy days of Pictou passed with the passing of the sailing vessel, the good old days when the fortunes of Eastern Canada were founded, when freights were plentiful and profitable, when a vessel was known to pay for itself in two or even in one season, when the shipping of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick was to be found in every part of the world, when the shipbuilding trade flourished, and the carrying of the nations was no small part ours. Those are the days upon which the Nova Scotian looks back with pride and regret. Pictou is awaiting the return of those days with the steel liner substituted for the vessel of fortune. Meanwhile the harvest of the straits employs her attention.

Off For Sydney.

If you would see Nova Scotia aright, and enjoy an endless variety of landscape and waterscape, of hill and valley, wood and plain, stream and lake, bay, gulf and old ocean itself, you must turn north to Sydney, passing en route through the black country of Nova Scotia, Newcastle and New Glasgow, with their gaunt, dark hills, their collieries and coal dumps and the usual griminess consequent upon proximity to coal mines.

This is soon left behind and you enter a more inviting country, the beautiful Piedmont Valley. Your train winds in and out, here and there, as if delighting in the graceful curves by which it skirts here a mountain, there a lake, now a bend in the river, and every few rods taking at a bound the crystal-clear brooks among whose granite pebbles disport the speckled beauties that delight the eye and gladden the heart of the angler.

At Antigonish (pronounced Ant-i-gonish) the double steeple of St. Ninan's Cathedral marks the centre of a prosperous settlement of Scottish Highlanders, among whom the Gaelic is still the common tongue and John Knox held in no high repute as a mere Sassanach.

Among The Bras d'Or Lakes.

At Mulgrave a ferry of fearsome aspect and four funnels, none the less, conveys you safely across the Gut of Canso and lands you on good Cape Breton soil. You are soon in the midst of the Bras d'Or lakes. Arm of Gold, the picturesque French name for this fifty-mile stretch of inland sea, is extremely happy, and as the sun goes down in a bed of liquid fire just before you run into Sydney, it will be readily conceded that for picturesque ruggedness of landscape and serene beauty of its illimitable waters Cape Breton is without a peer.

Coal, with the collieries of Glace Bay, the Marconi cable station, and the ruins of old Louisburg within hailing distance, is certainly not devoid of interest, even were it not situated on one of the most beautiful sheets of water in the world, an open harbor, with the slight assistance of an ice breaker, urge its citizens, the year round. Nor can one pass without paying a tribute to the courtesy and hospitality of the Sydney citizens, as many a visitor can testify.

If you have good sea legs the trip from Sydney to Halifax along the north shore will vary your experience and may, perchance, give you a glimpse of a fleet of "bankers" laden with cod, seeking the harbor of Canso, Halifax, or Lunenburg to discharge their finny cargo.

The Gateway of The East.

Halifax reminds one of Quebec, with its eternal citadel crowning the conical hill round which the city is built. Halifax is distinctly a garrison town with the real Tommy Atkins mounting guard and showing visitors round the citadel and incidentally disposing of a few military buttons to relic hunters. The citadel, from a military standpoint, is sadly out of repair, but none the less interesting on that account, so long as a gun or two are in condition for firing salutes.

But think not that "The Warden of the Honor of the North" is to be had for the asking by the first belligerent who knocks at her gates. Far from it. Let us take a seat in Robinson's buckboard with a party of slightly supercilious and critical Yankee tourists and a loquacious and aggressively Canadian Bluenose as a Jehu. Seeing Halifax this way on a hot Summer day is a joy in itself—the discomfiture of our Yankee friends, certain to ensue, is the acme of delight.

A Bluenose Jehu.

The citadel is first inspected and the Yankees score. As a relic the citadel is not without interest, but at New York, at Boston——. Our Jehu turns his horses toward the park, the harbor park. Human nature has its limitations. Perish the dastard who permits the enemy to triumph within his gates.

"Belongs to the British Government," he announces truculently, as we enter one of the most beautiful pieces of woodland imaginable, extending from the city to the outer entrance to the harbor along the southern shore. "Masked batteries everywhere," he whispers mysteriously. "Redoubts," threateningly, and then launches into an exposition of the destructive power of these engines of death whose lightest word would harrow up the soul and freeze the blood of the boldest Yank that ever purchased a tourist ticket or talked through his nose. "Mines," pursues the old fellow fiendishly, pointing seaward and dilating on the possibilities of these hidden terrors as against foreign vessels in general and American ships of war in particular in a manner so unpleasantly reminiscent of the late lamented Maine as to leave the visitors from the south in a state of utter collapse. So far, well. British honor has been vindicated and the affront offered the "Gateway of the East" effaced. All this is excellent for the appetite, especially a Canadian appetite.

The Land of Evangeline.

"Have you seen the valley?" is the prevailing question with which you are greeted on confessing that you are a tourist. Having in the last few days seen some hundreds of thousands more valleys than even in your wildest dreams you had ever imagined existed, you may be at a loss. You are not left long in doubt. The valley has but one signification to every good Nova Scotian, the valley of the Annapolis and Cornwallis Rivers, the orchard of the east, the pride of the Lower Provinces.

Do not resist. Take the Flying Bluenose and the conductor will let you off at Wolfville. Wolfville, the seat of Acadia University and the entrance to the valley. Here lie before you the broad acres of the Grand Pre, the red waters of the Basin of Minas, while "far to the north Blomidon rises" in his solitary grandeur. Here you may forget the cares of your work-a-day world and dream of the old Acadian village, of Evangeline and Gabriel, of the blacksmith shop and the parish church, while your eye wanders idly from the cattle grazing peacefully over the dyked meadows below to the heavily-laden orchards climbing the hill above you, while the red waters of the basin ebb and flow, as they have done any time these long centuries.

"The murmuring pines and the hemlocks," if they ever had existence outside the mind of the poet, have long since given place to the apple everywhere in sight, now, in early September, laden with a crushing load of fruit.

Enjoying the Valley.

If you are wise you will seek out an honest liveryman and make a day of it to Blomidon along the north mountain and the "lookout," of twadle lazily up the valley in the direction of Kentville, rejoicing in the possession of eyes. You may now take your bearings and familiarize yourself with the general contour of the valley. From six to twelve miles wide, it lies a series of terrace-like ridges, rising from the river to the north and south mountains, which enclose the valley, the former warding off the fogs and cold blasts from Fundy, and the latter, the no less chilling airs of the Atlantic. Here, facing the sun, lies the valley smiling in its rich fertility and envying none.

At Kentville, if you are fortunate to fall into the hands of Mr. J. D. De Wolfe, or his friends, Capt. C. O. Allen or Mr. Jos. Kinsman, you will not fail to see the beauties or the resources with which nature has so bountifully dowered this sixty miles of orchard from Wolfville to Annapolis Royal. But a small part of the land in the valley suitable for orchard has been so utilized. The valley is crying for more population and it will be surprising if this, from so charming a spot, remains long unheeded.

On to St. John.

Boarding again the Flying Bluenose, you are whisked rapidly by Annapolis Royal, with its ruined fort and historic associations starting thoughts of that rival post across the bay and the moving tale of its heroic defence by the young Mme. de la Tour; on to Digby, at the head of the basin, hence by steamer through the beautiful channel that bears the name of Digby Gap, across Fundy to the bustling City of St. John.

St. John, like Rome of old, is a city built on seven (or more) hills, but prides herself not in the pomp and circumstance of war, but in her superb harbor and her enviable position as the Winter port of Canada. St. John desires of the Government a drydock and to be recognized officially as the national port of Canada. It may be urged in rebuttal that St. John already has a sufficiency of drydocks, for the coasting schooners run into the slips at high tide are left high and dry on the solid rock at low tide, discharge and take on cargo and are off again at next high water. This is one of the surprises St. John has in store for the inlander. Another, likewise ascribable to the wonderful Fundy tides, is the curious reversing falls just above the bridge. Here the river bed contracts into a narrow gorge so that at low tide the river water is banked up and discharged through the gorge in a series of rapids almost approaching the dimensions of a cataract. At high tide the reverse is to be observed with the tidal waters banked up and forcing their way through the gorge down into the river above, if the Hibernianism may be pardoned. All this is sufficiently wonderful for all except those unreasonable persons who insist on seeing the falls flow up and down at the same time.

A steamer trip up the St. John River to Fredericton completes the circuit of the Maritime Provinces. He who has not made it has yet in store a fortnight of rare delight.

CONDENSED MILK INDUSTRY.

A STRIKING illustration of the growth of the dairying industry in Canada during the last few years is furnished in the manufacture of condensed milk, which, although only of three or four years duration, is already assuming considerable proportions. For instance, in 1898 Canada imported $59,101 of this product, and last year exported $153,761 worth. The imports for the last five years were as follows: 1900, $254,176; 1901, $99,434; 1902, $52,158; 1903, $23,032; 1904, $153,761; going to show, if one can generalize on the trade returns of such a few years, that domestic manufacturers are gradually getting this trade into their own hands. Acording to the Blue Book, Canada exported condensed milk last year to British Africa, China, the Philippines, Newfoundland, and the United States.

There are at the present time seven milk condensing plants in Canada, located in Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island; a number of American manufacturers who have not already established branches on this side of the line have permanent representatives in all the leading cities.

In the manufacture of condensed milk the greatest possible care is taken from the very beginning until the product is ready for the market. Only selected food is used in feeding cattle—malt, barley sprouts and such foods as would tend to produce an inferior quality of milk being barred. Inspectors visit the stock farms regularly and see to it that the barns and milk houses are in proper condition, and that the cattle are free from disease. The result is that the milk received at the factories is the very best it is possible to produce.

The manufacturing process proper is comparatively simple. The milk is reduced by an evaporating process to the consistency of a heavy cream. This is sealed hermetically in tin cans and sterilized by special process, after which it is ready for the market. The sweetened product is known as condensed milk, and the unsweetened as evaporated cream.

No one who has ever camped out or gone on long outing excursions needs to be told of the virtues of condensed milk or evaporated cream. It is quite as wholesome as ordinary fresh milk or cream; in fact the tourist or camper is inclined to say it is infinitely more so, especially when the other is not to be had for love or money. In any event, condensed milk fills a need that is only beginning to be properly appreciated by the consuming public of Canada and foreign countries. This is the age for "ready-made" commodities. Never have package goods been so popular as to-day. Canned meats, fruits, and foodstuffs of all descriptions are in great demand, simply because they are cheap in price, convenient to handle, and save an infinite amount of trouble in preparation. Condensed milk and evaporated cream have all these good features, and the additional one that milk, along with bread, are commonly looked upon as necessities of life, and are in demand when many lines of canned goods would be looked upon as luxuries.

AN UP-TO-DATE CREAMERY.

The one thing needful in Canada to-day, if the possibilities of the dairying industry in general and of the manufacture of creamery butter in particular are to be realized to the full, is perfectly-equipped factories, perfect control of the product during manufacture, and perfect hygienic conditions. Such conditions have been admirably met in the case of the St. Mary's Creamery, St. Mary's, Ont. The situation is in one of the best dairy districts of Canada, well watered, rich pastures, not subject to severe droughts, superior cattle and intelligent dairymen, who have got the handling of milk down to a science. The product of the St. Mary's Creamery is second to none on the Canadian market.

If the Dominion Government would only come to the assistance of creamery men by instituting a systematic inspection of creameries every week in the year Canadian butter makers and dairymen would soon be educated to produce the finest butter in the world. Canada has the soil, the herds, the climate to do it; all that is needed to insure the desired result is the steady instruction of the dairymen.

DAIRY AND PROVISION NEWS.

The Cornwallis Creamery, N.S., is to be closed for the Summer.

The Ferguson Produce Co. have started in business in Shelburne, Ont.

The Summer service of iced refrigerator cars for the transportation of butter to Montreal has been commenced by the Canada Atlantic Railway. The service is arranged under the direction of the Department of Agriculture and no extra charge for icing is made to shippers.

The Sherbrooke Dairy Co., Sherbrooke, Que., have been incorporated with capital of $10,000 to manufacture dairy machinery, utensils and supplies. The provisional directors include F. Hovey, P. K. Hovey and A. L. Parker, all of Sherbrooke.

DYEING THE OCEAN.

One of the most attractive as well as applicable ads. issued by a Canadian firm is the handsome lithograph (in colors) issued by J. M. Douglas & Co., Montreal, manufacturers of "Blueol." The picture represents a handsome maiden in the surf sprinkling the contents of a package of "Blueol" on the surging waves of the ocean and dying the water a perfect blue. The effect is striking, and as an ad. for a grocery store is not only a beautiful ornament but a trade-bringer. Particulars as to how this lovely picture may be obtained will be readily furnished by J. M. Douglas & Co., Montreal, if reference is made to this notice.

WESTERN SECRETARY.

As mentioned in a recent issue of The Grocer, Mr. W. A. Coulson, of Winnipeg, has been appointed secretary and organizer of the Retail Merchants Association of Western Canada. The Grocer has pleasure in presenting his portrait in this issue.

Mr. Coulson was for a number of years circulation manager of the Ottawa Free Press, and his training in that work should serve him in good stead in the arduous duties pertaining to the organization of this young association. The Grocer bespeaks for him a good reception from the western merchants.

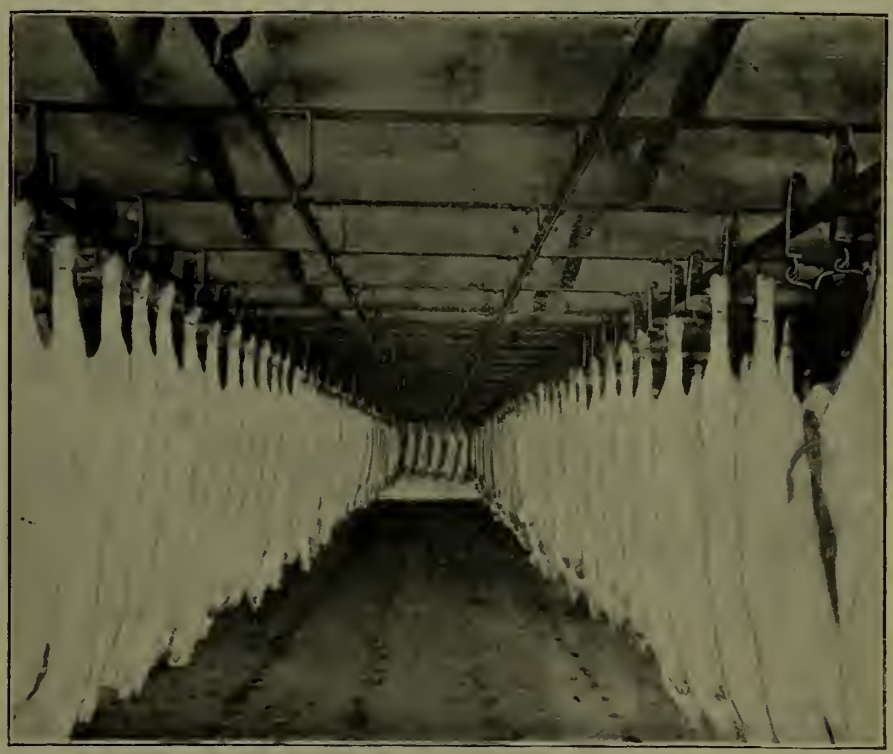
THE CANADIAN PORK-PACKING INDUSTRY

THE meat curing and packing industry of Canada when judged by the value of its annual output, ranks well among the foremost industries of the country. During the last decade its development has been indeed phenomenal. In 1891 the value of the output was $5,264,143, while in 1901 it was $22,217,984. Yet in that year the capital invested was only $5,395,162 in the 57 establishments reporting; that is, those employing more than five persons. In many other industries the capital invested more than equals the output. This shows how profitable to a country the meat curing industry can become. The large relative value of the output is, of course, due to the high price of the raw material. But the raw material is drawn from the country, and the money paid goes to the rancher or farmer to help develop the country and create new markets for other industries.

Future Possibilities.

The fact that the industry increased four-fold during the decade, 1891-1901, gives some idea of its possibilities. But a glance at the American census tables will further help to grasp its potential development. In 1860, 259 meat-packing and slaughtering establishments reported an output of $29,441,776, so that, speaking in round figures, the States were then about where Canada is to-day. In 1900, 921 establishments reported an output of $785,562,433. In forty years the value of the output multiplied almost 27 times. Canada can at least expect an equal increase.

Statistics of pork packing in Canada in recent years show almost a steady increase until five years ago, when the returns indicated a total of 1,491,000 hogs handled by packers during the year ending March 1, 1900. Since then there has been a decline, although that year's total has been exceeded the past two years, the indication for the year ending March 1, 1905, being 1,650,000 hogs.



The number of hogs packed in Canada for the eight Summer season months, March 1 to November 1, the four Winter months, November 1 to March 1, and total for the year ending March 1, from 1878 to 1904, inclusive, were:

How Pork is Packed.

A visit to a Canadian pork-packing industry is as instructive as it is interesting. Most grocers and general merchants know something of the slaughter of cattle and hogs. It is one thing, however, to see two or three hogs butchered after the primitive fashion in vogue in the suburban districts, and another thing to witness the slaughter of 220 hogs per hour in a modern packing house with an annual capacity averaging 200,000 hogs.

Under the new regime the "squeal" is entirely eliminated. Mr. Hog steps from an incline runway on to a wheel fitted with an endless hooked chain which catches him by the hind leg and passes him to the butcher at the end of the sticking bar. After the knife has done its work the hog is allowed to bleed for a short time. It is then immersed in a tank of boiling water to loosen the hair. by an ingenious mechanical contrivance it is now passed on to operators who thoroughly scrape, disembowel, and complete the dressing operations in turn. If the hog is intended for the export market it is subjected to a short singing process. Finally, the dressed animal is allowed to cool in a normal temperature after which it is placed in the cooling rooms proper and thoroughly chilled. The salting and curing processes complete, the article is ready for the market.

tier of Wiltshire sides, long cut hams, long ribbed sides, seven or eight deep, for the export market, stretch almost as far as the eye can see, and one begins to wonder where it all goes to. Last year Great Britain took bacon and hams to the value of $12,996,720; the United States, $15,883; British Africa, $2,532; British Guiana, $853; British West Indies, $12,153; Newfoundland,

Export Bacon Trade.

Perhaps the most impressive sight of all is the curing rooms. Here tier after $8,341; other countries, $1,037; total, $13,037,519. An interesting fact in connection with the export trade is that in certain seasons of the year it consists entirely of long ribs, and in others of long cut hams.

Exports of Canadian bacon and hams have shown on the whole a steady increase since the year 1868, the figures being as follows:

1868	$ 783,481
1892	1,152,006

Bacon.

Apparently United States bacon is losing its hold on the British trade and being replaced by Canadian bacon, the same thing that happened in the cheese trade a few years ago. A great deal of dissatisfaction is caused by large shipments of stale and over-kept bacon from the States, while on the other hand Canadian bacon is steadily gaining ground. The Danish article is also being slowly overhauled, and it is merely a matter of time until the Canadian packer will be in position to satisfy the requirements of the British trade in the matter of curing. The relative difference between the price of Danish and Canadian is 3s. to 4s.; this, however, depends upon the supply and demand; there are times when Canadian is quite on a par in price with Danish. If Canadian bacon is used fresh and not detained in the boxes any undue length of time, it is welcomed by retailers in Great Britain as a most satisfactory article, and year by year the consumption is steadily increasing.

At the present time Canadian bacon exporters are placed at a disadvantage because they do not brand their product "Canadian." Very often no distinction is made between American and Canadian bacon and the lower-priced American bacon, notwithstanding the fact that the latter is much inferior.

Domestic Market.

The Canadian home trade is supplied with skin backs, shoulders, hams, pig's feet, cooked and canned, sugar cured hams in tierces, tenderloin, ribs, etc. A number of the larger pork packers have gone into the manufacture of cooked and jellied meats, and have succeeded already in securing a practical monopoly of the home market.

Domestic requirements vary according to the locality. For instance, the west requires bacon and ham, the Ottawa Valley district mess and short-cut pork in barrels, and Quebec clear mess pork. The latter market is supplied largely by American packers, who make a specialty of this line. Years ago Canadian pork packers put up mess pork extensively. Of late, however, they have found it more profitable, not only for themselves but for the farmers, to cultivate the bacon trade and leave a goodly share of the fat pork business to those who want it. Very little pork, except barrel pork, is being imported from the United States at the present time. In the years gone by the duty favored the foreign packer; all this has been effectually readjusted to protect the Canadian farmer and pork packer, and to-day the Canadian industry has little to fear from foreign competition.

EXPORT TRADE IN DAIRY PRODUCE.

CANADIAN farm products, including butter, cheese, eggs, poultry, bacon, hams, pork, wheat, flour, oats, oatmeal, etc., exported during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, totalled $85,606,483, a figure that easily places Canada in the very front rank of agricultural countries. Practically 30 per cent. of the total was dairy produce, made up as follows: Butter $4,724,155, eggs $1,053,396, cheese $24,184,566, the latter being equal to wheat and cattle exports combined, and nearly double that of bacon.

Great Britain has been the largest purchaser of Canadian dairy produce ever since the export trade was placed on a commercial basis. In 1869 we sent Great Britain cheese valued at $543,524; in 1880, $3,772,769; 1885, $8,178,953; in 1890, $9,349,731; in 1895, $14,220,505; in 1900, $19,812,670, and in the last four years $20,609,361, $19,620,239, $24,620,004 and $24,099,004. Our cheese exports to Great Britain in 1904 were exactly ninety-nine per cent. of our foreign trade in this article.

The gross value of the cheese entering Great Britain from foreign countries in 1904 was $34,330,951, of which it will be seen Canada contributed over seventy per cent. We have been able to capture this market entirely on account of the excellence of the Canadian product. A margin of nearly thirty per cent. remains to be appropriated, and there seems to be no reason why Canadian dairymen should not secure it.

Cheese.

The present season promises well to the Canadian cheesemaking industry. Old stocks have been disposed of at home and abroad, and present prices are high. In fact the situation is an entire reversal of that ruling a year ago, when, owing to an accumulation of old cheese largely in excess of the demand, the trade witnessed the lowest range of prices since 1898. There was in addition a falling off in the demand in Great Britain, owing to unsettled trade conditions throughout the industrial sections, where the great bulk of Canadian cheese is consumed. This year trade conditions show a marked improvement in Great Britain. Generally speaking, stocks are fairly light, and prominent cheese exporters who have returned from their annual trips to the old land are optimistic about the future of the cheese trade.

During the year the question of paraffined cheese for the export trade has come up for consideration. The practice is not yet recommended for general adoption because of the prejudice against it which still exists with a section of the British trade, especially among the retailers. Certain Canadian exporters have even refused to purchase paraffined cheese, but it is worthy of note that some of these exporters before the close of last season were paying a premium for paraffined cheese. Many of the objections raised against paraffining are quite groundless and will disappear in time. The most serious objection comes from the grocers, who complain that paraffined cheese lose in weight when the cloth is removed and shrink excessively when being cut up on the counter. There is, of course, an extra loss of weight in stripping a paraffined cheese equal to the quantity of wax adhering to it. This need not be more than four or five ounces. If the grocer has a paraffined cheese in his possession a week before it is cut he will gain more in the saving of shrinkage than is lost in the stripping of the cheese, or in the shrinkage afterwards. When these things are better understood and the advantages of paraffining are fully realized, the objections now raised should be more than offset. The paraffining of cheese will be continued at the Government cool-curing rooms during the coming season. We are so thoroughly convinced that it is a good thing to paraffin cheese that are to be held in store for any length of time that we intend to keep at it until it is generally recognized.

Butter.

Our exports of butter during 1904 show a material increase over the year previous, aggregating in value between $5,000,000 and $5,500,000. This trade has practically doubled since the year 1869, when Canada sent $2,342,270 worth to foreign markets. At first the United States vied with Great Britain as the largest consumer of Canadian butter. Our trade with the United States, however, has gradually fallen off, until at the present time it is a comparatively insignificant item. Great Britain is by far our best customer, and trade with the British West Indies and Newfoundland is becoming a more important item every year. The Yukon market has been recaptured, and quite recently has appeared as a probable purchaser for Canadian butter.

Great Britain consumes annually about 400,000,000 lbs. of butter, valued at $100,000,000, of which only a comparatively small fraction is home made. Of this total Canada to-day contributes less than one-twentieth. Canada is in a position to get a fair share of Great Britain's butter trade on one condition, namely, that Canadian exporters consult British taste more closely. In the past the great fault with Canadian butter has been its lack of uniformity. Dealers get in a shipment of butter under a certain brand. The next shipment comes marked with the same brand, but comparisons with the former shipment are out of the question on account of lack of uniformity in salting, color, etc.

The result, according to Canadian commercial agents stationed in Great Britain, is that whenever really good butter comes from Canada it has to be sold as "best Danish" to realize its value. There is a great future in Great Britain for Canadian creamery butter, and for all Canadian butter if not oversalted, if shipped as soon as made and in one-hundredweight casks.

Canada's greatest competitor in butter in the British market is Denmark. Whether it is that the butter makers of Denmark have studied the English trade or educated the English people to prefer their make of butter, the fact remains that it is preferred by the English consumer. Fortunately for Denmark, her proximity to the English market is a factor in her favor, as her butter is delivered ten or twelve days after it is made. This is impossible in the case of Canadian butter.

The Dominion Government authorities report that there will be considerable improvement in transportation facilities for butter and cheese during the coming season. To begin with, arrangements are being made to have iced butter cars arrive at Montreal earlier in the week, so that there will be time to put the butter into cold store and have it properly chilled before it is placed in the chambers in the steamers. The service will be extended on one or two new routes, and extra cars will be put on some of the older routes. The London steamers of the Thompson Line will this year go direct to Surrey Commercial Dock, which is within two miles of Tooley street, and there discharge butter and cheese direct into a cold storage and cooled-air warehouse. Formerly the cheese and butter carried by this line was discharged at Tilbury Dock, 35 miles down the river, and railroaded thence to Commercial road station, involving several extra handlings and exposure to heat.

Canadian Wiltshire side—for the export trade.

Eggs.

The Canadian export trade in eggs shows on the whole a satisfactory growth during the last thirty-five years. In 1868 Canada exported eggs to the value of $205,971, mostly to the United States; in 1880 the exports were $710,665; in 1890, $1,795,214; in 1900, $1,457,902, and during the last four years $1,691,640, $1,733,242, $1,436,130, and $1,053,396 respectively. Owing to high American tariff, our trade with the United States has gradually fallen off until in 1904 it dwindled to $5,641. On the other hand, our egg trade with Great Britain has grown from $66 in 1868 to $1,036,035 in 1904. The last two years have been comparatively poor export years on account of the very high prices ruling in domestic markets. The English trade, although willing to give a preference to the Canadian article, will not pay above a certain price. During the last two seasons the result has been that a demand has sprung up in Great Britain for continental eggs, and the Canadian exporter is obliged to compete with Russia and Denmark in price as well as quality. One thing seems certain, namely, that the export egg business is not going to afford the Canadian shipper as large a margin of profit as heretofore.

Owing to local conditions, Canada has imported eggs during the last five years as follows: 1900, $128,405; 1901, $194,522; 1902, $170,260; 1903, $122,960; 1904, $203,492. There have also been importations of egg yolk on a small scale. At present there is a growing demand for liquid eggs in foreign markets, and it seems likely that Canada will be able to work up a substantial export trade in this article.

PATENT EGG OPENER.

A very useful novelty has been placed on the Canadian market by Fred. N. Horton, Ingersoll, in the shape of a patent egg opener. By means of this contrivance the top of an egg may be removed without breaking the yolk or allowing fragments of shell to get into the egg. The trade may secure fuller particulars by communicating with Fred. N. Horton, Ingersoll.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

TORONTO.

Provisions—A first-class business has been doing during the week in smoked and cured meats generally. Prices continue firm with a tendency to advance in one or two lines, although the only rise is in smoked breakfast bacon which is quoted ½c. above the level of last week. Owing to free arrivals of hogs the price is down 25c. this week. In fresh meats there are no changes to record. We quote the following:

Butter—Supplies of both dairy and creamery butter are coming along very freely and considerable accumulations are the result, notwithstanding an active demand for this article. The quality is good. Storekeepers are asked to commence packing butter in tubs from now on in view of the nearness of the Summer season. Creamery prints and creamery solids are each down 1c. and large dairy rolls are quoted slightly below the level of last week's prices. Prices are likely to go still lower, although the season is about three weeks behind last year. Receipts, however, are quite up to the standard of last year at this season.

Eggs—Market continues firm, and 15¾c. seems to be the best that straight gathered stock can be bought at from the commission houses. Country buyers still complain of having to pay too much to allow for pickling. Reports to hand state western packers have about filled up their vats and it may be expected that prices will ease up some shortly. Receipts are heavy but as the local demand is good, as well as a steady trade from outside points, it has a stiffening effect on the market. P.E.I. stock arrived on Saturday per ss. Campana and some 325 cases were readily sold at 15½c. wholesale.

strong. Choice new creamery quoted at 18¾ to 19c. and fine 18¼ to 18½c. The decline noted during the closing days of last week was not actually warranted as receipts are light and quality good. The approach of warmer weather will permit of full grass makes being marketed. Local demand is good.

Provisions—The market is a dull one. Both beef and pork are held at rather higher figures. In smoked meats there is a fair demand. Prices are quite firmly held. Pure lard is high. Refined lard is still quite low, which leads to increased demand. Fresh meats are unchanged. Beef is freely offered. Mutton is dull. There is a good sale for veal at even figures. Lamb tends lower but is still high. Little pork is offered. Quite full prices obtained.

NEWFOUNDLAND PROTESTS.

AN acute turn has been given to the "bait" question during the past few days in the Maritime Provinces on account of the move made by certain Nova Scotia interests to supply French and United States fishing vessels with bait and supplies after its sale to the fishermen of these countries had been forbidden by the Newfoundland Government.

The Harbor Grace Standard threatens that if the object of Newfoundland is to be defeated by Nova Scotians, there is but one course left open to Newfoundland, namely, to withhold the bait privileges from them, the same as has been done against French and American fishermen. It goes on to say that "Newfoundland expects nothing just nor fair from Canada."

The present juncture is a particularly inopportune time for hitches between Newfoundland and Nova Scotia. The Islanders are inclined to look upon the action of the Sydney, C.B., interests as hostile, whereas it is neither more nor less than an attempt on their part to further their own interests. At the same time it is a question whether Nova Scotia is justified in sanctioning any move that is open to misunderstanding.

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

FLOUR MILLING IN CANADA.

ONE of the most significant facts in connection with Canada's export trade in foodstuffs during the last thirty years is the steady increase in the value of wheat flour sent to foreign countries. From 302,783 barrels in 1875, valued at $1,545,242, exports of flour have grown to 1,587,600 barrels, valued at $6,131,015, and we are only on the threshold of what is bound to develop into an industry of monumental proportions. If Canada is to supply the food requirements of the British Empire within the next few years, as she seems likely to do, there is no reason why she should not supply such in the form of the manufactured produet instead of the raw material, as has been the ease to a large extent heretofore.

The henefits to be derived from the flour milling industry on such a scale are simply incalculable, and Canadian millers are beginning to awaken to this fact, with the result that the industry has shown remarkable expansion within the last five years throughout Canada, partieularly the Northwest. Only this year one or two of the larger Canadian milling interests have made arrangements to operate in Europe in order to benefit from the enormous exports of Manitoba wheat and compete with Amerieau millers.

There is also a possihility of Canada becoming a milling ground for the United States trade. Authorities on agriculture are of the opinion that the United States have ahout reached their limit in the matter of grain production. There is no gainsaying the faet that their exports of flour and grain have heen diminishing for some years, and that the home eonsumptive demand has been inereasing rapidly on aceount of the large and growing population. In Canada, on the other hand, the grain-growing possibilities remain as yet in the embryonic stage. The American miller has retained his hold on the foreign trade solely on aceount of superior organization, hut even now he is looking ahroad for grain to feed his mills. Last year Minnesota bought half a million dollars' worth of Canadian wheat, whieh was ground in hond in order to avoid the duty. But the American miller finds this system expensive and inconvenient, and besides he has to pay the duty on offal and hy-products which cannot be exported, and which represent over ten per cent. of the value of the output. Attempts are now being made to secure a treasury ruling by which Canadian wheat can be taken to Minneapolis and there mixed with United States flour for the grinding of wheat, a drawback being paid upon the Canadian flour thus used. To checkmate this move Canadian millers will grind Manitoba flour in Great Britain.

Reaping in Western Canada.

Splendid possibilities exist for building up a large export trade in Canadian flour with the other European and Asiatic nations. In addition to our export business with Great Britain, amounting in 1904 to $3,568,430, Canada sent flour to Newfoundland to the extent of $140,-815, to British Africa $632,348, to British West Indies $204,201, to Russia, $95,453, and to Japan $140,815. The latter market was only discovered five years ago and requires only tact and perseverance to make it one of the most valuable export markets of the world; indeed it is possible that the future may see a greater trade between Canada and Asia than is now carried on between Canada and Europe, as Japan is but the gateway to the Great East. American millers have lost no time in securing a foothold in Eastern markets; Canada has an equal chance, particularly when it is remembered that Canada produces the best wheat grown on the North American Continent.

The Canadian production of wheat last year was 79,427,000 bushels, as against 83,964,000 bush. in 1903; of this, the Canadian West contributed 59,934,338 bushels. We exported altogether 18,-225,525 bushels, over 10,000,000 bushels less than in 1903, the falling off being largely due to local conditions, which kept the domestic price above an export basis. There is also to be considered that Canada is exporting more and more of her breadstuffs in the form of the manufactured product. Great Britain took the bulk of our wheat, the balance going to Germany and Belgium. Owing to a comparative failure of the Canadian oat crop in 1904, our exports of oats fell off $1,029,429. This induced what is almost without precedent in Canadian cereal circles, namely, the importation of American oatmeal at a price which not only undersold domestic manufacturerers, but temporarily cut out trade in the home-made product.

EXCELLENT LOCATION.

LOCATED in one of the best wheat-growing sections of Ontario, which enables the miller to get his Winter wheat direct from the farmer and to select raw material according to requirements, is the Bolton Flour Mill, owned and operated by A. A. McFall, miller and grain merchant, Bolton, Ont.

Bolton Flour Mill, Bolton, Ont

The Bolton mill is in a particularly good position to supply the requirements of the Canadian biscuit-manufacturing industry, in addition to turning out the highest grade flour for family use. The mills are equipped with the latest improved machinery and supplied with water-power, which is available for all purposes. The reliability and excellence of its products are acknowledged all over the country; one of the least evidences of their popularity being the phenomenal increase in consumptive demand during the last few years. The principal brands of flour manufactured by the Bolton mill are: "Pure Gold," "Albion's Pride," and "Good Loaf." It also turns out large quantities of Graham flour, cracked wheat, wheat germ, etc. Mr. McFall combines with his milling business an extensive trade in grain and feed.

GRAIN PROSPECTS.

LATEST reports from the Canadian West advise that the growing grain crops are in a flourishing condition. There has been an abundance of moisture, and the wheat, where it is above the ground, is growing well and of a healthy color. Seeding is about completed, but the farmers are still planting oats and barley.

Taking the Province of Ontario as a whole, Fall wheat has suffered less than usual from Winter-killing. The cold winds prevailing in April were very trying to fields in exposed places; nevertheless, the crop picked up wonderfully, and at the present time Fall wheat has a most promising appearance in most quarters, more especially in the case of early-sown fields. The more favorable statements happily come from the counties in which the crop has a large acreage. But little Fall wheat has been ploughed up compared with the two or three years immediately preceding, although in some instances barley or some other grain has been drilled in on some of the bare spots. The disappearance of the Hessian fly—or rather, the absence of any marked evidence of its presence—is one of the most gratifying features of the reports concerning Fall wheat for during the last four or five years the havoc wrought by this insect pest has been of a most extensive and costly nature.

Most of the rye sown in Ontario is grown for green feed, and the acreage at the most is not a large one. Where grown the crop is reported to be in good condition, having come through the Winter well.

The present indications are that there will be a full yield of clover this season, taking the province as a whole.

A STRIKING EXAMPLE.

IT would be difficult to find a more striking example of the splendid possibilities of the cereal manufacturing business in Canada on a large scale than the Robert Greig Co., Limited, Toronto, better known to the trade as manufacturers of "White Swan" brand of flaked wheat, rice, peas, barley crisps, whole-wheat flour, graham flour, gluten flour, wheat kernels, King's Food, etc. From very small beginnings—in fact "the mere bricks and mortar of the new building which the firm erected three or four years ago at the corner of Pearl and Duncan streets," as Mr. Greig explained to The Grocer representative the other day, their cereal business has grown by leaps and bounds, until at the present time they are not only supplying the domestic market from Halifax to British Columbia with their products, but are exporting to England, the United States, South Africa, West Africa and New Zealand. "And we are only on the doorstep of the export business," he added.

"Canada has an immense future before her as a producer and manufacturer of foodstuffs. Look at the flock of immigration to the West. This means that there will be a population of from five to ten millions in Manitoba and the Territories within ten years. It is no idle guess to say that before long Canada will be growing enough wheat to supply the food requirements of the British Empire. Canadian millers are already making a bid for this business, and it looks at present as if a lion's share of the milling, not only for the domestic, but also for the export trade, would ultimately fall into their hands.

"The same remarks apply to the manufacture of cereal foods. Witness, for instance, the phenomenal growth of the cereal food business in this country during the past ten years, and think of the future in store for it, particularly for flaked wheat preparations, which, I think, will outlive many of the newer-fangled cooked cereal foods."

The history of the Robert Greig Co., Limited, dates from 1893, when Mr. Greig established himself in Montreal in the baking powder, spice and extract-manufacturing business. Shortly afterwards a branch was opened in Toronto, at the corner of Duncan and Adelaide streets, and proved so successful that the Montreal plant was abandoned about six years ago and efforts concentrated on the western industry. In 1901 the White Swan Milling Co. was taken over as a going concern, thus adding to the manufacture of baking powder, spices and extracts, what has since developed into one of the most important departments of the business, namely, the manufacture of cereals. Within the last four years the spice and coffee trade has shown a satisfactory growth, and this year promises to eclipse any in the history of the business with the turnover from January 1, 1905, to date already one hundred and fifty per cent. in excess of last year.

Two years ago the Robert Greig Co. became an incorporated concern, capitalized at $150,000, the proportions of their business being such that they have paid an annual dividend of eight per cent. from the very start.

Threshing in Western Canada.

Mr. Robert Greig, President of The Robert Greig Co., Toronto.

A CREEMORE MILLING INDUSTRY.

The flour milling and grain business of S. Plewes, Creemore, which dates from 1880 has the reputation of being the most successful of its kind in the Province of Ontario.

An extensive domestic and export trade is carried on in special brands of flour, including Manitoba Patent Magnet, White Flake and O K, all of which are favorably known throughout the trade. The mill proper is situated on the Mad River, in the township of Nottawasaga, widely known on account of its fine wheat-growing district.

Mr. Plewes will be glad to answer any enquiries from the trade in regard to quotations, etc.

JAPAN AND CANADIAN FLOUR.

"Japan is slowly but surely learning to use and appreciate the advantages of Canadian whole-wheat flour," said Mr. J. R. Brodie, of the Alexander Milling Co., Limited, Brandon, in a recent conversation with a representative of The Grocer. "A glance at the Blue Book will confirm this," continued he, "but it is perhaps not generally realized that the bulk of this flour is low grade, and that Canadian manufacturers are face to face with the necessity of an educational campaign in Japan for better grades. In our own case, last year we shipped over 500 tons at advantageous prices,

S. A. McGaw, of Goderich, Ont., head of the Lake Huron and Manitoba Milling Co., has been in Winnipeg during the last week looking into a milling proposition with A. Kelly, of the Kelly Milling Co., of Brandon. Mr. McGaw says that, although tempting offers have been made the company to build a mill at Port Arthur and Fort Frances, it is likely they will build in Winnipeg.

FLOUR AND CEREAL NEWS.

The Walter Thompson & Son Co., Limited, cereal millers, of Mitchell, Ont., have developed a very considerable business with the West Indies, especially in the line of split peas, which is one of the staple foods with the laboring population.

William Moore & Sons, millers, Meaford, expect to have their electric motive power ready by July 1. This firm have gone to great expense during the past two and a half years developing electric energy, which ought to be a distinct boon to the town of Meaford.

The Hodd & Cullen Milling Co., Limited, Stratford, have sold their flour mills, elevators, and goodwill to the McLeod Milling Co., Limited, who take possession on Aug. 1, 1905, at the beginning of the new crop. The new company, which is capitalized at $100,000, is composed principally of local business men, and will be managed by Mr. A. C. McLeod, who has been head miller and manager for the former company.

NEW FISH FIRM.

A company of Prince Albert capitalists are seking incorporation under the name of the Saskatchewan Produce Co. They intend to develop the extensive fish industries of the lakes to the north of Prince Albert, and will proceed at once to erect a freezer.

Grocers

If there is a grocer who is not handling Orange Meat, that grocer is not working his business to the full. You ask why. Because Orange Meat is the cheapest and purest breakfast cereal to be had. How do we know? Compare the prices, ask other grocers who have hundreds of users. Orange Meat has all the good points of the ordinary cereal and none of the bad ones. Moreover, Orange Meat has good points of its own. Are you interested in these facts? Why should you not be?

Thousands of women who do their own baking know it is the best, by results, and they expect the grocer to supply it.

The grocer, who knows which side of his bread is buttered, recommends it to his customers because it pays him to sell only the best.

The grocer who sells a woman any other flour, when she asks for "Royal Household" is taking great chances.

A TRANS-ATLANTIC EXCURSION

ON June 9, the long-anticipated excursion of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to Great Britain, will start from the port of Montreal on board the magnificent new turbine liner, the Victorian. The excursion party will probably number 265 persons,—members of the association, with their wives and children. Already, arrangements are all but complete, and when the Victorian leaves her dock at Montreal she will have on board as representative a body of Canadian men and women as ever left the shores of the Dominion.

On board the Victorian the excursion party will have the best of everything. They will practically own the boat and no expense will be spared to make them perfectly at home. In the Old Country they will receive an enthusiastic welcome and every door will be thrown wide open for them. A complete itinerary for every hour of their time has been prepared.

In brief the programme may be outlined as follows: Upon arrival in Liverpool on June 17, the party will proceed directly to London, where they will be entertained for ten days by the London Chamber of Commerce. Though London is a huge place, the excursionists anticipate seeing nearly everything that is worth seeing during that time.

On June 27, they will board a special train, which will convey them as far as Glasgow. They will stop at every important centre on the way and will visit the more important industries. The trip to Glasgow will consume another ten days. The party will then break up and the excursionists will be at liberty to go wherever they desire. The official return voyage will be made from Liverpool on the Victorian about July 16.

Among the officers of the association who will take in the excursion are: W. K. George, Toronto, president; C. C. Ballantyne, Montreal, vice-president; G. E. Amyot, Quebec, vice-president for Quebec; John Hendry, Vancouver, vice-president for British Columbia; W. K. McNaught, Toronto, chairman of the tariff committee; P. H. Burton, Toronto, chairman of the insurance committee; Robert Crean, Toronto, chairman of the reception and membership committee. R. J. Younge, the general secretary, who has been in charge of the arrangements, will accompany the party and will supply all information.

W. K. George, President C.M.A., who will accompany the Excursion Party.

The significance of this trip cannot be overlooked. It is the first event of its kind. The presence in the Old Country of 265 of Canada's leading sons and daughters cannot fail to open the eyes of Britishers to the importance of the Dominion. The official receptions, which they will receive, will be recorded in the British press and thus every one will learn of their presence. This will lead to enquiries about them and gradually it will dawn on the British mind that Canada must be indeed a land of happiness and wealth when it produces such people and supplies the means to send them in luxury thousands of miles across the seas.

Nor can the significance of the fact that the excursionists represent the industries of the country be overlooked. Canada is regarded as a land rich in agricultural possibilities. Few in Britain realize the possibilities of its industries. On this point the excursionists will enlighten them, showing them the vast resources of mine and forest, the gigantic water-powers and the admirable facilities for transportation by land and sea.

From a sentimental view-point the excursion will be impressive. It will form still another link in the imperialistic chain, for it will reinforce and strengthen the existing connection between the Mother Country and Canada. Upon every possible occasion this will be referred to and it will so impress itself upon the minds of the British host and the Canadian visitor that the tie of kindred will be still further strengthened.

In many another way will this excursion prove itself to be a good thing, but only when it is over can it be estimated to its full worth. Till the travelers set foot once more in Canada, no one can tell just what the result will be.

R. J. Younge, Secretary C.M.A., who will accompany the Excursion Party.

AMONG OURSELVES

WITH this number, the Spring and Export Edition of The Canadian Grocer makes its sixth appearance before the trade. On the first of June, 1900, appeared our first export number. At that time it was regarded as a very creditable affair with its 104 pages, its half-tone illustrations on the cover aad its sixty-odd pages of advertising, three of them being in colors. The avowed object of this first edition, quoting from its pages, was that of "stimulating Canada's export trade in food products with the Mother Country and bringing the importers and dealers in all kinds of foodstuffs in the United Kingdom, South Africa, Australia and the West Indian Islands into direct contact with manufacturers and exporters throughout the Dominion."

The number justified its existence and assured its popularity at once. Every year has shown a marked improvement, until now we make our bow, a portly volume of two hundred pages, an increase in reading and advertising matter of 100 per cent. in the short space of five years.

The gentle reader will condone our vanity if we preen ourselves just a little and ask how you like our new Spring dress? It is, we confess, an expensive one, the finest work that expert engraving and printing can turn out, but it has ever been our policy to give our readers and advertisers the best, irrespective of cost. These plates were designed and engraved in Canada and printed in our own office on our own presses by our own pressmen. Frankly, we are proud of the result. No Canadian publication has ever turned out anything equal to it. But we never rest with what we have done. Just watch for our next special. Always improving! That is our motto.

Our Front Cover.

It is several months since we began working on this cover. The first matter to settle is the general idea of your design, a matter to be settled with the artist who works up the general scattered ideas into one artistic whole. Then the engravers have their turn. They must have plenty of time to perfect the fine work on the three plates which are to produce the varied tints you see before you. First the yellow plate is used. Over this is printed the red. Finally the blue, the third of the primary colors to be superimposed, brings out your tints in all their delicate beauty.

The scene is a typical and even an historic one, representing an Atlantic liner leaving the port of Montreal laden with the choicest of Canadian food products. In the distance may be seen Montreal harbor with its huge grain elevator, and Notre Dame Cathedral and Mount Royal in the distance.

Into the border are worked a few suggestions of the noble ship's cargo, prime Canadian cheese, No. 1 hard wheat flour, bales of pea-fed bacon, barrels of rosy northern spies, with crates of the more luscious smaller fruits, for cold storage shipment; neither are to be forgotten the products of the industrious Canadian hen, nor the toothsome field vegetables that employ the energies of our indefatigable canners.

THE INDISPUTABLE AUTHORITY.

The phenomenal growth of the EXPORT CROCER has been coterminous with like wonderful growth in Canada's export trade. There is a direct relation between these facts. The field for such an edition five years ago was not obvious, but knowing Canada's potentialities and the requirements of the motherland, we had faith. We dared, and to-day THE CANADIAN GROCER, with its Export and Fall Special Editions, is indisputably the authority on Canadian foodstuffs. Whoever would keep in touch with the foodstuffs markets finds THE CANADIAN CROCER indispensable; whoever wants to buy or sell Canadian foodstuffs finds the advertising columns of THE CANADIAN CROCER absolutely necessary. There is no other way to reach the trade. THE CANADIAN CROCER way has the unanimous endorsation of the trade.

Indeed the stately vessel so heavily laden is replete with suggestion of the unbounded possibilities of this great Dominion as the granary of the world.

A Traveler's View.

A member of The Grocer staff while in a western town the other day chanced to meet Mr. G. H. Campbell, traveling salesman for T. H. Estabrooks, the Red Rose tea man, and casually fell into discussing The Grocer.

"Yes," said Mr. Campbell, in response to a query, "I find The Grocer very helpful in more ways than one. Every Friday night I look over the business changes and market reports, and read the editorials. But especially do I value the advertising department. I follow it very closely, aad it has been the occasion of many conversations with different up-to-date merchants. A well-known merchant of St. Catharines, in conversation with me, attributed a good deal of his success to it. He has followed it all along and likes the methods advocated in it. The advertising he is doing shows that he has been following those methods. He adopted the suggestion of a monthly circular under the style of a newspaper. He calls it his 'Store News.' As well as advertising his goods he includes recipes for new table dishes of all kinds and other things to interest housekeepers.

"Then, again, I found the advertising that my firm have been doing of great benefit. For example, the series of ads. that Mr. Estabrooks ran, with cuts of the different departments of his warehouse, brought me a new customer in London that I could never sell to before. He said he had got interested in the story of our business and thought there must be some merit in our goods, so he would give me a trial order. I have been selling to him regularly since.

"I am glad to see you running good articles on such interesting subjects to the grocer as the cash and credit systems. I often have talks with my customers about them. I shall continue to read The Grocer regularly and wish it every success."

All But One in Ottawa.

Our subscription canvasser writes from Ottawa: "Every grocer I have been to see takes The Canadian Grocer, except Mr. ——, ——street. I am trying to get him."

Read With Interest.

Mr. F. C. T. O'Hara, superintendent of Commercial Agencies, Ottawa, writes: "I have read with very great interest the article entitled 'Canada's Growing Foreign Service,' and it has afforded me much gratification to know that the Commercial Agency service has been appreciated. I hope both the service and my own endeavors may continue to warrant your approval."

This is much more than we expected to get from it, and we are well pleased with the ad. in every respect."

PICTURE OF REFINERY.

The Montreal offices of The Grocer are endebted to the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited, for a framed colored lithograph of the refinery, and the editor is now daily reminded of one of Canada's greatest industries. The picture, though compactly taken, shows the immense refinery, raw sugar storage warehouses, refined sugar storehouses, coal dumps, cooperage, stables, etc., giving special emphasis to the firm's excellent receiving and shipping facilities, and altogether is a piece of forceful advertising.

WOODENWARE BY MAIL.

A novel proposition is being made the trade in this issue of The Grocer by the Taylor, Scott Co., brooms, brushes and woodenware, Toronto, being no less than the sale of pails and tubs by mail order. The mail-order system of doing business has met with wonderful success in many lines, whereas in the case of woodenware, standardization has been largely effected. The experiment being made by the Taylor, Scott Co. will be followed with a great deal of interest.

A VISITOR FROM SCOTLAND.

An interesting visitor to Canada just now is Mr. John H. Thomson, of the firm of Thomson & Mathieson, fruit importers Glasgow, Scotland, whom a representative of The Grocer met recently in Listowel. Mr. Thomson has been actively engaged in the fruit trade all his life, having been in business for himself for twenty years.

The object of his present visit to Canada is to arrange for the exporting of apples and pears. To this end he has been interviewing fruit growers in different parts of Ontario. His firm have already a good connection here, but desire to extend it. They do a high-class business in Glasgow, and have developed quite a trade in high-grade box apples. Biggs & Son, Burlington, are their Canadian agents for box apples, and will be glad to receive inquiries from growers having high-grade apples to ship.

Asked as to his impressions of the country, Mr. Thomson remarked that Canada seemed to him a country of unlimited possibilities. He felt very gratified at the cordial reception he had met with everywhere he went. He liked our democratic ways of doing business. No one need be afraid to approach a business man in this country. There was also a general air of prosperity that impressed him, and, he added, sobriety. Mr. Thomson remarked on the growing interest displayed in the old country in regard to Canada. He believed the time was not far off when Canada would be able to supply the Mother Country with all the grain she required. Before that day arrived he hoped the difficult problem of imperial federation would be solved and the different units of the Empire knit together in an indissoluble tie.

Mr. Thomson returned home by the Baltic on May 24th.

One of Canada's Representative Industries

THE GROCER in this issue presents its readers with a description of the foundation, growth and development of one of Canada's largest and most prominent commercial enterprises, and there is no reader, no general merchant, and positively no grocer throughout the Dominion of Canada who has not used or handled the products of this concern. In presenting the photographs of the Edwardsburg Starch Company's plant at Cardinal; of its founder, the late Mr. W. T. Benson, and of its president, Mr. George F. Benson, The Grocer has in view the interests of its readers. Every general merchant and grocer has at some time or other felt it would be interesting to know something of the people and company whose products have for nearly half a century been in such striking evidence throughout the country.

At the invitation of President George F. Benson, a representative of The Grocer had the pleasure of going through the works at Cardinal, Ont., being piloted on the excursion by Mr. A. F. Murray, sales manager, Montreal; and while The Grocer fully expected to see and learn, he was more than surprised at the magnitude of the company's plant, and the wonderful system and scientific as well as hygienic arrangement of everything used in connection with the manufacture of laundry and culinary starches, syrups, glucose, and the by-products of corn.

The Edwardsburg Starch Co. have the honor of being the pioneer starch manufacturers of Canada, and to-day stand in the very front rank among similar industries on the North American Continent.

The business was founded in 1858 by the late W. T. Benson, who was the first to manufacture starch in Canada. By the year 1866 the busines had grown to such an extent that it was deemed best to reorganize on a larger scale. The business was therefore incorporated, and several prominent Montreal capitalists became interested, among them the late Peter Redpath, Alexander Buntin and Walter Shanly. The present head of the business is Mr. George F. Benson, son of the founder, and president and managing director of the company. Mr. William Strachan is vice-president, Mr. R. Cunningham, secretary; and Mr. Hugh McArthur, treasurer. The members of the directorate include such well-known names as Hon. Robert Mackay, Charles R. Hosmer, William R. Miller and George Hyde.

At Cardinal the Edwardsburg Starch Co. have a finely equipped plant, a large portion of it being only some four years old, as the company's works were partly destroyed by fire in the Spring of 1900, and rebuilt in the same Summer on a very much larger scale. To-day they have a capacity to supply in many lines as much as the trade of Canada can consume. The company have a fine water power, and one of the most complete systems of pressure water filters in the world. On an average a couple of hundred hands are employed, and the producing capacity of the works is far greater than any like concern in the Dominion.

When the business was first started it was confined entirely to the production of the various brands of starches to be obtained from corn. Shortly afterwards, rice starch was added to its products, and then the company became interested as well in the manufacture of potato starch. Some time ago, with the demand created by the development of the steam laundry in Canada, a complete line of the special laundry starches required by this trade was manufactured, and to-day the company's steam laundry starches—both wheat and corn—enjoy a very enviable distribution.

Within recent years a large trade in glucose, grape sugar and corn syrup has been developed, and this now constitutes a very important branch of the industry, as among the canners and confectioners there is a never-ceasing demand for glucose, and this company supplies it with its well-known brand of "Crystal Glucose." The latter branch of the business has increased by rapid strides during the past few years so that the Edwardsburg "Crown brand" table syrup has an enormous sale all over the Dominion of Canada, and for its excellence and reputation rivals the celebrated starch products of the company, so well known to the trade as "Benson's Prepared Corn," "Edwardsburg Silver Gloss" Starch and "Benson's Enamel" Starch. The development of the Northwest has created a surprisingly large market for corn syrup, chiefly for the reason that it is found to be an excellent substitute for fruit in a country where it is impossible to obtain the necessary amount of the fresh article.

The grape sugar trade is one of the latest developments, but is assuming very satisfactory proportions, the company's make evidently finding very considerable favor with the trade.

The by-products of the company contribute a large share to the business of the company, there being a large trade in cattle and poultry feeds, which are known to the trade as gluten meal, gluten feed, corn bran and corn oil cake. Corn oil is also a valuable factor, and is to-day taking the place of cotton-seed and linseed oils in many industries.

Taken all in all, the importance of the Edwardsburg Starch Co., Limited, as one of the leading concerns in the manufacturing life of Canada can hardly be overestimated and, best of all, the business has by no means reached the end of its onward career, but is growing and extending year by year. The general offices of the company are located in the London and Lancashire Building, Montreal, but they also have an important branch office at Toronto, and besides several salesmen on the road, have local agents in nearly all the large cities in the Dominion, carrying a complete and heavy line of stock at the various important centres.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

BUSINESS in freights and charters has assumed a Summer activity, and things are moving in good shape all over the country. Export business is heavy and the prospects for June shippers are very encouraging. Of course there are in some parts the chronic howlers, but the general tone of business is marked with activity all along the line.

The Quebec Legislature has aroused some interest in shipping circles by their threat to levy taxes on steamship and navigation companies and others operating vessels to the ports within the Province of Quebec.

The Hon. Premier of the province was greeted with a sound protest from the shipping federation of Montreal, inasmuch as they claimed that such restrictions would tend to diminish and curtail trade, to the prejudice not only of the province, but of the whole Dominion. They further made it clear to the Quebec Government that such a tax would add seriously to the burdens of shipowners doing business by the St. Lawrence route, which they declared was the principal gateway and means of access by water to Canada; and would increase the difficulties of competition with the United States ports where no such taxes exist, and would tend to further handicap Canadian shipping and divert Canadian trade via United States ports.

The protesters included the following large shipping concerns: Allan line, Furness, Withy & Co., Manchester liners, Hansa line, Elder, Dempster & Co., Canadian Pacific Steamship Co., Head line, Donaldson line, Thomson line, Lord line, Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co., Dominion line, Leyland line, Hamburg-American line, Dominion Coal Co., and Black Diamond line.

Such action on the part of the Quebec Legislature would, it is declared, cripple Canadian shipping. No doubt there will be a general revision of any such suggestion before it will ever get a chance to become law.

The freight services of the R. & O. Co. and the Ottawa River Co. have been regularly carried on, and the business is remarkably good for the early Spring.

Several new freight boats have been chartered in Montreal for the lower port freight service. Among these is the Restigouche, a boat fitted with all modern conveniences for carrying good cargo as well as passengers. Routh & Co. will handle the charter for the inward voyages with coal, etc., but on the outward, R. Reford & Co. will clear the boat for general merchandise to Sydney. This is an absolutely new boat and will be an acquisition to the lower port trade.

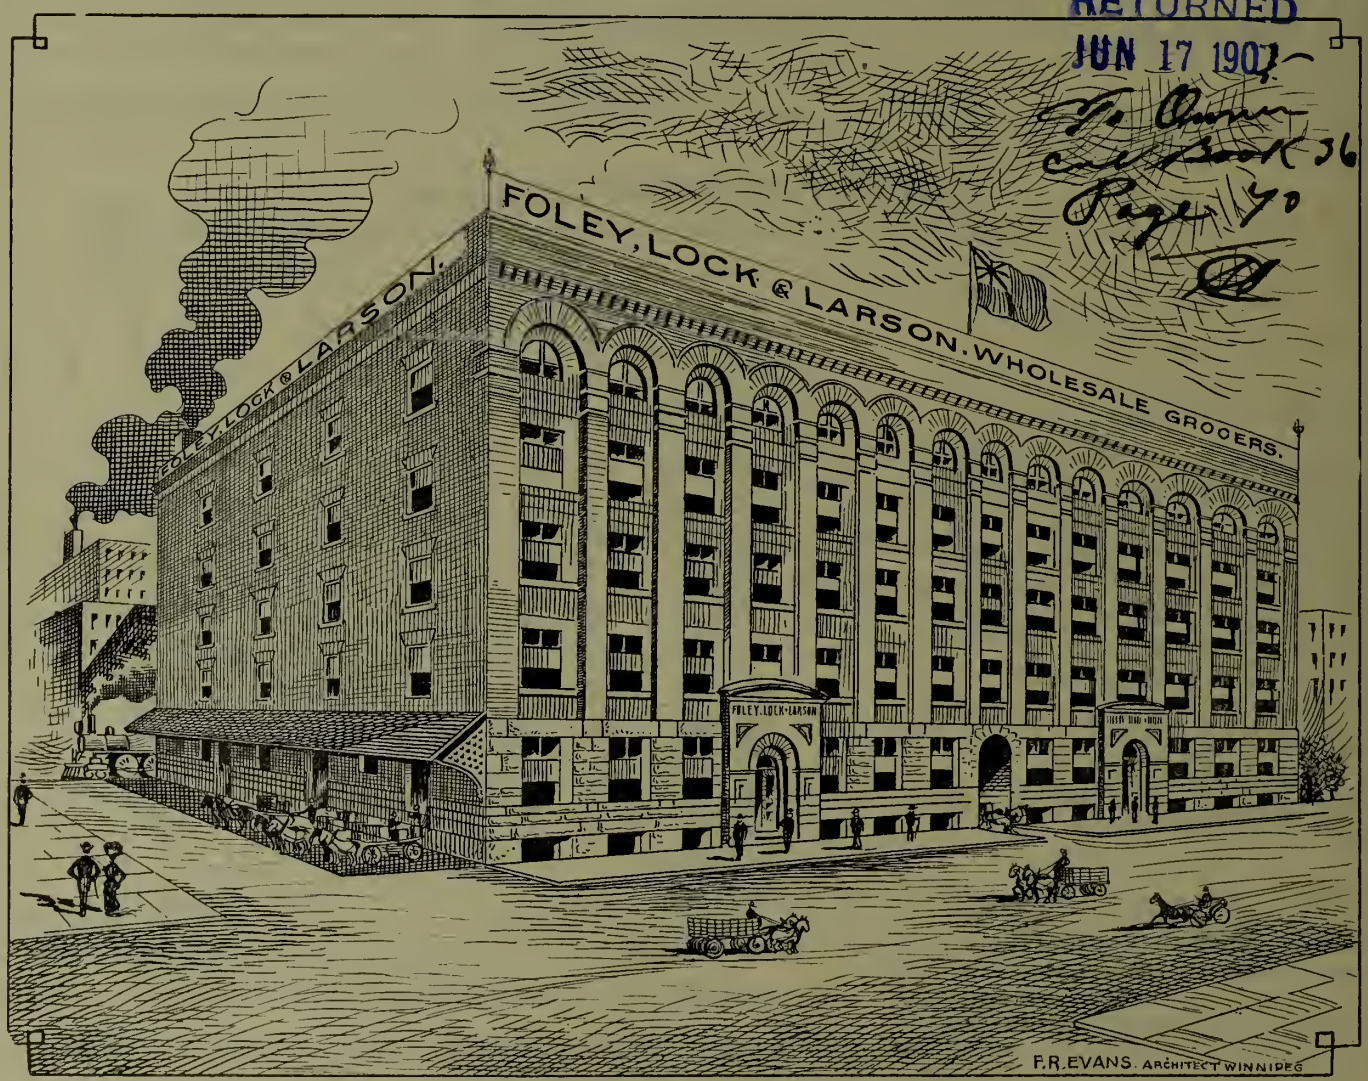
These rates are for general information only, and are subject to change at any time without notice; it is therefore important that all contracts must be reported by wire and confirmation obtained before closing with shippers, and unless specifically stated to be prompt shipment, or shipped within ten days after date of contract from the west.

The above rates are exchanged on basis of $4.80 to £1 Stg., excepting that when freight is prepaid, the ocean proportion of the through rate must be collected on basis of $4.86 to the pound sterling.

If freight is offered other than specified above, on which steamship connections are accustomed to quote a weight or measurement rate at their option, prompt replies will be facilitated by giving, when applying for rate, the relative weight and measurement of the merchandise.



It is understood that when reporting Sack Flour engagements, a carload is considered 28,000 lbs.

It is also important that shipper's name be given for every engagement made.

* Rates quoted in cents are per 100 lbs. † Per 2240 lbs, No Primage via Montreal.

FOLEY, LOCK & LARSON.

THE accompanying illustration shows the premises of Foley, Lock & Larson, Winnipeg, as they will appear when the additions now being made are completed. A new biscuit and confectionery factory is to be erected immediately to the east of the big warehouse now occupied by the firm, and work has already been commeneed. T. H. Lock has recently returned from a trip to New York and other Amerieau cities, where he spent some time examining large biscuit and confectionery plants. The firm intend that the new factory shall be up-to-date in every respect, and the newest ideas of the American factories will be adopted. The new factory is to be six storeys high, and its dimensions will be 100 by 108 feet. When completed, the new block comprising the present warehouse and the new factory will probably be the largest building of its kind in Winnipeg. The firm hope to have it completed by October. Employment will be given to about 300 people in the new factory.

FRANKFORD CANNING CO.

Recognizing the town of Frankford, Ont., as a premier locality for the production of finely-flavored fruits and vegetables, the Frankford Canning Co. decided upon it as a situation for a fruit and vegetable canning industry, and a year ago erected there an up-to-date plant. They have spared no expense in procuring experienced packers and business managers, their aim being to place before the trade goods second to none in the market. The firm's processor has had the advantage of twenty-five years' experience in the canning business, during which time he has been superintendent and manager of some of the largest fruit and vegetable packing houses in Canada and the United States. The Canadian grocery trade has already demonstrated the value of the Frankford Co.'s canned goods from the standpoint of purity and A No. 1 quality.

TO CONTROL EXPORT.

Railway and shipping interests in Montreal have been quietly discussing during the past few days what will be the outcome of a reported effort among Chicago packers to corner all steamer space on Atlantic liners entering ports in the British Isles.

The Armour, Swift and Morris interests of Chicago, have formed a syndicate, it is commonly reported, and are endeavoring to mature a scheme by which export trade in cattle will be completely in their hands. This is to be accomplished by "cornering" all available space on Atlantic lines. Agents of the combine are said to be at work closing contracts for the Summer season, and if the deal proves a successful one, small exporters will be practically excluded from the business. The object of the syndicate is to protect its dressed beef trade in Great Britain. Profits of the packers' export trade have been seriously affected by the landing of large shipments of live stock in London, Liverpool and Glasgow, a supply over which the syndicate has no control.

AMONG THE BOARDS OF TRADE.

THE Bridgewater, N.S., Board of Trade was reorganized on May 10. The new board now numbers about forty members, and is rapidly growing. The new officers are: F. Davison, president; A. C. Barnaby, vice-president; G. W. Godart, secretary-treasurer.

* * *

The annual meeting of the Moncton Board of Trade was held on May 16, when the election of officers was held, resulting as follows: President, J. T. Hawke; vice-president, E. C. Cole; secretary-treasurer, D. I. Welch; council, J. H. Harris, F. W. Sumner, A. E. Peters, R. Clarke, C. W. Robinson, J. E. Masters, H. H. Ayer, W. F. Humphrey.

VOLUNTARY CLOSE SEASON.

A voluntary close season for sockeye salmon on Puget Sound and in British Columbia waters is being proposed by American canners. Having failed to secure the passage of the Earles Bill through the Washington State Legislature, the Sound canners are now anxious to bring about by voluntary agreement what they tried to enforce by legislation.

At the present time there is in force a Canadian order-in-council establishing a close season during 1906 and 1908. As it was passed contingent upon the Legislature of the State of Washington enacting similar restrictions, it will be cancelled before the season of 1906.

HAY EXPORTERS ORGANIZE.

Montreal hay exporters have formed an association which will probably be affiliated with the Montreal Board of Trade. The officers are as follows: J. Scott, president; J. Quintal, vice-president; J. C. Bisaillon, secretary-treasurer.

The importance of the hay trade of Canada, particularly of the Province of Quebec, is not generally understood. Last year the exports amounted to something like 275,000 tons, or business to the value of over two million dollars, exclusive of interprovincial trade.

AN APPETIZING DRINK.

Of recent substitutes for tea and coffee no cereal preparation has won more decided popularity on the Canadian market as a nutritive drink than Mokara, manufactured by the Mokara Mills, Montreal. It possesses the requisite qualities of a first-class beverage; at the same time it is a powerful nerve and blood builder, an aid to digestion and has wherewithal the crowning merit of cheapness. Members of the trade who have not already stocked Mokara are invited to write for fuller particulars.

"THE FAIRBANK PLAN"

LOOK INTO IT

and see just what "The Fairbank Plan" is. While we spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year advertising the six great Fairbank specialties:

Gold Dust Washing Powder
Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap
Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

and educating the public regarding them; and while we intend to continue doing this, we realize fully that advertising alone has not accomplished the splendid results we have enjoyed in the sale of these goods, but that "the man behind the counter" has been an important factor in extending and increasing our trade. It was the realization of this fact that gave birth to "The Fairbank Plan," as a method of rewarding the retail clerks for their earnest co-operation in selling these goods and, consequently, a portion of our immense advertising appropriation is now set aside for the recognition of the dealer and his clerks.

"The Fairbank Plan" is an absolutely fair method of rewarding the clerk in direct proportion to the interest displayed in pushing the six specialties, as each package of these goods is couponed in such a manner that the coupon can be easily removed before the goods pass into the hands of the consumer. For these coupons we offer many valuable articles.

If you will send for an illustrated premium list of "The Fairbank Plan" it will convince you that this is no cheap trading-stamp scheme.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY - Montreal, Canada.

The Salmon Industry of British Columbia

CONSTANT recurrence of the fourth year of plenty, or the "big run" of sockeye salmon to the rivers of British Columbia, has in the past given such a degree of certainty to the expectation that necessary preparation has always been on a basis similar to that which a farmer makes ready for the growing crop he sees in his fields. But into this certainty there is this year injected a lack of positiveness very different from any former experience.

In the course of events, 1905 is the "year of the big run," but three successive years of very indifferent luck for fishermen and canners, ending last year in very like a failure of the great staple product, has shaken the belief, held among fisher-folk on the British Columbia coast as a cardinal article of faith, that every fourth year was destined to be a bountiful one in the harvest of the seas.

Expansion Beyond Safety Line.

On the canners falls the burden of preparing for a run that may never come. Though the fourth year was always the greatest, the other years were not without results in earlier days. The expansion of the canning industry beyond the safety line, or beyond the protection given to the perpetuation of the fish, resulted from the excitement created in the years of phenomenal runs of sockeye. The evil, for evil it is, was accentuated, undoubtedly, by the existence of traps erected by Puget Sound cannerymen, south of the boundary line, yet directly under the mouth of the Fraser River, where the fish seeking, with unerring instinct the parent stream, were compelled to run the gauntlet of the forbidding lines of piles from which hung the great pound-nets with their long lines of "leaders," as the nets are called, which turn the fish from their free course toward the river, into the labyrinth of meshes from which there is no escape.

Fish Hatcheries.

Much has been said by those interested, and much has been written concerning the menace these traps constitute to the permanency of an industry representing investments totalling millions of dollars. International co-operation is now the hope of all concerned on the Fraser River. Counterbalancing the over-fishing of the river by the fifty canneries erected there, and the despoilation by the traps, there was for years but one fish hatchery, for the artificial propagation of the sockeye. It has long been demonstrated that artificial propagation was scientific and successful; that it not only retarded the decline of a natural run of fish, but that by it a depleted river could be brought back to a condition of prosperity, and held there too. The most notable example of this can be found on the Sacramento River, in California, where years of over-fishing had ended in depletion. It took years of faithful work to bring back a constant run of fish, but to-day there is no guess work respecting the run of salmon in that stream. Had there been a reasonable forethought exercised by the constituted protectors of the Fraser River, there might never have been the three lean years which the canners have experienced in packing sockeye there. There would not have been to-day the doubt regarding the continuance of the "big year," which will be realized or relieved in the next two months or so.

Within the past three years attention has turned to the threatened industry, and intelligent, and it is to be hoped successful, efforts have been made by both Provincial and Dominion Governments to preserve the great commercial fish of the Fraser, the sockeye salmon. The one hatchery at Bon Accord, on the lower Fraser, has been supplemented by a large one built by the Provincial Government and two more built by the Dominion Government.

JOURNEL
JUN - 8 1906

Fishing boats at the mouth of the Fraser River, B.C.

The increased activity of the Department in the provision of artificial propagation has extended to the rivers of northern British Columbia also, though the same conditions do not exist there, nor do the same evils threaten the run of fish, for no menacing traps, uncontrolled and uncontrollable, can be erected such as those which have despoiled the fish belonging to the Fraser River.

Extensive Preparations.

While the canners have been compelled to face a situation of grave uncertainty respecting the size of the run of sockeye this year, on the Fraser, as well as in northern districts, preparation has been general and extensive. Conservative ideas have, however, marked the preparations. For it is nowhere accepted that there will be a big run on the Fraser, while in northern waters, the fourth year never was so marked as a phenomenal run.

At this date the work of sending the supplies to all canneries, both on the Fraser and to northern rivers, is well forward. In fact, there is little to send north now, and the bulk of the materials required for the Fraser has been warehoused at the various plants. Of course the first requirement is the tin-plate for making the supply of cans, this work being done at the canneries, each of which is equipped with its own can-making machinery. The pack to be put up, or to be anticipated, is provided for by so many thousands of cans in the can lofts of each establishment. Early in the year, long before the run of fish commences, the work of making cans is rushed ahead, most of the work being done under contract by Chinese, who are the chief operatives in the packing of the fish.

RETURNED JUN 8 1906

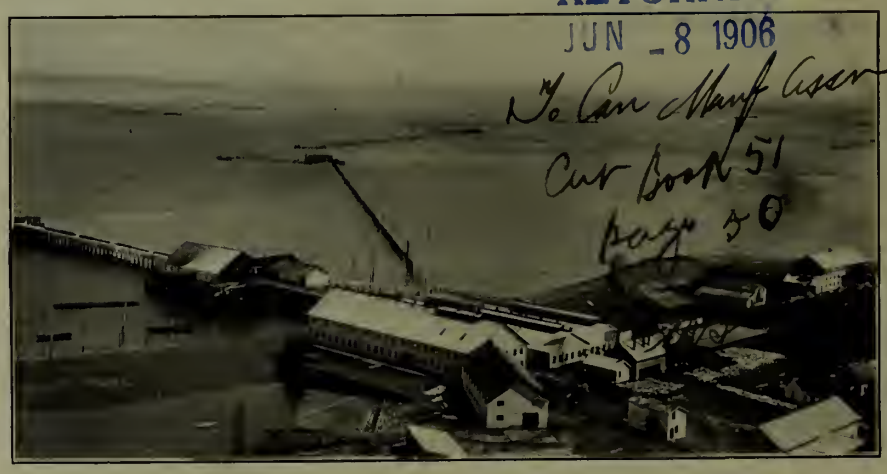
Taking fish out of the trap, in British Columbia.

Making Cans.

But the ordering of the tin-plate is a work attended to months ahead, for the larger part of the supply comes from England, tons and tons being delivered by vessels coming direct to the ports of British Columbia. This year there have been forty or fifty cars of tin-plate from the United States delivered to various of the big cannery companies, indicating a change in conditions, or else that successful competition in prices has diverted some of the trade.

For the northern canneries, not only is it necessary to ship the supplies for the making of cans and overhauling the canneries, but every sort of provision, down to the fresh vegetables consumed by the employes, has to be shipped from southern British Columbia ports. Nothing is yet produced of edible nature in northern British Columbia, except fish. During the Summer, or until the northern run is over, and the canneries close, after the shipping out of the season's pack, large quantities of fresh produce, groceries, butchers' cattle, and similar supplies are weekly shipped, giving the jobbers of the coast cities a substantial Summer trade, and creating quite a cargo-carrying traffic for coastwise shipping.

The Employes.



It is not to be overlooked, that the northern canneries take the greater number of their employes up in the Spring as well as all their supplies. There are a large number of Indians, residing on northern reservations at Naas and Skeena Rivers, at Rivers Inlet and other points, who are yearly given employment, the Siwashes as fishermen and the Klootchmans in the canneries cleaning the fish. But more than half the fishermen are whites and Japanese, nearly all of whom migrate north for the fishing season and follow it south, for the run on the Fraser usually commences when that on the northern waters is well over. This year it is stated by cannerymen that the number of fishermen of all nationalities in the north is greater than ever, so that whatever the run, there will be plenty of men to catch the fish.

On the Fraser River, the percentage of white men is much greater than on the the northern rivers, many white men following fishing all year as a means of livelihood, and making their homes on the banks of the Fraser. There are also more Japanese than Indians on the Fraser as a rule, the latter for the most part coming from the north for the fishing season, just as the others went north for the season there.

The Total of Canneries.

The total number of canneries in British Columbia which will this year engage in packing salmon, providing the fish are there to be packed, will be close to seventy, though it is hardly possible to reckon definitely yet. There have been few new plants erected in the past three years, the experience not being encouraging. Combination of independent canneries in the same period has eliminated some of the older plants, machinery having been taken out of some, while others have been enlarged, sometimes by consolidating two and in one case rebuilding. There will be two new canneries added to the total on the Fraser this year, but there are several which have been eliminated. In northern waters there will be one entirely new plant at Naas River, and another idle for a season or two, removed and re-erected at another point. On Vancouver Island there has been a considerable industry created by the permission in limited form of fish traps off the southern shore of the Island, and two plants will be operated at Esquimalt for the first time. There are two on the west coast of Vancouver Island, in rather isolated positions, and on the mainland there are about the same number operated as in past years, these being located on various favorable inlets all the way up the coast to Naas and Skeena Rivers, at Rivers Inlet, Lowe Inlet, Smith Inlet, Alert Bay, Namu and other points. Close to the City of Vancouver are several, one on English Bay practically within the city limits, and two or three on the shores of Howe Sound and contiguous waters. On the Fraser the canneries are, as is well known, located on both banks from the City of New Westminster to the mouth of Steveston.

Value of a Run.

The commercial value of a good run of sockeye salmon is hard to calculate. It runs into millions of dollars of turnover in a very short season, and success spells a prosperous season for every coast city. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are paid to fishermen for the fish they catch and as much more is paid to operatives in the canneries. Then the purchase of supplies is a large factor of Summer trade, while the benefits arising from so much being paid out in wages extend into the Fall and Winter, as whites, Indians and Japs alike are able to purchase their Winter's necessities in proportion to their earnings of the season.

It would be the merest speculation to discuss what the run of pack of salmon might be this year. In the last big year nearly a million cases were the total, while the previous quadrennium has a record of considerably over that amount. That was with less total capacity than is now represented in the plants equipped and preparing to operate this year. But a million cases would be considered a big pack, and would quite satisfy the most optimistic.

COSTA RICA BANANA INDUSTRY

From United States Consul Demers, Pt. Limon, Costa Rica.

THE banana industry, unknown to Costa Rica twenty-five years ago, has reached such proportions, especially within the last few years, that bananas now form the main export of the country. It is no longer an infant industry, but a giant one, as important as that of coffee, which for a long time has been the mainstay of this small but stable republic. At the close of 1904 about 50,000 acres of land were devoted to banana growing in Costa Rica, of which 90 per cent. is owned by the United Fruit Co., a corporation organized under the laws of New Jersey and controlling probably 75 per cent. of the total production.

Exports Doubled in Five Years.

At present the market for this fruit is highly encouraging and bids fair to continue so for many years to come. The trade was exclusively confined to the United States until 1902, when it was introduced in England with gratifying results to the exporters. France, Germany, Italy, Spain, and other European countries do not as yet consume bananas, but as soon as a substantial increase in the acreage is reached, and with the present facilities for transportation and the use of ships equipped with cold storage, the market should and will undoubtedly be extended to those countries with equally as gratifying results as in England.

As to possibilities of the demand for bananas ever ceasing to exist, no one need have any fear. Bananas are not luxuries alone, but nutritious food, and, being cheap, will always be used by all classes, and for many purposes. The amount exported from Port Limon during the five fiscal years ended with June 30, 1904, was as follows, in bunches: 1900, 2,804,103; 1901, 3,192,104; 1902, 4,427,024; 1903, 5,261,600; and 1904, 5,760,000. During the six months ended December 31, 1904, the exports amounted to 2,911,071 bunches.

As shown, banana exports have more than doubled during the last five years, and present indications are that the exports will double again during the next five years. As an investment, taking into consideration the quick returns and the readiness and ever-increasing sphere of market, banana cultivation is quite profitable. On a conservative estimate 40 per cent per annum can be realized to investors, under good management and normal conditions. The following figures show the probable costs and profits on a tract of 100 acres planted in bananas:

Planter's Outlay.

Original outlay—Land (20 per acre), $2,000; reducing land and bringing it to a banana-bearing condition ($50 per acre), $5,000; total, $7,000. Gross returns—180 stems per acre per annum, at 31c. per stem, 5,580. Expenses—Cutting and hauling the fruit, and keeping the plantation clean (8c. per stem), $1,440; manager ($100 per month), $1,200; total, $2,640. Net return on investment, $2,940.

The entire banana crop at present is sold to the United Fruit Co., which operates a railroad system through the fruit districts and pays 31c. per stem on delivery alongside their track.

Under very favorable circumstances a banana plant may give a stem of fruit in nine months, but it generally takes from fifteen to eighteen months for the average plantation to be in full bearing. The life of a plantation varies according to the fertility of its soil and topographical situation. Some soils may need a rest in six or seven years, while others may last practically forever, as in cases where periodically enriched by alluvial deposits. There are a number of plantations in Costa Rica fifteen years old yielding to-day as many bananas as they did in their second or third year. Sandy loam, through which water or rain will freely percolate, is the best soil for bananas. The stalk needs a large amount of rainfall for its successful development, but water must not be allowed to remain on the surface or immediately under the surface of the soil surrounding it, lest the water be heated by the tropical sun and become stagnant, in which case it may kill the plant.

Jamaican negroes are exclusively used as laborers, and their average pay is 70c. per day. The negro is immune from yellow fever, is indispensable, and the only person truly adapted to the work required, where, by reason of the richness and more or less swampy nature of the land, mosquitoes abound, and the dangers of contracting disease are comparatively great.

Implements Used in Banana Industry.

The implements used in cultivating bananas are steel machetes, axes, shovels, and plows. Many plantations are equipped with narrow-gauge railways and horse cars for hauling fruit. The rails used are very small. Machetes, axes, and plows are generally imported from the United States. Shovels come from England, where they can be bought cheaper, it is claimed. Rails are imported from the United States and Germany, but mostly from the latter country, also on account of difference in prices. It has happened that American rails have been bought at a lower figure on the English market than in the United States.
